heads of the Second World War, to sign a German peace treaty. This is the basis, this is the crux of the matter."

Khrushchev said the delegates that he is confident there will be no war with the West.

He said that communism would be victorious in competition with capitalism "but we are confident that the victory will be won in peaceful competition and not through war."

Khrushchev stated current Soviet policy aims at:

1. Sticking to the principles of peaceful coexistence.

2. Continuing to strengthen the unity of Communist states in the socialist camp and active and flexible foreign policy, seeking the settlement of world problems through negotiation and "exposing the intrigues and machinations of the warmongers."

4. Promoting contacts and cooperation with "all who champion world peace."

EXTEND TRADE

5. Strengthening working class solidarity and giving the Communist and Workers' Parties support to people "fighting to free themselves from imperialism and colonialist oppressor or to consolidate their independence."

6. To continue vigorously to extend trade with all countries which are willing.

Khrushchev said elimination of the remnants of the world war was of tremendous importance for the maintenance of peace.

"We are ready now also to seek jointly with the Western powers a mutually acceptable and agreed settlement through talks," he said.

"A German peace treaty must be and will be signed with the Western powers or without them."

Khrushchev said that in recent months "Western imperialists" had deliberately created a dangerous situation in the centre of Europe.

"In view of the aggravation of the international situation, we were compelled to take urgent steps to defend the country against the encroachments of aggressors and save mankind from the threat of a new world war," he said.

Peaceful coexistence had always been the central feature of Soviet policy "but it is hard to restrain the war menace by unilateral action," he said.

"The Western powers, should be interested in avoiding thermonuclear disaster no less than we are, must, for their part, show readiness to seek ways of settling disputed issues on a mutually acceptable basis."

Khrushchev returned several times to his theme of peaceful coexistence with the West but coupled it with a number of warnings that capitalism would be wiped out if there was another war.

He said that Russia would "do everything to strengthen peace throughout the world."

Delegates from Communist China, who disputed some of Khrushchev's theories on peace with the West and the Communist "summit" meeting last year, listened intently as the Russian leader repeated the stand he took at that time.

War between nations can be prevented and disputes can be settled, he inevitable, he said.

"There is a prospect of achieving peaceful coexistence for the entire period in which the social and political problems now dividing the world will have to be solved," he said.

The Communists were against the "export of revolution." "But they do not recognize anybody's right to suppress counter-revolution," he added.

"In the event of imperialist export of war, the peoples and the Communists will call on the peoples of all countries to rally and firmly repel the enemies of freedom and peace.

The correct way is being attended by more than 4,000 delegates, including representatives of most Soviet - bloc countries and of Communist parties in Western countries. The Cuban peace delegation was headed by Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

Among the surprise delegates was Marshal Nikolai Bulganin, the former Soviet premier who was denounced in 1958 as a leader of the "anti - party" group. He was believed to be attending as a representative of the Red Banner Army.

It was the first time he had been seen in public since the Moscow since Khrushchev ousted him from the premiership in 1958, and shunted him into minor provincial jobs and finally retired him on a pension of about $200 a month. Albania boycotted the meeting, apparently as a result of the open denial of Communist China's viewpoint in recent Ideological differences between Peking and Moscow.

Mrs. E. P. — I can't take the responsibility for a teenage girl away from home.

Wilma P. — My husband's mother goes to Florida every winter from January until after Easter. We have a daughter of 15 who would love to see Florida of them — along too, as Grandma's granddaughter. Grandma P. could extend her trip by another month or so, and Cherry could register in the local high school for the spring term.

But Grandma says no. She says she can't see herself taking care of an adolescent girl. She forgets that Cherry is mature for her age and quite able to care for herself, and there are advantages. This way, neither would get lonely. Cherry could run small errands for Mother P. Of course, we'd underwrite the extra expense of having Cherry along.

Mrs. E. P. — I'm not sure I'm enough to watch over Cherry. Cherry is normal, lively and pretty. She's also very pretty and popular, just beginning to go out with boys. I can't take on the responsibility of worrying about whom she's with, where they went and what time she'll get back.

My life in Florida is very simple and quiet. I have a few friends there, from the years when my husband was alive and took us South regularly. They have no company with them at the moment, I stay in a modest room in a small out-of-the-way hotel, and read a book. Ever since my health isn't tops.

And would Cherry want to listen to me? From what I can see, she doesn't even listen to her parents.

Believe Verwoerd Ordered Election on Wednesday Next To Ensure Strong Regime

Brian Barrow is a South African journalist now experienced in reporting on the problems of his country. In his story he discusses the issues in the forthcoming general election.

By BRIAN BARROW

CAPE TOWN (CP)—A white South African electorate will go to the polls Oct. 18 for the third time in four years.

No one except Prime Minister Dr. Hendrik Verwoerd really wanted this election.

After the referendum a year ago in which white voters chose to make South Africa a republic, they wanted a respite from politics.

But this did not suit Dr. Verwoerd, who has the knack of keeping one jump ahead of his political opponents.

He has said he is holding this election for two reasons — to ensure a strong white government for the next five years, and to give the electorate a chance to endorse his decision to quit the Commonwealth.

There is a third reason he hasn't mentioned. By playing the fears of the white voters he now can entrench himself in power for another five years. If he waited until his normal term of office ends in May, 1963, South Africans might have begun to feel the economic effects of the country's growing isolation.

SUBTLE CRY

His election cry this time is not, "Do you want your daughter to marry a black man?" It is something more subtle, designed to draw Afrikaners and Englishmen into one solid white camp.

It is the idea that the colonial powers have unleashed chaos and bloodshed on the African continent by granting independence prematurely to emerging black states.

He and his Nationalist party cabinet ministers are telling the electorate the only way to prevent violence in South Africa is to re-elect the government.

The facts are that, in comparison with Asia, South America or even the turmoil in ravaged Europe for 100 years, Africa's political revolution has so far been remarkably orderly.

Many people think only of Kenya, The Congo and Angola when they think of Africa. They forget that many other black states have achieved independence peacefully, the former French colonies, for instance, and Ghana, Nigeria, Togoland, Sierra Leone and, soon Tangan yika.

WAITED TOO LONG

The truth is that today about 180,000,000 Africans are making a moderately competent job of running their own states. Only about a tenth of that number—18,000,000—are at the moment making a hash of independence and they are in countries where independence was withheld too long.

Dr. Verwoerd is telling white voters to reject, as being too advanced, policies that could make the difference between a peaceful and violent change in South Africa when change eventually comes.

Not that enlightened policies are being offered by the main opposition group, the United party, led by Sir de Villiers Graaff.

The only party at present with a chance of forming an alternative government, United holds 53 seats in the House of Assembly compared with 103 for the Nationalists. Four other parties represent Cape Coloreds, persons of mixed blood.

The United party's policy of "orderly advance" is only a watered - down version of apartheid, the government's racial segregation policy. One of the United party's chief spokesmen has said: "We will discriminate against the non-whites but we will discriminate in a way which is just and fair."

It is the young Progressive party that offers the only policy the majority of non - whites would accept as a basis for future co-operation.

Led by an Afrikaner, Dr. Jan Steytler, the Progressives declare that merit, not color, is the only criterion of sound government. They are fighting a general election for the first time, contesting the 32 of the 160 seats.

South Africa's 12,000,000 non-whites are past caring about in traditional fight for power between the Nationalist and United parties. But they are watching with intense interest the fortunes of the Progressives.

They don't expect any Progressive candidates to win but if they get the support of a substantial number of white voters, non-whites will acclaim the result. To them it will mean that tens of thousands of responsible whites in this country reject racial discrimination.

Such a result might be insurance that when the inevitable change does come in South Africa it will not have to be a violent one. For in spite of everything that is said to the contrary, the majority of Africans want co-operate and they want their political evolution to be a peaceful one.

Prairie Farmers Not Alone In Taking Hard Knocks From Weather This Year

By DON HAMBRIGHT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Allan Taylor is a 39-year-old farmer who has gone through two years of drought.

"I'm in the hole," he says "I just can't see how I'm going to get out of this without some kind of help. And the only thing that can help me now is money."

His comment was worthy of a farmer on the Prairies, where drought this year has cut the wheat crop to about half the size of last year's.

But in fact Mr. Taylor farms at Foxtrap, Nfld., and is one of eastern Newfoundland's most proficient vegetable growers. He estimates his two-year loss at $10,000—75 per cent of his crops, has been no harvest-labor shortage.

The blueberry crop will be salvageable in Newfoundland this year, but little else. Hay is a total economic loss, with yields in some areas being so low the farmers didn't bother cutting it.

BIG APPLE CROP

All Prince Edward Island crops are up from last year. In New Brunswick, the quality of potatoes in some areas has been reduced by blight but other crops are excellent.

The apple crop in Nova Scotia's Annapolis valley is the best in quality of recent years and the yield is up to 2,750,000 bushels from 2,200,000 last year. Said one shipper:

"The major part of the best eating apples have been sold or grown at excellent prices to pick."

In Alberta, Agriculture Minister L. C. Halmrast—himself a farmer—said some farmers in the drought and hail area of southeastern parts of the province will have some difficulty in carrying on next year."

However, Mr. Halmrast said even those farmers will pull through reasonably well with revenue from cattle herds and provincial and federal aid programs.

HAILED OUT

One farmer who was hailed out told the minister: "I lost $18,000 in about 10 minutes."

However, the provincial agriculture department has been "agreeably surprised" by the harvest. Wheat production is expected to exceed 80,000,000 bushels for Alberta as a whole. Last year it was 100,000,000.

Saskatchewan's average wheat yield is about eight bushels an acre. Last year it was 20.7. The oats yield is one-third of 1960's 37.6 bushels. Barley is down to 19.3 bushels an acre against 27.7 last year.

Wheat protein content is high, though—14.5 per cent, third best in Saskatchewan history. More than the usual amount of wheat is grading No. 1 and No. 2. Oats and barley quality is high but there is too much protein in malting barley.

One of the few fortunate Saskatchewan farmers was Ole Turnbull, who has a large-scale operation at Kindersley in the west-central part of the province.

"For the first time in the 50 years this farm has been in production, we had more rainfall than the average amount in the district," he said.

Manitoba cereal crops will drop from the 10-year average of 160,000,000 bushels to about 78,000,000. Wheat production is down to 30,000,000 bushels from 62,000,000 last year.

Agriculture department officials estimate that to undo the damage of the hot, dry summer Manitoba will need six to eight inches of precipitation before next April 1 in order to replenish subsoil moisture.

"In some areas, crops do things you wouldn't expect," an official said. "There didn't seem to be any explanation for it. Some crops expected to yield 10 bushels produced 15 bushels. I don't know how they withstood the drought."

Order Algerians Out Of France After Bitter Riot

Three Moslems Killed, Hundreds Are Injured

PARIS (Reuters) — The French government today ordered the expulsion from the country within 48 hours of 1,500 Algerians who took part in bloody demonstrations here Tuesday night in which three Moslems were killed and scores of police injured.

Authorities also ordered 1,500 police into the city from outlying areas amid fears that the insurgent National Liberation Front (FLN) would organize attacks on police in retaliation against killing of the Algerians.

Police were building a total of 12 police demonstrators for questioning today following the demonstrations which took place in several parts of the city.

Some 30,000 Algerians took part in the demonstrations, called in protest against a recent police curfew forcing Moslem cafes to close early and "strongly advised" Algerians to keep off the streets at night.

The worst clash was near the Pont de Neuilly where police and demonstrators exchanged gunfire. The police claimed that demonstrators opened fire first and then they retaliated as the demonstrators attacked down the boulevard.

Sixty-two Algerians and 11 policemen were reported in the fighting throughout the city.

Authorities said that the hundreds of other Algerians were hurt but not badly enough to require hospital treatment.

Those arrested were questioned today in the Palais des Sports stadium in Southern Paris.

Those who cannot show valid identification will be sent back to Algeria.

Although calm was restored by midnight, a large armed security force was put on strategic positions around the Elysee Palace, Premier Pompidou and de Gaulle's official residence.

The demonstrations began in orderly enough fashion with Moslem slogans being shouted and then a demonstration hand-clapping.

One column of 2,500 Algerians attempted to come into the city centre from the northwest. Seven columns of Algerians were halted by a strong police force.

Other demonstrations took place on the Boulevard St. Michel in the heart of the Left Bank quarter, on the Champs Elysees, the Place de l'Opera and the Rue Saint-Lazare railroad station.

Chief Justice - Dana Porter Will Head Board

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker today announced the appointment of Chief Justice Dana Porter as chairman of a seven-man royal commission on banking and finance in Canada.

The other commissioners:

W. Thomas Beveridge, vice-president, Odlum Brown Investments Limited.

Gordon L. Harrold, Calgary, chairman of the Alberta Wheat Pool and a director of the Alberta Federation of Agriculture.

Dr. W. A. Mackintosh, St. Kingston, professor at Queen's University, Kingston.

John G. Rhind, St. Hilaire, president of the Montreal Stock Exchange and Provincial Securities Limited, investment dealer firm.

Chief Justice Porter, 68, was a member of the Ontario cabinet for 14 years before his appointment to the provincial bench in 1951. He was attorney-general from 1949 to 1951 and provincial treasurer from 1945 to 1949.

The prime minister said Hamilton C. Nesbitt, Ottawa, will be secretary of the commission. An assistant secretary, presumably French - speaking Canadian is to be appointed soon.

Soviet Union Ready to Veto Katanga Truce

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Harried UN officials trying to function without a secretary-general face a showdown over the UN Congo command as the cease-fire agreement with breakaway Katanga province.

Both Moscow and the entire Congo government warned they would challenge any attempt by the secretariat to ratify the agreement.

President Moise Tshombe's Katanga government meanwhile refused to release 200 UN gendarmes it is holding prisoner until the secretariat approved the truce pact.

Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin of Russia accused the UN Congo command Tuesday of bypassing the security council by agreeing on a truce with Tshombe and threatened to take the issue before the council. He demanded that the UN Congo force take action to end Katanga's secession from the rest of the Congo.

SEEK RUSH AID?

Congo Foreign Minister Justin Bomboko called a press conference in a hotel overlooking the cease-fire as "blackmail" by Tshombe's regime. Bomboko hinted the government would seek Soviet aid to smash Tshombe's regime unless the UN acted against him.

Reuther Tries To Avoid Strike

Would Cache 2-Year Food Supply In U.S. for Use in Event of War

WASHINGTON (AP) — A scientist suggests the United States build up a "national food reserve" big enough to last two years should be available within early warning distance of every American in the event of nuclear war.

Dr. Harrison Brown of the University of California, speaking Tuesday to a conquest institute of the National Research Council, said a $15,000,000,000 crash program to stockpile food would be easily distributed.

Brown said: "It will not be too much to follow the Biblical admonishment that the seven lean years will follow the good, in line with the ancient Egyptians, let us take 30 per cent of each year's crop and store it—assuming we can get agricultural production up to such a level.

"In the age of nuclear weapons the United States is perhaps the most vulnerable of the great nations of the world to the dependence of her agricultural complex upon industrially supplied fertilizers, fuels and machinery.

"Consequently in case of large-scale nuclear combat with primary targets being our concentrated industrial establishments, agriculture, even though widely dispersed, will become paralyzed immediately."

RED CONSUMERS PROMISED GLUT IN TWO DECADES

Output to Be Twice That of Free World

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Nikita Khrushchev today drew a Utopian picture of life in the Soviet Union within 20 years and confidently forecast the decline of capitalism as a world force.

1. Russian industry will produce nearly twice as much as the whole non-Communist world turns out at present; 2. Communist production will increase five - fold; 3. Russian workers will have the shortest working day in the world; 4. Free modern housing and free public conveniences will be provided for every family; and 5. All disabled persons will be fully maintained at public expense.

The glowing forecast was made by Khrushchev as he outlined his new 20-year development programme to the congress of the Soviet Communist party.

CRITICIZES CAPITALISM

The political instability of world capitalism was incurable, he said, and the United States was becoming the epicentre of its growing economic difficulties.

He pointed to high unemployment figures in the capitalist countries of North America, Britain, Australia and Japan as a sign of the capitalist decline.

The American financial oligarchy did not have enough room to manage to implement its claims to the role of saviour of capitalism or even to dominate the whole world economy, Khrushchev said.

Moose Played Fatal Game Of Peek-a-Boo

OTTAWA (CP)—This is the story of a moose who played a fatal game of peek-a-boo and lost in the end, it was said.

It was told in the capital Tuesday by two conservation employees, Mac Barnett of the unemployment insurance commission and Lorne Storey of the bureau of statistics.

On Saturday morning, while they were camping out on a hunting trip in Ontario's Algonquin district, they were awakened by the sound of moose at the moosejike bois in their tent—they hasn't bothered to bring a moose.

Barnett perked out—just as Mr. Moose was approaching.

Before the surprise could register on either man or moose, Barnett grabbed his rifle and felled the 1,000-pound animal with a bullet between the eyes.

LONDON (CP)—The West today viewed with mixed feelings Nikita Khrushchev's two-pronged foreign policy speech Tuesday at the opening session of the Soviet party congress.

Most Western commentators expressed deep dismay over the Soviet Premier's announcement that Russia would explode a 50-megaton hydrogen bomb while at the same time wellcoming his offer to drop the Berlin deadline for a German peace treaty.

The London Times says the Russian leader's speech "contained the usual mixture of very bad and reasonably good passages."

"There is no military advantage to be gained in touching off so large a bomb," The Times says. "The only purpose behind the announcement is largely political. It is meant to frighten the world: to create fear of what may happen unless the Western governments accept the proposals to the Russians over Berlin."

The bomb announcement also brought expressions of alarm and anger from Japan.

Tokyo Asahi, a Japanese meteorologist, said "Radioactive fallout is certain to fall for the next 10 years as a result of these nuclear tests."

Shigesaburo Maeo, secretary-general of the ruling Liberal Democratic party, said Khrushchev's offer "showed no signs for genuine peaceful coexistence."

Indian government officials also were privately critical of the Russian proposal to fire a massive new nuclear blast, but as usual had no public comment.

Canadian Prime Minister Diefenbaker said the Soviet premier seemed to express a hope that Western talks with Moscow will be the point where communism ultimately will surrender. Diefenbaker said this was "indeed fantasy."

Four British parachutists invaded the Soviet Embassy in London and announced they would fast for three weeks until the Russians called off the bomb blast. British policemen carried them out of the building five hours later.

Radio Tirana, Albania, said Khrushchev "has not budged an inch" on the basic stance of Berlin.

Pravda says The Daily Herald, Khrushchev spoke "in the interests of the whole world" but when he spoke about his new bomb he was "back at his old game of trying to make our flesh creep."

Kickbacks Described as Way Of Paying Political Workers

QUEBEC (CP)—The director of purchases under the former Union Nationale administration described the kickback as a system of provincial purchasing as a way of remunerating political workers.

Alfred Hardy, now a Quebec transport department official, told the royal commission probing charges of corruption in the province's purchasing practices of the Union Nationale government that between July and August 1956.

He said he wanted to make clear that he had no responsibility designated any persons to receive kickbacks in the form of sales commissions on government purchases.

Mr. Hardy said some witnesses had implied he had responsibility for these commissions.

This was not the case. The director of purchases in Quebec had directly under his authority only the director and his two special cabinet.

Cecil Day, invest the system. It was established long before it took the job," said Mr. Hardy. He said the system had existed for hundreds of thousands of dollars in provincial government buying for years.

"It carried put ordinary," he said.

"I never condoned it personally. I never benefited personally. All of them were paid for political services."

Under the former newspaper man, appointed purchasing director of purchases in 1956 by Premier Duplessis, said he operated the kickback system from a

Consumers Ask for Removal Of Tax on Drugs in Brief

TORONTO (CP) — Removal of the 11-per-cent federal sales tax from drugs prescribed for treatment of illness was urged Tuesday before the Canadian Trade Practices Commission in a brief presented by the Ontario branch of the Canadian Association of Consumers.

The brief was read by Mrs. F. E. Underhill, CAC chairman of legislation, on the second day of the commission's hearings here into the manufacture, sale and distribution of drugs.

HEARS DEFENCE

Earlier in the day the commission heard a stout defence of the use of brand names, rather than generic names, in the field of drug manufacturing.

Ralph H. Cumming, manager of medical products division of Cyanamid of Canada Limited, contended "before the public can use by manufacturers of brand names would "bring the price level half all approved of drugs."

Under persistent questioning by J. J. Frawley, counsel for the government of Canada, Mr. Thompson said that selling drugs by the scientific names of their ingredients would depreciate such firms of the benefits of their research and development and public are not useful means of treatment.

Mr. Frawley asked Mr. Thompson to supply a breakdown to the cost of a typical product divided into categories such as production, research and development, etc. Thompson expressed surprise at being asked to "dismantle my manufacturing structure and lay it bare to my competitors."

The agreement developed when Mr. Frawley cited figures showing the cost of tetracycline, which is produced by Cyanamid of Canada under the brand name of Achromycin.

He said the cost was 3644.15 a kilogram or $43.13 per 100 tablets. Mr. Thompson said the cost was close to that figure but varied from lot to lot.

Later, F. R. Macleod, counsel for the commission, said figures he had showed that American Cyanamid of Canada was selling tetracycline to the British Commonwealth at the U.S. at $201.12 a kilogram.

The hearing continues today.

Three Aspects Not Negotiable Says Minister

TORONTO (CP) — External Affairs Minister Green said Tuesday night in a television statement that Russia will test a 50-megaton nuclear bomb this month represents "a monstrous crime."

Mr. Green said he was alarmed at the prospect of increasing fallout from the blast.

In an interview following an address to the United Nations Association in Canada, he said Mr. Khrushchev had created "a destructive atmosphere" by his remarks about the bomb, in contrast to his "waving" a year ago.

The Soviet leader had the Soviet Union declare he would not insist on a Dec. 31 deadline for a German peace treaty if the West showed willingness to negotiate the Berlin and Germany problem.

Mr. Green said Canada feels that three aspects of the Berlin situation are not negotiable: Right of the U.S., Britain and France to be in Berlin; freedom and freedom of West Berlin residents; and free access to the divided city.

K. STATEMENTS HAVE UNITED WESTERN WORLD

-- Diefenbaker Says Premier More Reasonable

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Tuesday that Premier Khrushchev's statements in the last few months have united the Western world "to a greater extent than ever before."

Mr. Diefenbaker said reports that Khrushchev in his speech to the Soviet party congress in Moscow seemed to express a hope that Western talks by his been broken to the point where communism ultimately will surrender.

"He belief that there is division and division among the Western leaders is not reality, Mr. Diefenbaker said. "It is in the opposite sense."

On Russian intention to test a 50-megaton bomb and not to stop nuclear testing again, Mr. Diefenbaker said:

"It certainly believes that having done all he has done to bring about disarmament, having broken the pledged word of Russia on a moratorium, we should regard disarmament at the end of the month as worthy of consideration."

NOW REASONABLE

Speaking from a stand of Mr. Diefenbaker during a cabinet meeting, Mr. Diefenbaker said: "Khrushchev views had changed before and may change again "but he seems now to be more reasonable than has been customary."

Mr. Diefenbaker for signing a cease treaty with East Germany apparently has been postponed. He said a treaty with West has been more reasonable, but the problem of Berlin is that he himself is being more reasonable.

Mr. Diefenbaker, who in Sep. October, 1960, was the first Western leader to denounce Khrushchev call for complete abolition of colonialism every where, made a caustic appraisal Tuesday of the Soviet leader's latest criticism of Western colonialism.

"His condemnation of colonialism is rather ridiculous in view of the colonialism imposed by the U.S.S.R. not only in the Baltic countries, in central Asia, and in the Ukraine, but elsewhere.

New Method Taken to Spot Infringements

COOKSVILLE (CP)—Bylaw violators in Toronto Township will soon have to keep an eye on the sky after today. The municipality begins using a 35-foot high spotter building and zoning infringements from the air.

A plane carrying bylaw enforcers will cover the northern half of the 100-square-mile township every two weeks. Using a township map, they will be able to spot violations easily.

Using a plane instead of a car to comb the concessions will cut the process time from a week to about two hours. The cost is expected to be reduced by about 35 per cent.

What Did K. Mean by 'Probably' In His Reference to Big Bomb?

MOSCOW (AP)—Does Russia really plan to set off that 50-megaton hydrogen bomb or is it just in the "probable" stage? You can make your choice today from a reading of official reports of Premier Khrushchev's announcement.

The version given by Tass, the official Soviet agency, runs this:

"Khrushchev said the tests are nearly probably end with the explosion of a hydrogen bomb with a yield equivalent to 50,000,000 tons of TNT . . . by touching off a 50-megaton bomb they will test the device for triggering a 100 - megaton bomb."

That "probably" could be read to refute the claims of the Norwegian seismologists after the Novaya Zemlya explosion. And in the next breath, Khrushchev's statement apparently "nuclear explosion" . . . seems to take the conclusion right back again.

But according to Pravda, the Communist Party newspaper, Khrushchev said: "Probably we will explode a bomb . . ."

We have said that we have a bomb equal to 100,000,000 tons of

UN Swept by Shock At K.'s Announcement

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Shock waves have swept over the United Nations — from a bomb that has yet to explode.

Two 101 - member committees of the General Assembly today neared a showdown on nuclear tests and atomic radiation.

But the biggest behind-the-scenes topic of discussion concerned Premier Khrushchev's announcement that the Soviet Union plans to explode a bomb with the force of 50,000,000 tons of TNT, history's biggest blast, Oct. 30 or 31.

Delegates said Khrushchev's announcement should certainly spur support for a 25-country drive, spearheaded by Canada, for a global scientific study on atomic radioactivity and its hereditary dangers.

Debate resumes this afternoon on the Canadian resolution which Tuesday received strong support in speeches by delegates from Asia, Africa, Latin America, Europe and New Zealand. India expressed reservations but did say it does not oppose the measure.

The Canadian crowd was being debated in the special political committee which is a parallel body processing disarmament and nuclear tests and disarmament in the general assembly.

United States delegate Arthur Dean said in the nuclear debate, Thursday, that if the assembly called for a new unilateral moratorium on nuclear bomb testing it will find that it has been tricked and deluded by Russia.

He said Russia had timed the test series to coincide with negotiations in such a way that the end of the tests capped by a 50-megaton blast would coincide with a new UN appeal for a moratorium.

"It would mean that any such appeal would not affect the positive plans of the U.S. and Britain if they needed to catch up with Russian advances," Dean added.

Amputees Call For Removal Of Maximum

TORONTO (CP) — The War Amputations of Canada Tuesday called for removal of the $2,580-a-year maximum on the disability pension payable to double amputees and other severely disabled veterans.

The resolution passed at the group's Dominion convention said the effect of the ceiling is that the pension for a man after a month pension for one leg and both legs is the same.

The convention was told that a Canadian veteran who lost both legs receives a pension of $2,580 a year, the same as the maximum pension plus attendance allowance for a double amputee, compared with $600 a month paid in the United States.

The attendance allowance is paid automatically and other disabled veterans who require special home care.

More Federal Support Asked For Education

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Teachers' Federation today said one of the country's organized school teachers, pleaded Tuesday for federal grants in support for public education.

A brief prepared by the federation's research division and distributed here said that the federal government cannot ignore the "obvious differences" in provincial levels of educational standards of the various provinces.

Advent of Colder Weather May Boost Recruiting Rate For Survival Training Course

Although only 30 recruits out of a quota of 1,000 have so far been secured for the national survival training course scheduled to commence at the Belleville Armouries on Nov. 6th, local militia officers feel that the advent of colder weather will boost the recruiting rate.

Lt. Col. Angus Duffy said today that the quota of 30 men had been recruited for the course at Belleville and Picton. Quota for the Belleville area is 800 and for Picton 200.

"On the surface it would appear that the recruiting rate is falling far short of our quota, but we must remember that the fine fall weather is keeping construction work on the move, while farmers are still busy with their farm work," Col. Duffy said.

With the approach of colder weather and increased unemployment is was expected that the recruiting pace would quicken.

BOOM START COURSES

In the meantime the local militia unit is proceeding with plans for the commencement of the national survival course at the Armouries on Nov. 6th.

Instructors for the course are being processed and these men will take a refresher course at Ongatlo this week-end.

Col. Duffy said, however, that the local militia unit was looking for instructors with the rank of lieutenant, sergeant and corporal with experience in civil defence work.

At Belleville there will be four six-weeks' courses with eight trainees each, while at Picton there will be four courses with 50 each. The courses will run through until June next year.

GIVING LEAVE

Col. Duffy noted the Ontario government was giving civil servants leave of absence to take the national survival course and he hoped this pattern might be followed by industrial plants and other firms in the Belleville area, which might be slack during the winter period.

The courses at Belleville and Picton will operate five days a week, Monday to Friday inclusive and Madoc will come to Belleville for the courses. Transportation will be provided.

Col. Duffy noted that trainees will receive over $60 per week and on completion of the course are not bound to continue in the militia.

"The hopes of course is that they will remain on in the militia or go into the regular army, but this is not a requirement. The trainees may drop out on the completion of the course."

Club Entertains Daughters Of Members

Kinsmanes tried something different yesterday when they had their first ladies' and daughters' dinner meeting. Close to 100 were present for a fine, light-hearted program under the direction of Ron Godden, chairman of the boys' and girls' committee, and the assistance of Staff McKenna, Knight Mayor of Wooler.

The program included a sing-song which everyone chirked, oinked, gobbled and rattled their way through in fine fashion, following this were two movies and a get-to-getting yes-sion which delighted the young ladies of the Kinsmanes.

On the serious side of the program it was announced by club president Bob Brain that the 1962 convention-in-charge was: president — George Hume; vice-president — Ralph Gerbasi; secretary — Wilf Mills; treasurer — Hal Floyd; directors — Bob Gerbasi, Dave Davison, Ron Keel, Don Macdonald, Leo McKee, Newt MacFie, Ken Gerbasi and Ron Hall.

It was reported that the third Key Club by-law sponsored by the local club will have its charter night this Wednesday evening at Moira Secondary School. Members were also advised that the last wiggon at the Plowing Match had produced $67.97 for the club's projects.

Start Work On New School For Retarded

TRENTON — On Thursday, Oct. 5th, the sod was turned on the new retarded children's school site. The school will be built on Highway 2, west of the Trenton-Quinte overpass.

The contract for the construction of the school, which will serve the Trenton-Brighton co area, has been given to the firm of Mirosz-Lansing and Associates for $28,640. Completion date is to be Dec. 31, 1962. It is expected that the children will be moved from the classroom in North Trenton school and from a private school room to the new school after the Christmas holiday.

A school board, comprised of C. E. McMullen, local inspector of public schools, Trenton, Prescott of Brighton and Jay Woodcock of Colborne, the Trenton school for the retarded, will consider all applicants for admission. Mrs. Ethel Faustle will be responsible for school administration.

The cornerstone for the school will be laid in early November. On November 6th the local association will hold a social evening at Moira Secondary School. Members were also advised that the last wiggon at the Plowing Match had produced $67.97 for the club's projects.

Water Supply Proves Problem For Arena

TRENTON — The members of the Trenton Community Centre Commission met last week-end ways and means of improving the water supply to the arena at last night's commission meeting.

Bob Johnson reported that it had been necessary to switch off the water recently, while the intake pipe from the river was cleaned out. He said that Mayor Bell and Jim Ryan of the bed were drawn into the pipe and that unless the pipe was cleaned out at least once a month, this could result in the machinery being damaged.

Alternate means of supplying water were considered, including a well on the property; installing an evaporation tower (which would cost $2,500) and putting a 300-foot pipe out into the river channel.

Chairman Dan Senik will contact Cecil Alyea for advice on the matter.

Carl Weese reported that all plans for the arena had been sold or spoken for. Contracts for the dressing room have been prepared and are ready for signing. Mr. Weese said that the Junior "C" team has agreed to pay the regular price for ice rentals.

After considering more than $900 outstanding in accounts receivable, the commission decided to attempt to collect these bills, and failing that, to write them off. The board will authorize all credit extended in the future and review the accounts receivable each month. Infrequent renters will be invited to deal on a C.O.D. basis.

Mr. Senik said that while there was a deficit in gardens operations for the year, this was not as large as other years and that he hoped to break even on the year. He said that more than 600 people had used the gardens last September and that it was hoped this would continue.

L. Taylor Tells Impressions on European Trip

TRENTON — Len Taylor of Belleville was the speaker at the Trenton Rotary Club on Monday night.

Ronald Aykroyd, introduced the speaker, who is the chairman of public relations for Ontario with the Royal Canadian Legion.

Mr. Taylor outlined a recent trip to Europe, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor visited six European countries, including England, France and Germany. At the beginning of his address he stressed the point that any opinions voiced concerning present conditions in the countries which he had visited were his own personal opinions.

The speaker said that he had been proud to be a Canadian while overseas and said that the authorities in every country he visited said that the general feeling was that "Canadians were to be trusted."

Mr. Taylor said that West Germany no longer bore the scars of the war and he had been impressed by the way in which the Germans had carried out the rehabilitation of their country. He said that there was no resentment in this country and that the general attitude was that "Germany had won the peace."

Mr. Taylor illustrated his talk with colored slides of rural and urban scenes in England, France, Germany and Switzerland.

President R. D. McDonald told the members that he and four club members would report to the club on a recent Rotary convention in Toronto, next week.

TRENTON — On Monday night, Sgt. Gordon Steenburg, Trenton's safety officer and Dennis Aikins conducted a hunters' safety school in the town hall.

On Monday, Oct. 23, the second meeting will be held in the town hall and this will be the last chance to gain this week's instructions said the officer in charge.

A fine was imposed. A Trenton resident, charged with driving while prohibited, and found guilty on the evidence, was given seven days in the county jail.

Rabies in Southern Part Of County Becomes Problem

Rabies in Hastings county especially the southern part is becoming a problem.

Infected cattle have died and herds have been quarantined.

A dog died after a fox on a Thomasburg farm became infected. A cat in Thurlow accounted for three.

A Tyendinaga farmer's bull died of rabies as did a cow that longing to a farmer near Tweed.

The Tyendinaga herd has been quarantined and another will go under quarantine today.

The Bancroft Fish and Game Club reports rabid foxes are making their appearance in the northern areas.

Dr. Harry Burns of the Belleville Animal Hospital here said today that rabies has presented a real problem in this area for the past month.

Dr. Burns suggests that owners of pets should mark any change in the dispositions of the animals. This applies to wild animals too.

"I feel that people should be told of the danger. We in the Animal Hospital are keeping close check on pets. Change in attitude is a symptom of rabies," he said.

An official of the Belleville and District Fish and Game Club said this morning that the club has arranged with a veterinarian to go out by rabies in the southern and northern areas of Hastings two years ago.

At that time the government established rabies clinics in the areas.

Up to a few weeks ago foxes have been conspicuous by their absence.

Dr. J. F. McCorquodale and Dr. W. C. Laidlaph of the Health of Animals Branch Department of Agriculture could not be reached.

Two Cattle Breeding Bodies May Merge

The board of directors of the Eastern Ontario Cattle Breeding Association at Kemptville and the Quinte District Cattle Breeding Association of Belleville have announced the appointment of a sub-committee to study the possibilities of an amalgamation of the two bodies. The advantages of more economic operation and the good generated by pooling and using superior sires have initiated the idea.

The two associations are at present providing an artificial insemination service to dairymen in Eastern Ontario counties and sections of Western Quebec. Approximately 100,000 cows will be bred in 1961 in the area at present served. The amalgamation, if completed, could result in the largest artificial breeding operation in Canada, since a potential of approximately 400,000 cows exists in this section of Ontario and Quebec.

President of the Eastern Ontario Cattle Breeding Association is Charles A. Campbell of Glengarry and Dr. R. G. Smillie of Kemptville as manager. While the Quinte District Breeding Association has Russell Osborne of Newcastle as president and Dr. J. M. McLeod of Belleville as manager.

CLINTON (CP) — The Huron County Federation of Agriculture announced Tuesday it wants an investigation into hospital accommodation under the Ontario government hospitalization plan. TORONTO (CP)—Industrials moved into the spotlight and speculatives eased during moderate morning trading today.

Utilities, refining oils and liquors all contributed to the slight industrial gain, with rises ranging to a point gitting all three groups.

Utilities were strong on the heels of gains to Great Lakes Power, Gatineau Power, Shawinigan, Bell Telephone and Consumers Gas, while oils advanced behind gains to Alberta Gas Trunk A, Canadian Oil and Trans-Canada Pipe Line.

Lake Dufault, the copper prospect in Quebec's Norbec field which took off four weeks ago, today dropped 75 cents to $4.00 with volume of 110,022 shares.

Willsey-Coughlan, which owns property adjacent to Dufault and has followed the latter's lead in the run, turned over 83,300 shares and was down two cents at 19.

On index, industrials rose .19 to 303.63 and base metals .04 to 202.02. Golds fell .02 to 87.36, western oils .05 to 96.97, and the 11 p.m. volume was 806,000 shares compared with 768,000 at the same time Tuesday.

Base metals were higher in the senior list, with gains ranging to ¼.

Gold trade was weak and sporadic.

Tuesday speculatives and industrials alike had a poor session for the second consecutive day.

Lake Dufault teed off the morning session by dropping $1.85 to $3.85, but later recovered and finished at $4.75, down 25 cents. Dufault turned over 365,578 shares, while Willsey-Coughlan, which owns property adjacent to Dufault and has followed the Norbed field mine closely the last four weeks, was unchanged at 20 cents and traded 230,350 shares.

Canadian Dyno Mines, which took off last Thursday on rumors of a rich copper strike west of James Bay, was poor at the opening, but later regained some ground to finished at $1.32, down three cents, on a volume of 89,297 shares.

Industrials averaged their fest all day. Banks and financial institutions, utilities and steels all contributed to the general cheer, with widespread fractional falls predominant.

Banks and financial institutions were led lower by investors Syndicate A, which dropped 3% to 51¼ in light turnover.

The day's biggest individual loss went to U.S. Ford, down 4%.

On index, industrials fell .73 to 295.46, base metals .16 to 201.98 and western oils .46 to 97.02. Golds gained .30 to 87.38. Volume was 3,784,000 shares compared with 4,084,000 Monday.

Gold trading and western oil trading was light.

Independent Retailer Still In Best Position for Success Sales and Ad Club Told

The small independent retailer is probably in the best position for success of any retailing operation in Canada today or in the future if he utilizes his unique advantages to the full and operates his business in an efficient and orderly manner Retail Sales and Ad Club members were told by their guest speaker, retailing expert Harold Schaffer of the Ryerson Institute of Technology, yesterday evening at the Knights of Columbus Hall.

Mr. Schaffer spoke to well over 100 local merchants and businessmen as he outlined the position of the independent retailer in the world of both today and tomorrow.

There appears to be a threat to the existance of the independent not only from the introduction of discount houses in Canada but from the merger of such large retail chains as Hudson's Bay and Morgan's and the flow into Canada of United States retail capital and knowhow through such firms as Simpson-Sears, he noted.

The independent has already faced such crisis before and has come out on top, however, Mr. Schaffer observed. In 1930 the creation of chain stores and department stores were considered as heralding the end of the small independent retailer. In that year he held 69 per cent of the retail business whilst chain stores held 17 per cent and department stores 13 per cent. In 1960, thirty years later the independent retailer enjoys 70.5 per cent of the consumers' business with chain stores receiving 21 per cent and the department stores but 8.8 per cent, he advised.

Retailing is by its very nature a business which favors the small operator who can offer a "human touch and intimate interest" in his customers which no large establishment can achieve. He also has the advantage of being able to move faster to accommodate changes in retailing practice, merchandise and customer buying than can the large department or chain store. The compactness of his operation allows him to acquire the "feel" of his store and permits great flexibility in its operation, Mr. Schaffer said.

LOCATION FIRST

Recent consumer attitude surveys in the retailing field indicate that location, not price, is usually the first consideration of shoppers. "Price ranked fifth with only 17 per cent claiming this as a discounter's advantage" in a recent survey of discount house customers in the Kitchener community, the speaker reported.

"An independent can make a good living by locating right next to his largest competitor," Mr. Schaffer said. He does, however, have to meet certain basic requirements to attract his clientele. An interesting exterior, dramatically dressed windows and a bright interior are the first requirements to attract customers.

The handling and displaying of the merchandising available in such a fashion as to attract a customer to it, the service which the store employees provide and their interest in both their merchandise and the customer's needs constitute the rewards making an impression upon the customer, which will either make him want to return there or leave a pleasant experience or never return.

Small independent merchants who offer merchandise, environment and services which are beyond the capabilities of larger stores while utilizing such merchandising techniques as successful stores have proven will have an excellent chance of surviving for tomorrow's retail world.

They will also seek to create a store image based on the type of person they wish to deal with and the quality and range of merchandise which they wish to handle. Careful planning, policy-making and merchandising control are the most valuable tools which an independent merchant can use to build up a business which appeals to people and is able to stay apace of their needs.

Mr. Schaffer suggested that independent retailers could derive much useful information on these techniques either from studying good looks on retailing, taking short retailing courses such as offered by the Ryerson Institute of Technology or New York University, or discussion groups on common problems amongst local merchants or any combination of these.

ADOPT TECHNIQUES

"Every small independent should endeavor to use some of the interest assets as customer and personnel intimacy and the flexibility of operation that cannot be matched by big retailers. At the same time he should adopt the big store merchandising techniques and operating efficiencies . . . if he does these things properly he should not have to worry about competition in the new retail world. It will be his competitors who will worry about him", concluded Mr. Schaffer.

A brief question and answer period followed the speaker's address.

It was announced during the course of the evening by club president Don Barrett that it was the club's intention to again sponsor the effective speaking course for its members. Wally Partridge of the education committee stated that a retail sales clinic had been proposed by the executive. This clinic would be open to all local merchants and their sales personnel and would be held sometime before Christmas.

Three-Man Panel Discusses Firearms, Hunting Question At Fish, Game Club Meeting

A three-man panel discussed and agreed on important questions relating to firearms and hunting at the October meeting of the Belleville Fish and Game Association last night.

The panel moderated by past president Bruce Carter consisted of Frank Dempsey, Peterborough Game Warden Jim Hardell Bowling, Ontario Provincial Police, Belleville and Government Firearms Identification officer, Land and Forests Department, Niagara.

The consensus of the panel was there be no increase in restriction of the sale of firearms and continuance of the hunter safety training program.

The discussion were heard by another "packed house"—of well over 300 members at the Club Canara. Interesting motion pictures were shown, door prizes given away and a Winchester rifle won by Bruce Wilson of Stirling Ont.

A presentation of two handsome wildlife oil paintings on tile in frames was made to sports editor Geo. H. Carver of the Ontario Intelligencer by the presidation of public relations efforts by the Association Don Smithman. Mr. Carver expressed his thanks.

On the question "Are the restrictions on the sale of firearms sufficient?" the consensus was "registration of all firearms would be invaluable to us enemy if the country was invaded." He advocated the teaching of handling rifles to youngsters. If this was carried out to the maximum there would be no necessity for strict sales."

Mr. Ferguson agreed that hunting education was a big factor. His department had found that the greater majority of hunting accidents could be laid at the feet of adults who should know better.

The panel concurred in the restriction of ammunition to that of war surplus weapons at low prices, also the use of hard-nosed ammunition.

COME FROM ABROAD

These guns, it was pointed out, come from various countries are in bad shape and serious for game hunting. Mr. Thompson would like to see a complete ban of the sale.

Mr. Ferguson said his department frowned on the use of hard-nosed ammunition. It would have nothing to say if rifles are in good condition nor could it say anything about restrictions.

Corporal Howring agreed that .303 ammunition was dangerous. "Why use a .303 bullet to kill a rabbit when it can travel two miles and kill a human".

The panel also concurred in a discussion on "Is the age of 15 too low to obtain a gun licence and is hunter safety training effective?"

Mr. Ferguson felt a year would not make much difference since if a youngster is getting knowledge through the safety courses. He felt it was a step forward for hunter safety. Fatality statistics of last year reveal, he said that 85 per cent were adults who never had any safety training.

STRICTER ENFORCEMENT

On the question of reports of damage by hunters, Mr. Ferguson said it was a "touchy subject. The Department of Highways could claim damage to signs runs high. Convictions are hard to get. Farmers worried over cattle are putting an end to trespass' signs.

"The only cure" he said "is stricter enhancement of the law. Guilty persons should not be let off with a fine. The law should be executed to the fullest extent".

Corporal Howring did not think gun collectors were more access to the public safety. He did think criminals are interested in them. If he wants a gun, he wants only one. The corporal felt that teeth should be put in the law, such as making it an offence to carry small arms.

The only way to stop people using these guns is the stiffest penalty possible in every case using them for criminal purposes. He quoted a regulation requiring a sawed-off shotgun and rifles. These are illegal only when deliberately sawed off by the owner.

Answer to a query is it legal to carry a handgun while hunting brought a Lands and Forests reply that if the person has a licence and a permit to use the gun, it is not illegal to carry a handgun for hunting purposes.

Cadet Training Old Issue

The founding convention of the New Democratic Youth of Ontario on Sunday passed a resolution calling for a strict enforcement of a provincial law making participation in high school cadet programs non-compulsory.

Quite frankly, we did not realize that participation was not compulsory. It used to be, or if it did not, then a certain cadet instructor we know got away with murder.

Cadet instruction has long been a thorn of contention amongst leftists, but we would have expected their opposition to such instruction would have declined.

Probably this leftist viewpoint's most significant contribution to Canadian political life is unknown outside one rural riding in Western Ontario.

It is removed from Federal politics Canada's first woman member of the House of Commons, and gave the House the man who was later to become Liberal minister of finance, and according to many Conservatives, the man mainly responsible for "tight money."

Miss Agnes Macphail was first elected to the House of Commons by the farmers of South Grey in 1921, when she was a young school teacher. She survived what her friends regarded as an open-and-shut case of gerry-mandering when her riding, mangled by redistribution, became Grey-Bruce, defeating the sitting Liberal member of Bruce South Bruce, Dr. W. A. Hall. The first real challenge to her hold on the electorate came when a young lawyer, Walter A. Harris, set up shop in the village of Markdale.

Mr. Harris, besides a quick wit and a nimble tongue, had the advantage of having a wife who was the daughter of the late J. J. Morrison, one of the old stalwarts of the United Farmers of Ontario, the organization which gave Aggie her start in political life. But it is doubtful whether this would have prevailed against Miss Macphail had she not had the indiscretion, in the first part of 1939, to repeat one of her many scathing remarks about cadet training in high schools.

In September of 1939 Canada went to war. Memory of her remarks was still vividly alive in the riding when a Federal election was held early in 1940. Walter Harris defeated her. It was the conviction of many of those best acquainted with the voting habits of the riding that it was Miss Macphail's remarks on cadet training, as much as anything, that brought about her downfall. Harris, wounded at Caen, later become minister of finance, a position he held until the Liberal debacle in 1957, when he lost his seat and retired from active politics.

It Has Happened Before

Dr. Kurt Glaser, associate professor of government at South Illinois University, is quoted in "The Bulletin," issued by the information office of the German Federal Republic (West Germany), as denouncing those who would recognize East Germany or accept the Oder-Neisse line as the boundary between Poland and Germany.

Much of what Dr. Glaser says, with respect to the advantages of retaining "bargaining points" until a full-scale German peace conference is held, is hot unreasonable.

We do think, though, that Dr. Glaser is guilty of precisely the error of which he accuses those of opposite viewpoints, failure to be realistic, when he makes a the major point of his contention that "peace in the communist jargon, is simply a state of affairs in which the international class war is conducted without open military hostilities."

Many people talk as if this state of affairs were something entirely new.

Is it not a fact that, during most of the so-called periods of peace, nations have been seeking to best their rivals by methods other than open warfare?

It is certainly true that the communists carry this "peaceful" warfare to an extreme, but nevertheless, to those who believe that competition is in itself a beneficial state of affairs and promotes efficiency and progress, not all of the strife is undesirable. It can stimulate our growth, by forcing us to adopt the best methods of production and distribution. As for the rest of the Reds' "peaceful" efforts to beat us, they can be endured, as other nations throughout the ages have endured the machinations of bitter rivals during the pauses between wars. The difference today is that war is no longer available as an acceptable alternative to struggle "without open military hostilities."

Make the most of your regrets. To regret deeply is to live afresh. — Henry David Thoreau.

Strictly Personal

Excess Effort Common Cause Of Failure

By ERNEST J. HARRIS

A few weeks ago, I watched a group of novice water skiers trying to stand upright behind a motor boat. As they kept falling, their instructor kept telling them that they were tightening up too much and "trying too hard."

It reminded me of a wager that Charles Darwin once made with a roomful of college students. All of them had insisted that they absolutely must succeed whenever they inhaled snuff.

So Darwin picked five boys out of the class and bet them a shilling each that they would, at most, if they took a pinch of snuff in the normal way. All five accepted the bet, took the snuff and knocked themselves out try, ing to succeed. Darwin won every bet.

What he was trying to prove to the class was the basic psychological fact which most people fail to understand, that when we try too hard to do something, we invariably succeed.

This is true in sports, business and in personal relations. The beginning golfer fails to drive far because he is too tense and determined to do everything exactly right. he sometimes has a prospect because he never knows when to stop putting his pitch — he goes on and overwhelms his product.

Indeed, the case for a certainty that if the boys concentrated on inhaling their snuff they would be psychologically unable to — even though snuff normally brought on a violent sneezing bout before the dainty term "inhale" could be completed. It is recognized that our mental attitudes influence our reactions more than we think.

What doctors delicately call "the will to get well" is a result of wanting too grimly to succeed and to live up to anticipations and expectations: thus they are defeated by the very grimness of the desire.

It is, admittedly, hard to be casual and relaxed when something we deeply desire but in the end it is the only fruitful attitude. It is the attitude of the get what he wants; but a wise man wants to enjoy his life, not of his achievement. Many sharp men accomplish what they set out to do, but their successes are side to side, to enjoy it, because the strain of achievement has permanently crippled them for relaxation and unconcerned joy.

When we are determined to make a good impression, we usually make our worst impression, for it is then that we lose whatever spontaneity and natural charm we possess. As for those who try too hard to be good — we have all been bored by them because sour and self-right-eous, and because grimly pursued turns the purveyor into a prig and a Pharisee.

Made Silk Of Sow's Ear

St. Louis Post-Dispatch

There is almost no challenge to which some human beings will not respond. Witness the case of Arthur Little, Cambridge Mass. Mr. Little pondered the saying, "You can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear". He decided that he could. He put researches to work on the problem. After experimenting with thousands of sows, Mr. Little emerged found a way to make ears into synthetic silk, and from this they were a purse and presented it to the Smithsonian Institution in Washington. Which proves, among other things, that the only useless part of a hog is the squeal.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

PURPOSE AND WILL POWER

Some people are apparently born to be builders. To use the expression of a poet popular some years ago, they "think in gold and dream in silver; imagine in marble and in bronze perceive."

In thinking of builders one naturally thinks of the great Greek, Pericles, who was largely responsible for the glorious architecture of Athens. We think of such men in modern life as Carnegie and Ford. These are men who are born with the capacity to create and build.

But in every village and town in our country or any other there are men who are naturally builders. They start with nothing and end up with perhaps a small — or perhaps not so small — fortune. They clerk in a store and end up by owning it. They begin the practice of a profession in a little office and end up by being one of the great men in their field.

Much of this is due to heredity. The influence of parents upon children and other being certain innate capacities of leadership. But a bove everything else, will power, and inflexible purpose are the things which make an ordinary man a builder. Other men about him have a standard growth or will in the first strong emulsion, but he goes on and grows on. He is a builder. He has the resourcefulness-the stuff-in him.

Birth? Good fortune? Hard work? Yes, all these to a certain extent. But above all else, purpose and will power.

Old Mishap Is Recalled

Montreal Gazette

Some half-century ago Prof. Ernest Rutherford, working in his laboratory at the MacDonald Physics Building at McGill, must have spilled some radium solution. Prof. Rutherford recently when a graduate student was walking through the building with a gaiger counter.

He found that the spot that there were three "hot spots" in the building, where the radium had been spilled. Though it was before the strength that could cause injury, the decontamination experts of the Canadian Army were called in to clean it up.

It was back in the early years of this century that Prof. Rutherford carried out his experiments into atomic physics in that building. There he won him fame. His honors were many. He was made a baronet, awarded the Nobel Prize and was appointed to the directorship of the Cavendish laboratories at Cambridge University. Beyond all these honors, he became one of the most significant figures in history, one of those who really inaugurated the atomic age. But it is an impressive reminder of some of the problems of that age that a solution spelled by scientist in his pioneering researches more than half a century ago should still be potent enough to ignite a gaiger counter. Getting rid of radioactive material is one of the greatest of problems; it has so long a life.

Prof. Rutherford, even though unintentionally, has taught this fact to later generation in the McGill laboratory, where his early work was done so many years ago.

UN Is Said Worth Saving

Chicago Daily News

As the United Nations moves deeper into what promises to be its most frustrating as well as critical session, many Americans are once more challenging the usefulness of the world organization.

Premier Khrushchev views the UN as an instrument to be turned to the advancement of the cause of creating a Communist world. An amoral leader of an amoral order, he hardly gives Eisenhower the chance to appease about the worth and dignity of nations and individuals.

Cynicism is by no means confined to the Communist bloc. As of Aug. 31 the 300 members had paid only 67 per cent of their regular share, the cost of their commitments to the UN Congo force, and 46 per cent of what they owed for stabilizing the first emergency forces in the Middle East. Without the disproportionate contributions of the United States the UN would be bankrupt.

Notwithstanding, the deadbeat nations have no backing for their refusal to pay. Full privilege of membership, effecting the forum to pile calumny upon the nation that pays eight times as much as any other nation seeking to repeal the principles of the charter and abolish the freedom of all nations.

Now many of these nations are rallying to the Soviet effort to paralyze the executive arm of the UN. They want a bandit China on the Security Council, a step which could end forever the hope of the United Nations being an instrument capable of enforcing the rule of law on earth.

So it is necessary to face the possibility that in spite of the utmost efforts of the United States and other civilized nations who stand with her for freedom, the Soviets may bring down the whole structure.

But it is also prudent to assess the UN's downfall would mean.

It would mean the closing of the forum in which governments of mankind has ever opposed to a world peaceable by law and reason.

It would sound the one sympbol of hope that stands tall and strong before the eyes of the world to see. Philosophers and politicians everywhere, as cynical as cushions to the blow, but they could not stem the despair that would settle over all civilized people.

It would close down the world's meeting place that has, for 18 years, drawn delegates from every quarter, not to settle differences at least to ventilate them and to keep world opinion alive, particularly the massive strength of the impulse for peace.

It would set back for decades, if not forever, the meagre foundation which the UN has been made toward universal disarmament, thus ensuring common cause against poverty and misery, as well as against war.

If the UN can't succeed, it can succeed. Change is an inevitable fact of life if there is time — the Soviet conspiracy, with its monstrous illusion of power based on human worth, will pass as surely as have all regimes that oppose and deny dignity.

To bridge that time is the task of the free governments, and if the UN can help serve this end, alone, it is worth saving.

These Vests Sell Briskly

Halifax Chronicle-Herald

Members of one London tailoring establishment are going to gauge the tenor of world affairs by the size of their back log of orders for vests. For one garment, this firm manufactures bullet-proof vests, and certainly a desirable commodity in some parts.

Many of us who thought of such clothing as existing commercially beyond the bounds of real life, to comes as something of a surprise to discover that the ladies, too, are considering the protective steel vests Savara frames. Heads of state and other vips occupy a large portion of the company's list of customers.

The vests, weighing 13½ pounds, undoubtedly are hot. Even so, it is not likely that they are nearly so hot as the political climate in which they are worn. Where unrest reigns, these bullet-proof vests are always in style.

'Water Pills' Can Help To Reduce Excess Weight

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner — I am 30 pounds overweight and my doctor is giving me water pills because my legs and face swell up badly.

"If I don't take these for a week I gain five or six pounds, but I am afraid if I take them too long they will become a habit. My doctor seems to think I'll be all right after I have lost more weight. What is your opinion?" — Mrs. R. H."

First, the doctor is quite right; the loss of some weight will do wonders.

Second, let's talk about "water pills," which are one of the fairly new, and extremely important, medicines.

These drugs, called "diuretics," force the body to rid itself of the extra water which under various conditions collects in the tissues of the body.

They are not habit-forming, any more than aspirin. They have an effect on the system, getting rid of excess water.

So Mrs. R. H. should listen to her doctor, not to her neighbor about taking the drugs too long.

Several conditions can cause water to accumulate in the tissues — varicose veins, menstrual difficulty, heart trouble or kidney disorder. Since the old saying, "a pint's a pound, the world around," is a pretty correct, a drug that will get rid of five to ten quarts of water would means that weight will decline by four to six pounds. This is the reason why it has been "real weight." Just as prize fighters sometimes "lose weight" to "make the weight" for a fight, so can the rest of us shed several pounds by getting rid of water, whether by drugs or some other method.

This doesn't mean we have really "reduced" — but if there is excess water, it is a burden to the system, it should be eliminated. Note that I say "excess water." We need and must have enough.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

HAVING A HEART

I have often suspected some people of having no heart at all, because they do not show evidence of it in anything they do, think or say.

I often recall what was said of George Eastman, the founder of the Kodak company, after news of his death, by one of his close friends. "He had a heart and used it at all times." I believe that it is why this brilliant young artist will be long remembered.

Some people are blamed for using their hearts too much — working them overtime, as one might say. But it isn't a bad habit.

There is a great deal of heart in the world. It only takes a big emergency to prove it. But the heart in most people isn't on call except a small portion of the time.

When a man puts heart into his work, into his friendships, into his ideals and into the very things he makes and sells, he buys by thoughts, there can be no evidence of it. Its utility, as to his freshness of life and its place.

You can send your heart on errands. You can send it along every beautiful road in life and set it to bring back the riches scattered along the way. For that heart can gather where the hands are unable.

I do not believe in "carrying one's heart on one's sleeve," as the saying goes, but I do believe that the heart should do business every day in the year.

The heart can make many a big emergency unneeded if it is kept clean and fresh by the sunshine. It will prove its beauty and increase in its capacity for love and service.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Now is the time of year to lean back and reflect upon the subject of delivery men. Milkdelivering, as you know, is the delivery men for the big department stores, the lads who drive the panel trucks for the neighborhood shops, the newsboys, the whole army of file for whom there must be thousands and thousands of big cities and hundreds in the towns.

Is there a more good-natured race than the delivery men? On the street, in the bus, in the groups and crowds that gather for shows, you you most certainly encounter a generous percentage of grouchy, ill-natured men. Where do they work? At what chores in our social and economic setup are these crabs employed?

None of them ever get a job with Eaton's and Simpson's, for delivery men for the big department stores. The lads who drive the panel trucks for the neighborhood shops, the newsboys, the whole army of file for whom there must be thousands and thousands of big cities and hundreds in the towns.

Is there a more good-natured race than the delivery men? On the street, in the bus, in the groups and crowds that gather for shows, you you most certainly encounter a generous percentage of grouchy, ill-natured men. Where do they work? At what chores

ANCIENT CITY

Palembang in Indonesia was the leading city of a strong Hindu state in the 8th century.

Members of the Hastings County Ontario Farmers' Union would like to see a government sponsored crop insurance program covering all types of risks with all administration costs and 50 per cent of the premiums paid by the Ontario and Federal governments.

This was the essence of a brief submitted by county union officers to members of a select committee on crop insurance who met yesterday in the council chambers of the Hastings county administrative building.

The committee headed by Hon. William A. Stewart, provincial member for Middlesex county, is holding a series of meetings across the province, getting the views of farmers and commodity groups on the feasibility of setting up a government sponsored crop improvement plan in Ontario.

The committee has future meetings planned for Kemptville, the Owen Sound area, and at New Liskeard in Northern Ontario.

OUTLINES ACTIVITIES

Attending yesterday's meeting along with the chairman Hon. W. A. Stewart and committee secretary G. R. Bagg, were members Rheal Belisle, Nickle Belt. R. C. Edwards, Wentworth; Stanley Hall, Halton; Peter Manley, Stormont; Ron K. McNeil, Elgin and Clarke T. Rollins, Hastings East; W. Elmer Sandercock, MPP for Hastings West, also attended the hearing.

Committee secretary G. R. Bagg outlined the committee activity to date, telling of trips to Michigan and Ohio states where government crop insurance has been in effect for 20 years.

In the United States the federal government administers crop insurance but in this country the provincial government has to be the administrative body.

To date only Manitoba has government crop insurance in Canada.

He said if government crop insurance was instituted in Ontario, it would be of the type offered in the United States which provided unit coverage for all hazards.

RECOMPENSE FARMER

He termed the plan "disaster insurance", which would recompense farmer for crop losses only when the yield was below 60 per cent of the long term average.

Under such a plan farmers would receive benefits amounting to the difference between the actual yield and 60 per cent of the average crop.

At present only private firms offer crop insurance in Ontario. There are 15 such firms offering crop insurance in the province.

Generally fruit and vegetable crops are not covered under the plan in the United States, it being found that such coverage was too difficult to administer.

In general premium rates for crops covered in the United States ranged from five to seven per cent per $100 average.

FARMERS SUFFERED

Clarence Graham, secretary of the Hastings County Ontario Farmers' Union, said in 1959, 55 farmers in the area had suffered heavy loss because of frost damage to canning factory corn, while occasionally canning peas were damaged by hail.

He felt crop insurance would be a good thing but admitted he was more or less a ready prospect for insurance schemes. In spite of this he admitted he had not carried crop insurance on his pea crop this year.

Harold Murphy, county director of the farmers' union presenting the union brief asking for Government crop insurance said that in time of disaster to the producer, all consumers should help to bear the losses of severe crop damage.

His union brief asked that all administration costs of a government crop insurance program be born by the federal and provincial governments, as well as 50 per cent of the premiums costs. The brief said that governments should establish a fund to counter exceptionally heavy losses when premium funds were exhausted.

COVER ALL COSTS

The brief asked that the proposed insurance cover all costs and all risks including drought, flooding hail, wind, insects, frost, heat, earthquake and wildlife.

Producers should be able to buy the insurance as a package covering all crops and have claims adjusted seperately for each crop The crop insurance should not be compulsory.

Mr. P. Manley, member for Stormont noted that such a broad coverage as suggested in the brief would mean very high premiums and he questioned whether farmers would be willing to pay even 50 per cent of the premium costs.

The same member felt that averaging crops over a 30 year period such as is done in the U.S.A. when insurances losses are calculated, would be unfair to the present day Ontario farmer who through modern farming practices had greatly increased yields. He suggested a 10 year average would be more fair.

REGRET EXPRESSED

Committe members expressed regret that specialized commodity groups were not represented at the meeting particularly when such groups could be expected to be more interested in crop insurance than farmers carrying on a more diversified operation.

W. E. Sandercock said he was greatly surprised that apple growers in the Prince Edward County area had shown no interest when the nature of their crop was such that a heavy windstorm prior to picking time could almost wipe out their entire season's effort.

The select committee chairman expressed his appreciation to farmers attending the meeting and assured the Farmers' Union brief would receive the committee's close consideration.

Break Ground This Week For New $532,616 Addition To Moira Secondary School

Ground is expected to be broken this week for the new addition to the Moira Secondary School, authorized in connection with the Federal and Provinical government program for stepped up vocational training.

Cost of the new school addition, amounting to $532,616 will be fully covered by grant with no direct charge against local taxpayers. The Federal government will pay 75 per cent and the provincial government 25 per cent.

But despite the new Moira school addition, the Bay of Quinte District High School Board is still having growing pains and a special meeting of the board will be called in the near future to consider future shop accommodation needs. The additional shop accommodation could be provided at any time one of the three local high schools.

Previously this year the board authorized the purchase of 20 acres of property at the Ontario School for the Deaf as a site for a possible fourth local high school which might be required by 1965.

BUY 5 MORE ACRES

Now it seems the fourth high school might be required at an earlier date, and board members feel more than the 20 acres might be required. At their regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening, board members authorized the purchase of an additional five acres if this was considered advisable.

Due to insufficient inquiries, no attempt will be made this year to establish night school classes at the Quinte Secondary School.

Principal Leslie Reid reported a survey had resulted in about 70 interested persons in the Quinte-school area but potential enrolment in individual classes was not sufficient to warrant setting up classes.

A request from the Central Council of the Home and School Association to make an educational survey for their parent provincial organization will be considered by school principals and by the board.

WILL MAKE SURVEY

Also last evening Board members authorized the retaining of a local qualified engineer to make a survey of the ventilating system at the Quinte Secondary school gymnasium and gave approval for a drill instruction team from the local armouries to give the instruction to physical education teachers of the district.

A letter of appreciation will go out from the board to Moira Secondary School teacher, Gerald Boyce, acknowledging his contribution to the Hastings County Historical Society Museum.

Also the board expressed its appreciation to other local high school teachers for their efforts in connection with the recent International Plowing Match held north of Belleville.

Agricultural students were given permission for attendance at the Royal Winter Fair and the Quinte Twirlers Square Dance Club was given permission to use the Quinte gymnasium for class instruction.

She had a big happy smile on her face which made them become more happy and forget their troubles, all because of a smile.

The children presided at the piano.

Mrs. H. P. Naylor gave an interesting reading on the uranium industry and the study of its uses into new compounds.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Neal, convener of agriculture introduced a successful agriculturist, as the speaker, Mr. Irwin McCoy, who spoke of the vast changes in farming from the days of the hand sowing of grain, broadcasting and the horse-drawn machinery, to the present modern methods with the high priced motorized machines. As a result of which is that nearly every farmer commuted to the some industry — and then they all wanted to thresh on Saturday! This was also overcome by a combine, a reaper and thresher outfit. Mrs. Neal, Mr. McCoy's talk was most interesting, interspersed with amusing incidents which happen in the course of farm life.

Mrs. Neal expressed the thanks of the branch.

A draw was made on a cake which was won by Mrs. F. Grant after which refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed.

Weddings

BOLLISTER—GOULAH

TWEED—St. Carthagh's Roman Catholic Church was the scene of a pretty fall wedding on Saturday, October 14th, at 11.00 a.m. when Catherine Theresa Goulah of Toronto, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Goulah, became the bride of Ernest Roy Hollister, of Tweed, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Hollister, of Tweed. The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. C. E. Baker, with Rev. R. Brioulard in the sanctuary. The wedding music was played by Mrs. Ernest Sherran and the soloist was Mr. Teddy Cassidy.

Given in marriage by her father the bride was beautiful in her bridal gown of white full-length lace brocade, with a chapel train and lily point sleeves. Her shoulder length veil was held by a pearl beaded tiara and she carried a spray of orchids embedded in green fern and lily-of-the-valley.

She was attended by Miss Margaret Murphy, a classmate from Notre Dame, wearing a green satin sheath with a full overskirt and the headdress was a crown with green bridal veil and she carried a bouquet of white carnations. The bridesmaids, Miss Cecilia Goulah, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Robert Goulah, sister-in-law of the bride, were identical to that of the maid of honor.

Mr. Walter Hollister of Tweed, attended his brother as groomsman and Mr. Gerard Goulah and Mr. Maurice Goulah, brother of the bride, acted as ushers.

The wedding dinner was served to 75 guests at the Land-of-Lakes lounge. Hotel Quinte, Belleville.

The reception was held at Quinn's hall where the bride's mother, assisted by the bridegroom's mother received the guests. The bride's mother wore a blue brocade sheath with beige accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. The bridegroom's mother wore beige lace over satin sheath and brown accessories with a mauve tone and carried a corsage of pink carnations.

For the wedding trip to Washington, D.C., the bride chose a pale blue woollen suit with dark blue accessories and a corsage of sweetheart roses. On their return the young couple will reside in Tweed.

Out-of-town guests were from Scarboro, Toronto, Lake Shore, Picton, Aurora, Niagara Falls, N.Y., Enterprise, Trenton, Tweed, Stirling, Madoc, Oakville, Chicago and Germany.

OIL KILLS DUCKS

QUEBEC (CP) — Dr. Louis Lemieux, biologist with the Canadian Wildlife Service, said Tuesday several thousands of ducks are dying as a result of the British oil freighter Vibex running aground in the St. Lawrence River Friday night spilling about 1,000,000 gallons of crude oil and bunker fuel into the river. Dr. Lemieux said a small quantity of oil touching ducks feathers kills them slowly.

LATCHFORD — MOORCROFT

Large baskets of white mums, coral and white gladioli, mingled with lime green mums, interspersed with ferns and white candles on the altar adorned Cooper United Church, Cooper, Ontario, for a recent autumn wedding on Saturday, September 30th at 2.00 p.m. with white satin bows designating the guest pews, when Jean Elizabeth Moorcroft of Madoc, B.B. 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred J. Moorcroft, became the bride of Carl Eugene Latchford, of Carnilton, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jordan Latchford. The Reverend G. Ambury officiated.

The wedding music was rendered by Mrs. F. Bellery, who accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Ross Edwards, friend of the bride, who sang "The Wedding Prayer," during the ceremony, and "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the radiant bride wore a white floor-length bridal gown of tiered Chantilly lace over nylon net and taffeta. The fitted bodice was fashioned with a scalloped neckline outlined in bridal pearls and tiny seed pearls. Her elbow-length veil of illusion silk was held in place by a crystal tiara. She carried a white prayerbook covered with red sweetheart roses and white satin rosebud-knotted streamers. A pearl necklace, the gift of her bridegroom, completed her costume.

Miss Myra Moorcroft, sister of the bride, as maid of honor; Miss Merrill Dales of Belleville, cousin of the bride, and Miss Lynda Latchford, of Carnilton, sister of the bridegroom, as bridesmaids, were lovely in white silk organza gowns fashioned with full skirts accented with different cummerbunds of lime green, mauve and coral with long sleek panels. All wore matching white floral headdresses with tiny veils, white shoes, gloves, and carried nosegays of carnations and mums matching their cummerbunds. Pearl necklaces and matching earrings, gifts of the bride, completed their costumes.

The little flower girl, Miss Toni Hamilton, neice of the bridegroom, was sweet in her short frock of white satin and lime green cummerbund with large sash bow and streamers, white headdress and gloves. She carried a basket of mauve, coral and white carnations with lime green 'mums and sprays of fern.

Mr. Clare Latchford, brother of the bridegroom, was the groomsman; while Mr. Ross Moorcroft, cousin of the bride, of Madoc, and Mr. James Millar, of Spencerville, were the ushers.

Master Murray Dales, cousin of the bride, was ringbearer and carried the white satin, lace edged cushion and the ring.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held in Cooper Orange Hall, at Cooper, Ontario, where the bride's table, appointed with white lace and pink roses, was flanked with candles in silver holders. The bridal bouquets lent a further dainty nuptial accent.

The guests were received by the bride's mother, wearing a blue crystal silk gown with lace inserts, beige accessories, and corsage of pink roses, baby's breath and fern, received. Assisting in the receiving line was the bridegroom's mother, gowned in light-brown and white with pink accessories and corsage of pink roses with baby's breath and fern.

For travelling to Niagara Falls and other points in the United States, the bride wore a beige Arnel nylon Vocamo dress with moon necklike, matching corsage of red roses and sweetheart roses.

Guests attending were from Belleville: Canniton; Pembroke; Peterborough; West Huntingdon; Corbyville; Spencerville; Frankford; Queensboro and Cooper.

Prior to her marriage the bride was entertained at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Miss Glenda Graham, of Cooper; at a presentation held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. J. Moorcroft when she was presented with a tri-light floor lamp and matching table lamp.

Mr. and Mrs Latchford will reside in Belleville

Young and Smart

By VERA WINSTON

A Fall dress for the junior figure defines the shape by means of seaming, giving a neo-cave look through the mid-section. This dress is interesting sew silhouette.

The fabric is miniature-checked black and white wool and there are puffed silk bands down the side of the dress at the sleeves and around the neck.

The dress is lined for shape retention.

The new flag was recently donated by the Laurel Lodge by Sisters P.D.D.G. Ethel Dubbs and P.D.D.P. Edna Fox.

The Grand Warden Bro. Earl Fox gave an impressive message which included "Proper Flag Procedure" and a dedicating prayer. The color bearer Sister Rene Dafoe presented the flag to the J.P.N.G. Sister Nora Wannamaker.

The group was invited to the banquet hall where refreshments were served under the convenership of Sisters Hazel Mumby and Mabel Barlow.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

THE ETIQUETTE OF THE BLIND DATE

The very idea of a "blind date" has an adventurous ring to it.

But there are many girls and young women of dating age who shudder, almost, at the idea. The date becomes they're not sure of the proprieties involved.

It all depends on who arranges the blind date. The gentleman should be a close friend or relative, who would know what sort of person you'd like to meet.

It would be foolhardy to accept a date arranged by a mere acquaintance or by someone whose tastes and interests are completely different from yours.

Once a blind date is set, you should expect a call from the young man about follow-up arrangements. Whoever arranged the date should make certain the call is made, so you won't feel you're greeting a perfect stranger when he arrives to pick you up.

Naturally, the date will be over a late call, invite the friend who arranged it also makes it a foursome. You might even suggest that everyone meet at your home before going out. A get-acquainted period usually eases any feelings of awkwardness, and most couples feel they've been friends for ages by the time they step out the front door.

Sorry, unfortunately, your date turns out to be a dud, you're still duty bound to see the evening through. Once any invitation is accepted, it's rude to try to back down or beg off. After all, the young man made it a point to be kind and considerate, who would know what sort of person you'd like to meet.

Before the new Noble Grand was escorted to her chair she was presented with a corsage by Sister Neva Vanderveort. The husband of the Noble Grand Bro. Ray Rose was responsible for the gift.

Cheese Is A Precious Protein

By Mary Moore

Proteins are more precious and more costly than most foods because they are more difficult to process. By processing proteins I mean raising chickens or cattle or pigs. Cheese is a precious almost-pure protein that goes through three complicated stages. First you raise a cow (or goat). Then you milk her. Then you make cheese from the milk if you know how. Cheese has the wonderful advantage of no waste, and surprise! October is Cheese Festival Month in Canada.

WEDNESDAY

Dinner Menu

Liver and Bacon; Onion Rings; Creamed Cauliflower; Caesar Salad; Apple sauce; Coffee.

This is good news for conscientious mothers who are determined to nourish their families well. It is good news for the girls who plan parties without being extravagant. It is good news for budgeters.

Have you ever heard of Cheese Tartlettes? They are now and are savory morsels to serve with beverages at receptions and smaller parties. Their success depends only on a perfect touch with pastry and your promptness in serving them once they come from the oven.

CHEESE TARTLETTES (6 dozen 2-inch):

Pastry: 1 cups sifted pastry flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup shortening, 6 to 8 tablespoons cold water. Mix flour and salt. Cut in shortening until consistency of cornmeal with a few larger pieces. Add water, 1 tablespoon at a time, stirring with fork. Add only enough water to moisten. Divide dough into three and roll each portion on lightly floured board to ⅛" thickness. Cut with floured cookie cutter to fit 2" tart pans.

Filling: 4 eggs, 1 teaspoon flour, 1 cup cold milk, 1¼ cups grated Canadian Cheddar cheese, salt pepper, nutmeg to taste. Whip all ingredients together. Fill each tart shell 2-3 full. Bake at 450 deg. F. for 10 minutes or until filling is set and golden. Serve as soon as possible.

MAIN COURSE CASSEROLE (with cheese — serves 8):

One pound cooked smoked ham or tongue cut in ¾" cubes; 1 medium cauliflower broken into small flowerets and cooked until nearly tender; 2 packages (or 3 cups fresh) frozen limas parboiled. Cheese Cream Sauce: Heat together ¼ cup flour and 1-3 cup butter or margarine, then stir in 1½ cups each milk and light cream, until thick. Add 3 cups grated Cheddar, ½ teaspoon each paprika, mustard and curry powder and 1½ teaspoons Worcestershire sauce. Stir to melt cheese. Make layers in casserole of meat, cauliflower and parboiled limas, pouring cheese sauce over and through. Bake ½ hour at 375 deg. F.

PARTY RAREBIT (Oysters, mushrooms, cheese — serves 6 to 8):

In 2 tablespoons butter saute ½ lb. sliced mushrooms until limp. Remove. Heat 1½ dozen oysters in same pan until edges curl. Make Cheese Sauce: Melt ¼ saucepan or chafing dish 2 tablespoons butter with 2 tablespoons flour. Stir in until thick 1½ cups cream or evaporated milk. Add 3 cups grated Cheddar, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and salt to taste. When smooth stir a little sauce into 2 slightly beaten eggs and return to mixture, stirring for 2 minutes. Add mushrooms and oysters and heat through. Lovely on hot, split and buttered tea biscuits.

Melrose WMS Holds Fine Meeting

The October meeting of Melrose W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. S. Dewill with a fair attendance of members. The president, Mrs. J. Milligan welcomed the ladies and opened the meeting, and conducted the devotional period, the theme of which was "Thanksgiving" with Mrs. C. Baisz as pianist.

The Scripture, taken from Psalm 107:1-31, was read by Mrs. C. Osborne, who also gave a reading on stewardship entitled "Did You Have a Good Holiday?"

Mrs. Milligan gave the Meditation on "Thanksgiving", which was most seasonable and urged all to give thanks always even in time of trouble.

Mrs. L. Weese leader for this month, opened her program with a duet prayer, "Thy Kingdom Come" after which Mrs. E. Embury gave a most inspiring reading, "The Little House You Live In" which contained the author or guest room, the dining-room where people are fed; the bed-room where lor rest and dreams; the attic where memories are stored and various other corners and nooks are found in this "House of Self".

Mrs. Bates read a poem "Aspirations" by Helen B. Anderson, and Mrs. R. MacFarlane followed with a timely reading, "The Better Part". Mrs. R. Badgley read a clipping which urged all to examine themselves and make sure they didn't discriminate between the various races.

Mrs. G. McLaren closed this part of the meeting with a thought-provoking "Meditation" sent by a Missionary, who had served in Africa entitled, "The Joy of Living". The secretary's report was given and all were urged to attend the fall rally in Shannonville October 19.

Final arrangements were made for the bazaar in Melrose Hall next Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. C. Osborne kindly offered her home for the November meeting. The president closed with prayer and the hostess served a delicious lunch.

Wants Old Beau Back

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—I went out with a certain boy whom I like quite well a few times. After, that he asked me out more than once but I wasn't feeling well and did not go. I know he did not believe me. Sometimes he acts as if he likes me and sometimes as if he hates me, which is very disturbing.

He goes to town to go to school. When he comes home, how can I make myself available for him to get me without giving him the feeling that I am flinging myself at him? Please give me some hints on how to make him like me.—MUCH APPRECIATED.

DEAR MUCH APPPRECIATED:—Do you know how it feels to be rebuffed? He is still smarting about those times you refused him.

If you feel he likes you, a friendly invitation to your home, to dinner or for an evening with another couple, is one way to make amends. When you are with him forget yourself and talk about his school and his football team or whatever he is enthusiastic about.

Serve something you know he likes and tell him you made it specially for him. Have dance records to play or a game you can all enjoy, and don't just depend on conversation to keep things lively. Get your girl friend to help you manage it.

CONFIDENTIAL TO F. F.:—In your fourteen years of marriage you have apparently allowed your husband to walk all over you. Ready-to-Wear Fashion Houses Have Bewildering Array of Skirts, Sweaters

By Therese Vaillancourt
Canadian Press Correspondent

ROME (CP)—Ready-to-wear fall fashions in Rome's leading houses have not abandoned any of the bright, casual styling that characterized it's in my or summer lines.

Contrasting separates, providing a varied and long-wearing wardrobe without too much strain on the pocketbook, still rank dresses and sheaths in popularity with the younger set.

And the ready-to-wear fashion houses have come up with a bewildering array of skirts, sweaters and blouses.

One of the latest designs features large checks in light contrasting shades, combining such colors as rose and brown, grey and orange and navy and violet or rose and beige.

Another practical model is two-tone Green, with a back panel of solid forest green and a front panel of a lighter hue. TRIM FOR EDGES

Long-wearing corduroys in rust or leaf green have regained its popularity, along with a hard-loomed wool fabric that appears bulky but is surprisingly lightweight and soft in texture.

An eye-catching hemline is provided by a variety of black trims, a most effective contrast with a bright - colored skirt. These trims, ranging from a plain fringe to a band of fury pompons, were introduced at the Pekin Print show in Florence this summer.

Skirts generally are of a fuller cut than the pencil-slim vogue, and have a tendency to bell out at the bottom.

If more freedom of movement is desired, slacks are still in style. The fall models are longer, usually touching the shoe, and many are made with matching shoulder straps.

The latest word in slacks features the soft, hand-loomed wool material in black-and-white or beige - and - maroon checks.

Crinolines have passed out of style, but slacks and capes have made their reappearance. They are designed for street and evening wear as well as for weekends in the mountains.

For the more conservative, there are three-quarter-length coats with removable hoods and poncho jackets in loden green or Tyrolean green.

Cardigan and pullover tops are displayed in almost infinite variety, frequently with matching berets or scarves. Jackets are shorter and more form-fitting than last year's.

Furs are back in vogue. Popular for fall are cloth coats lined in matching coat or skirt. Also enjoying large sales are fur hats.

The current fur fad has resulted in fur-trimmed pockets, collars and cuffs to match the hats. Even shirts are sometimes seen trimmed with fur.

All fur mufs make an occasional appearance.

Friends Honor Couple With Presentation

Recently a large number of friends gathered at Bayside School to honor Mr. and Mrs. J. Chambers, who have left Avondale in to reside near Pelican Falls, Ontario.

The party began with the gift of coffee tins and fire screen, presented by Mrs. R. Griffith and Mrs. F. Ealf, on behalf of all their friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Chambers, deeply touched and delighted, expressed their thanks for the thoughtfulness of their friends.

The piano playing by Mrs. K. Bird added greatly to the evening's entertainment.

Refreshments, convened by Mrs. R. Cameron, and served by Mrs. D. MacLean, Mrs. S. Gough and Miss Donna Lee Griffith supplied a fitting finale to this happy occasion.

Prior to the celebration, Mr. and Mrs. Chambers were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Jones.

Women's Activities

CHRIST CHURCH PARISH GUILD

The regular monthly meeting of Christ Church Parish Guild was held recently with a good attendance.

After a cordial welcome by the president, Mrs. R. H. Dawson, reports from the various conveners were heard. The Guild catered to a wedding reception and a luncheon for the Servers' Guild of Oak during September. A parmesan sale will be held early in November and members were urged to collect rummage for this event.

The devotional, with the theme "Thanksgiving" was presented by Mrs. F. A. Beaty. Following this, a Thanksgiving collection was taken among the members to be used for a small gift to a parishioner.

All Guild members are reminded that their Fall Supper, in the Community hall on Wednesday morning of this week and are urged to attend.

Tea hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Everett Smith and Mrs. R. Saunders.

CANADIAN HOPS

Only about 1,700,000 pounds of hops is produced annually in Canada, much of the supply for brewers being imported.

Women Said Too Emotional To Be Top-Notch Lawyers

WINNIPEG (CP) — Women tend to be too emotional to be top - notch lawyers, says a woman who made the grade.

The topic was discussed in Canada by women lawyers and former lawyers attending a gathering here of the Canadian Bar Association.

Mrs. Norman L. Mathews of Toronto, like her husband, is Queen's Counsel, summed up the opinions:

"Law requires an unbiased, objective point of view. That's something that women generally don't have.

"A woman with a family puts her family's interests first. Feelings count with her—in law they must not.

"It's not a question of acquiring objectivity. You either have it or you don't."

Mrs. W. P. Bowker of Edmonton, a former member of the Alberta bar who has retired, said counseling might be a fault of women in professional life.

"I don't see why it should be harder for women than for men to reach top positions in the legal profession. It's becoming old hat to draw distinctions between the sexes in any business or profession.

"If women stop being too aggressive—concerned about being equal with or surpassing men—they'll gain acceptance and equal rights in any field more easily."

Mrs. Bowker's husband is dean of law at the University of Alberta.

She said she feels women's "no better training for the home and for life than the law."

"I don't feel that giving up my practice to devote my legal training is useless. All women with good educational background are needed in community, national and international affairs."

Miss Irene Miller, a Winnipeg lawyer, said there is no discrimination against women in the legal profession. "Obtaining top places is up to the individual herself.

"If she's determined to succeed, there's nothing to stop a woman—not even if she's aiming to be prime minister."

Cannifton-Corbyville WMS Topic 'Missionaries at Work'

The Cannifton-Corbyville W.M.S. held its October meeting in the Sunday School rooms last Thursday. There were 17 ladies in attendance. The president, Mrs. H. Putman, expressed her gratification at seeing so many present.

Get-well cards had been sent to various members of the community. Three letters of thanks for cards, and flowers received, were read by Mrs. G. Brenton, also a special thankyou letter from Mrs. Basil Jonson, of Adrich, for a bundle of used Christmas cards, handed in by the Mission Band.

A provisional committee comprised of four ladies, Mrs. A. Boyd and Mrs. G. Brenton of the W.M.S., and Mrs. R. Pound and Mrs. D. Brenton representing the W.A., were appointed to select a slate of officers for the new organization due to start in January.

Mrs. Putman said that she had received invitations from the following churches for the members to attend their bazaars and teas, Holloway St. United Church, next week; Foxboro in early November, while College Hill would also be having a bazaar in the late future.

Cannifton-Corbyville W.M.S. have been invited to take the worship service at the rally to be held in Shannonville, commencing at 2.30 a.m. with the afternoon session starting at 1.30 p.m. on Thursday 19th October. Registration at 9 a.m. After business had been dealt with, the president handed the meeting over to Mrs. T. Howard, for the worship service. As this was Thanksgiving time, Mrs. Howard based her service on that theme.

The Scripture reading by Mrs. J. Botting, was taken from Deuteronomy.

Mrs. Howard, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Boyd sang a solo "Thank You Lord" which was well received by the ladies. During the service, appropriate hymns relating to Thanksgiving were sung while Mrs. Botting, at the conclusion gave a poem, "We Are Grateful." God is so good to us, so we ever stop to think just how much He gives?

MISSIONARIES AT WORK

Mrs. Crosby gave a talk on "Missionaries at Work". The missionary chosen as subject was Jean Macdonald, who is serving in Japan and who on a visit in Canada, contrasted the standard of life lived by the Japanese children and Canadians. "Young people here in Canada have so much freedom and money to spend but are neglected in regard to their responsibility for and to serve God".

Mrs. Crosby added a few thoughts of her own. "By being Christ-like in character, your home will become a place of joy and peace. We must instill into the hearts of our children the wonderful story of God's love towards mankind in that He gave Jesus Christ for our redemption.

"We must educate them to read God's Word daily and not only teach them but join with them. In it, they will find words of wisdom and how they may accept God's gift of eternal life.

HOME TRAINING GROUND

The home is the training ground in faith and brotherly love. The christian training implanted in your children will never leave them although they may stray away, their hearts will remember the prayer time and the Word of God heard in their childhood, sooner or later."

Mrs Boyd was the leader of the study period and took the Study Book — "Signals for the Sixties," for her talk. The subject "Church and Community".

"Today in large cities, churches are being dwarfed by vast office buildings, bowling alleys and elaborate restaurants. The little village church with its churchyard sounding the call to worship is fast becoming obscure and yet every community needs the church as much as it has always done. Where churches are weak, communities are without character, for the church is the hub of the community."

MANY CHURCH SERVICES

"Many services are offered by church members, from home visits to special help in time of trouble, neighborly help that adds and expands your compass. A church however, is not just a building but is made up of people, and is it not easy to show people that God is still important in a world of theatres movies and television not to mention sports and the car which is always available to take us away from church instead of to it".

Following Mrs. Boyd's talk, the meeting was brought to a close. A delightful half-hour of friendship followed with refreshments being served by the lunch committee comprised of: Mrs. A. Boyd, R. Pound, G. Stone and G. Crosby.

Mrs. Boyd presided at the piano throughout the meeting.

TURMOIL CONTINUES

HONG KONG (Reuters) — Communist China is grasping until pennils by citizens who want to leave the country—in return for 16 tons of fertilizer or cotton, it was reported here today. Hong Kong newspapers reported that a Chinese had asked their relatives abroad to comply with the demand for that price has shot up in recent weeks.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Mr. R. I. — The only issue I can be with my son, he's never around.

Edwin I. — Dad's interests are miles apart from mine.

Mr. R. I. — I have a wonderful 13-year-old son whom I'm very proud of. But he's slightly lost as well be away at camp or school for all I see of him.

I work hard all week, at irregular hours, in an experimental laboratory. Saturdays and Sundays when I'm home Eddie vanishes. His mother tries to pin him down to a date with me, but he pleads a commitment with the boys to go fix a bike he plans to spend the weekend with his cousin in Brooklyn.

I don't want to throw my weight around and force him to stay put so we can get acquainted. I'd like him to want to do so. Why doesn't he?

Edwin I. — Dad must understand that it would be awfully hard to give up a chance to go fishing from Shenandoah Bay with my uncle and cousin just to stay around and let him look at me.

He's all right. We like each other and all that. But whenever's the fun? He likes to sit around and read all day and play Bach records. And I like to be with the fellows and talk about football and school and stuff like that. Two other guys and I are working on a map of good fishing trails nearby. We hope to sell it to the Scouts.

The Council—We recommend that I. invoke the ancient strategy of all smart campaigners: If you can't lick 'em, join 'em. Not that he wants to defeat any of Edwin's plans. He's battling for plans or show. If he can't make win. It may require a bit less Bach and a bit more bird watching and other sit-up-and-go relaxations.

Manny's the pal who just goes along for the ride. Even though the briny isn't Mr. I.'s cup of tea, he might accept Edwin and the fishing party on one of their forays, solely as a means of being with his son. Of course, he'd have to be bristled on fishing in, so as not to spoil things for the regulars. This father's lament resembles that of the pool-fellow who solves the togetherness problem by getting real good at the game.

An ideal answer for both Edwin and his father would be registering for a course in a subject which neither knows anything about and each is eager to learn. There's nothing like some friendly competition to get solid meat on a relationship. Will it be photography? Astronomy? Auto mechanics?

There are schools that offer joint parent-child courses. Edwin and his dad could sign up for French, ceramic or music lessons, among many other choices. Mars they'd have the fun of doing homework together, vying for the best mark on the tests and playing private one-upmanship on Mrs. I. who's not in this particular deal.

He'd just sign the report cards and attend the "graduation." Let's hope some such new tack puts fresh blood into a basically warm father-son feeling.

Women's Institutes

W. I.

IVANHOE — The October meeting of the Ivanhoe Women's Institute was held recently at the home of Mrs. Russell Sills, with 15 members and three visitors present.

Mrs. John McIlroy was appointed as delegate to the area convention at Club Casara on November 14 and 15th. The secretary was instructed to send in the application to sponsor a foster child through the area Children's Fund, along with the $60. for the costs for one year. A donation was also sent to the Retarded Children's Home at Plainfield. Plans were made for the annual "At Home," in November.

Mrs. Hugh Mackmillan, historical research convener, took charge of the program and the motto, "Everytime you help someone up the ladder, the nearer you get to the top yourself," was given by Mrs. John Wallace. Mrs. Clifford Mills gave a talk on her recent seven weeks' trip to the British Isles, France, Spain, Portugal and Africa, after which the meeting closed.

More than 150,000 visitors attended a 1961 exhibition of sculpture by Jacob Epstein, who died two years previously.

turned to the platform today to continue addressing the 4,500 delegates.

GETS OVATION

Khrushchev received a standing ovation today as he entered the Congress Hall to deliver his grandiose plan for Communist [illegible]velopment. The congress, so called primarily to endorse the plan, which was approved by the party central committee last Saturday.

The party program was published July 30, and many West[illegible] viewers immediately called it a pie-in-the-sky program.

With a target date of 1980, it calls for free rent, medical care, education, utilities, local transportation and factory lunches by then.

It also pledges to overtake the United States in per capita production, to maintain peaceful coexistence between socialist and capitalist states, to support independence movements throughout the world and to keep Soviet military forces at top efficiency.

Soviet newspapers devoted vast areas of space today to Khrushchev's speech Tuesday. The Communist party newspaper Pravda carried 10 pages on the speech, including his references to exploding a 50-megaton bomb as the climax of current nuclear tests.

Until now, the Soviet people have not been told that Russia has resumed nuclear tests.

Foreign correspondents were again allowed to attend today's congress session, although original plans had been for them to be allowed in only for Khrushchev's opening speech.

PREDICTS EXTINCTION

MONTREAL (CP) — Dr. Joachim Pilaz, president of the American Jewish Congress, said the Jewish population in Germany will be extinct in 10 years. He said in an interview that most of Germany's surviving Jews are elderly people and their community is dying out.

master list to which names were indicated by government officials. Personally, he had arranged for none.

Mr. Hardy's statement came shortly after an angry outburst by commission counsel Georges Pelletier directed against a witness who said he had no idea why he had collected $1,200 in kickbacks.

WANTS CITED

When Robert Gervais, 65, of Disraeli admitted he called on UN party treasurer Gerald Marsh[illegible] and collected a $1,200 cheque but insisted he did not know why he was paid, Mr. Pelletier angrily addressed the court.

"I demand this witness be declared in contempt of the commission for reticence in giving evidence . . . We have had enough of witnesses who treat us as dopes."

Mr. Justice Elie Salvas, chairman of the commission, denied the commission counsel's motion but told the witness the inquiry would establish why such kickbacks were paid.

UN SWEPT

erian Koris of Russia countered that the United States had secretly violated the test moratorium by preparing for underground tests, which the Americans resumed after the Russians broke the three-year test ban. Dean denied this.

Ghana's C. T. Nyandor and Mali's Tiemoko Coumpah were among those speaking in support of the Canadian resolution Tuesday. Coumpah saying "Full out does not spare the neutralists any more than anyone else."

But both the black-African countries sharply criticized Western countries for failure to heed their pleas for pressures against France when that country conducted atomic tests in the Sahara.

The Canadian plan would draw particular attention to the UN scientific committee's view that the resumption of nuclear tests increases the urgency for intensification of scientific studies. It would ask a speedup of the committee's report, due next year.

Greatest Unifying Force In Canada's National Life Is Three Military Colleges

-- Prof. Cook

VICTORIA (CP) — A man one of the greatest unifying forces in Canada's national life, who has spent 35 years helping prepare officers for Canada's armed forces believes the country's three military colleges are a spending 35 years teaching young officer cadets at the Royal Military College, Kingston, Ont., and the Canadian Services College, Royal Roads, Victoria, where he has served as director of studies for the last seven years.

He recalls with pride that many of the young officers-to-be who passed through his classes have gone on to fill the highest posts in their respective branches of the service before retiring.

"They come from all provinces and represent all branches of the service. For five years these young men live a set work and play together, a circumstance that probably does more to unify Canada than any other single factor."

PROVIDE ARTS COURSE

The academic side of officer cadet training is mainly a degree course in engineering or added humanities, though Royal Roads this year had 30 out of 65 second-year cadets taking an arts course.

The two-year course with advances in the space age all students receive an excellent grounding in mathematics and science.

"We also try to develop gentlemanly qualities in the officer cadets. This is in keeping with our college motto: 'Truth, Duty and Valor'."

Prof. Cook joined the staff of RMC in Kingston in 1936 as an instructor in physics. He became an associate professor in 1936 and from 1940 to 1942, while holding rank of major, he served as Professor of Artillery at Kingston.

He came to Royal Roads from the Royal Canadian Naval College, in 1942 and was subsequently appointed instructor commander in charge of the physics department. He remained on the faculty with civilian status after the war and has served a total of 19 years at Royal Roads.

Kelso Roberts Promises Some Easing of Liquor Laws if Elected Leader of Party

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

All candidates for the leadership of Ontario's Progressive Conservative party continued their tour of riding organizations Tuesday one showed up on the doorsteps of another's home territory.

Kelso Roberts, seemingly convinced he'd done his best to win first - ballot support elsewhere, turned up at a meeting in Oshawa, doorstep of Hartborne candidate Matthew Dymond's Ontario riding.

The attorney - general was explains to point out to the 24 delegates from Oshawa riding—all of whom have pledged their votes by the leadership meeting in the Toronto convention Oct. 25 that he was only after his second - ballot vote, support Mr. Dymond drop out to them.

Mr. Roberts emphasized that his would not be a stand - pat leadership.

"It will not be a matter of basking in the sun of success—proverbial matters with political utterances," he said.

"Mine will be a fighting leadership — active and lively, but fun. A leader must have the ability to meet the battle-field of debate with his opponents."

He also promised some easing of Ontario's liquor laws which, he said, still contain some archaic features.

He saw little to fear from the New Democratic Party.

"We can beat the socialists to the top spot time," he declared. "They won't be a threat."

Mr. Roberts said the speech is the last he plans before the convention. He intends to spend the rest of the week in Toronto, lining up support by telephoning a d working on his convention speech.

Meanwhile in Toronto, Provincial Secretary Yarmouth Tuesday night he was confident Ontario's fourth cabinet minister to support publicly the candidacy of provincial treasurer James N. Allan.

Introducing Mr. Allan to 200 guests at a cocktail party, Mr. Yarmouth said simply that he had known the provincial treasurer for 19 years and that his decision to back him was based on good reasons.

Mr. Allan explained that if elected he would insure a smooth transition of leadership. He said he disagrees with those who propose the party be turned upside down.

"Nothing should stand still and every day is a new day," he said. But our party's principles do not change."

Support for the 46 - year-old minister came earlier from public Works Minister Connell, Highways Minister Thomas and Minister without Portfolio John Root.

At Kingston, Energy Resources Minister Macaulay cautioned party followers against turning the convention into a popularity contest. If they do, he said, the party will have a period of severe adversity.

Mr. Macaulay, who is best candidate said 30 Kingston convention delegates, some of them from Queen's University, that the party's loss of 13 seats in the 1959 election was due to "the challenge" of the convention.

If we lost 13 seats with him (Mr. Frost), what are we going to lose next time," he declared. "The

Remembers Dawson Creek Had Hitching Rails, Broad Walks and Three Gas Pumps

By JIM PEADOCK

DAWSON CREEK, B.C. (CP) — Vic Rimbey remembers when Dawson Creek had hitching rails and big board sidewalks and only three gasoline pumps.

"Somebody'd hitch his team in front of the gas pumps and you couldn't get near to get gas," he recalls.

That was 23 years ago when fewer than 900 persons lived here and farmers brought grain to the elevators by horse and wagon over dirt trails from as far north as Fort St. John, to have it shipped by rail to Edmonton.

Today, the city has 52 service stations and garages with three times that number of gas pumps. Its population is near 12,000.

The 30 miles of road to Fort St. John are paved, rail lines run to Edmonton and Vancouver and major highway links head in three directions.

Mr. Rimbey worries more about seeing that enough school classrooms and teachers are available to meet the demand which for several years has increased by 10 classrooms and 10 teachers a year. This fall there are 170 teachers on the payroll of the school board, of which Mr. Rimbey is chairman.

MADE BY HIGHWAY

These things illustrate the suddenness with which this community 370 road miles north-west of Edmonton has grown, rising in two decades from a fledgling agricultural centre to the largest city in the entire Peace River region.

Its past is divided into two eras — before and after the Alaska Highway.

"The highway certainly made it," said Reeve Clarence Harper, who came to the area as a lad of 17 in 1914 and watched the United States Army move in 15,000 men to push through the highway from here to Alaska.

"This was a farming area, the end of steel. We were a service centre, and diner from a large area and the town was growing a bit. But from the time this area opened for homesteading in 1912 until the highway, it was a pioneer district.

"Now we've got everything that's big city has—television, good water supply, paved streets and all the rest."

OIL BRought BOOM

Don Leach, retired tire dealer and secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce, says simply: "The highway made us."

The two-year highway construction period provided the initial boom. Truckers and highway maintenance kept things humming until mid-1945 when, with the Japanese threat to Alaska ended, the U.S. Army pulled out.

Population, which had spurted from 800 in early 1941 to more than 15,000 at the height of the highway boom, dipped to 3,700. It began to rise again, however, as post-war farm settlement, encouraged by the new highway facilities, moved Mr. ther north.

Then in the early 1950s came the oil boom.

"The oil boom brought the town up to a peak unmatched by the highway, said Mr. Leach. "There was more loose money at its peak than during the highway era."

The oil rush brought more lasting growth to Dawson Creek, too, as the major companies made the city their headquarters for the far - ranging northern petroleum hunt. Today, eight companies have exploration offices here and employ nearly 400 person in the city.

The city, with a modern water and sewage disposal system a legacy from the U.S. Army highway days and many of the old army buildings ready convertible for housing, was from sale of three-quarters of better prepared for the influx than other communities of the Peace.

BROADER ECONOMY

Today, the oil boom has moved farther north and Dawson Creek is settling down to a firmly based economy.

It is a modern community, supporting radio and television stations, two weekly newspapers, more than 200 businesses and broad recreational facilities, including the $250,000 setup of the Dawson Creek Athletic Association which recovers a section of land it purchased from the U.S. Army for $30,000.

Its economic boy now has many strings, the major one continuing to be agriculture. Transportation, with two major truck lines located here and two railways terminating here, is a major factor. Lumbering and the petroleum industry also are important cogs along with the city's role as a distribution centre for an area of 130,000 square miles.

A new boom may come in tourist traffic as paving of the Alaska highway stretches farther north. Last summer 40,000 tourists passed through.

"One thing's certain," said Mayor John Wilcox, a veteran of 40 years in the area. "We're going to grow. We'll be three times our present size in 10 years. Development of the north will make us grow."

ROSE TO TOP

Alexander Cassatt, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad who died in 1906, started with the railroad as a rodman in 1868.

By DENNIS ORCHARD

CALGARY (CP) — The girl was stricken early in life by polio. Told she would never walk again, she sank into a dejected, lonely life at home.

She kept up her schoolwork by correspondence but refused to venture out to the stares of normal people.

One day she agreed, unwillingly, to be taken to a meeting of teen-agers at Calgary's rehabilitation centre. They too suffered afflictions — paralysis from polio like herself, cerebral palsy, epilepsy, multiple sclerosis, heart conditions, defects of birth.

But they were happy because they enjoyed each other's company and no one drew attention with a smirk or stare to their physical defects.

The girl blended in their play and began attending day school as well, with handicapped children of all age groups. Helped by an instructor and surrounded by other classes and projects, her school work went ahead quickly.

Today she attends university, still in her wheelchair, but life has opened up. She is a whole person again and a near-normal future is the prospect.

ATTEND SOCIALS

Started in 1956 as a social group, the club now draws support from the Calgary public school board, service clubs and the Community Chest.

Once just an idea in the minds of Mrs. Jack Gorman and Mrs. Marion McKay, the club brings together youngsters ranging in age from 15 to 22. Its founders and its counsellor now, Mrs. Jean Bergstrom, consider the twice-monthly social evenings inseparable from the day school.

One emphasizes adjustment to people, the other the training of hands and minds.

Many of the teen-agers have led withdrawn lives, either because they have avoided mixing with others or because they have been hidden by over-protective parents. Few have ever gone to school.

The socials are designed to increase confidence and the method is simply to keep the handicapped youngsters entertained.

Even square dancing proves easy with the mechanical aid of four - wheel spinners, and there are also charades, wheelchair races and singsongs, as well as visits from companies of Rangers and Girl Guides.

SWIM CLASSES

Thanks to service club members, they pay yearly visits to hockey playoffs, the Calgary Stampede, circus and ice shows, and catch exhibits and performances at Calgary's Allied Arts Centre and Jubilee Auditorium. The Kinsmen Club takes the whole group to the mountain resort of Banff each summer for a day-long excursion that includes a boat ride.

Nearly all belong to the YMCA swimming groups, and many have certificates.

In the day classes at the centre, some receive only guidance for courses they take by correspondence. Others are taught dressmaking, copper tooling, leatherwork, painting and how to make novelties and costume jewelry.

Mrs. Bergstrom, the club's only counsellor, says the justification for the 40-hour week she often spends as a worker at the centre comes from watching the spirit of the teens and their happiness together.

"They get a bang out of everything," she says. "Some of them have never had fun before."

ST. JOHN'S Nfld. (CP) — Only one commercial bowling alley operates in Newfoundland. But the province's paltry 8,000 active adult bowlers rank with the most talented in Canada.

The province's nine other alleys, in Corner Brook, Stephenville, Clarenville, Gander and St. John's, are all church-owned. The four-lane alley in Grand Falls, with automatic pinsetters—only ones in Newfoundland — is a commercial venture.

A. V. (Jack) Rabbits, Mr. Bowler himself to many Newfoundlanders, says a natural talent and a fierce rivalry help islanders excel at the five-pin game. Stephenville, on the west coast, is the only place where tenpins are played, reflecting the influence of the town's U.S. air force base.

Rabbits, a civil servant, has been operating his own three-week tournament since 1943. Last spring 600 bowlers competed.

AVERAGED 250

Howie Meeker of St. John's, the former Toronto Maple Leafs hockey star who emcees a 30-show television bowling program each winter, says he would pit the city's Roman Catholic Holy Cross team "against any in Canada."

The five-man team last year posted a 2,750 season's average. It worked out to 250 a man. Holy Cross's Jack Cranshaw posted the high single of 372 followed by Art Jackson with 368. These compare with the 378 high single scored by Hugh McGillivrary of Stratford, Ont., in the Canadian five-pin championships in St. Catharines, Ont., last year.

The church alleys provide that the vast majority of bowlers are pew's in their 20s or 30s the city can absorb 100 older. So save worked and easily. lished leagues."

But a change is expected soon when new commercial alleys, planned for the major centres, are completed.

When these lanes begin operating, Newfoundlanders can and will enter strong teams in the Canadian championships.

Within a year, St. John's will have 60 new lanes. Meeker

Meeker's TV duties do well, too. Lillian Vatcher, whose high single is 368, once scored nine consecutive strikes.

Hospital Plan Is Extended To Home Care

TORONTO (CP) — Hospital beds will be released and municipal hospital costs eased by a pilot plan to give patients recuperating in their homes full benefits of the Ontario Hospital Services Commission, commission officials report.

The program, which is now undergoing a two-year test, is being carried out at the New Mount Sinai and Western Hospitals in Toronto where 300 patients will be cared for at home at the rate of 12 a month.

Officials of the OHSC said patients in the home-car plan will pay only the cost of their doctor, Hospital insurance will pay for nursing visits, tests, x-rays, drugs, dressings, therapy and sick room equipment. Participating in the home-car plan is voluntary.

Garden Burns Cold Water Comes Out Hot

MOIRA, England (AP) — (AP)—Theodora Insley turned on the cold water faucet and out came hot water and a cloud of steam.

The bakery sent for the fire department.

The firemen found an underground fire in the garden. All day Sunday they dug and by dusk they had removed 20 tons of old coal mine waste.

"My house stands on filled-in ground and the soil is full of pieces of coal," said Insley, 62, a mine official.

"The fire must have started last July when I burned some garden refuse."

Chief fire officer William Stretton said "we'll just have to keep digging until we get all the burning coal out."

Life and Works Of Liszt on CBC Broadcast

Commemorating the 150th anniversary of the birth of Hungarian-born pianist-composer Franz Liszt, CBC, Oct. 22, presents two programs examining his life and works.

The quartet will be heard on CBL at 7:40 p.m., beginning with a concert of etudes, followed by a song recital, a documentary on the life of Liszt and a performance of the Hungarian Coronation Mass.

During his lifetime Liszt composed some 1,300 works; among them 35 songs. At 8:15 p.m., soloist Sylvia Geszty will be heard in a group of these songs recorded by Hungarian Radio.

Documentary on Franz Liszt, based on his letters and diaries will be heard at 8.30 p.m. by the network at 9:15 p.m. by a performance of the Hungarian Concertgebouw Mass featuring the choir and orchestra of the Budapest Coronation Cathedral.

The Mass was composed shortly after 1867 in honor of the coronation of Emperor Franz Josef and Empress Elizabeth of Hungary.

Russian Corn Does Not Yield 10 Times More

VIENNA, Austria (AP)— Russia and Austria, perennial deadlocked Monday in a wager between Premier Khrushchev and President Leopold Figl of the Austrian Parliament over Russian corn yields and a big, fat pig.

Figl claimed he won the pig; the Russians said no. Both sides are slightly confused.

The bet was made a year ago, during Khrushchev's state visit to Austria.

While dining at Figl's farm near Vienna, Khrushchev boasted that Russian corn yields 10 times more than Austrian corn. Figl stood his ground for Austria. The bet was sealed with a handshake and a drink.

Khrushchev promptly sent Figl seeds of three top sorts of Russian corn, together with a Russian hook on how to plant, water and nurture it. The corn was raised on three areas on Figl's farm. Russian and Austrian experts regularly controlled it.

Monday the corn was harvested under the watchful eyes of Figl, Soviet Ambassador Victor I. Avilov, a mixed commission of experts and some curious reporters.

CORN LOOKS GOOD

The Russian corn looked good. In fact, it looked wonderful. But it was only 10 times more plentiful than the average yield of Austrian corn—not by a long shot.

Figl slapped Avilov on the shoulder. "Well, Mr. Ambassador, let's have the sow," he said.

The Russian, all genuine surprise, replied "No, sir. The sow is ours, because you handled the maize all wrong."

Gesticulating in the dusty corn field, the Russians tried to convince the Austrian Khrushchev did not mean corn maize, as the Austrians had grown it, but grain.

The difference is that corn maize is harvested by scraping the grains off the cob. Silo maize, which goes into the big storage silos, is chipped into fist - size pieces. Thus silo maize is heavier than corn maize because it has more water in it.

But the Austrian pig wouldn't give in. They maintained that the Russian corn had been raised under Russian control and that the experts had fully approved of the way it was handled by the Austrians.

So Figl, or Khrushchev, will have to wait for the pig.

Kinsmen Centre, October 30th, at 8:00 p.m. We repeat this in the hope that many people who are interested in Scouting welfare will attend. Through the years we are convinced that Belleville citizens are whole-heartedly in favour of the Boy Scout Movement. This has been proved by the fact that whenever help has been asked for, you have responded generously and willingly. It is the earnest desire of the District Council to tell you what has been accomplished during the past year and their plans for the coming year. This is why we would like to see you at the annual meeting. We want to thank you and show you the results of your kind assistance. Mr. Clarke Locke, Commissioner for Handicapped Scouting in Ontario will speak to us on this subject which is of particular interest to Belleville. A very sincere welcome awaits you.

BOWLING MATCH

Our congratulations to the Boy Scouts who, in the words of our Editor, "did us proud" last job in the parking lot". Literally acres of cars were parked without mishap or undue delay. Nearly 150 Scouts are engaged in this pleasant duty and can take pride in the knowledge that they helped considerably to the outstanding success of this memorable event. Not to be outdone, the Cubs presented themselves with baskets of apples and were very well received. Very grateful thanks to the authorities for permitting the Scout apple day at the Flowing Match. The Cubs were delighted with the results financially and otherwise. Another wonderful adventure in the life of our Pack.

UNITED APPEAL

Over 8,000 pamphlets were distributed by Belleville Boy Scouts who hope this year's United Appeal will be more successful than any previous year.

WRITING LONDON?

Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth recently opened "Baden-Powell House" in Queen Ann Gardens, a new Scout hostel in memory of the man who gave everything he had to the Chief Scout of the Commonwealth. Sir Charles Maclean said, in a letter to London's Daily Telegraph, "The doors of this hostel should be kept open to all Scouts, no matter from what country or creed or class they may come, at the lowest possible cost".

OASA Bowling Champions

The Ontario Amateur Softball Association recently announced its list of 1961 championship winners in the organization's twenty divisions.

Following is the complete list of winners:

Industrial—Sarnia Polymer.

Junior—"A": Hamilton Southam Motors; "B": Redbindale; "C": Capreol; "D": Dowco Cards.

Juvenile:—"A" Brockville; "B": Stoney Creek; "C": Murvale.

Ladies' Intermediate: Simcoe.

OASA secretary L. G. Pickard once again reports a record year with 1961 surpassing all OASA records in every respect. No less than 329 playoff games were required to achieve the 1961 objectives; and the OASA was nobly assisted by more than 70 dedicated and experienced convenors to supervise the attainment of this monumental task. Proof-positive, he says, of the continuing popularity of softball, and of OASA progress in the furtherance of this "grand summer game."

The Windsor Calcot Hotel team kept through every round undefeated to annex the Senior "A" laurels, yielding only one run to opposing teams in their triumphant march to the title.

No less than three teams successfully defended their 1960 titles (all in the adult divisions). They were: Int. Capreol; Int. "D" Mount Zion and Industrial, Sarnia.

Capreol, in their winning year of OASA competition, captured all-Ontario Junior "C" supremacy, after winning the Intermediate "D" championship in the 14th inning of the title games.

Three teams capped their initial taste of OASA competition by "going the route way": Simcoe in Ladies' Intermediate; Fieldindale in Junior "B" and Murvale in Juvenile "C".

Novel, Bright Plot Ideas Offered Free to Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The trouble with television, they say, is that the producers are having so much trouble getting novel and bright plot ideas.

Well, I watch a lot of TV and if they really want some fresh ideas never seen on the tube, I've made a list they can have free by me to take:

A stirring, action-packed saga of the American Civil War, with both brothers fighting on the same side.

A series about a quack doctor, dedicated, but only to curing a big pile of money fast.

The time for the big showdown comes. The marshal and the gunslinger in the black hat start walking toward each other down the dusty, deserted main street—and the marshal steps before he can even get his hand on his six-shooter.

HE CONFESSES

The newscaster stands before the camera and confesses: "There's really not much story, earth - shaking news breaking tonight, so we thought we'd show you some old films of a staff member made a couple of months ago in Uganda when we thought there was a story there. Just so the staffer's trip shouldn't be a complete loss."

The courtroom scene where the defence lawyer admits he has absolutely no case for his client, who has confessed, and throws himself on the mercy of the court.

That's just a start. But they demonstrate there really are some unexplored areas in TV plots.

BIGGER BIRDS

The North American raven is about 24 inches long, compared to 20 inches for the same species in Mexico.

Gloria Swanson Just Back From Long European Trip

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Let's go in the den, where it's more comfortable," said Gloria Swanson after ordering vodka on the rocks from her butler.

As we began to talk, the lights went out. The butler entered with lighted candles and said the trouble was being attended to. Miss Swanson reclined on the sofa and continued talking in the candlelight, while I felt as all the world as if I were in the second reel of Sunset Boulevard.

Miss Swanson soon brought me back to reality. The house was not hers, but that of a family she has known for years. And she is not Norma Desmond, the silent star she played in Sunset Boulevard.

"My God, how long a legend hangs on!" she declared. "Just a few weeks ago, I had to get back with an interviewer on the BBC in England. He kept trying to link me up with the picture.

"I finally told him, 'no, I don't have a body floating in my swimming pool. I don't even have a swimming pool. I don't live in the past. I'm concerned with the present and the future.'

"I guess I got my point across. I got a lovely note from Alec Guinness just before I left congratulating me for standing up against the legend."

Miss Swanson was here after a seven-week European trip, partly to view the new Paris fashions for her dress business, partly to show her mother the continent. She's working this week in a drama for ABC's Alcoa-Hazeltine hour.

"Guess what I am playing," she said. "That's right—an actress. Isn't it frightful, the typecasting in this town? They got over it for a while, but now it's just as strong as ever. I can't fight it."

Moments in History

In 1921, the yacht "Atlanta" brought fame to the City of Belleville. This sleek vessel was built and owned in Belleville, and was skippered by Harry Wallbridge. It won the International Championship on fresh water and brought home the coveted Fisher Cup. Later, the yacht "Mary", Mrs. Forsyth-Smith and owned, became the "Atlanta" in a new class competition. Again it won and brought home the coveted Fisher Cup. The ill fated "Atlanta" was destroyed by fire in the predecessor of the Belleville Yacht Club supporting pleasure craft residents with boating needs in home and business. Hornung, Nitschke to Go

Army Calls Packer Stars

NEW YORK (AP)—Paul Hornung and Ray Nitschke, stars with the powerful Green Bay Packers of the National Football League — and baseball player George Thomas have been added to a growing list of professional athletes reported to active duty in the United States armed forces.

The list totals nearly 30 and additions are expected from time to come.

None of the callups hit with the force of Tuesday's announcement that the Packers, defending champions in the NFL's western division, probably will be without halfback Hornung and linebacker Nitschke for the second half of the season. Their loss could make the Packers a chance to repeat as western champions. They share first place with San Francisco 49ers.

Hornung, 25, won the league scoring crown the last two seasons and is well in front this year with 77 points in five games. Probably the most versatile backfielder in football, Hornung is an ace runner, good passer and place - kicking expert. Nitschke, 24, has been a standout on the Packers' defensive platoon.

REPORTS OCT. 30

Hornung has been ordered to report to the army Oct. 30. Nitschke, a 6-foot-3, 245-pound Star halfback Bobby Mitchell of Cleveland Browns has been recalled to active duty with his army effective Nov. 2.

In the American football League, quarter back Jack Kemp and tackle Ron Mix of the undefeated San Diego Chargers, end Herm Ureneks and linebacker Jim Jeticic of Oakland Raiders and RB Boobsolt of Denver Broncos have been told to report for active duty.

Thomas, outfielder and third baseman for Los Angeles Angels of the American League, joins a major league baseball list that includes pitcher Steve Barber, an 18-game winner.

Machen Clobbers London

LONDON (AP) — Eddie Machen flew to the United States today after a victory that could bring him closer to a shot at Floyd Patterson's world heavyweight boxing championship.

The victim was Britain's Brian London, who was outclassed by Machen in five one-sided rounds Tuesday night and retired from the scheduled 10-rounder complaining his nose felt like ff was broken.

"Now I want a fight with Henry Cooper (British champion) to decide who is the No. 1 contender for the world title," said the unmarried Machen, from Portland, Ore.

London, 27, former British champion who is unranked among the world's top 10, set himself up as a punching bag for Machen, 26. London several years ago lasted 11 rounds in a title fight with Patterson.

A sellout crowd of 12,000 fans saw their boy coolly chopped down by Machen. When London retired at the end of the fifth, blood was gushing from his nose and coursing down from a cut over his right eye.

"The cut didn't worry me but I couldn't breathe," he said.

It was Machen's 40th victory in 43 fights over six years. He weighed 200 to London's 208.

Joey Jay Comeback Star

NEW YORK (AP)—Joey Jay, who bounced back from three poor seasons with Milwaukee to become the ace right-hander for Cincinnati Reds, today was named the National League's comeback player of the year for 1961.

Jay received 39 of the 151 votes by baseball writers in the annual Associated Press poll.

Jay, acquired last Dec. 15 in a deal involving shortstop Roy McMillan, has his first three games but recovered to finish with a 21-10 record as the Reds won their first pennant in 21 years.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Fair Jerusalem, a four-year-old Canadian-bred gelding, set a world record of 1:14 3-5 for 6½ furlongs in winning Tuesday's fourth race at Nw Woodbine Park.

Fair Juror was 10 lengths in front of Star Gun and Admiral Hogan at the finish. He has won four of his 14 starts this season and finished second in four races.

Chris Rogers and Paul Kalsi received 10 - day suspensions Tuesday. Rogers was grounded for carrying too much on North Bay in Monday's fourth race. Kalsi was suspended for careless riding on Nebula Chris in Monday's first race.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Her steel-girded hair "has turned to silver," she has had a brand new face-lift; her crackling joints have been bolstered and Memorial Arena, the Old Lady of the Market Square is ready for one of her busiest seasons in a decade.

The arena commission has not spared the financial horses to give the arena a modern touch. And Manager Jack Dickens and a hard-working staff have applied their talent and labor to an almost complete transformation of the old girl.

During the spring and summer months some 180 gallons of assorted pigments were used in the "face-lifting." Now some 18 gallons per annum are all that is needed for appearance maintenance.

The overhead network of girders was scraped and painted an aluminum silver. The walls, railings, entrances, pandemic, in fact everything "paintable" was given the new look. In some cases new coats were necessary to obtain the required results. Necessary repairs were made to various parts of the building. The manager's office was decorated and re-arranged.

A little over a month ago a sprinkling system was installed at a cost of $13,000. Through reduced fire insurance premiums the system is expected to pay for itself over a period of a few years. It has been tested in full operation—and found satisfactory.

A foresighted manager had the pipes of the ice-manufacturing system cleaned and tested last spring. The result was that only one minor leak was apparent a few weeks ago when the arena staff readied for ice-making operations.

Thanks to the efforts of arena engineers, Ernie Preston and Bill Dickey, who overhauled the equipment and machinery during the summer months at a financial outlay, the ice was made ready for use this season in record time.

The refrigerating was "turned on" on October 10, but according to Manager Dickens "it proved like a kitten." The aforementioned leak was repaired in record time and public skating was made available last night, October 17, some seven days after operations were started.

Despite the still-born death of senior hockey here, the arena this season is practically filled. Hockey of various classifications, public skating, figure skating, attractions and other uses have practically taken up all ice time. In fact the only time available at this writing is from 11 p.m. to midnight, six nights in the week.

The McFarlands junior hockey club has practice time and will play scheduled league games on eleven Friday nights during the coming season. In fact the junior squad opens its training grind tonight.

Other hockey leagues which will operate in the arena this season are the City Commercial; Prince Edward North Shore; City Interdepartmental; Northern Electric; St. Michael's Business Men, and Stephens-Adamson.

The Belleville Minor Hockey Association has been allotted extra ice time this season. It will operate on two nights a week, besides Saturday morning, a total of 16 hours and an increase of three hours over last season.

The Belleville Recreation Commission has been given ice time free for children twice weekly.

Public skating will be available Saturday afternoons and evenings, and for the first three weeks of operation Thursday nights will be given to the public. Family skating will place on Sunday afternoons during October, November and December.

The popular Quinte Skating Club has been allotted nine hours a week and expects to cater to a much larger membership than last year. It will hold its annual "ice spectacular" during the latter part of March.

The arena is fortunate in having an efficient, reliable staff. Jack Dickens has already proved a highly capable manager. Assisting him are assistant manager Bob Borrowes, Frank Cris, Johnny Lloyd and the mighty atom, a "Jack" of all trades, Jack Smith.

These men have been one of the biggest factors in the transformation of the arena from its dark, drab and dull interior of a year ago to its present bright, colorful, eye-pleasing appearance.

Unbeaten Hawks Lack Titular Form

Win 5-3 Over Bruins

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chicago Black Hawks, more mature and more confident in the eyes of coach Rudy Pilous, are undefeated after three National Hockey League starts this season.

But the team's record is no source of joy for Pilous because the Blackhawks have yet to show any semblance of the form that last spring carried them to their first Stanley Cup win in 23 years.

Except for three goals within one minute and 30 seconds during the second period, the Hawks looked ragged Tuesday night in posting a 5-3 decision over lowly Boston Bruins.

The win came after a pair of weekend ties with Detroit Red Wings and lifted Chicago into a second - place deadlock with Toronto Maple Leafs in the league standings. Each team has four points.

New York Rangers, at home to Montreal Canadiens in tonight's only game, are first with six points.

IS DISSATISFIED

Pilous was dissatisfied with Tuesday night's showing and didn't hide his feelings.

"Maybe we were trying too hard and maybe the way Boston plays caused us to be ragged," he told reporters in the team's dressing room after the game.

Chicago's second period outburst broke a scoreless tie and sent the Bruins on their way to a fourth loss in five starts. Boston has only one tie to show for five games and has allowed the opposition 25 goals.

Boston closed the gap to 3-2 on early third period goals by Eddie Ted Gray and Johnny Bucyk. Then Ron Murphy and Bronco Horvath, a former Boston player, capped home goals to put the game out of reach of the Bruins.

The Canadiens, only team besides Chicago that sports an undefeated record this season, cut defenceman Jean-Guy Gaulher Tuesday and will dress only five rearguards for tonight's battle at New York.

Gaulher was sent down to Hull - Ottawa Canadiens of the Eastern Provincial Hockey League, subject to immediate recall.

Houston Buys Al Cicotte

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The sale of pitcher Al Cicotte to Houston Colts for an undisclosed price was announced Tuesday night by St. Louis Cardinals.

The 32-year - old righthander was named minor league player of the year in 1960, when he was with Denver of the International League. With the Cardinals last year he won two, lost six and had an earned run average of 5.36. He has played with four other minor league teams, all in the American League, in a career that began in 1948.

CATCHER RELEASED

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Milwaukee Braves gave catcher Sammy White his unconditional release and chipped outfielder Gino Cimoli to Vancouver of the Pacific Coast League Tuesday. Brought up from Vancouver were outfielder Manuel Jimenez, 22, infielder Pat Charles, 26, and catcher Jose Arroyo.

9 Teams Open Senior Schedule

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Galt Terriers, Allan Cup champions preparing to represent Canada in the world amateur tournament, share preseason favoritism with Windsor Bulldogs as a nine-team Ontario Hockey Association Senior A Series opens its schedule this weekend.

It is the largest senior group since the Second World War and the outcome could be the wildest scramble for playoff spots in many seasons. Each team will play 36 games.

The other teams are Woodstock Athletics, Stratford Indians, Chatham Maroons, Sheffiwr Rockets, St. Thomas Royals, Sarnia Rams and Waterloo Tigers.

The last three are new clubs. St. Thomas will play its games in the tiny village of Belmont, near London, and may become the Belmont Royals.

The Bulldogs, who have been pre - season favorites many times but died in the playoffs, have a veteran cast but may lack defensive strength. They have former Toronto Maple Leaf Joe Klukay as their coach.

WILL NEED PLAYOFFS

The Terriers, who will play a full schedule before departing for the 1962 world tournament in Colorado, will not compete in the playoffs. Coach Lloyd Roebell will probably add players all through the season as they strive to become a near all-star cast for their big date next March.

A former Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen defenceman of a few years back, Harvey Jacklin, will coach the Indians with former coach Bill Woodward as manager and Bill Flick, veteran right winger, as assistant coach.

The Maroons, always contenders, are coached by Ted Power, a veteran centre still active as a player. He will be able to use promising Chatham juniors when needed as they have a working agreement this year. Al Bennett will continue in goal.

Woodstock has a new coach in Ken Dobson, a former hometown star. The Athletics will draw on a number of Kitchener Waterloo players.

Barons Shade Aces 3-2

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cleveland Barons have scored their first victory of the American Hockey League's 1961-62 season. Defenceman Aldo Guidolin was the key man in the triumph.

The Barons, who had lost three straight games, defeated Quebec Aces 3-2 Tuesday night.

Guidolin pulled the Barons from behind a 2-0 count when he scored an unassisted goal late in the first period and added another early in the third. He topped off the performance by assisting on centre Val Sweeney's game-winner with less than three minutes left in regulation time.

It was the only game of the night and the win moved Cleveland into third place in the western division. The Aces are last in the eastern division with a win and a loss.

Doesn't Care Who Referee Is

McNeeley KO's Patterson-In Dream

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP)—Tom McNeeley says he doesn't care who referees his title fight with heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson.

"All he'll have to do is count," said the 24-year - old challenger from Arlington, Mass. "That's the type of a fight it will be. One of us is going to be knocked out and that's going to be him."

The Patterson camp's declaration to get an out-of-state referee was the reason for the fight of the Dec. 4 title fight from Boston to Toronto.

Merv McKenzie, Ontario athletic commissioner, said the signing in Toronto Monday, he will prepare a slate of six referees—chosen by the fighters and then will pick one.

"One of Amalo (Patterson's manager) will make up his list of six and hand it to McKenzie," said Pete Fuller, McNeely's manager. "We don't intend to name anyone. All we want is a fair shake and we think we'll get one."

PRESSURE KNOCKOUT

"We're not concerned about scoring of the fight. We feel the fighter that's going to end in a knockout and Tom is going to be the new champion. Let's face it, Floyd doesn't have much of a chance to outbox Patterson. He'll have to do it by a knockout."

McNeeley said at a luncheon Tuesday: "I intend to go right after him for the kayo."

McNeeley has a 25-6 record, including 13 knockouts, in three years of pro fighting. The crewcut, six - foot - two 200-pounder never has fought a ranking contender.

He said he had a dream shortly after the fight had been set for Boston.

"I can remember it vividly," he said. "I was standing in the ring, sweating and happy. I can recall Jackie (trainer Jackie Martin) jumping with joy.

"In the corner was Patterson. His head was down and he was slumped on the stool. I can't remember what I hit him with or what the round was. It must have been a tough fight because I was sweating and felt tired."

In which round will he flatten Patterson in Toronto?

"Somewhere between the sixth and tenth rounds," said the 9-to-1 underdog.

ANCIENT EPOCH

NICE, France (AP)—Geologist Michel Siffree, 32, said he and a group who explored caves beneath the Lower Alps found a 20 - yard - thick glacier dating from the glacial epoch when Europe was covered with ice.

Six-Year-Old 'Robin Hood' Shoots Deer

But that's not bad, considering that Jack is only six years old and used a bow and arrow.

Jack was hunting with his father, Jack Sr., a nationally known archer, when he bagged a 160-pound yearling buck. It was young Jack's first hunting trip. He started learning to use a bow and arrow at the age of three.

No Bets On The 'Butler' Gentlemen

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) Adios Butler has been eliminated from wagering in the $50,000 American Pacing Classic Saturday at Hollywood Park because he's too old.

General Manager Pres Jeanne of the Western Harness Racing Association said Tuesday the California Horse Racing Board approved the betting plan. Normal win, place and show wagering will be conducted on the race except that no bets can be placed on Adios Butler.

Should he win as expected, the payoff on the second horse to finish would be win, place and show.

Should Adios Butler be second and finish third, the show payoff would be on the fourth-placer.

Winner Must Fight in March

NBA Recognises Fight

TACOMA, Wash. (CP) — The National Boxing Association will recognize the Dec. 4 heavyweight battle between champion Floyd Patterson and Tom McNeeley as a world title event, but has decreed this will not relieve Patterson of his obligation to meet the NBA's top challenger by next March 31.

The announcement was was made known Tuesday by Dr. Charles Larson, NBA president.

Patterson and McNeeley, from Arlington, Mass., are ranked 10th by the NBA, ranked in a 15-counder in Toronto. The association's current No. 1 challenger is Henry Cooper of England. NBA rules stipulate the world king must clash with the leading challenger at least once a year.

Patterson and McNeeley signed their contract Monday. The agreement combines a return-fight clause which stipulates that if McNeeley wins he must give Patterson a rematch within 120 days.

WON'T HOLD HIM

Larson said if McNeeley accepted the champion the NBA will not hold him to the rematch clause.

"If he wanted to duck out on the rematch, we would not suspend him."

Larson said the association went on record as being against such agreements at its recent convention in Hershey, Pa., to avoid having a series of rematches of the same opponents as in the case of Patterson and Sweden's Ingemar Johansson.

"This does not permit any new challengers to merit to get into the picture," he said.

As for the requirement that Patterson meet the top-ranked challenger by the March 31 deadline, Larson said: "If there is a legitimate 10th, Tonas we are going to insist that the champion defend against him at least once a year."

TITLE FIGHT SET

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Matchmaker Mel Greb announced Tuesday night that he has signed welterweight champion Benny (Kid) Paret and middleweight king Gene Fullmer for a 15-round bout here Dec. 9 for the NBA middleweight title. Greb said he expects Paret, who recently grabbed the title from Emile Griffith, to come in at 152 to 154 pounds. Fullmer usually is just under the 160-pound limit.

Yanks Got $7,389.12

How They Split the Loot!

NEW YORK (AP) — Each world series share for New York Yankees was worth $7,389.12, the lowest since 1952, and each Cincinnati share came to $5,258.33, baseball Commissioner Ford Frick revealed Tuesday.

Each Yankee winning cut was almost $1,500 less than Pittsburgh's $6,641.94 payoff last year because of the limited capacity of the Cincinnati park and the smaller weekday crowds at Yankee Stadium.

Yanks paid out 33 full shares and seven fractional slices. Among those who were not with the club all season but still got full shares were Earl Torgeson, Hal Reniff, Bud Daley, Bill Gardner and Jack Reed.

Cincinnati handed out 30 full shares and a seven fractional share. Catcher Darrell Johnson, the regular after he came to the club from the Phillies Aug. 14, got one-quarter of a share, $1,330.09, and catcher Jim Edwards, called up from 27, got a half share, $2,678.12. Pitcher Ken Johnson, acquired from Toronto July 21, also got a half share.

Rusk Denies Statement Withdrawal Considered

Soviet Notes Renew Stand On Corridors

WASHINGTON (AP)—Diplomatic sources said today Moscow has sent a note reaffirming its stand on Berlin access rights. Soviet stand on Berlin is expected to be unacceptable to the West.

The text of the note was delivered to the American, British and French ambassadors in Moscow, was not immediately available here.

Informants said the Soviet communication replied to a Sept. 6 American note asking the Soviet Union to resume negotiations with the United States, Britain and France on Germany and Berlin with West Germany would be "aggressive action."

Moscow has said it has repeatedly stated its view that the German question is a normal issue for the settlement of which the Western powers should negotiate directly with the German Democratic Republic. The Western powers insist the negotiations are a vital issue for the West and that they must include the Soviet Union.

Unchanged

The Soviet note was not to be regarded as a great change in Soviet policy, a State Department spokesman said. State Secretary Dean Rusk met with President Kennedy Wednesday. Rusk, returning to his first public U.S. appearance since conferences with Soviet Premier Khrushchev's envoy, Deputy Commander Kuznetsov in Moscow, said he could only pass preliminary test of the views of Khrushchev's envoy. Roughly Khrushchev's views still is the same. He declined to say whether he makes the prospects for peace better or worse.

Khrushchev's plan for a treaty of peace treaty with Communist East Germany, Rusk said, "may pose a serious problem somewhere."

But Khrushchev's "general observations about the Common and Berlin problem do not foreshadow any change from what has been said before," Rusk added.

Two Belleville Men Elected

BROCKVILLE (CP) — Sherry Lister, candidate of the Brockville Public Utilities Commission, was elected president of the Eastern Ontario Association of Municipal Utilities at the annual meeting Wednesday.

Other officers elected include: H. Simpson, Whitby, first vice-president; Warren Fralick, Kingston, second vice-president, and W. P. McBride, Wiarton, Burnham, Belleville, and W. Wood, Oshawa, and J. Sutton, Belleville, directors.

Milk Production Up

NORTH BAY (CP)—Ontario's milk production for the first time this year, the chief of the federal agriculture department's dairy production section, said here Wednesday. Dr. H. A. Dubuc, speaking at the annual Northern Ontario Dairymen's Association convention, said in an interview production this year has shown reached 19,000,000,000 pounds, 4,000,000 pounds more than the total for 1960.

Macaulay Gives Fighting Speech

TORONTO (CP) — Promise of an early election, a warning of the plight faced by Ontario's municipalities and a succession that someone has been rumor - mongering figured in speeches Wednesday by three candidates for the Ontario Progressive Conservative party leadership.

The election promise came from Education Minister John Robarts, regarded as the front runner. He vowed he will call an election within 18 months if he gets the nod of delegates to the leadership convention in Toronto Oct. 26-28.

Whatever the outcome, he said, it would be essential he party to consider an appeal to the public. With this in mind he must be ready for voting on Oct. 26."

Predicting a federal election next June — though admitting he had no inside information on the subject — Mr. Robarts said the federal vote "would clear the decks for a provincial election in Ontario in the following year."

The education minister was at the end of an extensive tour of Northern Ontario. He arrived at the Lakehead earlier in the afternoon after an overnight stop at Kenora.

Injects Sober Note

Provincial Secretary James N. Allan injected a sober note on the plight of the province's municipalities into a speech at Stratford by one of his close associates from Perth and Oxford Counties.

Mr. Allan said the municipalities' problems must be looked at "without fear and favor" in realization the provincial and municipal governments are partners.

He predicted the province soon will be "out of the red."

The youth was taken to Elgin County Jail in St. Thomas.

Police recovered several .12-gauge shotgun shells near the truck and later seized a .22-calibre rifle from the farm.

Say Many Russians Were Killed By Fallout From A-Test in 1957

NEW YORK (AP) — Fallout from a Soviet atomic test in 1957 was reported Wednesday, an scientific study that confirmed account, to have killed thousands, caused widespread illness and contaminated water and crops.

The report was broadcast by Radio Liberty, a private American - sponsored network which beams programs to the Soviet Union in Russian and 17 other languages.

Radio Liberty said its information came from a man who was an eyewitness. His name was kept secret. The network said it is working on plans to get count to Russia on a 24 ½ hour basis.

The story, as related on the broadcasts, was this:

The blast was set off in the Soviet Asian republic of Kazakhstan. Residents of the area around Semipalatinsk in Kazakhstan were assured that the test would not harm them.

Nuclear Scientist Says U.S. Bombers Pack Wallop Greater Than 50 Megatons

WASHINGTON (CP) — Dr. Ralph E. Lapp, a United States nuclear scientist, said Wednesday each American B-52 strategic bomber packs a nuclear wallop greater than Russia's proposed 50 - megaton nuclear weapon.

"These B-52 bombers would be launched over Canada in times of an alert," the atomic bomb pioneer and former U.S. defence department consultant added in an interview.

Lapp said the U.S. has built 50-megaton hydrogen warheads equivalent to 50,000,000 tons of TNT—and that each of the B-52 planes of the U.S. Strategic Air Command is capable of carrying two of these warheads on long-range flights to Russia.

The 50 - megaton bomb bombs would do more damage than the 20 - megaton bombs because in these massive weapons of annihilation some of the extra energy from each explosion is dissipated, Lapp said.

The Russians recently dropped one 30-megaton bomb at one centre and carry the other 50-megaton bomb in their arsenal, Lapp said. Two of these warheads on long-range flights to Russia.

Lapp said he didn't know. But he assumed NORAD would have authority to send these bombers over Canadian territory in times of emergency or in case of NORAD would be declared.

He said that when bombers are headed with atomic or hydrogen bombs they have orders to make sure the weapons are not detonated through malfunction or triggering, of the bomb would be under control at all times.

In other words, if a bomber has a malfunction that would be a crash and some split of radioactivity but no widespread explosion.

Canada 'Very Sympathetic' To British Guiana's Needs

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada is "very sympathetic" in the words of External Affairs Minister Green—to British Guiana's need for economic assistance.

Mr. Green told reporters question of how we can give them a hand," Mr. Green told reporters Wednesday following a 1½-hour meeting he had with British Guiana Premier Cheddi Jagan.

The controversial young premier arrived Wednesday morning from Montreal for two days of talks with Canadian officials.

He said the purpose of his visit was "to get full information about British Guiana". But it was clear, from a talk he had with reporters, that one of his objectives is to solicit Canadian economic aid.

At present the sparsely-populated colony on South America's northeast coast is in transition to self-government, but Mr. Jagan hopes to have it in full independence next year. He said Wednesday British Guiana when independent will join Canada as a member in both the Commonwealth and the Organization of American States.

He has said he believes in a mixed economy for British Guiana.

Mr. Green said machinery is in the hands of External Affairs to British Guiana. One answer might be a Colombo-type aid program for the Caribbean—an idea that has been mentioned before.

In a luncheon address to the Jagan pleaded for Canadian loans—"on fair and easy terms" to help British Guiana's economic as well as political freedom.

Kickbacks Total Nearly Two Million Inquiry Told

QUEBEC (CP) — Kickbacks paid out to Union Nationale party officials and workers totalled $940,952 between 1955 and 1958, a provincial inquiry was told Wednesday before a royal commission investigating purchasing practices under the former provincial government.

Papers and documents produced by the five companies listing amounts in the form of sales commissions represent only part of the sums paid by various companies doing business with the UN government, Gerald Martineau, counsel for the commission, has suggested.

The commission, which sat-down six hearings until Thursday after questioning scores of people witnesses in the mysterious disappearance of Dr. Aurel Abrasyi, a Hungarian journalist believed to have been kidnapped by men in civilian agents.

Abrasyi, a refugee from Hungary, since 1957, disappeared last Thursday after a telephone call from a person who identified a rendezvous in a Vienna villa.

The caller, identified as Gerard Bourque, a Canadian businessman representing Western firms, alleged into Hungary shortly after the call. Detectives, notified by Mrs. Abrasyi that her husband failed to arrive home, found the villa empty. Traces of blood on the furniture and a syringe needle indicated that the journalist had been overpowered in a fight, drugged with an injection and kidnapped.

Green, on acquaintance of the Abrasyi family, was checked by police. Investigators found he had crossed the frontier in his car about an hour after the supposed meeting with Abrasyi.

ORDER NEW TRIAL IN BRIBERY CASE AFTER HUNG JURY

Charge Revolved Around Land Sale

OTTAWA (CP) — The first trial of Anbe Bergeron, charged with corruptly giving money to a member of Parliament, ended Wednesday night with a hung jury.

County Court Judge Peter J. Macdonald ordered a second trial after the jury reported it was unable to agree on a verdict after nearly five hours of deliberation.

Bergeron, 45-year - old Corn. wall service station operator, was charged with corruptly giving $10,000 in 1958 to Raymond Bruneau, then Liberal MP for Glengarry-Prescott.

The case revolved around a sale of land to the federal government.

Judge Macdonald told the jury that the Crown had no indictment against Bergeron "merely because of suspicion, evil feelings and evil intentions" by the person giving the money to him.

Earlier Wednesday, the judge had denied motions by defence counsel R. A. Bertrand, Ottawa for dismissal of the case and for a directed verdict of not guilty.

Argues No Case

Mr. Sorensen argued that the Crown had failed to show that Bergeron paid Bruneau in his official capacity as an MP, or that Bruneau took any action.

Section 1(a) and 1(c) of the Criminal Act and 1(c) of the Corrupt Practices Act, he argued, refer to persons "in connection with the transaction of business with or any matter relating to the government."

"Connection" is a key word, he said, and the Crown has failed to show that Bergeron had any connection with the business of the government.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the conviction of Conservative party treasurer Dana Porter in the Winnipeg election trial "is a matter of serious concern."

Mr. Diefenbaker, meeting reporters before a morning caucus, said he had been told the embassy rejected the protest because it dealt with a domestic Russian matter, the contamination of the world's atmosphere by radioactivity came under the heading of "domestic".

The Canadian note of protest was read to, and examined by, a Soviet embassy officer. He refused to accept it, saying he dealt with a purely domestic Russian matter.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the explosion of nuclear devices poses "a tremendous danger for the world.

"Unscientific is anyone who the word to be used with regard to an action affecting the air over all the nations of the world, in which all countries should have access free of contamination," he added.

The reaction of other countries to Russia's announcement that it plans to let loose the equivalent of 50,000,000 tons of TNT has been one of widespread condemnation, the premier said in answer to questions.

He declined to say what action Canada might take in the United Nations, but said he has a specific resolution might be considered.

Mr. Green, he said, will speak in the UN's debate on nuclear tests Thursday and in that debate would provide an opportunity for Canada to express action on Russia's intention to unleash the big bomb.

Soviet Embassy Will Not Accept Canadian Note

Rejects Test Protest; UN Pressure Builds Up

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's protest against the Soviet plan to explode a 50-megaton nuclear bomb will be taken to the United Nations, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today.

He said External Affairs Minister Green would return to Canada's position, rejected Wednesday by the Soviet embassy here, and action might be taken in the United Nations against Russia.

Mr. Diefenbaker, meeting reporters before a morning caucus, said he had been told the embassy rejected the protest because it dealt with a domestic Russian matter, the contamination of the world's atmosphere by radioactivity came under the heading of "domestic".

LODA Conference Speakers Stress Need of Education

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Canadian Labor Congress President Claude Jodoin and Industry, Trade and Commerce and Development Minister William Hamilton urged Peterborough Wednesday that improved educational standards are an indispensable factor in the Canadian economy.

Speaking before 500 delegates at the annual industrial-municipal conference sponsored by the Ontario Urban Municipalities Association, they stressed the need for improved education for selected immigrants, persons on welfare and those of skilled labor in the Canadian economy.

Mr. Hamilton said the country has long maintained that every Canadian child has the right to free education up to university level. This, he said, should call for new methods and new or enlarged universities.

WARNS OF DANGER

Mr. Jodoin said that the manufacturing industry in Ontario is at a very dangerous point in its history. "Last year alone 60,000 new jobs a year for the next 10 years but this could not be done unless it became more competitive and stopped pricing itself out of the world market.

Mr. Jodoin declared that neither labor nor employers should be saddled with all the blame for rising prices. The blame should be shared by governments. He said that could arise in Canada would want to see living standards of Canadian workers reduced and observed that when the working class is prosperous, all classes benefit.

Mr. Jodoin said labor would continue to press for a comprehensive medical-care plan, portable pensions and other benefits.

Rossmore Child Rides Tricycle In Path of Bus

Denise Parks, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Parks, Rossmore, is in Belleville General Hospital with a fractured left femoral injury, bruises and lacerated arm, suffered when she rode her tricycle in front of a school bus Wednesday morning.

The Rossmore school bus from Consecon had stopped at the Parks' home to pick up three of the Parks' children for transportation to the Massassaga school when the little girl rode her tricycle in front of the bus as it started away.

"I saw her bike going from our front window", Mrs. Parks told The Ontario Intelligencer.

Mrs. Parks said Denise had the habit of going outside to wave to the children as they left for school. Driver of the bus driver, Bill Hanthorne, of Carrying Place, noticed the little girl was too close and got out of the bus to pick her up and put her back on the sidewalk before he started away.

But, unnoticed by the driver, the little girl got back on her tricycle and rode in front of the bus as it started away.

TORONTO STOCKS

Lake Dufault staged a feeble comeback from Wednesday's hefty drop. The small Quebec pest raised Norbec Eight copper producer gained 6 cents to $4.15 on a volume of 31,988 shares.

Whitney-Coughlan, which has followed Dufault's lead for the last month, was unchanged at 17 cents and turned over 29,200 shares.

Industrials were led higher on fractional gains among refining, oils, steels and banks and financial institutions.

On index, industrials rose .53 to 206.13, golds .07 to 88.38, base metals .19 to 202.29 and western oils .37 to 97.10. The 11 a.m. volume was 700,000 shares compared with 896,000 at the same time Wednesday.

The senior base metals list was ahead with Falconbridge, Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting, International Nickel Ventures and Noranda all up in the ¼ to ½ range.

In light western oil trading, Pacific Petroleum rose ½ while Home A and Canadian Devonian both slipped five cents.

Industrials moved ahead but speculative issues lost ground Wednesday.

Lake Dufault led the latter down with a drop of 85 cents to $3.30 on a volume of 238,127 shares. Dufault is the Quebec based Norbec field copper prospect which in weeks ago earned in an assay report that about four per cent copper.

Willsey-Coughlan, which owns property adjacent to Dufault, lost three cents at 17 and turned over 189,200 shares.

Industrials rose on the basis of widespread fractional gains among steels, utilities, refining oils and banks and financial institutions. In steels, Dominion Bridge, Atlas, Page - Hersey and Dominion Steel and Dominion Foundries and Steel all had gains as much as ¾, while Algoma was victim of profit-taking. Labrador, Gunnar, Falconbridge and Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting all lost as much as ½ point.

Gold trading was extremely light and western oil trade was weak and sporadic.

Forestry Club From County Wins Trophy

The Trent-Metro 4-H Forestry Club from Hastings county won the first prize and trophy at the recent annual competitions held at the Agricultural School at Kemptville. There were 14 competing clubs.

Jack White of Roslin and Archie McKee from Harold were individual honors placing first and second among 28 final competitors.

In the same event Barry Blois and Douglas Green of the Denbigh 4-H Forestry Club also placed high on the list with the Denbigh club representing Lennox and Addington county gaining seventh.

The Tweed branch of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests notes there are several 4-H forestry clubs in the Tweed district. In all the clubs there are a number of boys and girls with a surprising knowledge of the woods. Almost all of them display a keen interest in planting trees and in conservation matters and in woodlot improvement work.

Each fall the two top members in each club go to Guelph for examinations and province wide competition.

Korean Child Adopted by Kiwanis Club

Local Kiwanians recently gained a son. They shall probably never be able to speak to him or see him in life but he is their son — a foster son, just the same. The lad is four-year-old Byun Kang Shik of Amercan Air Defence Command sights something on radar screens which gives them cause for concern as planes are "scrambled" for a closer look to prepare for movement toward the enemy. Alerts also are called when the danger of war has intensified and bombers take to the skies periodically as part of air defence.

IS ATOMIC VETERAN

Lapp, 45, is associated with the wartime Manhattan project to develop the first atomic bomb. He later became assistant director of the Argonne National Laboratory at Chicago, government liaison officer between the Atomic Energy Commission and the Americas armed forces on atomic weapons and participated in the 1946 atomic bomb tests at Bikini. That same year he began a four-year stint as scientific consultant to the U.S. defence department on nuclear weapons.

He left Harvard in 1950 to become a consultant physicist in Washington.

Government statements in Ottawa by Prime Minister Diefenbaker, Defence Minister Harkness and former defence minister Pearkes have indicated that such flights have occurred for several years.

The most concise statement on the subject by Mr. Diefenbaker was on March 17, 1950, in the Commons. On subsequent occasions he has referred to what he said then. It was:

"Border air defence and bomber aircraft carrying nuclear weapons over Canada are concerned with the decision to take place only following prior permission from Canada."

These flights are dealt with separately, by specific applications to each flight and not on a blanket authority.

Mr. Diefenbaker also indicated in order to avoid the possibility of accident, and the rules of procedure being followed are unchanged from those which have existed for several years."

AHEAD OF TIMES

Possibilities of the helicopter type of flight were discussed by the versatile Leonardo da Vinci in the 16th century.

plosion. And the radioactivity might be carried to the planet area itself.

This was the case when one of the bombers crashed in North Carolina some years ago. Radioactivity was contained to a small area around the plane.

Dr. Lapp described as alert as an emergency occasion when the headquarters of the North American Air Defence Command sights something on radar screens which gives them cause for concern as planes are "scrambled" for a closer look to prepare for movement toward the enemy. Alerts also are called when the danger of war has intensified and bombers take to the skies periodically as part of air defence.

Police Holding Two Juveniles In Theft Cases

The two boys whose ages are given as 12 and 13 are said to have stolen a car at Cardinal, near the Quebec border and driven it to Trenton where it was abandoned.

Police said the two boys stole a car from the RCAF station in Trenton yesterday and after being picked up by police were released in the Children's Aid Society Home on Moira Street, where they escaped sometime Wednesday night.

Provincial Police Constable I. Tuckess apprehended the boys this morning as they slept in a cottage at Potter's Bayshore camp and cabins, about a quarter mile west of Superior Propane.

It is understood they had stolen a quantity of money and other articles from the gas company Monday night.

Their names are being withheld.

C of C Called Grass Roots Bulwark Against 'State-ism'

TRENTON — "The Chamber of Commerce is a grass roots bulwark against 'state-ism' in all its ramifications." This statement was made yesterday by E. T. Atherton, manager of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce, speaking to more than 100 Trenton citizens at a meeting of the Trenton Country Club. He said that Ontario government looked upon the chamber as a non-partisan group which reflected the thinking of businessmen and women throughout the province.

Mr. Atherton said that in order to maintain a healthy atmosphere in any community, businessmen and professional men, heads of municipal government and heads of industry must work together in harmony and that a chamber of commerce could bring about co-operation between these various groups.

"One cold, hard fact remains," said the speaker. "Any chamber has as much influence as the interest of the community want it to have. There must be a collective, voluntary effort to put the chamber across in your community. It is only that result can be accomplished by co-operative effort that by individual action a chamber can promote the general welfare of the community."

Mr. Atherton said that the retail group of the community benefited more than any other group from chamber activities but that industry should also be interested in the chamber because the well-being of any industry is a direct reference on the progress of industry.

VARIED INTERESTS

Mr. Atherton said that the 250 chambers across the province were vitally interested in the education of Ontario's children, highway programs, conservation of natural resources in the province and, in fact, in everything affecting the well-being of Ontario residents.

He said that the Ontario chamber had a very great interest in the Trent-Severn Waterway and that a standing committee had been appointed to deal with the development of the waterway.

Mr. Atherton became interested in chamber activities following a 27-year-career with the RCAF and later with the RCAF. He served as chief administrative officer at the RCAF Station, Trenton, for a year.

Mayor James Macnaab welcomed the distinguished visitors to the dinner. He said that Trenton needed a chamber of commerce to assist town council in "put the town on the map".

'FORGOTTEN TOWN'

"Other towns along the line have had attention from both the provincial and federal governments" said the mayor. "Trenton is the forgotten town. The chamber can help us attain what we're after from both governments. If you want to get ahead, join the chamber".

Guests were also welcomed by Harold Pearce, president of the Trenton chamber. Mr. Pearce outlined the accomplishments and future plans of the chamber stating that in a recent membership campaign, 35 new members had been added to the chamber's membership list. Mr. Pearce urged his listeners to get out and all the chamber in order to make Trenton "the best town in Canada".

Head table guests included Group Captain C. R. Thompson, Commanding Officer at No. 6 Repair Depot. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lychine, Mr. and Mrs. Donald McPherson, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Kroexe, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Linton, and Mrs. D. J. MacDonald.

Three Burglaries Occur at Brighton

TRENTON — RCMP cyclic at Brighton report that they are continuing investigation into three break-ins in the village Monday night. Entry in each case was gained by breaking windows.

Short Council Session Held

DESERONTO — Town council held a brief session at their regular meeting on Monday night in the town hall.

Two by-laws were passed, one set the election date for the town of Deseronto for December 4th and the nominations will be held on November 24th. The polling booths will be at William Woods' in the east end, the town hall for Centre Ward, and at Mrs. Irene Gartland's and Franklin Tinnary's for the west end.

The mayor reported that test will be made of the water in the vicinity of Foresters' Island to see if it would be better for town use than that at the eastern end of the bay.

The Public Utilities advised council that they were ordering a new modern pressure control system for the town water supply so that there should be no recurrence of the low water of which council complained at their last meeting.

The Library Board advised council that some repairs were needed to the floor of the library. The matter was referred to the property committee for their action.

Councillor Howard reported that a new heating system was needed for the town hall and the matter was left in his hands to investigate and report at the next meeting. It seems that the oil stove now used to heat the cells is in very bad shape and not in a condition to be used.

One other by-law was passed to issue a deed for a small parcel of land to A. E. Burley.

Communist Editorials Reprinted

The Vancouver Sun.

Opposite the editorial page, the Sun presents a page which alternates between book reviews and the reproduction of editorials from other newspapers. Editorials reprinted often include those from communist newspapers, as well as frequent editorials or articles from such left-wing publications as the New Republic or the New Statesman.

Little trace of radicalism can be found on the Sun's own editorial page. It is by no means wishy-washy in its editorial policies—indeed it generally has a hard-hitting, fighting policy—but its favorite targets are Premier W. A. C. Bennett's Social Credit Government of British Columbia and the publicly-owned Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and Trans-Canada Airlines.

Politically the Sun favors the Liberals, but liberalism is not an adequate or accurate description of the philosophy of the page opposite the editorial page. Some of the printed editorials are liberal in their viewpoint, but others, like those from the communist papers, are much further to the left. The Sun also sometimes republishes extreme right-wing articles. If there is method behind the Sun's madness, it appears to be to present viewpoints which the average Vancouver citizen is unlikely to read in other periodicals he customarily buys.

Could it be that the high percentage of English-born residents in British Columbia, and the retention of certain British attitudes—another favorite target of the Sun—through the talented pencil of its noted cartoonist Len Norris—is a partial explanation of this apparent determination to present all sides of controversial questions?

Must Encourage Employment

Walter L. Gordon, economics adviser to Liberal leader Lester B. Pearson, has suggested easing some taxes to stimulate industry. Basically the aim would be to increase employment. Mr. Gordon suggests lower tax rates for new or increased export business or for locating establishments in depressed areas.

Another field in which lower taxation might be considered would be in industries in which there is a high level of employees, in relationship to the value of the factory's output.

It has been fashionable to applaud the present trend towards automation as just another phase of the reliance on the machine which has released man from drudgery and poverty. However, experts are now warning that this is a dangerous over-simplification. While, in the past, the use of more and more machinery has produced a demand for manpower which more than offset the number of employees these machines have replaced, modern automatic machines are doing the work of so many men that a continuation of this trend cannot reasonably be expected. In other words, as in the fields where so many factories were idle, we are once again facing a situation in which our ability to produce is not matched by our ability to distribute the goods produced.

Other things being equal, preference ought to be given, for some time at least, to those industries which do the most to aid in the distribution of goods, by paying out a large share of their production costs for labor. There will be instances where such a policy would not be feasible—industries in which only the use of automatic machinery will make it possible to compete with goods produced by cheap foreign labor. But in other instances even minor tax concessions might retard the replacement of men by machines, giving us a badly-needed breathing space in which to adjust our economy to the new age of automation.

Science and the Past

The past is worthy of respect: it represents the best that able minds could achieve. But because we have the advantage of their labors, we ought to be able to go further and do better.

We may add to the structure; we may remodel it here and there; inevitably we must change it. But to suggest that we throw it away is not merely wasteful but absurd. Science is never static, but, contrary to general belief, it is never revolutionary. Inevitably and always it is evolutionary. I wish society were equally balanced in its attitude to past and future.—Michael Swann, Professor of Natural History at Edinburgh University.

Strictly Personal

Sydney's New Translation of Golden Rule

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices:

All of us, in private life, golden rule, but what most of us really practice is the gold-plated rule: "Do unto others what you think they would like to do unto you if they had the chance."

The real test of character is not so much being able to keep a secret as it is when the secret is finally out, to refrain from the statement that you knew it all along.

The chief difference between infatuation and love is that the former is built on a myth and cannot survive the disappointments of reality, whereas the latter changes and develops to accomodate itself to the inevitable disappointments of the morning after.

There is something condescending and unemployed toward the public in the fact that stores persist in offering nevertheless at 59.95 or 98.50, instead of at round numbers such as 60 or 100. It is as though really want to be helpful, why not offer merchandise at a sum that, when sales tax is added to it, will make a round number, thus relieving us of tedious transactions with small change?

My fondest quote of the summer came from the Speech of the House of Lords, when the question of Commonwealth Chatterley's Lover" came up. Said she: "I wouldn't object to my wife reading it. I wouldn't even object to my children reading it. But I certainly wouldn't want my game-keeper to read it."

Another snicker in the world is caused by busy fools than by scoundrels.

Nothing is so infuriating as the calmness of an adversary during an argument.

All children have a natural appetite for learning, and an instinctive reverence to being taught; and this paradox is what makes teaching so fascinating and frustrating a profession.

A man who censures himself before others is really, in an oblique way, praising himself for his self-honesty.

The conditions of passions may be, as Spinoza argued suggested, the only reliable ones for the human race, but most people act on the premises of passions, not on their conclusions.

Those who pride themselves for being able to perceive precisely people eventually get to the point where they don't see the people at all, and take the vices and inadequacies for the whole personality.

Ears Do Not Work Alike

Detroit Free Press

English educators have trapped an unwary group of five-year-olds and are teaching them a spelling system which supposedly is perfectly phonetic: the sound of the spoken word.

What's pot explained is how one decides that a word sounds like. Ears don't all register alike, and hence sounds don't all come out of mouths alike.

For instance outlanders insist that Americans who visit Britain say draw when they mean drawer. A discussion of the subject will be reported in a court for the County of Hastings.

"Why do you people say draw when you mean drawer?"

"But we do say draw!"

"Yeh, draw. But the word is drawer!"

"So what did I say? Draw didn't I? How do you saw it?"

"Drawer!"

"That's just what I said — draw."

Or, as the saying goes, who's on first? We're altogether too busy to set up an expedition to rescue those English lots, but somebody certainly should.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

GIVING ONESELF

Many people, when they read in the pages of a large gift to charity, or of the efforts to raise funds for a good cause, say to themselves, "That's all very well, but I don't have any extra money, so how can I help others?" And probably that ends their charitable responses. However, there are at least a few people who would really like to give to others, but lack money. Here are some ways to give.

First, give blood to your local blood bank. In most communities, the Red Cross or the local hospital has regular times for donating blood. Blood is urgently needed now and for those who need it, nothing else will do. Most healthy people can give blood three or four times a year without any ill effects whatsoever.

Second, perform some regular duty in your church — ushering, teaching, caring for children — if does not matter what, if it is work that is needed. Do the job well.

Third, take part in some or like helping with a boys' or girls' club, working for (not just going to meetings) the PTA, or being active in a civic better. ment group.

Fourth, pay frequent kind attention to someone in your neighborhood who needs a friend.

If you perform these services faithfully, you will be one of the happiest givers in your community. . .

New Weapon for Police

United Kingdom Information Service

A bloodstain the size of a pinhead may be enough to convict a murder. It may also prove his innocence.

The new development, which will be tried out in crime laboratories in the United States and Canada in coming months, could help to decide the fate of a man's life.

It could also mean, for example, that a murderer with a speck of blood on his clothes of the same group as the victim may not be convicted on the weight of the evidence. Alternatively, it could show that the murderer is not in partnership with the crime and, perhaps, eliminate a suspect from the inquiries.

Two British researchers, Dr. Barbara Dodd, lecturer in Forensic Medicine at the London Hospital Medical College, and Dr. Robin A. Coombs, Cambridge biologist at the Department of Pathology, University of Cambridge, have published the results of their findings for examination by the study . . .

The basis of a grouping test on fresh blood is the agglutination, or sticking together, of red blood cells by a specific anti-serum." In a bloodstain these cells are left to break up and damaged and can no longer be used in the agglutination or grouping test. The standard method of examining bloodstains is a chemical process requiring a substantial stain.

In the new test a speck of blood will do. Minute fibres of stained cloth are teased out, sensitised with the anti-serum and observed either to attract, or not, the fresh individual red cells from the laboratory.

Dr. Dodd describes the new method as "a very elegant technique, which works extremely prettily." She does not expect it necessarily to replace the standard method, effective with most stains, but values it as an additional weapon in the armory of crime laboratory technique. "Forensic scientists are always looking for more sensitive ways of testing smaller and still smaller stains that come to them for examination," she says. "And this will be a measure of their success is the extent to which they may help to remove doubt in conviction cases. We are hopeful this may make some small contribution."

Top British crime experts are most enthusiastic. Dr. Francis E. Camps, the Home Office pathologist who has figured in many famous murder trials, believes that it will be a great aid to detection.

Scotland Yard is submitting the method to its own exhaustive tests. One forensic expert there says that it offers "great opportunities" in murder or assault cases.

It has already been employed on one British murder case — unofficially. Dr. Dodd obtained the blood of a man convicted of murdering a friend. In an attempt to remove bloodstains the trousers had been washed in a detergent, but the dark grey man with the pinstripe still left below the knee. Fibres were teased out under the microscope and the blood was found to be identical with that of the victim.

Dr. Dodd will continue with the development. Her immediate aim is improving the technique with special application to old bloodstains. With this in mind, she is now embarking on an experiment of preserving blood in which she hopes to get a bloodstained scraping from the ear. Scientists in the Home Office Forensic Laboratory at Lyver of London — which goes back to the 19th century. Using either method, would-be murderers everywhere had better look out.

Golf Course Gets Subsidy

Niagara Falls Review

Golf, it has been said, is Scotland's gift to the world. An old saw and story has it that in the years of a caddy at St. Andrews named Lang Willie, who was teaching a wealthy patron the university the rudiments of the noble game. The professor was not a promising pupil, despite the exasperation of the patient Willie. Finally, at the end of Willie's patience pawned out, he expressed himself thus: "Ah see Professor, as long as ye are learning Greek at the College Latin and Greek it is easy work, but when ye come to play golf ye have nae a beid."

Maybe it does take a head to master the intricacies of the game, but there is an American down in Florida, a man who is going his head to help the finances of his golf course by government expense. It seems that the Blair golf course has taken fourteen years to get roots and milk production and turned a profit. That qualifies it for a Government subsidy under the United States feed grain program. It has received an advance payment of $235.99 was received by the club treasurer. It is expected that a slightly larger and final payment will be forthcoming. The club qualified for the payment since it converted into fairways former land that had been used to produce feed-grain, by seeding it to blue grass and white clover.

It would do the heart of the Scot good, who took the game from the game of golf, to learn that an American club legally made, and the money came at the same time from the Government. However easier it may be for the golfer to hunt for sliced and hooked balls in clover instead amongst corn, it does seem rough on the taxpayer to have to subsidize a golf course that is not producing feed grain.

To Your Good Health

Do Not Worry About Floaters In the Eye

By Joseph G. Meisner, M.D.

I frequently receive letters asking about "vitreous floaters" in the eye — those little spots that seem to drift around in the field of vision.

Not exactly black spots, not exactly blank spots, but just tiny spots. They don't hurt. They don't itch. From the standpoint of feeling, they might as well not be there.

And from the standpoint of vision, they don't make much either. They're just tiny little spots, often just a single one, and that's all. They aren't big enough to interfere with seeing things, or even reading.

All the same, we wonder what they are, and whether they'll get worse, and whether they are a sign that we are going blind which we may not see for that wider area is impaired. (It won't.)

Take today's letter on the subject:

"Dear Doctor: Please advise if there is any cure for a 'vitreous floaters' in the eye.

"All the leading specialists of the Middle West say there is no remedy . . . so I'm told.

People who have this trouble for it's really nothing more than trouble — usually do a certain amount of logical experimenting, such as blinking the eyes, shifting them suddenly from side to side to see whether the spot or spots seem to move, or trying to focus the eyes on something to one side of the spots etc.

The deceitful little spots seem to have a habit of staying in the same position, more or less, despite how much they bounce.

Sometimes they disappear.

Sometimes we get interested in whatever we are looking at, and forget all about them. Until we happen to notice them again. Ah, well, that's us! That's people!

These "floaters" are changes which occur in the vitreous (liquid interior) portion of the eye as we grow older. That is, they may or they may not.

They are a nuisance if you worry about them; otherwise they don't amount to a hill of beans.

There's one exception to what I've said: Occasionally — which means not very often — the floaters may be related to some inflammation in the eye, in which case treatment is necessary.

But if that's the situation, then there will be some indication other than just the floaters, to indicate that the eye is inflamed.

An old wives' tale. Next year try it and see. But don't try to convince your relatives. Just convince yourself, and leave them with their fairy belief. You can't change 'em. You'd just make 'em mad.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THOSE WHO DARE

There is always someone seeking ahead looking over the ground and planning something unusual and far reaching.

Call such a one pioneer, leader, man of vision, the name doesn't matter. The marvelous thing is that it is that such a man is able to get others, great masses, to follow him and do with him the impossible.

It is easy to do a difficult task as long as it is carefully planned out in the first place.

Most of us are good dreamers but the daring man with the daring mind who goes ahead and writes his thoughts into realities is really the great man in human life.

No matter where you look, you will see the results of one man's daring and faith

It is not to do an unusual thing, do something that you have never done before — something that you would like to do, and then be the boy who did it.

Daring does are those who take responsibility and then ride right along with it, without a word of complaint.

It's a good thing to decide to do something that seems far beyond your ability or power to achieve.

Interest keeps us live and full of desire and curiosity. Our incentive as a mother might warn her baby with evil presents incentive is impossible without interest. And interest is what keeps us strong and unafraid.

Dare! You will surprise yourself. After all, this is a what raises one man or woman above another—daring into new fields.

REJECTS

United Nations General Assembly's special political committee as pressure grew in the UN for a move aimed at heading off Russia's plan to explode history's biggest bomb blast.

Tsarapkin, bitterly critical of the Canadian resolution which is sponsored by 36 other countries, said the Soviet Union was forced to resume nuclear tests because of what he claimed were Western preparations for war.

Although Soviet Premier Khrushchev said the Russian tests would end at the close of this month, Tsarapkin seemed to indicate further tests in the future by saying that such tests cannot be abandoned by Russia until the Western powers agree to general and complete disarmament.

The Soviet spokesman repeatedly charged that Canada's initiative on radiation was politically inspired against the Soviet Union under the guise of scientific effort.

He is as is the main struggle over nuclear tests continued today in the assembly's 101 - member special political committee, where the Soviet Union suffered procedural defeats Wednesday night over the order in which debate should be conducted.

On the scientific front, Canada was leading a campaign in another 101-member committee — the special political — for a world - wide investigation of atomic radiation resulting from nuclear and other causes.

The Canadian resolution is co-sponsored by 34 other countries.

Although it emphasizes the committee was political and in the other scientific, speaking in both chambers, referred Wednesday to Soviet Premier Khrushchev's statement that the intention to explode a bomb equal to 50 million tons of TNT.

External Affairs Minister Howard Green of Canada, who came to UN headquarters in New York Wednesday night, said his attitude, speaking to the radiation resolution, now hearing a vote.

In the meantime, "we are considering the burning of the regard to the 30-megaton test," Green told a reporter. The Soviet embassy in Ottawa Wednesday rejected a CanaDian protest about the bomb on the ground it was a domestic matter.

The United States has appealed to Russia not to explode the bomb and Sweden urged the against 36 Wednesday during debate on the Canadian radiation proposal. Green indicated before leaving Ottawa his government was blocked out efforts forward a UN resolution asking Russia not to carry out its plan.

Japan, meanwhile, was reported to consider cost support for "marrying" two nuclear propose ale now before the political committee. These are an Indian resolution for a revival of the moratorium on bomb tests, without any reference to control, and an Anglo - American draft treaty calling for the prohibition of tests under effective international control.

Some diplomats said that if a way could be found of merging the two, the committee could act with comparative speed. This would bring pressure on Russia to cancel its plan to explode the bomb at the end of October.

In a complicated series of votes, the committee Wednesday night overrode opposition by the Soviet Union and India to a simultaneous consideration of the two proposals. With Canada as one of the sponsors of simultaneous debate, the measure passed 54 to 33 with 31 abstentions. Also - Asian countries accounting for most of the abstentions.

The Soviet Union has been urging that the nuclear question be merged in overall debate of general and complete disarmament but did not press for a vote, apparently conceding it would not get a majority in the committee which has been bogged down in a procedural tangle for days.

The meeting was opened by the president, Mr. C. S. Hyde, with the National Anthem and the club theme song, with Mrs. Shirley at the piano. GAS KILLS BROTHERS

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Carbon monoxide seeping from a faulty furnace pipe was blamed for the deaths Wednesday of three elderly bachelor brothers whose bodies were found in their home. OSD Junior, Senior Schools Receive Plaques for Safety

Yesterday a double presentation took place at the Ontario School for the Deaf. Both the junior and senior schools received plaques from the local Kiwanis Club in recognition of the students' having had no accident-free year and for their observance of proper safety rules during the 1960 to 1961 operating period.

Over 500 students are involved in the Elmer Safety program at the OSD, which, incidently is the first school for the deaf in North America to take part in this program. A program is quite active throughout the public school system and proper safety practices are promoted locally through the Kiwanis Club and the safety division of the Belleville City Police, represented by Sgt. Ralph Blatchford.

The OSD students, however, differ from those at other schools due to the fact that their safe conduct and behavior is marked on a 365-day year basis rather than the regular 10-month year which regular public schools operate under. Hence their achievement requires a bit more effort.

The ceremony in the junior school took place first with Leo McKee of the Kiwanis Club making the presentation to student Robert Cundy. Sgt. Blatchford complimented the pupils on their fine effort and urged them to keep up the good record they had started.

At the senior school student Jean Shaw received its plaque from Kiwanian John Trafford. In their congratulations from Mayor A. McLean Haig and Sgt. Blatchford, both who also complimented the senior school students on having set a good example for the junior school. It was explained that for each additional accident-free year a bar would be presented to be added to the plaque.

Mr. Don Kennedy, vice principal of the OSD, was also present for the presentations and introduced the visitors.

Quinte Figure Skating Division Plans Bigger and Better Season

For many years now the figure-skating section of the Quinte Skating and Tennis Club has been doing a yeoman community service in the instruction of young and not-so young residents of the city and district.

For many seasons it struggled against weather and other hazards on its natural ice open-air rink on Coleman St. At that it achieved a large modicum of success.

Five years ago it made arrangements with the Memorial Centre Board of Directors to instal refrigeration, skating sessions and the production of its ice, and enabled the club to hold definite time schedules.

Dr. W. B. Beattie, the 1961-62 president of the club, has announced that the skating season opens in Memorial Arena on Monday, Oct. 23.

Skating sessions will be held each Monday, Thursday and Saturday (even 4.30 to 7.45 p.m.

The club professionals this season will be the popular Paul Tatton, who was the senior pro last season. Mr. Tatton hails from North Bay, but now makes his residence in this city. The junior professional is Mrs. Bonny Boundy of Port Hope, an accomplished skater and "dancer."

Dr. Beattie says the club will inaugurate a free system of instruction this year.

NEW SYSTEM DEVISED

It is known as the "Star-Test" system in which preliminary skaters are grouped according to their ability, and are taught in groups. figure and free-skating.

"Star" says Dr. Beattie, "allows children to progress at their own rate of proficiency and advance from one star group to the next. This allows for instruction for even the youngest skaters."

The club under this year is sponsoring a pre-school skating program with sessions, initially scheduled for Tuesday afternoons. This program is slated to start on October 31.

The pre-school skating sessions will be under the supervision of Mr. Tatton, who will give group instruction to the children.

Plans for the club's annual ice spectacular are in the process of formation. The event is slated to be held some time during the latter part of March. It is also said that for the first the club has planned a party for members at Memorial Arena Saturday afternoon from two to four p.m.

Mr. Allan continued his speech by saying he could not offer the province any hope of lower taxes or increased social benefits in the years ahead.

Energy Resources Min later Robert Macaulay, in a fighting speech to 250 convention delegates from his Metropolitan Toronto area, accused rumormongers of passing along stories that he isn't "keen on" the job and would run the government alone.

He said another rumor had it he would resign if he didn't get the leadership. "I say how desperate can you get?"

In a file at Tolley candidates who have been publishing lists of prominent cabinet ministers supporting them, he said:

"I would only say this to those who are publishing lists of Indian chiefs: you have the chiefs, but I have the Indians."

Another "chiefs" during the day added his name to those supporting Mr. Roberts. Transport Minister Rowntree became the sixth cabinet colleague to announce support of the education minister's candidacy. Four others have pledged support to Provincial Treasurer Allan, and one has declared himself in the Macaulay camp.

However, Mr. Rowntree said delegates to the Oct. 28-29 leadership convention from his home riding of York West appear prepared to split their votes among Mr. Roberts, Attorney-General Roberts and Mr. Macaulay, Mr. Rowntree's colleagues.

Mr. Robarts's other five cabinet supporters are Municipal Affairs Minister Warrender, Lands and Forests Minister Nickle, Agriculture Minister Goodfellow and ministers without portfolio Allan Grossman and W. A. Stewart.

Provincial Treasurer Allan ranks second in cabinet support, with Highways Minister Case, Public Works Minister Connell, Treasury Board President Yaremko and minister without portfolio John Root favoring his candidature.

Lands and Forests Minister Spooner has announced his support of Mr. Macaulay, leaving only three in the cabinet — Revenue and Publicity Minister Cathcart, Welfare Minister Cecile and Labor Minister Dayer—who haven't announced their preference.

The other cabinet members—Reuben Raitt Indians Minister Whitney and Health Minister Dymond — are both candidates for the leadership, to be left vacant by the retirement of Premier Frost.

"The explosion of such a diabolical device would be a brutal and callous offence against humanity for which there can be no justifiable excuse, either in terms of defence or of simple common sense."

Mr. Diefenbaker said the Soviet Union is "violating a solemn undertaking against further testing of nuclear weapons and "now threatens to take a course that will be detrimental to all mankind."

Earlier, Liberal Leader Lester Pearson, former external affairs minister and Nobel Prize winner, said "world opinion should be mobilized at once" to condemn the Russian plan.

He said External Affairs Minister Green should take an immediate initiative to have the best condemned by the UN, Mr. Green left for the UN Wednesday night.

SHOULD CONDEMN

"If the United Nations can so quickly pass a resolution censoring the speech of the South African delegate, it should be able to get at least as big a resolution condemning the-present test of the U.S.S.R. and abandoning the feeling of ill will that it should not take place.

Commenting later, Mr. Diefenbaker said that would be "the normal course to follow" and the government already had considered it.

Mr. Diefenbaker said it is beyond comprehension why Russia would decide to explode a bomb of that size.

"I can't imagine anything more devilish than the testing of such an instrument."

At home Mary, wife, devotes a great deal of her attention to him. She complains loudly, finds fault, shouts at him and criticizes: his salary is too low, his middle is sagging, his pate is balding! And what is Henry — loving Henry's reaction? He — young at heart — commands, runs to do her bidding. His pay never been soggy with her; he's happy to be her loving, adoring husband. How come? How come Henry can take all this, and still come back for more? To answer the question you have to know something about Henry. —

At work: here, he's chief clerk in a large office. But he's not the typical pushy chief clerk. Not the slightest trace escapes his petulant and sarcastic notice. He's really not as big as he'd like to think he is — he seems bire or fire — and so he commands, he's loving, bounding all within his reach. The big boss: a smile, the office people have promised they will declare a special holiday and he'll be kicking it. But that day has to be careful for obvious reasons: loving, adoring, husband Henry, responsible to all of his demanding clients at the office. And Mary hasn't yet liberated him. So Henry — loving Henry — bows, salaams and smiles at home; in the office he metamorphs in the inner sanctum.

Henry passes on his misery to the nearest hapless victim. His need to dominate his underlings is but a mask for his own fears and insecurities. His basic personal frustrations he takes out on unsuspecting, helpless inferiors. Henry is revered at home for the office he will hardly! He must pick on someone he can fight, and he sure is not the somewhat smaller, less powerful than he.

Now Henry has no boulangerie, no insignificant, unimportant man. He's religious! He and poet to church faithfully every big dues. He's civic-minded — and helps support a number of worthwhile community projects. He's educated — reads all the bestsellers and can quote all the latest reviews. He's neighborly — and sends cards with quotes and is real friendly towards his church.

But Henry needs to have some people and exploit others because Henry feels hated and exploited. Yet, he must be careful to choose his victims — he can't just be hated — he's got anybody — only those who can't fight back and beat him. He needs to insure his fallible ego against further damage by dialling his right horse — dead beats, those who can't hide him in the herd.

Yes, Henry is one of those many "ain't's" in the South who is anti-Negro; but Henry, he may be anti-Jew, anti-Catholic, anti-Protestant, anti-anybody!

But you've written your editorial. You know what Henry really is — he's anti-Henry. His really hates himself: for being so frustrated and so weak. What's cooking at home, poor Henry? — never let on at the office.

Should we, too, hate Henry? No — help Henry! Help him, by showing him his real enemy — himself by teaching him how to clean up his own home, before he sets the office and the world on fire.

Jewish Ladies' Anx. Sponsors Charming 'Cruise' Tea, Bazaar

Cruising with the many "ports of call" were the many attractive booths at the Bazaar and Tea sponsored by the Ladies' Auxiliary of Temple Emanuel, under the auspices of the Council of Jewish Women, over a delightful and serene afternoon. The weather, to be sure, was all that was needed for any cruise, but the balmy breezes, cloudless skies and sunshine were perfect.

At the door, outside, a map of the world, decorated by a captain's wheel, gave the feeling that one was to indeed, prepared the visitor with the mood for what was to be found inside. Here, in the first booth, was a collection of paintings, watercolors, oils; during the afternoon, the artist, Mrs. Rosenstreet, was present with her many lessons and was inspiring many a budding artist. Nearby, a street scene in New York gave a relief, and one viewing it could almost hear the roar of the furnaces, and on Sunday afternoon, this painting of a Jewish scene was particularly appealing.

Nautical Archway

Through the open portals could be seen a nautical arch-way embellished with marine emblems cages and contained by a fish net. On either side and the white ribbon flag of Israel with the Star of David, on the other. Through this was a glimpse of the colorful booths, the refreshing a street cafeteria with little tables covered with red and white checkered cloths, with green vase pots bottles holding short tall tapers. Other small tables sported green and white sun parasols.

The serving tea table, with its deep russet-rose cloth was centered by a lovely arrangement of white and green flowers, gladiolus flanked by tall heavily candled silver candelabra with green vase pots bottles holding short tall tapers. Other small tables sported green and white sun parasols.

Around the three sides of the spacious auditorium were the various booths, each one a picture in its arrangement. That of the homemade wares, which extended across the entire west end, was enjoyable in the perfection of the many articles displayed. The bounteous in number. Here, too, was the collection of aprons, of all colors and tall white candles made a pretty focal point.

Among the dainties were plain and yellow-iced angel cakes; chocolate nut cakes; cherry tarts; fruit tarts; coffee rolls; pumpkin chiffon cakes; tiny cream puffs; lemon meringue pies; nut-topped; banana meringue pies; cocoanut cream pies; cheese cake; date squares; date and nut bread; marble cakes; jams and jellies, T.V. snacks and baskets of red Macintosh apples.

White Elephant

The sewing materials included: sewing baskets; scissors in all sizes; and silk-over styles; in bonnet, petals. One especially pretty apron was in the all-over style and made from red and white checks with two rectangles in black and red, with ties and band and pocket edged with yellow pink; others were in green, orange and pink. Some of the aprons were in the style selection of remnants in pretty prints and of several kinds of goods, all most reasonably priced.

Handicrafters' Samples

On the manufacturers' samples table there were pretty tall candles in all sizes; in all colors; molds; scarves; some with black and white and red; tapestries; table cloths with attractive; blouses, skirts; and a pretty red. Another was a heaped-up hamper of fancy chopped Manhattan spuds.

The guests were received by the president of the Auxiliary, and convener of the tea, Mrs. G. C. Ross and her co-convener, Mrs. Bob Cohen, who was sitting at the receipt of cutlery, Mrs. Ross, in the chair.

Plenty

It was announced that the Provincial President-Elect was Mrs. Margaret Ashdown, and that the vice-president for the Eastern District was Mrs. Joan Wilson, both of whom had been favored by Belleville club.

Of particular interest to the local club was the election of Mrs. Dorothy Brown, local member, to honorary membership of the Provincial Federation. Sincere congratulations of the club were extended to Dorothy.

There are now 81 clubs in the Ontario Federation of which were represented at the conference. Guest speakers at the conference were Miss Vera McLean, president of the National Federation, who spoke on Saturday evening and Miss Quast and Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, Minister of Immigration, who spoke at the Sunday luncheon.

The conference next year will be held at Windsor and the convention will be run by Oshawa club.

The thanks of the club for an interesting week-end was conveyed to president Irene by Florence Fitzgerald.

The Family Council

Albert V. — We can find things to interest her at home.

Marcella V. — My husband is in the insurance business and the main part of his work is interviewing prospects at home. He does this in the evening when he can explain the policies to a man and his wife at the same time.

This means that I must spend my evenings alone at home or, once in a while, at the movies with a neighbor. I must turn down dinner invitations, bridge games, parties and dances which are planned on a "couples" basis. Nobody wants a lone woman there.

Tired of my refusals, one of our close friends has asked me to come to her party alone. She has invited Albert, too, but not home. At dessert just the idea.

Albert V. — A married woman out alone on the town isn't an attractive proposition. I'm all right at matinees and tea parties. But my crowd is a very close group. Friends are Mrs. Marcella is no wet blanket at the get-together. At least with me around. I'm sure I would remember she's got two children? It would be a new experience for me.

When I can't go with her, staying home is part of the deal. It would be nice to think there are stacks on a housefrau, in a husband's life. Especially when they can never see another living soul day or night.

Marcella can make this small sacrifice for our livelihood. We do manage a night out once in a while, even so.

The Council — Well, on thing Marcella can rejoice over is that she's not the head of the Midnight Sun where it's evening for months at a stretch! On the contrary, she's not even a participating member. Paramount is the need for Marcella to impress her husband with the appreciation of how hard he is working, all through the day and evening too. This would involve being at home to receive him, to listen to accounts of — well, how about preparing a post Xmas party for the office staff? Once Albert is assured that she's really in there pitching with him, he may be more receptive to easing her sense of isolation.

This can be achieved in several ways. First, Marcella can cultivate a taste for some of the things that Albert likes to do, and one or two members of the family want to get a head start on her own evening activities. Second, she can plan her own evening activities and go to them alone. Third, she can arrange a party invite several, that way, she is not dependent on the night Albert happens to be free. Fourth, she can stop worrying that he'll meet her there after. After about 10 P. M. the night will begin to fall, won't they? That's when they'll be home. Fifth, she can plan an improvement over Albert's double-entendre handling of Marcella's evening out. He's bound to say, "If I can't have me, she can't have you." Why not answer each in doing whether he's at a restaurant with a customer or at home with Mrs. Wrage party — it's with the client's understanding and sympathy.

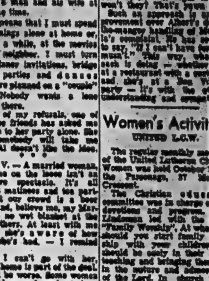
Women's Activities

United L.O.W.

The regular monthly meeting of the United Lutheran Church Women was held on Oct. 3, at the Parsonage, 37 Malvern Crescent.

The Christian education committee was in charge of the devotional period. Mrs. Jacklaman led with the text "Family Worship". At what age should we start to worship with your children? It should be from the first. Teaching and bringing them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. Then there are sermons and hymns and a church to help one worship but the home is the place for prayer one's duty to God.

Each family should be when the family is together, maybe after the evening meal or at bedtime, prayer and meditation and closing with a hymn.



The president welcomed Mrs. Simpson to the meeting.

A most interesting year is planned in the way of devotional and study programs as laid by Mrs. Lindeman, Christian education committee chairman.

Mrs. Wodzak, Christian service committee convener reported the Christmas basket planned for this season, a tea or which Marcella is behaving depressingly whether he's around or not! In other words, what's the "right" thing to do in the part and what's right for this pair in particular?

DRY CLEANING SHIRT LAUNDERING BY Woodland

Tan-Flattering Lemon Yellow Theme of Show at Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadians vacationing this winter in the south should be, if one Montreal collection is any indication, at least as colorful as their sun-soaked surroundings.

Tan-flattering lemon yellow was the theme of the Jussi Inc. show held at a downtown hotel. There were also other shades of yellow as well as orange and pink, lime and many blue-green combinations.

Prints include big flower patterns splashed on dark backgrounds, modern mosaics and abstracts, pin stripes, candy stripes and wide, graduating horizontal stripes, and a few polkadots.

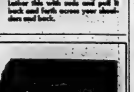
It was a collection designed by Vali with youth in mind. Waistlines were natural and bodices—many of them strapless — followed body contours. Easy-walking skirts had the A-line flare. Most of the gathered skirts were wrap-around with side fastening.

One interesting detail was that many of the bathing suits had short semi - pleated skirts. Another was that some of the suits were shown with knee-length skirts that converted, practically at the flick of a wrist, into capes.

LITTLE SLEEVE SHOWN

Some of the other features were scarfed necklines, decollette backs, piping, appliques, contrasting borders, discreet fringing, cummerbunds and bow-tie belts.

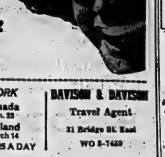
Most of the numbers that were not sleeveless had cap sleeves or short sleeves, such as the two or three shirtwaist variations.



But one of the white, Spanish-influenced blouses had frilled three-quarter sleeves. Another, called the Cuban Workmen's shirt, had long sleeves. It also had four pockets at the front and a narrow panel running up the back.

An Oriental influence was shown in the arnel sharkskin collection by the curved slit sides of an extra-long pop-over and a sleek front-buttoned coolie jacket.

Other fabrics used in the collection included silk and drip-dry cotton, much of which had the appearance of silk.



Silk chiffon was used for a number of evening dresses including one in an orange-green print with a floating scarf tie. Another, predominately black against a black background, had an attached hood.

Successful Living

In-Laws Live in Hate?

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—(I hope) we when I read about mothers-in-law who have trouble with their daughters-by-marriage.

I visited your area and all my daughters-in-law are just as good friends as my sons are to me. They even come to see me when they are worried about something their husbands are doing and we work it out together.

For instance, my daughter-in-law Theresa was worried about her husband spending more and more time at the golf club. My advice was to get a few lessons in golf. She did. He was dumbfounded the first day he met her on the course, but very soon they were golfing together and enjoying one another in an entirely different way.

When they have their babies, I'm the one they call for. Mind you, I have refused to live with any of them, and I even have my little apartment in a different town from any of them. Then when I come visiting, it's a celebration.

It's a great pity for so many in-laws to live in hate, when there is so much love needed in this old world.—MOTHER LEHENE.

DEAR MOTHER LEHENE:—What a philosopher! You have the secret, all right. One woman told me, "If you give them time, even the youngest, most frivolous brides get to be very wise." And another said:

"If you are good to your daughter-in-law, you have everything to gain. If you are not good to her, you have everything to lose."—Mourning her love, the love of the son, the fun of the grandchildren, and many happy hours.

DEAR DORIS:—I have a very deep crush on a 14-year-old boy who is one year older than I. He's very good looking, athletic, clever and polite, but shy. When he gets teased about girls he blushes terribly.

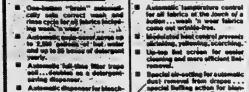
I had a party and invited him but he refused flatly, with no reason. The party was a boom! Please tell me how I can break the ice—it would do him a world of good and make me very happy.—SERIOUS.

DEAR SERIOUS:—Seriously, it would do him more good to leave him alone for a while.

Don't think he doesn't know you like him. When he is ready for girl-boy parties he'll come. Don't you think you're jumping the gun a little yourself, at thirteen?

DEAR DORIS:—I would like to know the duties of a housekeeper in a hotel. What are women called who do walls and ceilings?

Do chambermaids have to wash walls and ceilings? How many rooms (with baths) is a chambermaid required to do in a day and how many beds in a room?—CHAMBERMAID.



DEAR CHAMBERMAID:—According to an official of the National Employment Service of Canada, a hotel housekeeper is an executive who supervises housekeeping personnel, is responsible for cleanliness and orderliness; may be responsible for decorating and may purchase the supplies for the housekeeping department.

Women who wash walls and ceilings are called charwomen. Chambermaids do not do this work. Specific detail about number of rooms per chambermaid and so on depends on hotel and the understanding when the chambermaid was hired.

Baked Fillets Mornay with shrimp is more than worth the extra effort required in the making. The sauce makes liberal use of such ingredients as butter, milk, cream, eggs and cheese . . . adding to the nutritional as well as the flavor value of the dish.

Baked Fillets Mornay With Shrimp

For many people shrimp has acquired the reputation of being very sophisticated fare. It's to be seen as a cocktail or as a delicate concoction, nibbled at as hors d'oeuvres, or ordered when dining out. Away from the coastal communities, few people thought of incorporating shrimp as the basis of the main course, when planning household menus. Now, of course, we can buy fresh and frozen shrimp thousands of miles away from the sea, at a reasonable cost. It's delicious when breaded and fried, or served in combination with other fish.

Today's recipe for baked Fillets Mornay with Shrimp is an example of the uniquely appetizing way shrimp can be served. Its mouth-watering appearance and delectable flavor will bring requests for many repeats at the family dinner table. Fresh or frozen shrimp is combined with fish fillets. Before baking, the fish is covered with a rich, creamy, Mornay Sauce. It's a dish that could also be described as the "Dieter's Downfall". After a taste, reducing resolutions are likely to vanish as the dieter succumbs to its scrumptious.

BAKED FILLETS MORNAY WITH SHRIMP

1, lb. shrimp, fresh or frozen, 1 lb. fish fillets (cod, haddock, sole or ocean perch), Mornay Sauce.

Clean and shell shrimp, but do not cook. Let fillets thaw on refrigerator shelf or at a room temperature. Cut fish in serving size pieces. Arrange fish and shrimp in individual baking dishes. Cover with Mornay Sauce (recipe below). Bake at 350 deg. F. (moderate oven) 30 to 35 minutes, or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork and sauce is bubbly and brown. Serves six.

MORNAY SAUCE

4 tablespoons butter, 2 sprigs parsley, 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion, pinch grated nutmeg (optional), 1-2 cup flour, 4 cups milk, 6 cups scalded milk, 1-4 cup cream, 1-3 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan or dry Swiss cheese, 5 peppercorns.

Melt butter in a 2-quart saucepan. Add onion and cook until soft but not brown. Add flour mix well and cook slowly until the flour just starts to turn golden. Add milk, 3 cups at a time, stirring vigorously, preferably with a wire whip. Add salt, peppercorns, parsley and nutmeg. Cook slowly, stirring frequently for about 30 minutes, or until reduced to two-thirds the original quantity and the sauce is the consistency of a very heavy cream. Strain through fine sieve. Beat egg yolks, mix in cream. Add to strained sauce. Cook, stirring constantly until the boiling point is reached. Do not let the sauce boil. Add cheese. Sauce is used for creamed foods that are to be browned in the oven. Usually a little grated cheese is sprinkled over the top before browning.

The Expert's Say

Running a Flair Pattern Is Not Making Skirt Says Quarterback Tobin Rote

By EDNA BLAKELY

TORONTO (CP) — Running a flair pattern is not making a skirt, Toronto Argonaut quarterback Tobin Rote explained carefully.

The tall Texan went on to explain that the flair pattern is one of the ball-passing techniques of Canadian football.

Many women understand the fundamentals of the game "even better than some of the men" but for the uninitiated, the genial football star explained a few of the basics during a recent interview.

To begin with, each team has 12 players and the idea is to score points. A touchdown counts six points and is registered when the offensive team carries or passes the ball over the other's goal line.

A three-point field goal is scored when a team gets within kicking range of the opponent's goal line and kicks the ball between the uprights.

ROUGE MAKES UP

Rouge is not what women use to color their cheeks but is a one-point play. When the ball has been put into the opponent's end zone—perhaps by a missed field goal—the ball must be run out by the opposing team or one point, a rouge, is counted.

The one-point convert must be kicked between the uprights in the same manner as a field goal.

When play begins, the offensive teams must have seven men on the line of scrimmage—that's where the ball is placed. The man in the centre is setup, called the centre and it is the men on either side of him that are the men to watch. They're the offensive guards and by watching them you can predict what type of play will take place. If they drop back, there's going to be a pass. If there's to be a run, the offensive guards will lead the ball carrier.

The centre man snaps the ball to the quarterback who takes the ball on every play.

"Most people try to watch the quarterback and the ball, but they can be deceived." Tobin explained. The play might be a fake but if the spectators watch the guards, they'll know what's about to happen.

A combination of running and passing plays is usually used to gain yardage.

The offensive team has three tries or "downs" (as long as they maintain possession of the ball) to gain 10 yards. Each 10-yard gain is a new first down but if the team fails to make 10 yards it must surrender the ball to its opponent. The opposing team also gains the ball after each touchdown in the kickoff.

Each game has four quarters of 15 minutes each and the teams change ends after each quarter.

Tobin's wife Betsy is probably his greatest fan, and next is his eldest daughter, 10 - year - old Robin Beth. She understands the game even better than her two brothers and a younger sister.

Tobin began playing football while attending high school in San Antonio, Texas, and turned professional after college in Houston.

Six feet, three inches tall and weighing a trim 215 pounds, he says he guesses that "most Texans are tall and rangy." The likable player now makes his home in Birmingham, Mich., near Detroit, where he has his own concrete conduit sales business.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL

Question — My husband is to be best man at my niece's wedding, and I would like to know what his financial obligations are. We've been told he's supposed to pay for the limousine for the bride and groom; for bouquets for the bride, maroon of honor and flower girls; and boutonnieres for the ushers. We've also been led to believe he's to provide the clergyman's fee.

On the other hand, we've been advised the best man has no financial obligation. So would you clear this up for us?

Also, is it proper to use a family car to transport the wedding party, instead of hiring a limousine? Ours is black, and I imagine it should be just as suitable. — Mrs. M.L. New Haven, Conn.

Answer — It appears you've been completely misled about the financial duties of a best man. While he's supposed to shoulder many obligations, acting as paymaster certainly is not one of them.

The main financial outlay the best man must make is for his wedding attire, which can either be custom made or hired. The groom tells him what to wear, depending on the type of wedding and the time of day, and the best man procures the clothes, exclusive of tie and gloves, which the groom usually gives as gifts to his best man and ushers.

As far as any other expenses is concerned, the best man is customarily given the bachelor dinner, but he's not obliged to. Very often, depending on local custom, the groom throws the party, at which time he gives the best man and ushers a gift such as cuff-links as a memento of the wedding and as a token of appreciation for their aid. The bachelor dinner can also be "Dutch Treat," or the bridegroom can chip in with the party in honor of the groom.

But as far as the other expenses you mention are concerned, they should be absorbed by the bride and groom in this way:

The bride takes care of transportation for attendants to and from the wedding and pays for flowers for her matron of honor and flower girls.

For his part, the groom pays for the bride's bouquet and corsage, and boutonnieres for his attendants and both fathers. He also gives his best man the clergyman's fee in a white envelope, which the best man passes along discreetly after the ceremony.

The groom should pay for any transportation needed to get him and the best man to the church on time. However, a car of more than 100,000 population family car may be used. Since there is control, Council sales insisted that decision to form a board be left to the local council.

The groom should pay for any expenses.

PICTON

'Token of Kinship to Picton' Presented to Officers' Mess

PICTON — It was from seventeen years ago that the last members of the Royal Air Force passed through the gates on "The Hill" on their way back to England.

On Thursday evening, many of these Pictonians of the war years were present, in spirit, at a simple but impressive ceremony at the Officers' Mess, Camp Picton.

Members of No. 31 Bombing and Gunnery School, formerly stationed at Picton, and now domiciled in various parts of the world, South Africa, Rhodesia, New Zealand, Australia, United States of America, and Great Britain, presented a trophy, a "token of kinship to Picton," to the Officer Commanding, Camp Picton, their one-time home.

The trophy, a bomb of the practice type used during the war, was silver-plated and mounted on a pedestal, bearing the inscription, "Presented to Camp Picton by Royal Air Force, 31 Bombing and Gunnery School, London, Reunion 1961." Major W. F. Newton, Second - in - Command, Camp Picton, accepted the gift on behalf of Col. J. A. Hilliard, Officer Commanding.

Representing the donors, several members of 31 B. & G. S. now residing in Picton, were at the Officers' Mess for the presentation ceremony. Mr. Harry Hince, officiating, said that the trophy represented a bond of kinship and warmheartedness between those in England and others far off places, and the people of Canada and especially Picton. It is the idea of the members of 31 Bombing and Gunnery School, a token of the wonderful hospitality tendered by the people of Picton to those serving on "The Hill." Picton had one of the finest air-training stations in Canada, he said.

RECEIVED FOR ARMY

Col. Newton, upon accepting the gift, said that he received it on behalf of all the Canadian Army. "I am very proud to accept this very fine trophy," he said.

"The Royal Air Force established a wonderful camp at Picton. I have a high regard for good relationship, and this gift is significant of that relationship. There is good accord between the Army and civilians", he noted. "This trophy will be held in the highest esteem as long as this camp exists," Col. Newton concluded.

Col. Newton and his fellow officers were congenial hosts at the social events that followed the presentation.

Ber Row, president of the "Picton Club", London, England, is in charge of an organization that is actively engaged, in keeping in contact with exmembers of 31 B. & G. S. Each year, in May, in London, England, those formerly stationed at Picton gather for a reunion and banquet. It was at such a reunion that the idea of a trophy being sent to Picton was conceived. Cash donations of those scattered far and near produced the end result. Periodically a newsletter is published by this group, entitled "Hilltop News." It gives details of present day events in the lives of those formerly stationed at Picton.

Mr. Row is keen to hear from any interested party. His address is 4 Gillman Road, Plaistow Road, London E15.

CAMPBELLFORD

Rotary Club Hears Discourse On Scholarship Trust Fund

CAMPBELLFORD — W. F. McClymont of Toronto, representing the Canadian Scholarship Trust Foundation was the guest speaker at the Rotary Club here, on Monday.

"The Foundation is a non-profit organization, designed to give opportunity to parents and to provide higher education for their children," he said.

"It has been established by statistical surveys," the speaker said, "that out of 230 pupils academically able to qualify for university, only 30 can attend because of the monetary problems involved.

"Great strides are now being made in education. New courses and a wider field of technical courses are keeping pace with the needs of modern society. The day of the unsuccessful uneducated person is fast disappearing. Out of 19 million dollars necessary for an adequate scholarship fund to provide maximum educational opportunities in Canada each year, scholarships from all sources total only eleven and a half million.

SCARCITY OF FUNDS

"The Canadian Scholarship Trust Foundation recognizes the deficiency of funds for maximum opportunity and have instituted a plan to ensure children of the future, chances for university training. At the present time, the Foundation is accepting varying amounts for children from the age of one day to eight years, and guarantee them benefits at college age. The parent, or an interested individual, may deposit $650 between the birth of a child and his second birthday, and leave this amount on deposit for 180 months and at. maturity receive a second birth. the beneficiary, provided he completes the first year.

TRUST FUNDS

"This may be done at this stage in another way, by depositing $15 per month for 180 months. When the child is ready for college, the $850 or the principal sum is withdrawn from the fund and goes toward the first year's expenses. After the first year is successfully completed, the Trust Fund takes over. The student may choose any university and any course of three, or more years.

"Should the child not qualify academically, or is for some other reason unable to attend university, the principal sum only, but no interest, may be withdrawn. The withdrawal required very with the age group of the child. For infance at age 5 to 8, a deposit of $1,350 or $23, per month is necessary, because of the shorter period involved."

Mr. McClymont explained that the plan is a non-profit one and that the interest "on all monies is used to procure the educational opportunities for the children of the participant, and this interest cannot be withdrawn, but the principal sum is always on deposit and available to the participant in case it is necessary to withdraw it.

The speaker answered a number of questions from the floor and was thanked by Pictorian Dave Ness. He was introduced by past president, P. G. O'Sullivan.

Massey College Objectives For Graduate Students Are Outlined by Head Master

TORONTO (CP)—A noted Canadian newspaper man said Wednesday a good Canadian name in international rather than narrowly Canadian in his outlook and sympathies.

But we are of small use in international if we have no national substance, no national body of achievement, no national pride," Robertson Davies, editor and publisher of the Peterborough Examiner, told the Osgoode Hall Legal and Literary Society.

Until the past few years there has been a tendency for out intellectual vigor to bleed away, because so many of our ablest Canadians found inspiration abroad that was lacking at home. Happily and late, at home. That time is now past but only recently, and it could so easily go again.

Mr. Davies dealt largely with the objectives of Massey College, a new Liberal Arts graduate college for graduate students, which is to be built by the Massey Foundation. He is Master of the college, first of its kind in Can.

WILL BE CALM

It would not be big—it would have perhaps only 200 graduate students; it would not be in the style of architecture at present observable in Toronto. But it would be an independent community, having its own athletic with an atmosphere of calm devoted to scholarly work."

Mr. Davies termed Massey College the most interesting thing going to be erected in Toronto since the war." It is to be built around a quadrangle, with all living quarters facing inward on a garden.

The Canadian Club of all kinds would be conducted there, the Canadian Club of Toronto and Canadian like in the widest variety of ways."

The college would not be a penitentiary." It would not be a library where in fact the conservation of Canada with which it is associated would find their way into books, but all the professions, Mr. Davies said.

EXPRESSES HOPE

We hope that within the walls of Massey College the scientist will discover that the humanist is not merely a man who knows the history of the Dark Ages of the past, but a man who has a profound knowledge of human problems that have sufficiently matured over since it crawled out of the primeval ooze which grew heavily upon us to.

And we hope that at Massey College the humanist will discover that the scientist is not merely a glorified tinkerer, a gadgeteer with a specialty, but one who begins things he is powerless to stop, but a man who is capable of moving to push back the frontiers of human ignorance about the physical world, in which we must all live, and in which it is becomes us to be masters, or subtle knaves.

REPORTS DISAGREEMENT

MONTREAL (CP)—The Star says the Montreal Transportation Commission and the city administration disagree on the disagreement" over the route of the proposed Metro subway, but agrees with an earlier report that the network will cost $200,000 and will be completed within four years.

"You can't call him national secretary, because the word 'national' is split.

REVISED TITLE

"I first addressed my letter to the 'national secretary,' because I was so used to writing the 'national secretary of the CCF,' but I scratched it out and wrote 'sorry' in the margin."

Dr. Forsey said the convention decided to eliminate the word national, which had appeared more than 70 times in the draft constitution. It decided that "" to describe ... related ... and improper".

The ... ention ac- ... cepted the ... that there is no Canadian nation but only a French-Canadian nation in a bi-national state".

During the founding convention, Dr. Forsey jumped to a ... microphone when deletion of the word "national", was proposed, and pointed out that the National Film Board and the Canadian National Railways never have been labelled as offensive titles to French Canada.

Forsey earlier had objected to the impression which could be created by NDP's endorsement of a ... ed full employment ... he said. "...tel- ... ecret in a com- ... pletely totalitarian state—which some of us want."

Believe Moscow May Soon Fire Puppet Ulbricht

BERLIN (AP) — Officials and commentators in West Berlin speculated today that Moscow may soon fire its East German puppet, Walter Ulbricht.

There was widespread belief that East Germany's chief of state would disappear from the scene in an effort to make direct negotiations with the West German regime more palatable to the West.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev dealt Ulbricht a blow in his Kremlin speech Tuesday by abandoning the Dec. 31 deadline he had set for signing a peace treaty with East Germany.

The peace treaty is the main instrument for Khrushchev's threats against West Berlin. With it the Soviet Union hopes to turn over to the East German control of the Western allies' access routes to West Berlin, forcing them to negotiate with the East Germans or have so far refused to recognize or fight their way through if the East Germans try to block their traffic.

MAY REMAIN CALMER

"A paper treaty before the end of the year" has been the keynote of all East German propaganda for months. It seemed dimmed by Khrushchev's bricht had stalked his career on it.

Ulbricht apparently has been trying to stack the Kremlin's hand. Western observers said Khrushchev's speech showed he got him back in his place, and like he had urged he forget about the new line injected by that of Moscow.

Western diplomats hinted in Khrushchev's speech that Ulbricht may be replaced by Willi Stoph, the chief who is considered more likely to accept a new approach to the Berlin problem, the paper has reported.

Ulbricht's communist press reported Khrushchev's speech under banner-lines proclaiming the triumph of communism."

The key passage of the speech in Berlin was carried without pronouncement and without comment.

MAY BE IN TROUBLE

The Berlin Nacht - Depesche said the removal of the deadline "can put Ulbricht in a very cheerful mood."

The East German boss is not only in trouble with the newly heralded timetable, the paper said, "He is likely to be in trouble but surely removed from the scene because the Russians realize much more they could not expect Western statesmen to negotiate with him."

The West Berlin newspaper Telegraf, which has close connections with Mayor Willy Brandt, said Khrushchev could afford to drop his deadline without losing face but Ulbricht was so committed to it that the announcement of the new date marked a black day for him.

Ulbricht has encountered difficulties within his own party as a barbed - wall the Berlin border across Berlin in August.

Western Capitals Show Interest In Nikita's Views on Germany

By ROD CURRIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The two major points to be discussed out of the more than six hours of talk by Soviet Premier Khrushchev Tuesday are likely new views on Berlin and his big-bomb boasting.

Officials in Western capitals, seeking to analyze Khrushchev's speech to the Soviet Communist party congress in Moscow, showed more interest in his pronouncements on a new German situation.

His milder tone in this area brought new hope in some quarters, but basically what he said did not represent any great departure from his former view.

His decision to lift conditionally his deadline for signing of a peace treaty with East Germany and his willingness to seem to present a better atmosphere for negotiations. But there is no suggestion that he has withdrawn from his insistence that East Germany must eventually control access to Berlin and that it must become a "free" city.

Bonn Reaction

The reaction of Bonn officials was one of relief that Khrushchev had not made a more drastic move. Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government has been under pressure from the Western allies to show more flexibility in its approach to the Berlin problem.

And we hope that at Massey College the humanist will discover that the scientist is not merely a man who knows the history of the Dark Ages of the past, but a man who has a profound knowledge of human problems that have sufficiently matured over since it crawled out of the primeval ooze which grew heavily upon us to.

And we hope that at Massey College the humanist will discover that the scientist is not merely a glorified tinkerer, a gadgeteer with a specialty, but one who begins things he is powerless to stop, but a man who is capable of moving to push back the frontiers of human ignorance about the physical world, in which we must all live, and in which it is becomes us to be masters, or subtle knaves.

REPORTS DISAGREEMENT

MONTREAL (CP)—The Star says the Montreal Transportation Commission and the city administration disagree on the disagreement" over the route of the proposed Metro subway, but agrees with an earlier report that the network will cost $200,000 and will be completed within four years.

"You can't call him national secretary, because the word 'national' is split.

REVISED TITLE

"I first addressed my letter to the 'national secretary,' because I was so used to writing the 'national secretary of the CCF,' but I scratched it out and wrote 'sorry' in the margin."

Dr. Forsey said the convention decided to eliminate the word national, which had appeared more than 70 times in the draft constitution. It decided that "" to describe ... related ... and improper".

The ... ention accepted the ... that there is no Canadian nation but only a French-Canadian nation in a bi-national state".

During the founding convention, Dr. Forsey jumped to a ... microphone when deletion of the word "national", was proposed, and pointed out that the National Film Board and the Canadian National Railways never have been labelled as offensive titles to French Canada.

Forsey earlier had objected to the impression which could be created by NDP's endorsement of a ... ed full employment ... he said. "...tel- ... ecret in a completely totalitarian state—which some of us want."

Mature trees on 15-acre Belleville Plaza parking area were saved. Parking area will accommodate for 1350 cars is now nearly all paved and first stores are scheduled for early opening. Double storey building at left is Woolworth store and second floor 20-lane bowling alley.

Forsey Refuses Membership In New Party

MONTREAL (CP) — Eugene Forsey, research director for the Canadian Labor Congress, said Wednesday he has refused membership in the New Democratic Party because it deleted the word "national" from its constitution.

He described the action, taken during the party's founding convention in Ottawa last August, as one of the silliest he had ever heard of.

Dr. Forsey, attending a meeting here of the Board of Broadcast Governors, said he has no other fight with the party.

Commenting on a report that he had resigned from the party, he said he did not resign for the simple reason that he had refused to accept the constitution without the word "national" and so never had been a party member.

He had announced his decision "a few weeks after, several weeks" thought, in a letter to Carl Hamilton, secretary of the party.

Opening of First Two Stores In East End Shopping Plaza Scheduled for Near Future

Following a six-months concerted construction program employing upwards of 100 men at the peak, Belleville's new million-and-a-half dollar suburban shopping plaza in the east end of the city is rapidly rounding into shape with the opening of the first two stores scheduled for the near future.

First stores in the Belleville Plaza to be opened will be the supermarkets operated by A. and P. Stores and Dominion Stores, situated at opposite corners of the plaza.

Shelving and other finishing touches for the two stores are now going in as plans are finalized for their official opening. Both stores have an area of over 20,000 square feet.

Other stores in the 15 acre shopping plaza expected to be opened by the middle of November are a combined delicatessen and bake shop, drug store, shoe store and the 30-lane modern bowling alley which will be situated above the 12,000 square foot Woolworth's store.

TARGET DATE MET

At the time of the official sod turning early last May there were many skeptics who felt the first units of the 35-store shopping plaza could not be ready by the fall opening target date has been realized with the first units now virtually completed and the remainder in varying stages of completion. Up to 500 persons are expected to be temporarily employed when plaza is completed.

The 1350-car parking area is already over half-paved and grading operations are currently underway for completion of paving operations. Modern type tube lights supported on topped iron standards will illuminate the parking area.

Stores of the shopping plaza are built on either side of a mall which is partially protected from the elements by wide over-hanging roof canopies.

Concrete for the second storey 20-lane five pin bowling alley is being poured this week with the opening expected some time in November.

TO HOLD OPENING

Local realtor, Donald J. Whalen, who handled the sales of the property to Principal Investments Ltd., owners of the shopping plaza, said completion of the remainder of the stores was expected by the end of the year. No official opening for the Belleville Plaza is being planned for around the Easter season next spring.

Mall effect of Belleville's new million-and-a-half dollar shopping plaza in the east end of the city is seen in above picture with A and P supermarket in the foreground. Supermarkets operated by A and P and Dominion Stores have early opening date.

Thomson Buys Seven Papers, Mag. in Africa

MANCHESTER, England (CP) — The Guardian reports today that Canadian publisher Roy Thomson has completed plans to take over seven more newspapers and one magazine in Africa.

Thomson already owns 31 newspapers in North America, Britain and Africa. The latest purchase is regarded as "the biggest newspaper deal ever in central Africa," the paper says.

It says the Thomson company will take control of Kaycholo, the parent company of five newspapers published first in the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland.

One of the firms is African Newspapers Limited of Salisbury, the largest publishing house in central Africa for newspapers aimed at African readers.

The firm's present group of six newspapers includes one daily. It began its publishing history in 1954 when a missionary started a quarterly newspaper.

The other firm is the Blantyre Printing and Publishing Company which publishes the Blantyre Times in Nyasaland. Thomson's main competitor in the field will be Argus Press, which owns five dailies and four weeklies.

The report says negotiations for the deal were concluded in London last month between Thomson and Lord Robins, president of one of the four companies with large holdings in Kacholola.

Hotel Did Not Violate Act Says Magistrate

TORONTO (CP)—Magistrate Thomas Elmore ruled Wednesday the Royal York Hotel did not violate the Ontario Labor Relations Act by dismissing striking employees July 18.

The Hotel and Club Employees Union (CLC), acting on permission from the Ontario Labor Relations Board, had charged the CPR, which owns the hotel, with using the threat of dismissal to compel employees to give up their rights under the act.

Labor Minister Charles Daley commented today: "If I had been making the decision, I shouldn't have made the same ... as the magistrate".

Donald C. MacDonald, leader of the Ontario New Democratic Party, predicted: "If this judgment stands, it will have opened the door to a period of industrial unrest such as Ontario has rarely seen."

David Archer, president of the Ontario Federation of Labor said he will press the government for reinstatement of the Labor Relations Act.

Frank Lewis, counsel for the union, said during the trial that the act prohibits employers from discharging workers who participate in the lawful activities of a trade union.

In his written judgment, Magistrate Elmore said there is no section of the act "specifically giving the right to strike." However, "different sections of the act restrict the right to strike," he said.

Magistrate Elmore said the union's collective agreement with the hotel had expired before the strike was called April 26 so employees were working under individual contracts — like contracts when they walked out.

"Conditions were such as can let under master and servant law," he said, and it follows that the employees had "no right to strike as they did."

Archie Johnston, president of union's Local 260, said the union will appeal.

David Archer, president of the Ontario Federation of Labor and a member of the Ontario Labor Relations Board, said the decision might result in a return to "jungle law."

Quebec PC Member Does Not Think Conservatives Will Form Independent Party

OTTAWA (CP) — Vincent Brassard, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Chicoutimi, said Wednesday he does not believe an independent federal party will be formed in Quebec province.

He was commenting on reports that several Quebec Conservative MPs were planning to leave the Conservative party and run as Independents in the next federal election.

These reports followed a speech by Jean-Noel Tremblay (PC—Chambly) to the St. Jean Baptiste Society of Quebec Diocese last weekend.

Mr. Tremblay said at the time there was "no future" for French - speaking Canadians in the Tory party because of political parties and that Quebec should take steps to recover its political sovereignty.

Mr. Brassard admitted there were some tensions among Quebec MPs, but did not think would lead to a schism in Conservative ranks. He said he was a separatist in his youth but now thought the separatist movement led nowhere.

Roch Bilaia, president of the Ontario Federation of St. Jean Baptiste Societies, said Quebec is "free to choose its own path but warned that French-speaking Canadians in other parts of Quebec are in danger of becoming a lost race like Franco-Americans if Quebec secedes.

"The Franco - Americans might have survived and multiplied indefinitely," Mr. Bilaia said, "if it had not been for the treason of some authorities and the ostracism of others."

"I hope that we shall be spared a similar fate."

Roger St. Denis, president of the Ottawa St. Jean Baptiste Society, said reports have distorted or exaggerated the thought of Quebecers.

"If I understand correctly," he said, "the meeting (of the Quebec Diocese group) did not favor separatism but simply reaffirmed the right of French-speaking Canadians to self-determination."

Mr. Denis said he did not see how the Quebec diocese group could have contradicted the Joint Federation of St. Jean Baptiste Societies of Ontario and Quebec which met here last June and announced its opposition to separatism.

"It is evident," he said, "that separatism is totally inacceptable to Franco-Ontarians."

"I don't think that this is the time to let go, just at the moment when our brothers in the rest of Canada seem to be starting to understand us and wanting to accept us as real partners."

Drug Manufacturing Said To Be High-Risk Industry

TORONTO (CP)—Drug manufacturing is a high-risk industry in which products developed after considerable research may quickly become obsolete, the Ontario Committee on Taxation says in a report tabled Wednesday.

The committee, which has held hearings at nine other cities across Canada, is inquiring into the manufacturing, sale and distribution of drugs.

Mr. Carson's brief contained some criticism of material presented in a submission by the federal director of investigation and research.

Emphasizing the key role played by drug manufacturing companies, Mr. Carson's brief pooh-poohed the results of a survey of 33 companies for the year 1960. It was carried out by Toronto accounting firm of Clarkson Gordon and Company for the CPMA. This showed that the 33 firms accounted directly and indirectly for total research expenditure of $9,531,000.

"Using these same figures, the brief took issue with a comment in the material prepared by the federal director of investigation and research that "research in drugs seems to be regarded more and more as a responsibility of government and of universities rather than of those interested in particular diseases."

"In 1958 alone, the pharmaceutical industry in North America worked on 114,600 different chemical substances in its laboratories. Less than a dozen ever reached the market."

Verwoerd Gets Easy Victory In Election in South Africa

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) — Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd's Nationalist Party was returned to power Wednesday in first general election since South Africa became a republic last May.

Complete returns gave Verwoerd's segregationist party 78 seats in the 156-member house, to 52 for the United Party which hoped to win 25 of the 32 seats where the counting of Wednesday's ballots will decide.

This would give the Nationalists their first secure majority in the last parliament.

The Nationalist Party Verwoerd's main opposition, had won 44 seats by noon today and the National Union Party and the Progressives had one seat each, to 20 for the United Party, three for independents, two for the Nationalist Party and 20 from the United Party, were announced unopposed. The Nationalists put up candidates for 78 of the 102 seats at stake.

The United Party and the National Union had a total of 76 candidates, the Progressives 24 and the Conservative Workers' Party 12 seats and the Independents 15 among them.

In the outgoing assembly, the Nationalists had 79 seats, the United Party and the National Union 49 and the Progressives 11.

Verwoerd appeared to have received a mandate from South Africa's white electorate to continue policies which seemed to have brought wavering votes among South Africa's all-white electorate back to the fold.

The Conservative Party, themselves, a small but energetic group, backed by racial-minded businessmen, had campaigned tirelessly in their bid to convince the country's 1,000,000 eligible voters that South Africa must adopt a policy of merit rather than color in the future.

The effect of the election was to leave the way clear for him to go ahead with the Bantustan policy. Under this policy seven "states" would be set up in the reserves for the non-whites, bringing nearer his ideal of complete segregation.

The opposition claimed that this policy if carried out would lead to the whole population and ultimately lead the country to disaster.

Pudisner Montreal Paper Chosen Man of the Month Always Hated to Write

MONTREAL (CP) — Gerard Filion, publisher of Montreal Le Devoir, who has been chosen Man of the Month by the magazine Commerce, says he always has hated to write and always will.

In a breezy autobiography for the magazine published by French-language Chambers of Commerce in the Montreal district, the former farm boy says he graduated from business administration school with the ambition to become a millionaire.

"At 52 years of age, I have not fulfilled my youthful ambition to become a millionaire. Further, I have always detested what I detest the most—write."

He adds: "Men of action are generally are people who have been successful in business. That's left my case. But, unlike many, I've never failed in anything. I have always been a leader of good causes, never of good businesses."

Mr. Filion is the second newspaper publisher chosen man of the month by the magazine this year. The other was Aurele Gratton, publisher and general manager of Ottawa Le Droit. Other newspaper men chosen in recent years are Paul Dertuisenaux, publisher of La Tribune of Sherbrooke, and Alma Lavigueur, publisher and general manager of La Voix de l'Est of Granby.

MAN OF MONTH

Gerard Filion, publisher of Montreal Le Devoir, has been chosen "Man of the Month" by the magazine Commerce. Mr. Filion, 53, has been publisher for 14 years and is also mayor of the Montreal suburb of St. Bruno de Montarville. (CP Photo).

FINANCIAL TROUBLES

Mr. Filion, 7th child of a farm family at Isle Verte on the lower St. Lawrence River, is the father of nine. He was 27 when he was hired 14 years ago to become publisher of Le Devoir, following the death of Georges Pelletier, a disciple of Henri Bourassa, the daily's founder.

At the time the newspaper, which in its 30 years has always taken a strongly independent line in politics, was in financial difficulties.

But, says Mr. Filion, "I never regretted for a single moment my decision, even in the darkest days when I went to bed not knowing whether the paper would come out the next day." Its circulation now is about 75,000.

He writes that he came to realize in time that "what mattered most of all is to keep how to be to business political leaders willing to be led to without being deceived."

Along the way, Mr. Filion was elected to the school board in the suburb of St. Bruno de Montarville, of which he now is mayor. He is also vice-chairman of a provincial rural commission on education.

His editorials, which won him National Newspaper Awards in 1951, 1958 and 1960, are dictated to a secretary in 30 minutes.

"I start by dictating a sentence, which brings on a second, then a third. At the end I have not said what I intended to say."

Of newspaper work he writes: "It is a craft which demands much time, which causes a lot of lost time. In the end, one has the impression of doing nothing, of being useless to oneself and society. One pays little attention to one's articles. Sometimes they are not bad; more often they are. Journalism is the ability to forget the capacity to sweep away every day what has been and prepare for what is coming."

Ten Recent Escapees Given Prison Terms

SUDBURY (CP) — Magistrate Anthony Fabietti said Tuesday he will recommend serious consideration be given to a policy of sending future Burwash Industrial Farm escapers to the Millbrook maximum security institution near Peterborough.

He made his comment as he sentenced 10 recent Burwash escapees to penitentiary terms.

One prisoner, Leonard Rivers, 30, of Whitefish Falls, 50 miles west of here, told the court: "I have been at Burwash four times and I haven't learned anything." Several of the escapees indicated they preferred penitentiary to Burwash.

Magistrate Fabietti added nine months to the terms already being served by Sydney Leonard Reginbald, 24, of Montreal; Marcel Lelievre, 20, of Windsor; Stanley Rattle, 20, of Stockholm, Sask.; James Allan Berry, 25, of Toronto; Robert Joseph Henry, 21, of Ohsweken; Blake Cameron Chessborough of Oshawa; Merle Lawson Robar, 22, of Bridgewater, N.S.; and Sebastiano Quattrocicchi, 23, of Toronto.

Good Nightclub Hostesses In Japan Earn $361 Monthly

By KENNETH ISHII

TOKYO (AP)—So, having enjoyed the company of a charming nightclub hostess for an hour or so, you wave for the bill.

It looks all right until you get to an item that says: hostess charge—2,000 yen.

"What!", you might exclaim, outraged at being made to hand over the equivalent of $5.77 for the pleasure of 60 minutes of her company.

Sure you danced with her, bought her a couple of drinks. And she probably turned on the charm—the more charming because of the broken English—to inflate your masculine ego.

Besides, it didn't seem like 60 minutes, it seemed like 10.

That's the whole point. If that's the way you talk, she did her job well.

JOBS ATTRACTIVE

At 1,000 yen an hour, the charge at the top clubs, a good hostess averages 3,000 yen an evening, which with days off comes to around 130,000 yen ($361) a month. This in turn is about 10 times more than what she'd earn in a daytime office job.

Though the profession is one that invites prejudice, more and more girls, emancipated from pre-war restrictions, are finding hostess jobs in nightclubs and cabarets throughout Japan.

Some do it for the quick money — though the temptation for high living keeps only a few from saving enough to quit and open up that dreamed-of bar or coffee shop.

Some become hostesses for fun and adventure—though disillusionment usually sets in quickly.

But most take on the profession from the simple need to make a living. That fearful line about having to support an invalid mother, or pay for a brother's education, isn't always bunk.

TIRING WORK

"No experience necessary," proclaim the newspaper ads for hostesses. But any seasoned girl will tell you it's a tough job that calls for an infinite supply of charm, patience—and quick thinking.

So six months later you'll go back to the same nightclub, and out of the milling humanity a happy voice will sing out:

"Hello! long time no see!"

Maybe you don't remember, but she does. Her job depends on it. It's the same girl responsible for that outraged comment you've now forgotten about.

Anyway, what's another thousand yen or two?

Packers, Giants Loom

Frisco Faces Threats

NEW YORK (AP)—San Francisco "does have pit misfortune already that looks considerable," number one in the National Football League in offense and number one in defense.

But they're threatened by no fewer than nine clubs, including, with a 3-0 combination in the same departments, and by New York Giants, who, head the league in four defensive categories and, in addition, have the most offensive distance in the NFL.

The Giants, in five games, Lions gained a total of 1,000 yards — more than 200 more than the Packers — have rushed for 1,000 yards, trail Philadelphia Eagles by a few yards in passing but have the best pass protection average, 31.8 per cent. They also lead in scoring, edging Green Bay by six points.

On defense, San Francisco has yielded 1,089 yards compared to 1,302 by the Giants. Packers, But Green Bay has allowed its opponents 7.8 points per game to the Giants' 8.

The Giants' celebrated defensive platoon has created only 1,137 yards and leads the league in fewest total first downs, fewest outright tc Amarillo.

Yankees Still On the Build

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Yankees added Jake Gibbs, Mississippi's 1959 all - American halfback, and relief pitcher Hal Reniff, another ex-Rebel baseball roster and outfield players to the minors Wednesday.

Gibbs, an infielder, moved up from Richmond of the International League with outfielder Joe Lock; infielder Pedro Gonzalez, and pitcher George Elsey. Pitchers Howard Kline and Ralph Terry were optioned to Richmond and Dale Mitchell, veteran ex-Cleveland Indians' outfielder, was released as a coach.

Beavers Lose to Kingston

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A couple of seasoned campaigners, who helped win a senior hockey championship for Canada three years ago, have spent Kingston Frontenac ranks to assist in the Eastern Professional Hockey League standings.

Manch Bobby Attersley first two goals and defenceman Bobby Haddon got their first senior league goals as the Frontenacs downed Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen 4-3 Wednesday night on the Frontenac home ice.

Attersley, 34, and Haddon, 30, today in an effort to bring a Memorial Cup team to Kingston.

Attersley and Haddon were members of the Penticton Vees team that won the Allan Cup in 1958.

Pittsburgh Howard Kilt set up Attersley's first goal with a pass from Haddon.

Attersley's second goal, which came at 9:48 of the second period, broke a 2-2 tie and Haddon's goal early in the third period gave Kingston the winning margin.

Kingston outshot Kitchener 36-30.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Cecil H. Carver, Sports Editor

It seems only that the Kenmore could not have closed out a brilliant page of junior baseball achievement with their second All-Ontario, OBA championship.

Observers at both games of the 1961 championship, which saw two champions, the Kitchener Dodgers and the Kenmore Vees defeated fairly and squarely on their play, but substituting the Sudan-Morris youngsters were one of their baseball best.

Remember, it would not be fair to take anything away from the success of the Kitchener team. They had a terrific pitching staff, nothing to be desired from the infielders and outfielders. The Kenmore, showing normal inferiority to KW, in each encounter, turned out performances to be the envy of their foes.

Little wonder that bludgeoned the way it did in 1959 Junior "A" championship and 1961 Labatt's Intermediate Baseball League title, were strangely silent at bat, Sunday.

For this was a title that had a dead layout written all over it. 300 to one and all leagued they favored. In all games of the series the eight individual victories in the first three should go to young Chief Hackwell, the Kitchener left-hander, who turned a no-hitter against the defending champions.

A no-hitter in baseball is rare under any circumstances. A no-hitter against a club with the batting power—and strength—of the Kenmore is something else. Only a supernatural performance on the mound could have achieved it.

To those of us who inspected the Kenmore in batting practice, the chances of the visiting team was considerably reduced. Another hitless, strikeout for the Hackwell pound, ever.

Again the Belleville bats were silenced this time by the relief hurler of the Dutchmen, Gerry Dutchman. The Kenmore managed four hits off his delivery, were woefully timid in the clutches and committed four errors of omission and, a, last down of, omission.

On the other side of the ledger the Kenmore hurlers deserved a better fate. Larry Sefton threw a two-hitter in the first game and two Kenny hurlers let the Dodgers down with four clouts in the second game.

But Morris had gained in crying over spilled milk. The young Kitchener crew had the benefit of splendid hurling, and clubbing, the breaks, plenty of ability and the know-how of capitalization of foemen errors.

However, the Kenmore were by no means defeated. They were beaten fairly by their rivals on the diamond. They took their defeat like sportsmen and champions. Most year they'll make their return to the limelight. And I believe they will be the first to publish their views dedicated by a better club on the major OBA.

And so the king is dead—long live the King. Next year is another year. It is understood the majority of the Kenmore will have hopped the junior age limit.

This could be true of the Kingston Canucos and Peterborough Lakers, Intermediate "A" champions and runners-up in Senior with Peterborough and Kingston baseball men—and all teams appeared to be vieing to become the possibility of reviving the former Central Ontario Senior Baseball League.

I believe there are enough experienced senior players still extant in these centres to form the backbone of three, with several over-age juniors available to complete the rosters and make a strong combined. The Mac could field the nucleus of Canadian Senior, the other possibly.

Meanwhile, the Kenmore were by no means disgraced. They were defeated by their peers on the diamond. They took their defeat like sportsmen and champions. Most year they'll make their return to the limelight. And I believe they will be the first to publish their views dedicated by a better club on the major OBA.

Shannon Centres Grid Controversy

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail quotes Elroy Hirsch, general manager of Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League, as saying the Rams have never agreed to accept a financial settlement from Hamilton Tiger-Cats in lieu of halfback Cirver Shannon.

Jake Gaudaur, chairman and general manager of the Eastern Conference Tigers, expressed a statement to the statement and said a deal on Shannon's future had been agreed to by the Rams.

The Tiger - Cats acquired Shannon from Western Conference Winnipeg Blue Bombers last week although Shannon already had signed a 1962 contract with the Rams.

It was announced at the time that Shannon was signed by Hamilton to a standard CFL contract which provides an option on his services for the following year—meaning that he would have to be waived out of the league by other CFL clubs before he could go to Los Angeles.

SAYS RAMS AGREED

Gaudaur said the arrangement, agreed to by the Rams, was that Shannon would go on waivers after this season. If another CFL club claimed him, the waivers would be withdrawn. Shannon would stay with the Tiger-Cats and his contract would be purchased from the Rams.

"That Gaudaur told us about the Canadian League rules and made an offer to buy his Los Angeles contract in the event that other Canadian teams refused to waive him out next winter.

"We rejected it, both by telephone and in writing. We want Shannon. We've got money."

Hirsch quoted Shannon as saying he would not sign in Hamilton unless the Rams guaranteed his release at the end of the season.

Hirsch, the newspaper says, confirmed the 1962 pact has been registered and accepted by NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle and all correspondence turned over to NFL solicitor Marshall Leahy.

Gaudaur said all details of the contract were discussed with Hirsch and he agreed to them. He was notified by mail Oct. 6, with copies going to CFL Commissioner Sydney Halter and Shannon.

Percy Moss, coach and general manager of Montreal Alouettes who meet the Ticats in Hamilton Sunday, said Wednesday he has wired Halter that Montreal will protest if Shannon plays because he does not belong to Hamilton.

Moss maintained that Hirsch had refused to accept Hamilton terms on the transfer, that Shannon is thus Rams' property and should not be playing with the Ticats.

Juniors Start Practice

Some 36 would-be Macs turned out for the McFarland Junior initial practice at Memorial Arena last night including nine of last year's squad and nine Import from the St. Catharines Junior "A" camp.

Back from last season were goalie Ron Dulmage, defencemen Larry Mavety and Gary Reid and forwards Moe Hunter, Pete Weston, Bucky Ebner, Peg Kellar, Billy McGuire and Ray Whitter Hull.

Alex Baron, the six foot-two inch defenceman, from St. Kitts, arrived on the evening train just in time to take his place among those seeking rearguard berths. Baron, whose 210 pounds is well distributed, was by far the biggest man on the ice and looked at home in the brief afternoon session.

Coach Gordie Bell said that he was talking with another player from St. Catharines yesterday, forward David Smith from Smiths Falls. Smith will arrive here for next week's practices.

Bell said he saw Smith working out at St. Kitts. "He is 5'10

Sport Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

Cus D'Amato is a thick-set individual with thinning grey hair and a one-time fight or a gravel pit. When he talks, the words tumble out like bullets belting from a machine-gun.

Listened, particularly those who aren't subjected to his oratorats very often, pay attention to him, not because he's likely to make sound, profound statements, but simply because he's a controversial character, His favorite subject is Floyd Patterson, the world's heavyweight boxing champion.

"He pays me, and he pays me good," says Cus, one-time president of the New York local of the boxing guild (AFL-CIO affiliated). In New York State Cus is "adviser" to Patterson; anywhere else in the world but the 25-year-old fighter's manager.

This came about in 1959 when New York boxing officials revoked his manager's and boxer and second in the state following a three-month inquiry into alleged irregularities in the promotion of the first Ingemar Johansson-Patterson title fight, won by the Swede.

NEEDS MORE FIGHTS

Cus was in Toronto the other day for the formal signing of the Patterson-Tom McNeeley title bout to be held in Toronto Monday, Dec. 4. He was in rare form and smiled benignly as Patterson put on his best at a press conference to say that one fight a year didn't do him any good. "I must fight at least twice a year."

Cus nodded vigorously in assent. Anything his bread-and-butter boy says is okay with him. Striker Charged Had Coffee Thrown in Face

OSHAWA (CP) — Judgment was reserved to Oct. 24 after a court was told Wednesday a striker charged with assault had coffee thrown in his face when he tried to snatch a controversial union official's movie camera.

Anthony Mariano of the Toronto suburb of Scarborough, a picket captain during a strike at the International Nickel Co. of Canada, pleaded guilty to assaulting Somerton Rumm, assistant managing director in charge of construction for Consolidated Building Corporation Limited.

Mariano was charged with wilful damage at the Pickering Township construction site March 16. He laid a counter-charge of assault against Rumm.

George Petts, business agent for the International Laborers Union (CLC), testified Mariano had been sitting in a car and protested to Rumm that he did not want to be in pictures he was taking.

School Trustees Have Right to Set Standards

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Municipal Board was reported today to have conceded that elected school trustees have the right to establish standards for schools being built or altered in their areas.

W. J. McCordic, executive secretary of the Metropolitan Toronto school board, told representatives of 11 Metro-area school boards at a meeting of the Metro board that the right had been agreed to Monday when a Metro delegation met OMB chairman J. A. Kennedy.

Mr. McCordic added, however, that Mr. Kennedy "also indicated that his studies of school construction and of school costs are to be continued."

Mr. Kennedy still hopes to persuade Ontario school boards that unit construction costs are too high, Mr. McCordic said.

The OMB has held up construction on 11 Toronto district public schools and has suggested the Toronto board knock $284,000 off the proposed $684,000 cost of one public school.

Metro area school boards protested that it was interference and requested a public hearing on the right of Metro to set its own ceiling cost formula for schools.

The Ontario School Trustees and Ratepayers Association has already protested that the OMB is assuming a responsibility which belongs to elected school board officials.

THEATRE BRINGS CHANGES — Thousands of visitors flock to the Shakespearean Festival theatre in Stratford, Ont., each year. The festival, started in 1953, has brought widespread changes to the life of the one-time southwestern Ontario railway town.—(CP Photo).

Stratford Festival Theatre, Newsman's Dream, Has Grown by Leaps and Bounds

By R. J. ANDERSON

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP) — Like any prudent home-owner, Stratford is refurbishing a room at a time.

Always that something is happening to it but hasn't quite made up its mind what it is. A step at a time is Stratford's pace.

But Shakespearean Festival, born in 1953 of a newspaper publisher's dream, grows gradually. So has the idea that it is here to stay. The $2,000,000 architectural showpiece on the bank of the Avon River that is the Stratford Festival Theatre says eloquently that it no longer is a dream.

The festival brought culture to the attractive little city that once was known mostly as a railway and furniture - manufacturing centre and the hub of a fertile Western Ontario farming area. And it brought more than 225,000 visitors this year, through June, July, August and most of September.

TOURIST BONANZA

Culture and the cosmopolitan atmosphere attendant upon each summer's invasion of tens of thousands of people from far away places have come to Stratford. Its quiet life, geared to a population of 21,000 that has changed little over the years, has been disturbed. Some, a small minority, aren't sure they like it.

T. J. Flood, manager of the Chamber of Commerce who sees both sides pretty evenly on it, is not of that minority. He is well aware that the estimated $2,500,000 spent each year by festival visitors is more than a seasonal windfall. The effects are felt the year around, he says, with almost everyone in Stratford benefitting in some way.

After decades of being a railway town, its life revolving around the C.N.R. locomotive shops, Stratford has had to adjust to fact: Diesels now rule the rails and the shops have been closed, the railway payroll being cut to fewer than 300 from more than 1,200.

Tom Flood knows that the festival would fill that gaping hole in the economy but it has helped. So have the new industries in the last few years.

BEGAN IN TENT

How Stratford has become known for its length and breadth of a continent, not for its fine furniture and other manufactures but for Shakespeare at its best.

The idea of holding a Canadian Shakespearean Festival in the small namesake city of the bard's birthplace was that of Tom Patterson, Ottawa and Toronto newspaper man and Stratford native who now is the festival's comedian. First plans were modest—use of an open-air bandstand and a budget of $30,000.

With the help of Sir Tyrone Guthrie, noted British director, the festival came into being in 1953. Until 1957 performances were held in a huge tent but that year, with contributions from governments, charitable foundations and the public, the beautiful theatre in a picture-book setting of rolling lawns and flowers was opened.

Its striking feature is an apron stage, an adaptation of the Elizabethan stage with seven acting levels and six major entrances. Surrounded on three sides by the sloping amphitheatre, the stage establishes intimate actor - spectator relationship with few props needed. The theatre seats 2,258 with no spectator more than 65 feet from the stage.

Shakespeare was more than a name to Stratford long before the festival was thought of. In 1834, a few years after the first settlers arrived, the hamlet needed a name and someone called it Stratford and the little river winding through it the Avon. In time, the town was divided into five wards—named Romeo, Hamlet, Falstaff, Avon and Shakespeare—and streets have Shakespearean names and the Shakespeare Garden on the court house are a must for the visitor.

The 11th festival season, which closed Sept. 23, ran 14 weeks, the longest to date. The theatre was filled to 86.5 per cent of capacity — 225,000 admissions — and box office of $794,000. In 1953, attendance was 65,000 with receipts of $205,000.

The last two weeks of the 1961 season were devoted to Shaw festival. Some 30,000 to 600 came here from London, Toronto and other Ontario cities as well as from Buffalo, N.Y.

Shakespeare came, alive, some critics say, to Stratford for every reading in school. After each matinee, festival actors held question - and - answer discussions on the plays, the theatre itself and Shakespeare.

NEW MOTELS BUILT

The festival forced changes in the city's way of life. Now property to care for the influx of theatre-lovers was one of the first needs. Where there once was only one motel, there now are seven and they aren't enough in the summer months to carry them through the remainder of the year.

The city's hotels still look weak in the outside, but the interiors are being modernized—a few rooms this year, more next year. Tourist homes have expanded, the "pin money" thus earned by many housewives being distributed to shops that may not directly share in the festival's glory.

Store fronts have been modernized and a new and colorful shop has sprung up where fine woolens and china from England are sold in Stratford.

Tom Flood knows that the festival would fill that gaping hole in the economy but it has helped. So have the new industries in the last few years.

Bomarcs Arrive At North Bay But No Warheads

Will Be Spring Before Nuclear Decision Made

NORTH BAY (CP) — Two Bomarc B ground - to - air missiles arrived Thursday night by truck at their launching site seven miles north of here.

They were the first of 36 such missiles scheduled to be delivered, here from the manufacturer, Boeing Airplane Company of Seattle. Each of the two Bomarcs unveiled is a separate truck, crossing into Canada at Sault Ste. Marie.

It was understood a police escort was provided for the trucks at least part of the way from Sault Ste. Marie to North Bay.

The North Bay site is one of two Bomarc anti - aircraft missile bases being run by the RCAF as part of North American air defence. The other, which also will have 36 missiles, is at La Macaza, near Mont Laurier, Que. Both are to be controlled from an electronic control centre here linked underground at nearby Trout Lake.

Only a few newspaper men were on hand when the trucks carrying the two Bomarcs wheeled down Highway 11 and into the missile site.

EQUIPMENT READY

Launching equipment is understood to be ready, although no decision has yet been made by the federal government about whether they are to be armed with nuclear or conventional warheads.

Work at the site here has been going on for the last two years, with construction of 36 barn - like buildings to house each missile.

Each Bomarc has a range of about 400 miles and is propelled by a solid fuel rocket.

The RASE (semi - automatic ground environment) control centre at Trout Lake is scheduled for completion early next year. A three - storey steel structure, housing the control equipment, is being built inside a Diefenbunker to protect the 250 - foot solid rock shield for the installation against nuclear attack.

Atomic Machine Used to Prevent Potato Sprout

OTTAWA (CP) — An atomic machine developed to boost exports of Canadian potatoes and eliminate the need for foreign imports in late spring and early summer went into test operation here Thursday.

The machine was developed by the commercial products division of Atomic Energy of Canada Limited in co - operation with public health officials.

It rays to prevent potatoes from sprouting while in storage.

Known as the "cobalt-60 irradiator," the machine will begin field tests shortly on a farm at Alfred, Ont., 39 miles east of Ottawa. It then will be sent to Truro, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island for further tests.

Millions of pounds of Canadian potatoes annually become unsaleable in some months and useless due to the formation of sprouts. Housewives then prefer high-priced American imports.

Frederick Feiffer, sales manager for the commercial products division, said that if irradiation can prevent sprouting on an economic basis, producers would be able to supply the Canadian market from their own and exporters would be able to ship potatoes which would not sprout for many months after delivery.

BROWN-HAIRED MAN ARRESTED AFTER STABBING

St. Thomas Widow Slain Near Home

ST. THOMAS (CP)—A brown-haired man was arrested today in a police dog a bloodstained, black - handled butcher knife from a pile of trash in their back yard near the home of Mrs. Alma Wilson, middle - aged widow stabbed to death here Thursday night.

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

China's Chou Flaiks Mr. K. For Criticism of Albania

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

CHOU EN-LAI

An open rift over Albania is dividing the Soviet-Chinese bloc, but it has little or no chance of capsizing it.

That was the diplomatic assessment today after the startling disclosure that Chinese Premier Chou En-lai made a speech to the Communist party congress in Moscow Thursday had severely criticized Premier Khrushchev's condemnation of the tiny Communist nation in the Mediterranean.

The long-standing Soviet-Chinese ideological split took a new turn when Chou delivered a virtual attack in defiance of Khrushchev's blasts into the open.

Chou accused Khrushchev of a passing geographical reference to Albania but left no doubt that his clear when he declared that "If there are quarrels in the socialist camp they should be settled by bilateral contacts."

Chou, in his denunciation, also quoted Chou as saying in his 10-minute speech that "public discussion would be detrimental to the cohesion of the socialist camp."

His address followed Khrushchev's denunciation of Albanian Premier Enver Hoxha and his party for attacking the cult of Josef Stalin's personality and their current cardinal sin in the Communist bloc.

Chou began his speech by saying that China is a friend of the Soviet Union and all countries of the Communist camp from

Finish Hearing Mine-Mill Injunction Case

TORONTO (CP) — Argument completed Thursday and judgment reserved concerning the requested extension of an injunction restraining an international leadership of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.) from picketing the administration of Local 598 in Sudbury.

Mr. Justice D. R. Morand reserved over the injunction until at least noon today. He is scheduled to hand down a judgment then.

The injunction was granted following the unprecedented action strike in Sudbury which led to the recalling of the Riot Act.

Lawyer Thurgood Marshall, President Kenneth Smith, fighting the injunction, said he had been told by Local 598 that it was receptive to take over the affairs of Local 598.

The union's district two office in Sudbury, said the national executive board, meeting there since Tuesday, gave approval to Smith taking over after consulting with a publicity committee. He is taken to court the Lo. 598 executive headed by Gibbs.

No action can be taken in Smith until today's court decision.

If Light Right, Wonderful Machine Can Tell Pretty Girl From a Tank

WASHINGTON (AP) — A military device that may be able to select and destroy tanks and report what it sees was demonstrated Thursday with only civilian assistance — a shapely girl and line bosses.

Dr. Nicholas August Schonborg, commanding general of the U.S. Army ordnance missile command at Redstone Arsenal, Ala., gave the demonstration before an American Ordnance Association group.

He explained that the "pattern recognition device" scans light and dark areas and reports the pattern to a computer.

The computer transfers the information to a tape recorder which tells what the scanner sees.

Schonborg first demonstrated the on a stage by holding a two-foot - square black - and - white drawing of a tank against a brightly - lighted backdrop.

The machine scanned it and reported what it sees was demonstrated. Then Schonborg put a girl model in front of the drawing and after a moment a tape recording of the machine said: "Tank . . . tank . . . tank."

Schonborg then held up a chart with the initials of the organization he was addressing. "AOA . . . A.O.A.," he said. "AOA . . . A.O.A.", a taped voice intoned.

For the climax, he summoned before the screen an attractive blonde model.

This time the recording merely repeated again and again, a stylish and appreciative hum.

Schonborg said that at a previous demonstration he failed to pose the young woman clearly enough so that the scanning device picked out the human form.

The result, he said, was that the recorder droned "Tank . . . tank . . . tank."

Fears Increase For Safety of Queen in Ghana

LONDON (Reuters) — Fears for the safety of the Queen during her visit to Ghana next month mounted today, with two influential British newspapers joining in the chorus of concern.

Members of all three parties represented in the House of Commons called Thursday for cancellation of the Queen's visit scheduled to begin Nov. 8.

But Commonwealth Relations Secretary Duncan Sandys rejected the suggestions and said cancellation of the trip would have "a most serious effect" on British-Ghanaian relations.

Both the Guardian of Manchester and the London Times suggest today that the Queen might be in danger should her visit because of possible danger. Ghana has already signalled Premier Kwame Nkrumah.

The Guardian notes that police in Ghana have "considerable experience in public security."

SHOULD RECONSIDER

But, the Guardian says, Nkrumah will almost certainly have to make public appearances with the Queen during her visit.

"If there is any danger that demonstrations against the President would embarrass the Queen, then the visit should of course be reconsidered."

The Times says the safety of the Queen must be "the first consideration—and the possibility of cancellation on this ground must be examined until the moment of arrival."

"Nobody anticipates any attack directed at the Queen herself.

She will, however, appear in public with the president and this may offer to anyone with a grudge against Nkrumah an opportunity which he has been at conspicuous pains of late not to provide."

TYFO Clubs Are Quickly Formed To Help Philip Spur Workers

LONDON (AP) — "Geotic-man," said Prince Philip, "I think it is time we pulled our fingers out."

The Queen's husband likes to use a bit of slang in his public speeches, but still his words gasped — and then roared.

Now the laughter has swelled into a chuckle and tonight Philip's phrase into a national slogan.

One newspaper quickly formed a Take - Your - Fingers-Out, or TYFO, club for readers and headline writers pounced on the idea.

At first the question was: Had he overstepped the mark this time?

Even a sailor like the prince must have hesitated before coming out publicly with a wartime expression that — frankly, chaps—means on the wanger.

The phrase, often employed by army sergeants to jolly recruits, might be translated politely as: "Don't just stand around doing nothing. Get busy."

Philip used it while addressing 120 British industrial chiefs at the London lunch. He was calling for greater productivity.

The Daily Sketch said: "From the language of the millions, the Duke of Edinburgh has plucked a phrase that sums it at once a spur and a reproof."

The paper announced the formation of the TYFO Club "to encourage Philip." It will be presented to "hustlers" in industry. The club's badge is a hand with one out. Black and white.

Most industrialists endorsed Philip's call.

Robert Lancaster, cartoonist of the Daily Express, pictured two elderly dowagers discussing the TYFO campaign in teacups. One is saying:

"Mind dear, you'll explain to me exactly what it is out of which dear Prince Philip is so keen that you should all take our fingers."

Bank of Montreal Will Transfer Facilities to New Section During Weekend

First stage in construction of the new building at Bridge and Front Street for the Bank of Montreal in Belleville branch will be completed this week-end, Norman Keith, branch manager, said today.

Mr. Keith said the branch will transfer to the completed section of the new building this weekend and will be ready for business there on Monday morning.

The old building will now be demolished to make way for the second part of the new structure. The work is expected to take about four months.

The two-stage building program was designed to enable the branch to provide service without interruption throughout the project, Mr. Keith said.

Apart from the large steel-and-reinforced concrete vault, the first stage of the building will be equipped with temporary facilities. These will be replaced with permanent fixtures before the completion of the entire building.

"WALK-UP" WICKET

A special feature of the new B of M building will be a "walk-up" wicket, which will allow customers to transact business without entering the bank. It is the first unit of its kind in Ontario.

The special wicket will come into operation when the entire building is completed. It will be located close to the bank entrance on Bridge St., and will face directly onto the sidewalk.

It has been designed to enable mothers with young children to stay right beside baby carriages while doing their banking.

To be located at a recessed point will be protected from the elements by a canopy. A similar wicket has been in operation at a B of M branch in suburban Montreal for more than two years.

INCREASED FACILITIES

When the building is completed in about four months' time, it will be equipped with a streamlined counter, with accommodation for 15 tellers.

The temporary counter will be dismantled.

For safety-deposit box customers, private coupon booths will be located close to a large steel-and-reinforced-concrete vault on the lower floor. In addition, a conference room, for private discussions with customers, will be situated on the second floor.

A night-safe, which will accommodate a book vault, air-conditioning equipment and additional working area will be located at the rear of the office.

The main floor, mezzanine and second floors will be served by an elevator.

Belleville architects, Watson and Wright, designed the new B of M building, which will be fitted with fluorescent lighting, an acoustic-tile ceiling, rubber-tile flooring and wall panelling.

The exterior of the two-storey building will feature large window areas. It will be trimmed with granite, brick and limestone. Rousseau and Mitchell Construction Ltd., of Kingston, are contractors.

OPENED IN 1861

The Belleville B of M was established 118 years ago, being opened in 1843 when there were only 3,000 people here.

The local office is one of the B of M's oldest branches, since it was opened only 20 years after establishment of the first bank in Montreal in 1817.

First premises here were located on the north side of Victoria Avenue. A few years later, the B of M moved to larger premises on the west side of Front Street, where it remained until 1857. It then transferred to a stone building at Pinnacle Street and Victoria Avenue, a location which served for 65 years.

The site at Bridge and Front Streets, now to be demolished to make way for the new building, was occupied in 1922.

MEXICAN GROWTH

Mexico's population of 35,000,000 in 1895 was almost double the total of 38 years later.

Emergency Meeting Agrees On Transformer Location

TRENTON — Alarmed at the prospect of having 17 less and $14,190 worth of hydro power somewhere on their hands by November 15 and nowhere to put it, members of the Trenton Public Commission took action last night. They called together the chairman of the Trenton Board of Parks' Management, now Police Chief Cecil Ellis and Mayor Jean MacDonald, and presented to a site on the east side of town, to carry out an on-the-spot discussion of a location for the transformer. All factions represented came to an amicable agreement concerning the proposed location. The site will have to be cleared by council and the parks' board, the latter having agreed to go ahead with plans for installing the equipment.

Some weeks ago, Clifford A. Baker, commission chairman, brought the council's permission, to locate the transformer in a triangle of land running between Dixon Drive, Byron Street and Broken Front Road, but council informed him that this land came under the jurisdiction of the parks' board.

BOARD OBJECTED

The parks' board was approached on the matter, and at yesterday's commission meeting, a letter from the board, informing the commission that the board members thought a more suitable location could be found for the transformer, that the transformer would do nothing to enhance the area and that its presence might interfere with future plans of the parks' board, was read. As an afterthought, the board spokesman said that it had only recently been brought to the attention of the board that this triangle of land came under board jurisdiction.

Commissioner Charles Hilton said that the commission wanted to give the people living in the vicinity of the proposed site better hydro facilities. He said that if a new location for the transformer had to be found, it would cost the commission more money, and that the commission couldn't afford to install the equipment.

The parks' board would be doing the people of this area a favor if it allowed the commission to build a sub-station here," said commission chairman C. A. Baker, "the people of the area complain about the low voltage situation."

"It's fair to say that the parks' board is trying to do the people of this area out of better hydro facilities," said the mayor. "The board didn't know that the land belonged to them until recently. I had designated this land for an east side fire hall, although I suppose could find another location for the hall."

"We talked this over," said Mr. Hilton, "We decided that the land could be used for a fire hall and a sub-station, too."

PLAN MULTIPLE USE

The chairman then presented a plan for a transformer substation at the widest part of the triangle of land and placing the fire hall adjacent to the hydro installation. In this way, he said, everyone, including the parks' board members could be pleased as there would be plenty of free land for the east where parks' beautification could be carried out.

At this point, it was decided to contact the persons most concerned and visit the proposed site.

"In all events," said PUC manager James Sharp, "We predict delivery of the transformers on Nov. 15. We want some place to put them."

The delegates to the meeting will be briefed on the operational role of Air Transport Command. This afternoon, they saw a series of flying and ground demonstrations and toured the air station.

The duties of the association is to bring representatives of the air d services and of industry together periodically to discuss mutual problems pertaining to the use and manufacture of service equipment.

Guest speaker at tonight's dinner meeting will be R. B. Curry, director of the Engineering Research Organization at Ottawa.

Curling Season To Be Opened With Bonspiel

The ice-making machine of the Quinte Curling Club has been turned on, work parties have been called for to-day, the rocks and brushoons and the ice, the fees have been set and the boys are ready to curl the curling season which November 3rd. This was the information gleaned at the semi-annual meeting held in the clubhouse last evening with Bob Lanning, the newly-elected president, being in charge for the first time. There were 110 members on hand and all were most enthusiastic for the coming season.

It is the intention of the games committee to open the season with a bonspiel that will include curbed and men's events and this point will rest for a week and a social evening on November 11th will kick off the year. The club will remain the same as last year and the executive committee has budgeted for a surplus of $500 after all disbursements.

At the conclusion of the business meeting a discussion was held on the various activities for the year and Jim White, in charge of club games outlined the new system that will be given a try this year. Ray Campbell will be in charge of all ice activities and Jack Hinn will be a member of subcommittee. Harry Trapper is the house committee chairman, while Dr. McCoubrey Gooding and Fred Black will be in charge of the ice and rock.

DIVIDERS PUT IN

Bill Gault is again in charge of the building and some changes have been made. Dividers have been placed between each curling pad in the slope that will help keep the wall at the west end of the building has been shored so that condensation will be reduced. Sixteen new lockers will be placed in the lounge room and these were the suggestion spoken Charlie Cox will be in charge of all association playdowns and ice time will be available for the rinks to practise. Ralph Gerow will look after the mixed curling.

Murray Johnson will again be in charge of the one-day spiel for club members and it was pointed out that to make these a success the members must enter their rinks. Anyone who wishes to curl in these events must arrange for a rink and pay the entry fee. Bill Riley stated there would be four bonspiels this season, the opening, Christmas, annual and closing.

The annual bonspiel which will be held from January 23 to 28, inclusive, and will be a combined one with Trenton Curling Club and the RCAF Club. The cost will be $5 per rink and a fine program of entertainment has been arranged. Excellent prizes will be offered and a concerted effort will be made to make this an outstanding event in this district. Many outside rinks will be invited and Bill Gault who is chairman of registrations for the event, has already received entries, some being turned in last night.

The club games provided the lengthiest discussion and the challenge was sure the system would work better than the one that has been in use since the club started. There will be three divisions, and the committee will classify the curlers. At the end of the first draw the two top teams from Division "B" and two will move up, while the two bottom rinks of Division "A" and "B" will drop down. This will give competitive curling. The rinks will be picked by a ballot of the club. The winners will play off at the end of the draw and at the end of the season a playoff will be held for the Gault trophy. Miniatures of the cup will be given with suitable prizes. After adjournment the members held a social evening, many of whom had not seen their fellow members since the closing of the club in the spring.

After selecting a wreath, president Kirby, also a member of the poppy committee, was asked to lay the wreath on the floral tribute with a Front St. store window. New Watermain in Hillcrest Has Now Been Completed

Extension of the city watermain into the Hillcrest area as far as the Hillcrest Public School is expected to considerably relieve a long time serious water shortage in that area.

Construction of the new main has now been completed by the public utilities commission and the first of the domestic water connections are expected to go in shortly.

And with many of the domestic wells in the area again commencing to go bad, the realization of city water has not come too soon. Many residents in the Hillcrest area are already hauling their water for household use.

City water service to the Hillcrest school is expected to be completed this weekend in the absence with a hospital that will include enlisted and men's and ladies' toilet will relieve the water situation".

Hydro service for the school is obtained from a well supplemented by tank drawn city water.

None of the domestic services to residential properties have yet gone in but utilities officials expected these would be started as soon as possible.

The only domestic water hookups to the use of Hillcrest residents who will not be getting city water service, will also be installed on the watermain.

Installation of the new watermain was done by utilities staff and the actual running slightly above the estimate for the work. Heavy rock excavation was required, while water seepage in the rock also served to slow the work.

Petitions have also been received by the utilities for watermain service on McFarland and University streets in the Hillcrest area but it is not expected the work will commence this year.

The utilities department is currently installing a watermain along Canniffon Road between Byron Street and Clifford Street. During the installation traffic along Canniffon road will be inconvenienced.

Enlist Help of Children In Hunt for Fire Hazards

Enlisting the interest of the younger children in a clean-up campaign around the home is the latest idea being done by the grassroots of fire-prevention.

This is the feeling of Belleville Fire Chief Gerald Vance, who said he had been a most successful response on the part of school children in returning questionnaires on fire hazards which had been handed out during Fire Prevention Week.

The chief said over 3,000 questionaires had been handed out and to date 1,500 had been returned. So far there had been a 98 per cent response in the return of the questionaires which indicates parents indicating that the home had been checked for fire hazards.

Each of the children returning the questionnaire receives a red fire helmet and a junior fire marshal's badge. In addition the school with the highest percentage return receives a banner.

PRIZES FOR POSTERS

As their role in the observation of the Fire Prevention Week, students had been asked to draw posters. with prizes to be awarded for the highest in each school.

The fire chief noted that Fire Prevention Week meant fire drills at all of the city's public, separate and private schools including the Ontario School for the Deaf.

During the fesis, 4,400 public school children 1,350 separate school children and 3,000 high school students filed in orderly fashion from their classrooms to the sound of the fire gong.

Fire drills at the Ontario School for the Deaf included a night time alarm with the students being aroused from their beds in dormitory rooms.

DRILL AT HOSPITAL

The week's program also saw a fire drill at the Belleville General Hospital, calling for all employees to report to specified positions under the direction of supervising nurses

Hospital employees under a new fire drill system are thoroughly versed in evacuation procedure and in what other action is required.

Student nurses at the hospital took part in fire extinguisher instruction in fire prevention as part of their initial nursing training. They view films covering the protection of patients in case of emergency and receive talks on fire prevention as well as demonstrations on the use of fire extinguishers.

First Project Of Winter Work To Start Soon

The first project of the city's winter works program — reconstruction of sidewalks in various sections of the city — will be commenced early next week, it was said today by City Engineer Malcolm Turnbull.

The first sidewalks to be rebuilt as a winter works project will be on Pinnacle Street opposite the Quinte Hotel. Under the winter works plan the city is reimbursed 75 per cent of the labor costs by the government.

This is the first year which winter reconstruction has been approved as a winter works project.

Other construction work on the Dundas Street, East, and Fahey sanitary sewers, the latter in connection let in connection with the city's two and a half million dollar sewage disposal project, is expected to get underway within a few days. This work has also been approved as a winter works project.

Street construction in the Edgehill-Victoria Ave. area has been completed widenewer and watermain construction on Bridge Street between Southwood and Farley Ave. is now underway.

low candidate Rev. A. W. Downer that the province's new mains tax is a disaster."

Mr. Dymond remarked that Mr. Downer hadn't opposed the mains law when he was elected, but instead practical universal access for Belleville to the Bell Telephone system.

The health minister said, however, that the new "rural disillusioned" at the number of people who are demanding that the people pay for "every little constitutional barrier, he said, "if we had to ballot the matter up with my colleagues."

FAVORS DIRECT TAX

Mr. Dymond said he personally favors a tax that hits the people, know what government is costing them, i.e. a direct one.

Provincial Treasurer James N. Allan was in Chatham and Sarnia. At Chatham he told newspaper delegates from East County that he isn't in favor of a sales tax.

"I do not believe," he said, "that any one man can alone give direction and leadership this province needs at this time."

Mr. Allan was introduced to his audience at Sarnia by Highways Minister Fred Cass, who said while Mr. Allan has the leadership candidates "haven't got a clue about some of the matters that concern the operation of the Ontario government."

He told the Lambton County delegates:

"The other candidates are my friends, but . . . they are not aware of such things as Dominion-provincial relations and the operations of departments other than their own."

IS ADVISED

Mr. Allan, he said, was both Premier Frost's right - hand man and adviser of other cabinet members.

Energy Resources Minister Macaulay said he was on way to speak to delegates from the two Ottawa-Hull ridings.

Mr. Macaulay said the convention's job should be to create the image of a party capable of tackling the problems of the future with vigor and imagination.

The party "cannot stand on the past or be all record," he said. "It must stand for greater development in the future."

The 40 - year - old energy resources minister said he alone among the seven candidates had taken the position this was the time to discuss principles and programs.

RETA Enjoys Annual Banquet, Talk on TV Work

On Wednesday evening at Tabernacle United Church, Mr. St. Lorch, Ontario president of the Radio and Electronic Technicians' Association, addressed the annual banquet. He pointed to increased association membership as cause for considerable enthusiasm in the service industry as this industry is largely composed of the younger generation, who are the graduates of the better technical and trade schools. He reported that RETA head office has been consulted by education and consumer groups who are interested in the required qualifications for a domestic electronic service-man. He concluded with the formula for future success of RETA by calling the members to the application of sound business principles and plenty of hard work.

"Hard work," he said, "knows no season, its evasion brings rapid disintegration and requires the spirit to do a little better than before in every task, never resting on only approaching, the ideal goal. This spirit will stand you for public confidence and community prestige."

The Quinte Chapter of RETA announced the presentation of a $50 award to Mr. Hugh Ellis, who graduated from Moira Secondary School. - Mr. Little also showed slides showing exceptional aptitude in radio and TV servicing.

Mrs. Wallace provided an hour of colored slides of wild animals, birds and fish, commonly seen in Ontario. This presentation was enthusiastically received by the RETA members, many of whom are ardent hunters and fishermen.

The speakers were thanked by W. Slavin and Morgan Ames.

Protest Bomb Test

Canada has registered a formal protest against Russia's plan to explode a 50-megaton nuclear bomb.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker has declared that the explosion "would be a crime against humanity." Liberal leader Lester Pearson has asserted that "world opinion should be mobilized at once to condemn this." The leaders of Canada's two major political parties are thus in complete agreement. They are certain to receive the whole-hearted backing of every thinking Canadian.

Unfortunately, the protest, was rejected by the Russians. Only if they believed they could reap a propaganda advantage by cancelling the test, or if they suddenly became convinced that proceeding with it would harm their own interests, would the Kremlin leaders change their minds.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker must certainly be aware of this fact. However, the formal protest may conceivably achieve something in a different realm, in winning the support of other nations similarly concerned by the increased radioactivity in the atmosphere as the result of this test.

Mr. Pearson's suggestion that Canada should take the initiative at the UN in condemning the proposed test of the Russian super-bomb seems to overlook the fact that the weight of such a protest would probably be greater if it were sponsored by some of the non-aligned nations.

The world would suppose, if these tests increasing radioactivity in the air on this continent, that a similar increase in radioactivity would be even more noticeable in China. What a sensation would be created if the communist leaders of that country raised objections, particularly as they have opposed Khrushchev's "peaceful coexistence" theme, with its contention that war between the communist and capitalist countries is not inevitable.

Such a development, though, is not to be hoped for. China almost certainly looks forward to the day when she, in turn, will be testing nuclear weapons. With her vast population she, better than most countries, can afford an increase in cancer deaths and the high number of abnormal babies which may result from the radioactive poisoning of the air.

There remains the mystery of why Khrushchev, who is on record as saying that there is no such thing as a "clean" nuclear bomb, should proceed with these tests. Unless he has taken leave of his senses, he cannot believe that they will provide Russia with a bomb which will cow the U.S. into submission. A possible reason for the tests would be that Russia has been lagging far behind the U.S. in the power of the nuclear weapons which it has developed, and wishes to catch up, but this does not appear to check with reports of the apparent power of Russian weapons tested earlier.

Too Speedy by Half

In the field of illusion, one of the most fascinating demonstrations of the fact that the appearance of things depends as much on the viewpoint as on anything else is provided by films of aerial warfare. We are all familiar with these films, which show tracer bullets rushing towards, or away from, the plane from which the pictures were taken. The apparently curving path of these bullets, made by projectiles which actually travel in a straight line - - - or a very close approximation to such a line - - - is remarkable.

None of these pictures, though, ever showed a bullet apparently going in the opposite direction from that in which it was actually travelling. Such, though, would be the picture of anti-ack taken from the new U.S. X-15 rocket plane, undergoing its trials, if we understand things correctly.

With its flaps down to retard its speed, the X-15 travelled the other day at a speed of 3,920 miles an hour. This is described as twice the speed of a bullet. In other words, if a pursuing plane fired at the X-15, the rocket plane would just outrun the bullet. Or, if the bullet were fired from the X-15 when it was proceeding at a low rate of speed, it could presumably speed up and catch the bullet.

Shakespeare talked of engineers hoist with their own petards, but today it is apparently impossible for a pilot to be shot down by his own cannon.

Peace Corps Only Helps Its Members

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Lecturing at a college in Michigan recently, I was asked what I thought of the Peace Corps. Apparently the project had aroused considerable interest in a lot of American undergraduates.

The Peace Corps, it seems to me, will have absolutely no effect upon peace or war. It is a fine idea for such students, taking to influence the course of world events. Nor will it do much good or harm for the underdeveloped countries.

If we accept these two tenets as true, then the Peace Corps must improve of the Peace Corps whole-heartedly — for what it will do to the American youths who take part in it.

It is education of the best sort — education that involves young adults in the problems and suffering of others. It will broaden the sympathies and deepen the understanding of the boys and women who enroll in the Corps. It is better, in many ways, than a year in college.

Indeed, I should like to see a year's college credit given to those who serve a year in the Corps. Some of the wealthier Eastern colleges, I think, already include a year's stay in Europe as part of their four-year curriculum. Why they can't afford this educational luxury.

I should like to see the Peace Corps transformed into a permanent institution. Then, as a living link between Government and the colleges, it would be beneficial to young people in terms of college students could be induced to spend time in the Corps for a year abroad, as members of the corps, with full academic credit for their work. Such a system would be a

As Dr. Lawrence Kubie points out in his valuable book "Neurotic Distortion of the Creative Process," maturity and wisdom are developed not by college but by participating in the needs of others.

Young people of college age are turned-doo much inward upon themselves in their pursuit of a career; they are pushed by them neurotically self-concerned at precisely the time in their emotional lives when they most need to turn outward to the world, to give of themselves, to identify with the problems of sufferings of others.

If the course of formal study is too prolonged, the student may adopt cynicism as a defense; help but not broad wisdom. Breaking that study with a specified pattern with a year of immersion work among the less fortunate of the earth would be ideal preparation for college students — and not do much harm to their relations with the rest of the world.

It would be immensely native to believe that the Peace Corps would be an end in itself, simply a discussion of the situation. Sargent Shriver later for Toronto where he will meet the government committees on organization. Then and likely a statement will be out on his return.

Commercializing Sunday Opposed

Ontario Intelligencer:

From your editorial in editorial in Saturday's paper I take these sentences:

"Sunday sports, Sunday movies, Sunday bowling — all these should be subject of referendums at the next municipal election.

"If the voters are consistent, they will either approve them all, or reject them all."

As you will realize the voters, I suggest that they read Sunday's Talk" by George Matthew Adams, which appears on your editorial page "Wherefore art thou not the whole armor of God" (Ephesians 6:13).

"Are you a Christian?" Or part of it but the whole of it. Everyone, even so-called "unbelievers" admits the truth of at least some Christian beliefs. The trouble with most of us is that we tend to accept and practice those commandments in the Christian gospel which "More and more thoughtful people are coming to think the need of road-makers for God.

"What would have become of the United States' highways during pioneers had not been accompanied by the circuit-riding preachers, the cabin-building teachers and the law-abiding Christians?"

It is the conviction of the writer that commercializing Sunday will make it more difficult for home and church to observe Sunday as a day for the proper respect for the Lord's Day.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

EVEN THESE CAN BE ANSWERED

If we discover people on other planets, will they be concerned with them and exchange information, the theologians will have to be called upon some of their doctrines and do a bit of revising?

We may have to ask ourselves over again, Who was Jesus Christ? Was he only our Saviour and Lord, or was he members of a race of superior beings already believed. But if He is this to us, what was He, and what is He, to the people of other planets? Did he die for them as He died for us? Have they been to be redeemed from a fallen state? Is the heaven we hope to reach the same heaven they hope to reach its same place?

Probably the best way to approach the problem is to adopt the fact that we have a revelation and a system of beliefs and morals which are suited to us and our needs. We know God Christ and the heavenly powers have in store for people of other planets — if there are such beings — we do not know and perhaps may never know but as we attend to our own spiritual business as God has set it by Him we are led to be sure that God will be able to handle the matters of cosmic import since without our help, and that we need not worry too much about them.

Space exploration may raise interesting theological problems, but we shall wait until we come to them, confident that there is an answer to all questions.

Hard Labor In Vineyard

Helping to gather grapes on some sunny hillside in France is the golden days of autumn sounds a romantic pastime, but it is certainly not one for idle dreamers unprepared to face long, strenuous hours and aching backs, BBC reporter Tim Healy discovered this when he and his wife spent a holiday working in a French vineyard as two of a "family" of twelve containing Madame Bonnet, two of two German boys, two English girls, a Dutch and an Italian girl, "plus Alsatian patron," his wife and two children.

"We had imagined," said Neale in a recent BBC broadcast, "that picking grapes from a soft of trellis, and we would sit back and toss them into a basket; the wines grew along wire fences about waist high, and it was only when you looked down that your chin was level with your knees that you saw it is a grape almost dangling on the ground." And so he progressed along the rows, bent double, bowl over, left elbow on knee to support sometimes pound in the right hand, left hand reaching for a bunch of grapes, clip with the knife, left hand for another bunch, still bent double.

On reaching the top of the rise where he had thought the labor ended, he saw it developing a real irregularity in which the auricle (or upper chamber of the ventricle) receives an off-rhythm impulse to beat.

Fortunately contractions are usually caused by some toxic condition, such as resulting from excess coffee or tobacco; certain nervous states; or by the presence of indigestion.

The premature contractions can be eliminated if and correct them, other than those used to combat the underlying intoxication, nervous condition, or other cause.

Such medication is used with good effect in certain menstrual irregularities. It has also been used (because it is "rebound effect.") in encouraging pregnancy. To Your Good Health

Prune Juice Not Harmful To Chronic Colitis Victim

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

More and more people are recognizing that "heart trouble" is a mighty broad term. This is gratifying. People are becoming so much better informed on health problems than they were a generation ago, or even a few years ago.

One result is that my readers are asking much more specific questions, like this one:

"Dear Doctor: What is the difference between auricular fibrillation and premature contractions of the heart? Is there a cure? — Mrs. P. R."

Auricular fibrillation (fibrillation can be described as a light, rapid quivering instead of a solid, concerted beat) is what we call "an irregular irregularity." The auricles (upper chambers of the heart) receive the impulse to beat at an irregular pace. The ventricles (lower chambers) receive their impulses at a different rate, also irregular.

Control of auricular fibrillation is the goal — control, because of the difficulty in finding a cure for the basic disorder. Drugs such as digitalis or quinidine are frequently used for this.

Premature contractions, on the other hand, are an occasional irregularity in which the auricle (or upper chamber of the ventricle) receives an off-rhythm impulse to beat.

Fortunately contractions are usually caused by some toxic condition, such as resulting from excess coffee or tobacco; certain nervous states; or by the presence of indigestion.

The premature contractions can be eliminated if and correct them, other than those used to combat the underlying intoxication, nervous condition, or other cause.

No, no harm from either.

A blood sugar value of less than 130 before breakfast is considered normal. Hence at 86 I would consider this man's case quite satisfactory indeed. (Pills are most likely to be useful among diabetics 30 years of age and over).

• • •

As to alimuth, the loss (via urine) has to be replaced because protein is necessary in maintaining the tissues. I would say that therefore an egg a day and an average serving of meat is quite allowable. If your doctor has reason, unknown to me, for thinking otherwise, follow his instructions.

Names Often Misleading

Ottawa Journal

A Canadian Chamber of Commerce News Letter makes the statement that:

"Socialism and communism differ only in degree and the acceptance of one could very easily lead into the other."

The editor of the News Letter makes too much of the fact that Socialist Communists call themselves socialists. It is absurd to suggest that that makes them Socialists. The Attlees, the Gaitskells, the Bevans, the Douglases, Names can be misleading. The tyranny that is East Germany calls itself the German democratic Republic.

Canada's socialist parties that assume power and relinquish power at the will of the people proceed in free elections differ fundamentally, not merely in degree, from Communists who assume power by force and hold it by terror.

There is no danger that socialism in Canada have no need to base their case on distortions.

TODAY'S TALK

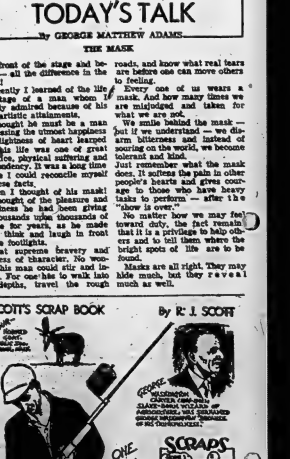
By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE MASK

In front of the stage and behind — all the difference in the world!

Recently I learned of the life of stage of a man whom I greatly admired because of his high artistic attainments.

I thought he must be a man possessing the richness, depth and lightness of heart learned that his life was one of great sacrifice, physical suffering and despondency. It was a long time before I could reconcile myself to these facts.



Then I thought of his mask! I thought of the generosity and happiness he had been giving to thousands upon thousands of people for years, as he made them think and laugh in front of the footlights.

What supreme bravery and fineness of character. No one, no man could stir and inspire. For one-like to walk into the depths, travel the rough roads, and know what real tears are before one can move others to feeling.

Every one of us wears a mask. And how many times we are misjudged and taken for what we are not — after the "show is over."

No matter how we may feel toward duty, the fact remain that it is a privilege to help others and to tell them, where the bright spots of life are to be found.

Masks are all right. They may hide much, but they reveal much as well.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The more labor saving devices we perfect, the busier we appear to be. The stores are always the necessity of physical exercise, with push buttons. Escalators, elevators, household appliances and automation in industry, the bigger life we have seem to be getting into. The truth is, we have far less leisure than our forebears, our grandmothers had; and for all our labor saving, we actually work harder than our forebears. They may have worried a lot over heavy hour day, but at the end of it, they relaxed. We don't relax. We are invited by a score of gadgets right at hand to keep on the fume. Transportation's vast expansion not only made it easier to go places, it nagged us into going. Communication has been so speeded up that we feel we must keep communicating. In the evening we turn on the radio and TV, grab the newspapers and magazines, and settle down to the fun of being free for a couple of fresh paperbacks. Jump when the telephone rings, chat withsomebody five hundred miles away.

Each labor saving device only leaves us free for other labors. Each new contribution to the art of easy living helps us another spurt along the unsavory road of restless life.

Juniors Lose

Quinte Defeats Moira

By JOE CLAPP

Quinte and Moira Secondary Schools football squads split a scheduled COSSA twin bill yesterday, on Quinte's dust-swept gridiron.

Quinte exploded in the second half of the junior game to score 25 points and win going away by a 33-0 count.

Moira's junior squad squeezed out a narrow 3-1 victory. The field was dry and dust plagued the players all afternoon.

SENIOR GAME

Quinte Seniors started slowly but when they came on, they burst all the way.

Quinte lost no time in getting on the scores sheet. After the kickoff by Moira they moved to the Moira 35. They were held and were forced to punt. The Moira receiver was caught in the end zone for a single point. Moira failed to move from the 35 and punted. Quinte took over on their own 45 and drove to the Moira 30. Skinner threw to Chapman who combined to complete a 30-yard play for a touchdown. The convert was blocked.

On the kickoff after the T.D. Hall put one through the end zone for a single. At the end of the half Quinte led 8-0.

Quinte kicked off to open the second half. Moira was held on their own 15 and punted. A pass from Skinner to Chapman put Quinte in possession on the Moira six yard line. Skinner scored for Quinte on an end run. The convert was missed.

After the kickoff, Moira failed to move from mid-field. They were forced to kick. After each team had intercepted a pass, Quinte moved to the Moira 8-yard line on a 65-yard run by Chapman. Moira stiffened and took over on their own 10-yard line. They, too, failed to move and Rathwell, back to punt, was caught on the 1-yard line after a bad snap from centre. Les Hall powered over for the score. The convert was blocked.

After Quinte had intercepted a Moira pass they scored again. Skinner hit Oliver in the end zone for a 30-yard touchdown pass. The convert was missed.

After the kickoff, Moira ran out the downs and Quinte gained possession on the Moira 23. Chapman faked a kick and passed to Skinner for a touchdown, his second of the day. Les Hall ran the extra point to run the score to 33-0 and wrap up the game.

JUNIOR GAME

The junior game was close from start to finish. It was a mud game for both teams. If Quinte had won they would have been in sole possession of first place. Since Moira won, the five teams are tied for first place. End provided the win for their respective games they will meet again in a playoff for the league championship.

The defensive teams for both schools deserve a good deal of credit. Only four points were scored in the game. Moira had a slight edge in offence but this was equalled by Quinte's hard tackling.

The first half was a punting duel. The deepest penetration came in the second quarter. Moira recovered a Quinte fumble at mid-field and after a Pike kick and a run by Bob Murray, Moira moved in to the Quinte ten yard line. They could not penetrate the end zone and a procedure penalty coupled with a good defence gave Quinte possession on their own twelve yard line. Quinte's best drive was a 66 yard effort which came late in the second quarter. They were stopped at the Moira 25 and forced to kick. In the first half Moira completed two forwards and Quinte recovered a fumble and made an interception.

The play in the second half was much the same as that of the first half. Moira opened the scoring early in the third quarter. After both teams had punted once, T. Savage intercepted a Quinte pass to give Moira possession on the Quinte 25-yard line. Moira moved in to the fifteen and Ron Faulkner kicked a fifteen yard field goal to put Moira in front 3-0. Quinte's only scoring play came midway through the last quarter when Quinte punted from the Moira 30 yard line. Quinte's Doug Manster caught R. Faulkner in the end zone for the point to conclude the scoring.

IRE Hears Talk on' Radio Telescopes'

On Wednesday evening the Bay of Quinte section of the Institute of Radio Engineers held the first meeting of the 1961-1962 season. Dr. R. M. Chisholm, assistant professor of Electrical Engineering at Queen's University at Kingston, presented an interesting talk on the work presently going on at Queen's University in the field of radio telescopes.

Dr. Chisholm showed slides and discussed the radio telescope developments at Queen's. He outlined the types of radio telescopes that are presently in use in the world today and the interesting and unexpected information that has been contributed to scientific knowledge by this relatively new technique.

EXPLODING STARS

Back in 1054 A.D. some individuals in China fortunately left records of a star explosion which they had observed. This and some other records of star explosions have been correlated with strong radio signals coming from these same sources. These exploding stars have disappeared to such an extent that they probably would not have been discovered with optical telescopes but the radio telescopes not been able to find their exact position.

The radio telescopes have also given considerable information about the galaxis the Milky Way. Since light waves are absorbed in the stellar dust, optical telescopes can not see what the rest of the galaxie looks like. But radio waves do not have this limitation.

Some idea of the amount of light which is absorbed by the interstellar dust is indicated by the calculations of one scientist who states that if the stellar dust were not absorbing the light the world would get more light from the galaxis at night than it does from the sun during the day.

The next meeting of the Institute of Radio Engineers will be held in Kingston on November 15 when Dr. Pullan of RCA, in Montreal, will talk on Semiconductor Radiation Detectors.

Advisory Board for Blind Gets Encouraging Report

By GLADYS WARD

At the meeting of the Hastings County Advisory board for the blind on Wednesday evening, it was shown in the report of the Canada Trust Treasurer, Mr. W. J. Simpson, that $6,818.75 which is seventy-five per cent of the budget had been received by the Board from the United Appeal in the current years of work. The results from the rest of the County were not complete, but showed the radio telescope encouraging returns.

The meeting was held at the home of Chairman R. S. Fahrman, Chester St., who presided. The secretary, Mrs. Cleorge Wishart read the minutes and correspondence. A letter from Dr. G. Gordon Robertson presented five membership in the Community Concert Association for the use of blind persons in the district in memory of his brother, Mrs. Stewart Robertson. These memberships were given to Mr. J. Towner and Mrs. Towner, Mrs. Ida Mae Lowe, and Miss Pat Baverstock. Mrs. Lowe is motion-ed grateful appreciation for this thoughtful gift.

In a report from the Board of Governors, it was announced that Mr. and Mrs. R. Nicolson, R. R. 7 Belleville, have been engaged as maintenance men and matrons respectively, at the Quinte-St. Lawrence residence in Kingston.

Mrs. Ida Rollins reported for the White Cane club stating that meetings were held twice a month with the ladies of the Kinsette club and Kiwanis club serving lunch at afternoon meetings. From twenty-five to thirty attended the meetings and there was a growing interest in bowling. The Board recommended that half the cost of White Cane bowling members would be assumed by the Board.

Plans for the annual Christmas dinner for the blind were discussed with the arrangements to be made by Mrs. H. Seldon, Mrs. H. Rollins and Mrs. G. Wishart. A pre-Christmas sale of Bluecraft products will be held on November 17 and 18.

Miss Elinor Rollins read a review of the work done by the social secretary showing eye services and glasses provided for a large number. In one case a "seeing baby" was stricken with blindness. One girl had required her sight after an operation and was provided with glasses and now was no longer registered with C.N.I.B. Prevention of blindness by early examination and treatment was a most important phase of the work. Five residents of the Quinte - St. Lawrence received supplementary payments. Travelling in Toronto was given to two young men; radio batteries and repairs were provided; artificial eyes, foot oil, clothing and white canes were given, as well as Braille alarm clocks and talking books.

In his report Field secretary Don Ferguson spoke of travel conditions in the buses and railways which were being used, when a blind person and his escort can travel on one ticket. Many visits had been made to the blind in the County to find their needs and various requests were approved.

Field secretary F. I. Timmins reported that there were 136 blind in the County, with 43 in Belleville. Mr. Timmins also spoke in many district schools, distributing gifts at the Christmas season. Part of the work in progress on children the Improvement of eyesight.

Miss Myrtle Peck was appointed social and Christmas gift convener to look after the women registered with C.N.I.B., and Messrs. T. Flurey, G. Wishart, K. Fairman and Dr. Welsh will distribute gifts to the men.

At the close of the business meeting refreshments were served.

VON Gives Month's Report

The regular monthly meeting of the Victorian Order of Nurses was held at the Y.M.C.A. Monday, October 16th.

Two letters were read from Head Office, one stating that Mr. Sloane had retired after 25 years as treasurer. Major R. H. Crook will take over his duties. The other letter stated that Miss Catherine Ross will continue as Regional Director and will let the VON know when she will visit the local branch.

The treasurer's report was given by Mr. A. Gignac. He also reported on the prices for renting a car for V.O.N. use. Mr. Gignac was advised by the Board to approach the taxi companies for a reduced rate, as it was ascertained that the Health Department receives one.

Mrs. J. Nelles has received V.O.N. Mobiles to distribute in the stores for advertising purposes.

NURSES REPORT

The head nurse, Miss Dorothy Conner gave the nurse's report for September. It showed that 388 home visits were made to 86 patients. Although the case load for September was the same as a year ago, there had been a decrease in care to medical and chronically ill. There was a small increase in visits to mothers and babies as compared to the same period a year ago.

Under the heading, "Special Activities", two half days were spent at Cannifton-Corbyville School, two half days at Douglas Atkins School and two half days assisting the Belleville Department of Health at the Child Health Conferences at the Kiwanis Centre.

Provincial Treasurer's Wife 'Do-It-Yourselfer'

REGINA (CP) — Mrs. Woodrow S. Lloyd, wife of Saskatchewan's provincial treasurer and deputy premier, is a "do-it-yourselfer."

She makes all her own clothes and those of the four children, and styles her own hats and hat-dos. She also does all her own housework and cooking.

"Any other time I'm home, I spend rug-hooking", said Mrs. Lloyd. Her tastes in clothes are simple.

"No fads, unless they flatter me. I'm rather short for a figure, and it is easier for me to make my own clothes."

Of cooking, her favorite recipes are casseroles and spicy dishes. But she says cooking is not one of her most enjoyable pastimes.

ACTIVE FAMILY

The charming 50 - year - old woman told of the progress of her children: Maureen, 24, Dianne, 20, Michael, 18 and Evan, 2.

Maureen, now Mrs. Ken Neeman, is teaching in Whitehorse where her husband attends the dental college. Dianne has just completed a one-month tour of the Soviet Union, sponsored by the National Federation of Canadian University Students, and now is studying towards a master's degree in sociology at the University of London, England.

Michael and Evan — respectively in grades VII and III — keep the two-storey grey stucco house here lively with their dog Pat, their cat Ginger and their hamster, Henry.

Mrs. Lloyd was born Victoria Marie Leiman in the small Saskatchewan town named for her father, one of that district's first homesteaders.

She and her husband — they celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary this year — met through the teaching profession.

"I was teaching in a school near my home town when Woodrow came to our district to teach," she explained. "We teachers had formed something of a social club, and it was through this club that I met my husband."

NEW CAREER

For five years following their marriage they lived in Vancouver, Sask., where Mr. Lloyd was a school principal. They moved to Biggar, Sask., in 1941 and remained until 1944 when Mr. Lloyd was elected to the Saskatchewan legislature. Then they moved permanently to Regina.

"The whole business was new and interesting to us," Mrs. Lloyd said. "At that time we didn't know what we were getting into.

"The irregularity of having my husband away from home was hard getting used to, at first. I rarely accompanied him on any of his campaign trips because of the children."

A common political background has been an asset.

"I was interested in the CCF party before I met my husband, and was active in many ways."

AOTS Elects 1961-2 Officers

The regular October supper meeting of Tabernacle Men's Club AOTS was held Tuesday night, with attendance a little lower than evening. A report on scouting was given by group committee chairman, Ley Andrews and some of his leaders. This report was a source of pride for the Men's Club, who are sponsors of Belleville 6th Scout Troop, in that the leaders informed those present that approximately 50 per cent of their Cubs and Scouts are from outside churches which speaks well indeed for the calibre of leaders now engaged at Belleville 6th. Plans were made for the Men's Scout and Church service to be taken by the Men's Club on October 29th. Also, that the Club will sponsor an old-fashion hot meal and crokinole party to be held in November.

A nominating committee, consisting of the president and all past presidents, was named to fill the executive offices for 1962. Present officers are: T. K. Sprackett, president; R. M. Sargent, vice-president; R. H. Shufelt, secretary; and M. H. Graham, treasurer.

The meeting was open for a round-table discussion for a short period. The Rev. McFarlane pronounced the benediction.

Primary Objective of WHO Outlined by Head Nurse

VANCOUVER (CP) — Training people of underdeveloped countries to care for themselves now is the primary objective of the World Health Organization, says Norma Wylie, head of nursing education at Singapore General Hospital.

Miss Wylie, former head of in-service nursing training at Vancouver General, returned here during a brief leave from her W.H.O. Singapore assignment.

Births and tropical diseases were the original targets after the Second World War, but the emphasis now has shifted to education.

Miss Wylie, who received her training at Saskatoon City Hospital, took post graduate work at the University of Toronto and obtained her B.Sc. in nursing at the University of British Columbia. Joined W.H.O. in 1957.

During the last 5½ years she has been attached to the 1,000-bed Singapore General where there are 500 student nurses.

"Do you realize that there are more than 2,000 beds in Vancouver General and only 500 student nurses?

"Mostly, as well as education, could be an incentive in Singapore. Immediately a student enrols she becomes a civil servant and receives equal pay. They are paid better than students across this country."

As well as teaching others to help themselves, Miss Wylie now is training six registered nurses to be instructors.

"And we have our first Singapore RN attending McGill University this year on a scholarship."

Education in family planning and hygiene are two additional fields where the W.H.O. is concentrating its efforts.

"In Singapore the average family consists of 10 or 12 children. She said, "If most of the nearly 120 births daily in Singapore Maternity and most of the mothers still have their babies at home, which they now, due largely to W.H.O. courses, is midwifery."

Hygiene is not a critical problem in Singapore where most of the population is metropolitan.

"Actually, we could take lessons on good personal grooming from them."

Roll call was answered by reading in donations to the bazaar.

Mrs. Farol McDonald was in charge of the devotional which dealt with the topic, "Commissioned for Service". Scripture reading taken from Mathew 28:16-20 was read by Mrs. Walter Taylor. Reading "Boy and His Bible" was given by Mrs. Hazael Preston.

Mrs. Macomald gave a fine reading, "Mountains in Church". Correspondence followed. Plans for the bazaar were made.

The ladies were pleased to have the Rev. J. Veasey present during the meeting.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Preston.

Ladies of Latter Day Saints Name Officers

The ladies of the women's department of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints met Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. S. C. Rice, 31 Northwood Crescent.

The worship period was conducted/by Mrs. S. C. Rice using the theme "Our Transformation Through Obedience to God's Laws."

Mrs. W. L. Cannift taught the lesson on "Stewardship in the Home."

The new executive is as follows:

Women's leader, Mrs. S. C. Rice; assistant leader, Mrs. A. Bond; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. W. Harrison; friendly visitor and cradle roll superintendent, Mrs. W. L. Cannift.

Home-School President To Be Speaker

A highlight of the forthcoming Area "C" Conference for Home and School members at Oshawa Central Collegiate on Saturday, will be the opportunity to hear and meet the Ontario Federation president, Mrs. John Cropper.

Mrs. Cropper will be the principal speaker during the afternoon sessions and her topic will be "Practical Programming".

Mrs. Cropper has been active in Home and School for at least seventeen years, starting out as a member of the Alexandra Home and School Association in St. Catharines, when her daughters were attending that school.

She served in various capacities, finishing up as president for three years. She then moved on to the presidency of the St. Catharines Home and School Council for two years, after which she was the District Organizer of Area "G" and a provincial vice-president for three years, as well as camp director and leadership training chairman. For two years she was executive vice-president of the Ontario Federation and is now serving her second year as Ontario Federation President.

Despite the heavy responsibilities she has carried in Home and School, Mrs. Cropper does not neglect either civic or community services. She serves on the Juvenile and Family Court Committee, and is the Board of Education's representative to the Recreation Commission. Too, she is an active member of the Rebekah Lodge. There are two daughters and two grandchildren to share her spare moments. Mr. Cropper is the Assistant Fire Chief in St. Catharines and also takes an active part in community affairs.

There is not an Association that does not at some time or another have problems with programming! Here is the opportunity to learn "how-to-do-it" from an expert!

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Jimmy N. — I think I should be paid for all jobs, at home or elsewhere.

Mr. N. — A son should be proud to be able to be of service to his family.

Jimmy N. — I'm 18 years old and I'm trying my darndest to save up for an English racing bike. For others I get at least a dollar, and often as much as three dollars. But when I do these jobs at home, I get praise and compliments but no cash to be counted out of time I could be making money. Dad should help out and make believe I'm a stranger.

Mr. H. N. — I think it's all wrong to pay a child for work he should do in a normal family. This turns the dinner table into a market place where rates get haggled over and parents and children turn into tradesmen.

When Jim shovels the snow off the front walk, it's just a matter of love doing it. It's for all of us, not a job I hired him to do for me.

I'm proud of Jim's determination to get that fancy bike and of his search for gainful employment to that end. But he might as well learn early that business and family don't mix. I'm sure he'd rather be treated like a son and not, as he asks, like a stranger.

The Council — Even though all the world's work, outside of Jails, is done for love or money, there's no rule that it can't be done for both. As with many entrepreneurs, Jimmy would like to be able to work for love, but he needs the money.

Perhaps it would serve the situation, and appease his cross, for Mr. N. to give Jim an across-the-board raise in his allowance so as to speed the establishment of his worthy goal and in recognition of his valued services. These last, it must be understood, would be offered regardless of the raise, and the author are not directly related. Each is extended as an expression of family spirit. Certainly this is preferable to the piecework system. Jimmy describes where Dad would get a billion-service-rendered penny then Jim emptied a wastebasket!

In a family, all exertions are aimed at the same results — the greatest comfort and happiness for each member. That's better, Jim, then the attitude toward a stranger (whom you haven't met) for his Dad-given wages!). Every stranger wants one place on earth where he's not treated as one — a real home. And there the give and take is blood, not cold ledger bookkeeping.

Mr. N.'s problem is to prove to Jim that inner satisfaction is a form of remuneration, too. It's cuts at the heart, if not of the realm. But since, Jim won't buy a bike, we recommend that Father be hired to boost Jim's balance. Such ways might include reducing his workload at home to allow more time for big-money projects on other people's cellars, garages, screens and storm windows. Dad can rush up new customers for Jim's expert leaf raking and fence painting.

In the P. B. period (Post-Bike) who knows but that Jim will use his profits to buy something for the whole family, like a reading lamp or a transistor radio! It figures, when a guy works for love first, and then money!

Medical History Of the Wearer On Bracelets

TORONTO (CP) — More than 2,000 Canadians wear the life-saving bracelets and bracelets issued by Medic-Alert, says the Canadian office of the organization.

The wearers are diabetics, epileptics, hemophiliacs and victims of myasthenia gravis, multiple sclerosis, drug allergies and blood conditions.

An official of the Canadian branch — Medic - Alert was founded in the United States — explained that the bracelets carry the medical history of the wearer.

"A cardiac case taking anticoagulants can die if given a different drug," he said. "It takes 30 minutes to take a blood test and you can't die the delay.

"A telephone call to the foundation gets the person's complete medical history."

The group was founded by a doctor six years ago when his daughter nearly died from a tetanus shot. Even her father was unaware of her allergy.

Now she wears a Medic-Alert amulet inscribed:

"Allergic to tetanus."

What Does Immature Mean?

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—I am a 19-year-old girl. I have often been told that I am Immature by my mother and older sister, but from observing my friends I think they are also immature at home.

Could you point out some situations in which I could compare my reactions with that of a mature person or refer me to a good book about it?—A TEENAGER

DEAR TEENAGER:— It's no sin to be immature unless you stand still! Immature means childish; everybody goes through many years of being immature before they are completely grown up. Some persons never reach full maturity.

When we are childish we are self-centred, and insist on having our own way. We may lose our temper easily. With maturity comes self-control and thoughtfulness; willingness to abide by rules and to carry our weight.

How do you stack up? I am sending you the names of two books that will help you understand your own situation.

TO MRS. W. V. R.:—If the cleaner is unsatisfactory, you are entitled to redress. Just how much depends on the small print in the guarantee. The company you mention is reputable and it might be better for you to talk with the salesman you bought it from than to try to settle the matter by letter.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL

Question — My daughter will be nine in November, and this year we are allowing her to invite ten girls to dinner at home in the evening. I think this is too late for children this age. Also, who should send out the invitations? — Mrs. N., Baltimore, Md.

Answer — A late dinner is a little sophisticated for eight and nine year olds. If games are played, the youngsters would be up long past their bedtime, and I'm sure you'd have a few cranky children to cope with before the evening was over. If she wants a dinner party, it would be better to arrange it from five to eight. Your daughter is old enough to send out her own invitations, but you'd better check them over to make sure the addresses are correct.

Question — I have been told that it's impolite to make phone calls from someone else's home, but on one occasion it was necessary for me to make three. As chairman of a school committee, I had to call members about a meeting the following day, and could only reach them at the home. Isn't phoning permitted in such an event? — L. C. J., Orlando, Fla.

Answer — It's unkind to tie up anyone's phone to such an extent. It would have been better to arrive later and make the calls from home. When you do use another's phone, however, you should offer to pay for the calls, even if they are local, and insist on it if the calls are toll or run into overtime.

70 Friends Honor Young Couple

NORTHPORT — About 70 friends and neighbors gathered in the Church Hall on Tuesday evening for a miscellaneous shower in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Roxborough, (nee Madelyn Aman) recent newlyweds.

The evening was spent in visiting and a sing-song. Misses Barbara Jean Mills and Marilyn Ketchapaw sang a duet "Two Willies."

The chairman for the evening was Mr. W. Kingsley.

Mrs. Graham Gale read an address of good wishes to the bride and bridegroom and after the opening of the many lovely and useful gifts, they both fittingly thanked one and all for the lovely gifts received.

A delicious lunch was served by the young ladies of the communities of Northport and Solmesville.

The conveners for this happy occasion were: Mrs. Graham Gale; Miss Elizabeth Robinson and Miss Mary Lou Foster.

plause from the audience but the clapping died away when the delegation saw that Khrushchev and other Soviet leaders were not applauding.

When Chou finished speaking, however, he shook hands with Khrushchev—a gesture he pointedly avoided Wednesday at the conclusion of the Soviet premier's marathon speech on domestic and foreign policy.

The Russian leader in his speech condemned Communist countries which follow "the path of isolation." The statement was considered an attack on both China and Albania which have followed a more militant foreign policy line than the rest of the Communist bloc.

Albania, a small Adriatic nation bordering on Greece and Yugoslavia, was not invited to send a delegation to the congress which opened here three days ago.

All newspapers in Red China today headlined Chou's speech.

The People's Daily, organ of the Chinese Communist party, headlined its report:

"Chou En-lai's speech to the 22nd congress of the CPSU (Communist Party of the Soviet Union): maintenance of unity of fraternal parties and states is the international duty of Communist party members; Sino-Soviet unity built on the basis of Marxism-Leninism is unbreakable."

"CHERISH" UNITY

Chou, speaking on the third day of the congress, said Communist parties and states "must unite very well and cherish our unity like the apple of the eye and there should absolutely not be any words or deeds that harm this unity."

"We hold that if a dispute or difference unfortunately arises between fraternal parties or fraternal countries, it should be resolved patiently in the spirit of proletarian internationalism and on the principles of equality and unanimity through consultation. . . .

"To lay bare a dispute between fraternal parties or fraternal countries openly in the face of the enemy cannot be regarded as a serious Marxist-Leninist attitude."

Foreign observers noted the simultaneous publication of Chou, and the fact that the Soviet leaders' criticism of Albania was not made public in China before the appeal by Chou not to publicize differences within the Communist camp.

Albania has been receiving full support from the Chinese, who are reported to have supplied the Albanians with grain imported from Canada. Other Communist states meanwhile have been ignoring Albania.

Canada Needs Lobbyist With U.S. Congress, Tourist Body Told by Belleville Boy

HALIFAX (CP) — What do Americans and Europeans think of Canada these days? Apparently, in the Canadian Tourist Association was told Thursday, not as much as they used to.

Delegates to the association's annual convention also were told there is a general feeling in the United States that Canada can handily wait to become the 51st state. This comment came from Marion Gough of New York, associate editor of magazine House Beautiful, during a discussion on Canada's image abroad.

Rod MacInnes of Montreal, public relations director of Trans-Canada Air Lines, said that during a recent trip to Europe he was told many times Canada's image has stepped because of its political problems, Britain's entry into the Common Market and the threat of the takeover by British Columbia of B.C. Electric. Swiss, French and Belgian visitors were shocked that his happened in a country they consider conservative.

He added that few Europeans know the difference between an American from a Canadian. Fred Connell of Montreal followed by his giant neighbor to the south.

Mr. MacInnes said some of the best public relations he Canada is being done by Canadian servicemen. In areas around Canadian bases residents hold Canada in the same regard they did following the Second World War.

Miss Gough said Americans, mostly through lack of information, take Canada for granted as a kid brother. Other descriptions for Canadians or Canada were "reserved, staid, rather dull or Scottish in approach, lacking in glamor and status as a place to go." But also a good place to go because it isn't "foreign."

Percy C. Dale, public relations director of the Canadian Pacific Railway in New York, said Canada needs a lobby accredited with the United States Congress.

He said few people in the United States have a real understanding of Canada. There was a need for Canada to tell its side of the story with more force.

Mr. Cole said Canada's diplomats are not able to lobby because they are accredited to the U.S. and not to the Congress. But a Canadian organization could register under the Lobbying Act to carry go about the business of promoting Canada's story.

Man Charged Refuses to Back Up Complaint

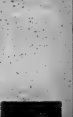
TORONTO (CP)—An investigation into charges of police brutality hit a snag Thursday as Tibor Raffman, 30, of Toronto, charged with theft in a $13,000 fur robbery, refused to issue a formal complaint against police officers he said beat and tortured him.

Raffman declined to view a line-up of policemen when Deputy Police Chief George Elliott offered to lay charges under the Criminal Code against any officer he picked out.

Tuesday Raffman claimed five policemen took him in a basement room in No. 1 Police Station, twisted a gun butt in his eyes, kneed and punched him and fired blank cartridges at him.

Experts from the attorney-general's crime laboratory checked for blood in the room Raffman claimed to have been beaten in but found none.

Deputy Chief Elliott said, "we have had no formal complaint.



"We don't know the man complained to newspaper reporters."

Raffman's lawyer said he would take action against the police in civil courts. The fur theft charge will be heard Oct. 23.

Teen-Age Canada

Canadian Students Rediscover Latin

By JACK HUTTON

Next time you hear a joke try baffling someone in the group by turning to him with a sober face and demanding: "QUID RIDES?"

He may decide that you've suddenly "flipped."

But it's far more likely that as one of many students rediscovering Latin in Canada today he'll know you've just asked why he was laughing.

For a language which some have called dead and buried, Latin is turning out to be a mighty lively corpse around Canadian high schools.

We looked back this week at the world of "nominative, genitive, dative accusative . . ."—and found that from coast to coast Latin still has a strong toehold. It even seems to be winning more converts.

Halifax, Regina, Winnipeg and Toronto schools all report their Latin classes are either holding their own or increasing. North Toronto Collegiate—the "hotbed" of high school Latin in Canada—has more than two-thirds of its students studying Latin.

A few short years ago I finished my own high school Latin studies. What I didn't know at that time was that the subject has had a weird up and down history in the high school syllabus.

Until about 1850, Latin and Greek were the two most popular foreign languages in American schools. (When I say "popular", of course, I mean widely taught.)

Between 1850 and 1890, the teaching of both languages went into a decline for some reason or other. . . Latin made a strong comeback while Greek has never again had the same following.

Two years ago both Oxford and Cambridge universities in Great Britain jolted scholars everywhere by voting to drop Latin as a compulsory subject for admission.

Julius Caesar stopped turning in his grave a short time later when both institutions voted to reverse their decisions. But the shock was still there. How important was Latin?

Harvard University touched off the next controversy last spring by deciding to print its graduating diplomas in English instead of Latin. Judging by the howls from old "grads" you might have gathered the name "Harvard" was being dropped.

Both of these controversies have simmered down by now. But the question still has to be decided by students: Should I take Latin? What use will it be later? Should I concentrate on something else?

My own opinion, although I'm prejudiced, is that you can never go wrong in choosing Latin. Somehow it's like a key that keeps opening the door to the meaning of strange words all your life.

But "you may ask, is it needed for university? The answer is that none of the major universities in Canada makes Latin an essential admission requirement except for a handful of specialized courses.

Latin is essential in university if you are considering modern languages and literature, English language and literature, French or Spanish, of course.

My advice: Dig into Latin if you get the chance. I don't think it's something you could regret for the rest of your life—so BONNA FORTUNA!

SMALL DISCS

Watch in the near future for smaller long-play records which should be cheaper than the ones we've been buying for the last few years.

The "Little LPs," the latest sales gimmick in the record market, are seven-inch 33⅓ rpm discs with three bands on either side or the record.

TEEN, MILLIONAIRE

It should be interesting to keep an ear on the singing style of Paul Anka, our 20-year-old millionaire singer and composer from Ottawa, Ont.

Paul, who has just finished a tour across Canada with Dick Clark's Caravan of Stars, freely admits that he himself is leaving behind the age range of his listening audience.

His hope: "I figure that the kids who've been listening to me will grow on doing just that. We'll be leaving the teens behind together."

Paul hopes, of course, that younger teen-agers will keep "discovering" him as well.

Teen-agers "hip" to Latin might RIDES?"—"Why are you laughing?" or "guess this Latin lady is asking "QUID What's so funny?"

Drug Making Industry Entitled to High Profits Queen's Professor Tells Bd.

TORONTO (CP)—Drug manufacturing is an industry entitled to the ceiling from developments of new products and supported by profits of the past, Professor Harry Johnson, Queen's University economist told the Canadian Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association.

He said a high factor due to the relatively short life of some of the products. This tended to mean a higher profit return was necessary if it was to survive.

The assistant professor in commerce and business administration at Queen's was commenting on an economic report on the industry which he prepared for the CPMA and which was submitted to the Gordon government's select committee on drugs in 1960.

HEARS CPMA BRIEF

The three-man commission, which has met in nine other cities across Canada, heard from Professor Dixon after the conclusion of the reading of a brief by the CPMA. The Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association brief contended that profits of drug-making firms are not excessive and that consumers pay reasonable prices.

The Toronto sitting, which began Monday, continues today.

Professor Dixon made these points in his commentary:

MANY OPERATE

The industry has a low concentration ratio—that is, many companies operate in the field.

Entry into the business of drug manufacturing is relatively easy, since a huge capital outlay is not necessary at the start.

"There is no evidence that they have been on collusion" in the industry in the setting of prices.

His conclusion was that it is essentially a competitive industry.

Oakville Man Has Alligators In Basement

OAKVILLE (CP) — Pity the poor plumber who has to do repairs in Peter Strickland's basement.

It contains eight common alligators, four caymans (rare South American alligators), eight Nile crocodiles, a South American crocodile and a Florida rat snake. To feed his pets, Mr. Strickland raises rats in the basement.

He is assisted by his wife and son, Christopher. Mr. Strickland handles the infighting and has marks of crocodile bites on his legs to prove it.

Lady Ramsay Unveils Plaque At Ypres

YPRES, Belgium (Reuters)—Lady Patricia Ramsay, colonel-in-chief of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, unveiled a plaque in St. George's Church Thursday in honor of the late Brig. A. Ernest Gault of Montreal and also of all ranks of the regiment who died in the 1914-18 war.

Brig. Gault died in Montreal in 1958 at the age of 76.

Lady Patricia, a granddaughter of Queen Victoria, was accompanied by her husband, Admiral Alex Ramsay, and George Drew, Canadian high commissioner in London, and Mrs. Gault, widow of Brig. Gault.

Earlier, the party visited British military cemeteries and battle scenes in a region where British and Canadian soldiers received some of the fiercest German attacks in the First World War. They also visited a cemetery containing 44 nearby Bellewaerde by the regiment.

Lord Alfred Douglas was also present at the ceremony.

Lady Patricia then laid a wreath at the foot of the cross.

During the First World War the regiment suffered 4,071 casualties, of which 1,372 were killed or died from wounds.

Confidence Man Takes Company For $100,000

TORONTO (CP) — A clever confidence man bilked a Toronto leasing company out of almost $100,000 seven months ago although insurance company officials never saw him, police disclosed today.

They said the man converted a bungalow he had purchased from Tampa, Fla., into a huge mortgage swindle.

He was the owner of a 35-suite Toronto apartment block, the investor company and insurance company officials over the telephone that he needed $100,000 to buy the bungalow for a home for his family in Tampa, Fla.

The firm, already holding a $50,000 mortgage on the building, was asked to forward a new mortgage for $150,000 to Tampa hotel where the papers would be signed.

When the company received a detailed description of the building from the man, mortgage papers were mailed to Florida, but his signature on receipt of the signed papers, the firm transferred $99,000 to a Florida bank.

The man then got the bank to transfer the money into $10,000 in U.S. funds and disappeared.

In June the real apartment owner, a 70-year - old Toronto pensioner, made his payment on the $50,000 mortgage but was told the mortgage was now $150,000 and that was soon detected.

The insurance firm called in the detective agency in Tampa. Metropolitan Toronto police were called into the case after the FBI was traced to police who notified them of the swindle.

Frost Appears to Favor Young Man for His Post

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Frost of Ontario took a long look at his years in public service Thursday and concluded that the future needs young men with vigor.

"I can say to young men in words reminiscent of long ago: Your country needs you and I, for one, can tell, all conscience, stand to pass the challenges by," the premier told the Empire Club of Toronto.

"I can say after almost a lifetime in various public services that it is rewarding in satisfaction."

Mr. Frost has served in the legislature since 1937 and has been premier for the last 13 years. He has resigned as leader of the Ontario Progressive Conservative party and a successor will be chosen at a party convention here Oct. 24-25.

Although he did not directly mention the leadership convention, political observers said the speech might be interpreted as meaning that he favors a young man for leader.

Only three of the candidates are under 30—Health Minister Matthew Dymond, 49; Education Minister John Roberts, 44, and Mines and Energy Resources Minister Robert Macaulay, 40.

Stressing the need for education, Mr. Frost said young people be trained to live a new world and age. Material resources cannot be developed without human resources.

"Education, therefore, is one of the fundamentals which we must meet even if we have to pull in our belts in many other things—if our way of life is to be true to communism," Mr. Frost said.

"The treatment of this matter which was fairly simple a score of years ago, has now become an enormous problem."

He also announced the chairmen of an advisory committee on economic development made up of representatives from business, labor and government.

O. D. Vaughan, vice-president of the T. Eaton Company Limited, will be chairman of the committee's business and labor side and Deputy Minister of Economics George Gathercole will be chairman of the government and technical part.

In future economic planning "a better relationship with the United States must be evolved, Mr. Frost said.

"The present balance of payments situation, whereby we finance imports from the United States by importing capital and other forms to other countries than [illegible] to us, cannot be maintained indefinitely," Mr. Frost said.

Harsher Penalties Proposed For Ignoring Safety Rules

TORONTO (CP) — A three-man royal commission called today for greater co - ordination of Ontario's industrial safety measures, a beefed-up safety education drive among workers, and higher penalties for failure to put "safety first" in industry.

The report of the royal commission on industrial safety headed by Labor Minister Charles Daley, who promised immediate steps to implement the recommendations he finds are necessary.

Besides broad measures to improve safety consciousness in industry, the royal commission recommended changes in penalties in seven separate statutes, some of them described as "archaic and ineffective."

The changes are designed to bring penalties for failure to obey or enforce safety requirements already set out but, in some cases largely ignored, by employers.

The report lashes out at safety violations, neglect and irresponsibility.

WORK LICENSED

Under the construction industry where some "fear - buck or fly-by-night builders" meet their responsibilities, the report suggests "even minimum precautions against irresponsible or inconsiderate contractors" and a system of provincial licensing.

"If, after such a system of legislation, education, persuasion and inspection, any employers wilfully persist in breaking the law," they should be required, after a reasonable respite, the report said.

"Such recommendations are drastically documented with reports from coroner's juries or other responsible bodies dangerously faced by industrial workers.

The royal commission found 18 months ago, commissioned Judge P. J. McAndrew of the Thunder Bay district court in northwestern Ontario as chairman, with Controller Phyllis Gee of Toronto and Russel Harvey, regional director of the Ontario Employees International Union (CLC) and former chairman of the Ontario Labor Relations Board, as commission members.

It listed eight separate associations dealing with accident prevention in specific industries and noted they receive grants totalling about $1,500,000 a year from the Workmen's Compensation Board.

Yet, the commission found, their attitude is "one of complacency with respect to the greatest sacrifices, efforts and [illegible] ... [illegible] ... [illegible] ... safety measures. And opinions make a "valid" contribution to safety.

"I know your heart belongs to me, Ethel, but don't like the way the rest of you keeps going out with other fellows."

Two Youths Given Life For Stabbing

TORONTO (CP)—Two youths, who stabbed another guest to death at a "stag and doe party," Thursday were convicted of capital murder and sentenced to life imprisonment.

An all-male jury deliberated only 40 minutes after convicting Raymond M. Rowe, 20, and Richard Wallace, 19, of killing Norman Saunders, 25, a fork-lifter.

Saunders died June 3 at a party in the home of the parents of John Wallace, 17.

Two guests testified they saw both Rowe and Noland stab Saunders, who died of a thrust to the heart. He was also stabbed on the throat, hand and abdomen.

Mr. Justice J. L. McLennan said conflicting evidence as to which—Rowe or Noland—struck the fatal blow was irrelevant if the jury decided they were "aiding and abetting" each other.

He said it was difficult to determine which struck the fatal blow and told the jury that it if decided the youths were acting individually in their attack on Saunders—and could not decide which had inflicted the fatal knife into his heart — then both should be acquitted.

Rowe and Wallace were arrested in Northern Ontario the day after Saunder's murder.

J. McFarlane testified he was hitch - hiking from Massey to Sault Ste. Marie when he saw he was picked up by a car in which the two were riding. Provincial police halted the car near Blind River.

The royal commission urged that the accident prevention associations "be placed under the direction and jurisdiction" of the Labor Department, by establishing an executive committee to coordinate and supervise their activities.

Three Killed At Geraldton, Car Hits Bus

GERALDTON (CP) — Three persons were injured Thursday when their car collided with a school bus near this northwestern Ontario gold city of Lakehead.

Provincial police identified the dead as Adonal Massignac, Nick Kluck and Ryder Anderson. Their ages were not immediately available.

Police said the school bus carrying about 28 students, was returning home to the nearby township of Beardmore when the occurred. They said they were unable to determine who the driver of the car was.

The driver of the school bus and 27 students and passenger were said to have been treated for minor injuries.

Favor Moss In Pacific Grand Prix

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP)—The Pacific Grand Prix opens today with some of America's international road racing's finest drivers — headed by Stirling Moss, Jack Brabham and Bruce McLaren — seeking a share of the $50,000 prize money.

England's Moss, who won the first running of the sports car event last year, rebounds in a Lotus Monte Carlo, a light, 1.5-litre car considered clearly ideal for the sporty, hilly, narrow, 1.9 - mile asphalt track.

Australia's Brabham and New Zealand's McLaren will drive Cooper Monacos with newly developed 2.7 - litre engines.

Among other top contenders is Peter Ryan of Mont Tremblant, Que., who will drive a Lotus Monte Carlo.

Big One For Riders, Stampeders

REGINA (CP)—The result of Saturday night's game here between Calgary Stampeders and Saskatchewan Roughriders could be important in deciding the third and last playoff berth in the Western Football Conference.

Calgary has a game in hand and is two points ahead of Saskatchewan. The Stampeders have four games left and Roughriders three in the regular schedule.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Edmonton Eskimos, both idle Saturday, have clinched the first and second spots and Edmonton still has a mathematical chance of finishing first. British Columbia Lions, with only a win and tie in 14 games, are out of the playoffs.

Fullback Earl Lunsford of Calgary is 425 yards away from the season's record of 1,726 yards gained by fullback Johnny Bright of Eskimos in 1958. Coach Bobby Dobbs of the Stampeders figures Saturday's game probably will be the key to Lunsford's setting a record.

Maroons Build

CHATHAM (CP) — Enthusiasm surged through the Chatham Maroons camp Thursday night as six more players were signed to the 1961-62 roster of the Ontario Hockey Association senior series entry, including star right winger Jim Connelly, returning to the club after a one - year retirement.

Maroons manager Tom Lowe added the players in his bid to round out the squad for the season's opener here Saturday when they clash with OHA Trophy winners, last season's Allan Cup champions.

Blues Tackle Redmen

Mustangs Meet Queen's

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Football fans who believe are on the doubtful list. Sam that history repeats itself will be keeping an anxious eye on senior Intercollegiate Football League games this weekend.

Last year at this stage in the season McGill Redmen had lost their first two games. In their third game they beat University of Toronto Blues 9-7 and went on to win the championship.

The Redmen dropped their first two games this year, 5-7 to Queen's University Golden Gaels and 14-13 to the University of Western Ontario Mustangs. They take on the Blues in Montreal Saturday. Western meets Queen's at Kingston.

The Redmen must win to stay in contention. They will play much of their offensive hope on fullback Bob Mulligan and quarterback Tom Skypeck.

The undefeated Gaels may be without one of their most valuable performers when they meet Western. Mike Pettit, a veteran halfback, injured a shoulder against Toronto last week and may sit it out. If he does, rookie Harold Rose, with Sudbury High School last year, will start.

Injuries are hampering the Mustangs. With two regulars, tackle Colin McNairn and end Larry Shaw out for the remainder of the season with knee injuries, the Mustangs may go into the game without three other first-stringers.

Pro Golf

COSTA MESA, Calif. (AP)— Bo-by Sullivan of Yuba City, Calif., shot a seven-under-par 64 Thursday and took the open-ing-round lead in the $20,000 Orange County golf open.

Bob Harrison of Pacific Palisades, Calif., was second with a 66, followed by Phil Rodgers of La Jolla, Calif., with a 67. Jerry Magee of Toronto had a 35-40—75.

Al Kaline Comback Star of AL

NEW YORK (AP)—Outfielder Al Kaline of Detroit Tigers, who increased his batting average 46 points while rebounding from his poorest season in American League season, Thursday was named the league's comeback player-of-the-year.

Kaline received 28 votes. Dick Donovan Washington pitcher was second with 18, followed by Norm Cash of the Tigers, 16, and Elston Howard of New York and Rocky Colavito, Detroit, 12 each.

A total of 124 baseball writers participated in the annual Associated Press poll and 97 player collected votes.

Kaline finished second among the qualifiers for the batting title with a .324 average. He hit 29 homers and drove in 82 runs. In 1960, he batted .276, with 15 homers and 68 RBI.

LEAFS BUY PAIR

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs of the International Baseball League announced Thursday they have purchased two pitchers from Indianapolis of the American Association. They are left-hander Miguel Cuellar, 24, and righthander Duane Richards, 25. Cuellar, played last season with Hersey City and Syracuse of the International League, compiling a 4-10 record. Richards, a reliever with Jersey City, had a 3.10 earned run average and 1 3-7 record.

Eskimos Boss

Would Ban 'Luxury Stars'

EDMONTON (CP)—A way of "getting rid of luxury players" in Canadian football was suggested Thursday by Joe Ryan, general manager of Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Conference.

Ryan said he considers it "ridiculous" to have players on the roster drawing full salaries and contributing nothing.

He pointed out that Canadian League rules permit a club to employ only 12 imports, although they are allowed to carry 15. This policy, he said, could conceivably cost a club $90,000 in a season in salaries to players who are not playing.

Ryan suggests that the coach be allowed to dress all 15 of his imports, submit a list of his starting imports to the referee before the game and be allowed to substitute one or more of the starting dozen from among his three reserves, with the stipulation that once the substitution has been made, it is permanent for that game.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

They glided over the ice in singles and in pair with the grace and poetry of motion that bespeaks a brilliant potential.

The cool morning air did not chill them in early Monday Morning Arena. It was 7.45 a.m. I stood with Dr. W. C. McCutcheon, Albert Street, on the "sidelines." Before us going through their pre-dawning practice were his pretty daughters, Jane, 15, and Peggy, 13.

Born perfectionists, these attractive youngsters under personal supervision, skate and practice their difficult routines for nearly two hours, 6.30 to 8 a.m., Monday through Friday.

On Saturdays until May they go to Toronto where they skate and practice for hours under the instructional eagle of the Toronto Curling, Cricket and Skating Club. Last year Jane and Peggy formed a featured pair in the club's annual skating extravaganza.

Dr. McCutcheon takes his daughters to the arena every early weekday morning. He is the "director of music" and conducts his own "tape band." On the ice Peggy and Jane skate unstringly. They coach themselves in slow motion. They practice, and practice, then practice some more. The unending drive never drives the girls to school. They eat pre-skating breakfasts.

Nor does their skating activity cease with the coming of spring, and the heralding of summer sports activities.

Last summer they spent nine weeks at Schumacher, Ontario, where with some 200 other young figure-skating enthusiasts they skated from eight to nine hours daily.

They were under the expert instructional guidance of the well known Sheldon Galbraith, coach of Barbara Ann Scott and Canada's world champion pair, Deb Wilkes and Barbara Wagner.

Jane and Peggy are a couple of light-haired youngsters with an impish smile—and a deep sincerity of purpose.

They are realists. I discovered this when I asked Dr. McCutcheon, "have they any ambitions. Do they think it becomes possible or else for the perfection that would classify them as Olympic material?"

Dr. McCutcheon smiled. Then he made what I thought was a strange statement.

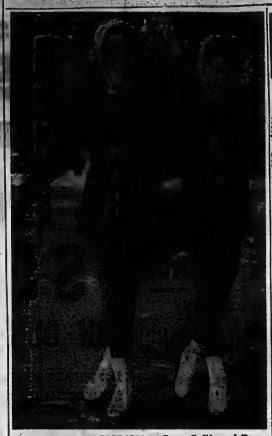
"The girls have ambition—but it is only to perfect themselves to the point where skating becomes the work of art—poetry. They know they do not have the potential in quality as professional figure skaters or for Olympic trials."

"They skate," he added, "for the pure enjoyment of the sport, its healthy activities and the challenge it gives them. But they know the limit of their ability."

This fact is no source of disappointment to the McCutcheons. "The development of professional or Olympic talent would mean giving up everything for practice and instruction and, said the suitable doctor, "education must first be our lesson."

Time and effort in training Peggy and Jane has not been wasted. Besides their dividend of enjoyment they will, by the time they enter university, have attained a status qualifying for them as figure skating instructors on the collegiate level.

"This," said Dr. McCutcheon, "could be a source of income for the girls." I know one young figure-skater, a pro, who entered university and is earning $50 a week teaching figure-skating."



It is now seven years since Jack Dickens, then a Quinte District (O.H.A.) official, star and instructor, persuaded Peggy and Jane to take up the sport. And figure-skating has never had two more faithful young adherents. They practice hard, consistently. They wear out two pairs of skating boots a year.

But like other healthy, athletic youngsters they often need a change of sports diet. They find this on the fairways of the Bay of Quinte Country Club. Peggy and Jane are avid golfers, and show fine ability in this nine-to-ninety phase of athletic relaxation.

In passing it is noted that other youthful Quinte Skating Club members took summer instruction in Toronto this year. These were Judy Ingram, Heather Ketchenon, Elizabeth Corke and Susan and David Beattie.

REMAINS FAVORITE

LONDON (AP)—Sticky Case remained a clear favorite at Thursday night's callover for the Cambridgeshire Handicap—and Thomas Trader were second choices at 13 to 1.

Intercollegiate

Athletic Union Formed

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A national body to supervise college athletics across Canada has been formed, Dr. Duncan A. McLarty of the University of Western Ontario announced Thursday.

It will be known as the Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union. Dr. McLarty, professor of botany at Western, has been elected president.

"Of immediate concern will be the establishment of uniform playing rules and basic eligibility regulations for various intercollegiate sports," he said.

"Promotion of national inter-collegiate championship competition will be a primary objective."

Dr. McLarty was formerly president of the Ontario-Quebec Athletic Association and of the old CIAU, which was not of national scope, from 1951 to 1955.

WILL HELP OTHERS

He said it is anticipated the new CIAU will be in a position to co - operate with and help other amateur athletic organizations in Canada, especially with school athletic programs outside the college level.

The old CIAU was organized in 1906 as MCIU, Queen's and the University of Toronto. This was modified over the years to provide competition involving colleges and universities throughout Ontario and Quebec.

A Western Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union later was organized in the four western provinces and a Maritime Intercollegiate Athletic Union was also formed. Each union functioned independently.

In 1955, members of the old CIAU in Ontario and Quebec established the Ontario-Quebec Athletic Association and the Ottawa-St. Lawrence Athletic Association, each intended to become part of a national body.

MAKE NATIONAL MOVE

In 1959, representatives from all intercollegiate organizations met in Toronto and organized a committee to consider the establishment of a national union. The final meeting of this committee was held at Montreal in June and a provisional constitution made and a provisional executive elected.

Dr. McLarty said all member associations now have ratified the new CIAU. It is operative from this week.

Other officers elected for 1961-62 include:

Vice-president, Bob Pugh of Macdonald College and secretary-treasurer, Major W. P. McLeod of the Royal Military College, both representing the Ottawa-St. Lawrence Intercollegiate Athletic Association; Dr. O. A. Carazzo, Queen's University; and A. Sheedy, University of Ottawa.

MAY NEED SURGERY

BOLOGNA, Italy (AP) — Orlando Sirola of Italy's Davis Cup team may have to undergo an operation on his right elbow, which has been paining the last two months. A doctor suggested an operation but said that because of the Davis Cup matches final against Australia in December, injections would be tried to see whether they would put his arm back in playing order.

Suggests 'Second' Rule

OTTAWA (CP)—Head coach Frank Clair of Ottawa Rough Riders says the Canadian Football League should do something about the deliberate pulling offside of one team by another.

He suggested in an interview that the league give some thought to adoption of the National Football League's one-second rule.

This rule requires all offensive players except one back, who can run laterally or back wards, to be set for at least one second before the ball is snapped.

Clair said he thinks Winnipeg Blue Bombers have had their linesman make motions designed to draw their opponents offside. In the NFL, a linesman takes a stance with one hand on the ground, he's not to stay there until the ball is snapped.

Rangers Ride Over Hawks

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Somebody in the Boston Bruins' camp today must be wondering whose bright idea it was to break up the Uke Line.

Vic Stasiuk, traded to Detroit Red Wings last season after the unexplainable faltering of what was Boston's best line—Stasiuk, Bronco Horvath and John Bucyk—came back with blood in his eyes Thursday night. He scored three goals and set up two others to give Detroit a 7-5 National Hockey League victory over the Bruins, who suffered their fifth loss.

While Stasiuk was hammering his former employers, his erstwhile linemates weren't idle either. Bucyk set up two Boston goals and Horvath scored a goal for Chicago Black Hawks, defeated 4-2 by New York Rangers in the night's only other game.

In Detroit Stasiuk set up a goal by Bill Gadsby in the first period and another by Leo Labine in the second. Nothing could stop him in the third.

He slammed in a goal 31 seconds after the period opened and notched his second at 1:33. His last came at 13:56.

ATTRACT FEW FANS

Unfortunately, only 8,037 people were there for the show. It was the smallest crowd in 10 years at Detroit's Olympia.

Other Red Wings scorers were centre Alex Delvecchio and Eddie Litzenberger, Jerry Toppazzini notched a pair for Boston with rookie Cliff Pennington getting the other.

In Chicago coach Doug Harvey's first-place Rangers proved they could get along without him—for a little while, anyway. They were leading 3-2 going into the last period of the game when Harvey got a minor penalty, his first of the season.

Little Dean Prentice, in his 10th season with New York, broke through to score and caught the side of the Chicago net at 12:31 with the goal that insured the game.

OPEN QUICKLY

Bert Langefield opened the scoring for the Rangers at 7:15 of the first period and Camille Henry made it 2-0 10 minutes later. Horvath sliced the margin before the first period ended.

Guy Gendron restored New York's two-goal lead in the second period but Bobby Hull kept Chicago in contention, swiping with one hand at a loose puck in the Rangers' zone to score in the third period.

The goal started a Hawks' rally and for a time Chicago outplayed the Rangers, but couldn't beat goalie Gump Worsley. Prentice's goal clinched it.

Worsley made 23 stops, Glenn Hall in the Chicago net's stopped 38.

Boston's rookie netminder, Don Head, took his worst pounding of the season as he made 22 stops but passed seven. He has allowed 32 goals in six games. Terry Sawchuk, Detroit Goalie, made 39 stops.

Soo Birds Bow to Hull 5-1

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hull - Ottawa Canadiens showed some of the form that made them last year's Eastern Professional Hockey League champions when they trimmed Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds 5-1 Thursday night to pick up their first win of the young season and move into fourth place in the six - team league.

Keith McCreary scored two goals in the midst of a four-goal second - period spree by Canadiens. The other three Hull - Ottawa goals were by Fred Hilts, Stan Maxwell and Jean Gauthier.

The loss left Thunderbirds winless in four starts, deeper in the league basement. Gault opened the scoring midway through the first period on a goal by Cliff Schmautz.

The young legs of Scotty Bowman's Canadiens proved the deciding factor as the winners used a smooth - skating, free-wheeling attack to advantage.

Hockey Hopes Revived In District

'Hold everything'.

All is not lost hockey wise.

From the ashes of the defunct senior league rises the shiny flame of an intermediate "A" circuit.

Lorne Cook OHA president who has clamp tomahawked to the bone of an Eastern Ontario hockey circuit has called a meeting for Port Hope next Wednesday night.

Delegates of teams extended far from Kingston to Oshawa have indicated their intention of attending.

These embrace representatives of the Lakeshore Intermediate League, Bowmanville, Port Hope, Trenton KCAF and Cobourg. Also attending will be a delegation from Belleville, Napanee, Kingston and Picton.

Cook hopes that something of a definite league nature will emerge from the meeting.

Irish Tackle Mich. State

NEW YORK (AP) — Notre Dame will find out whether its comeback road will be a paved highway or one of the rocky variety when it faces a formcetor of keen standing Saturday — Michigan, State, No. 1 college football team in the United States.

The Irish (3-0) have their fans agog about their success so far but the Spartans, 28-0 victors over powerful Michigan last week, have ideas of their own.

Navy and the University of Detroit, lead by quarterback Jerry Gross, kick off the weekend's proceedings in Detroit tonight.

Gross, a junior quarterback, is ranked second nationally in total offence with 708 yards in leading the Titans to a 3-0 wonlost record. However, Navy is favored. The Middies have won three straight.

Big battles Saturday have Syracuse against Penn State, Alabama against Tennessee and Southern California against California.

Tigers Meet Montreal

Argos Gamble In Ottawa Game

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Argonauts, virtually assured of the third and last playoff spot in the Eastern Football Conference, will be without the services of star halfback Dick Shatto and linebacker Stan Wallace when they clash with the Rough Riders at Ottawa Saturday.

Coach Lou Agase said Thursday night he has decided to give the injured players a week's rest.

"Only win for us or one loss for Montreal puts us in the playoffs and I'd sooner have them 100 per cent than," Agase said.

In the conference's other weekend action, Hamilton Tiger-Cats meet Montreal Alouettes at Hamilton Sunday with the Ticats still in possession of halfback Garver Shannon, whose disputed status was settled by a ruling Thursday, Commissioner Sydney Halter of the Canadian Football League said Shannon is eligible to play out the season with the Ticats.

MOSS CHALLENGES

Coach Perry Moss of the Als challenged Shannon's status when he said an option clause in the halfback's contract with Hamilton will prevent him carrying out an agreement with Los Angeles Rams of the United States National Football League.

The Ticats lead the league with 16 points, two more than Ottawa. Argos are next with 11 points and the Als have 7.

Ottawa coach Frank Clair has decided to use Doug Dalgneault in an offensive slot against Argonauts. Dalgneault, who has served mostly on defence, will spell Ron Stewart at right for parts of the game.

Ernie White and Chuck Stanley, both injured, will not play for the Riders. And Dick Desmarais will get a chance to reclaim his job as left half. Linebacker Ron Koss, just off the disabled list, will replace George Deidrich.

MAY PLAY

Coach Jim Trimble of Hamilton says end Hal Patterson may be able to play Sunday, but the decision will not be made until shortly before the game.

Moss plans to go with virtually the same lineup he used against Ottawa last week.

The Ticats are hoping an anxious eye advance sales for the first Sunday game to be played in Hamilton. Some club executives are reported to be doubtful that Sunday football will boost attendance by 3,000 as it did in Toronto.

Canada's Clerour

Claims Empire Title

QUEBEC (CP)—Gene Letourneau, commissioner of the Canadian Boxing Federation, said Thursday that Al Bachman, manager of Canadian heavyweight champion Bob Clerour, has claimed the British Empire heavyweight crown for Clerour.

In a telegram from New York, Bachman told Letourneau he was claiming the title because Empire champion Henry Cooper of London refused to meet the Canadian, "the only legitimate challenger in the Empire."

Bachman's claim followed an announcement from London that promoter Jack Solomons had proposed a match between Cooper and Clerour for the British Empire title.

Letourneau said Bachman's claim would be presented at a CBF meeting in Sherbrooke, Que., Saturday and then forwarded to the British Boxing Board of Control, the agency regulating the Empire titles.

Letourneau said the CBF would attempt to force Cooper to accept a match with Clerour.

In London, Jim Wicks, Cooper's manager, said he knows nothing about Clerour's claims to the Empire title. He said Cooper had never been ordered to defend his title and had never been offered a fight with Clerour.

He added that some time ago he received a telephone call from Montreal offering $100,000 for Cooper to fight in Canada but no opponent was mentioned and he had heard nothing since.

Danny Thomas Show Likely To Run on for Some Time

NEW YORK (AP) — Danny Thomas, who two months ago was making noises about retiring his TV series after this season, boomed merrily into town for a couple of days. The fireside end of The Danny Thomas Show was not on his list of favorite subjects.

"All I've ever said was that I wanted to quit on top," he explained. "I wanted to quit while the public and the sponsors still liked us."

Apparently the public still likes Danny's weekly entertainment effort, for the program has continued in its usual top-10 position among the popularity ratings.

Danny keeps moving to greater excitence as a sort of entrepreneur of network comedy shows. He has an interest—financial as well as supervisory—in The Andy Griffith Show, The Dick Van Dyke Show and The Joey Bishop Show. Carvenity he and his partner, Sheldon Leonard, are busily planning two more series for next season, one a situation comedy called I and Claudia, and the other, My 15 blocks, about the family life of a patrolman.

Thomas is particularly interested in the patrolman series, which he hopes will help develop "a degree of respect for police officers from the young teens."

Slamming Caddy Into Tree Costly for Horst Buchholz

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "We are shooting three days in Hollywood," said Billy Wilder, "because Mr. Buchholz decided to make the acquaintance of a tree."

The director did not seem perturbed by the inconvenience. At least not now that he has the final scenes of One, Two, Three safely in the can. Last month it might have been a different matter.

Wilder planned to shoot the comedy about present-day Berlin entirely in Berlin and Munich. Then his young star, Horst Buchholz, slammed his Cadillac into a (West) German tree. Wilder couldn't wait for the actor to get out of the hospital and then the courts. Hence the company was dismissed and reassembled here this week.

According to Buchholz, getting out of the hospital was easier than getting out of the courts.

"I had internal injuries—btw do you call it, intestines?" said the actor. "Even so, I recovered quickly. It is because I have so fat on my belly and because I am young."

LEAVES HOSPITAL

"After 10 days in the hospital, I wanted to go home. The doctors pleaded with me to stay four or five more days. They said, 'Horst, you are a horse.'"

He bounced back fast from his injuries, only to get staggered by German justice. The decision: A $6,300 fine and revocation of licence.

"Such a fine has never been heard of before," he said. "It was fantastic, especially since no one else was hurt in the accident; no one died. It was just me and the tree.

"I know what the reasoning was. They knew I was a young actor in the public eye. They knew I was the idol of young Germans. They thought they could make an example of me.

"They did it very cleverly. I might have appealed, but I had to leave the country. If I prosecuted, he could have lifted my passport, since I am a Swiss citizen. They knew all that. So I paid."

AT THE PARK — Laurel and Hardy these two funny men are at the Park Theatre for the special children's Saturday matinee show starting at 1.00 p.m. with the doors opening at 12.30. On the same program is Technicolor "Thunderhead, Son of Flicka". There will also be shown extra cartoons.

Will Cut 'Mr. Soccer' Stipend

TORONTO (CP) — If English star Stanley Matthews returns here next year to play with Toronto City of the Eastern Canada Professional Soccer League, he will get much less than the $500 a game he was paid this year, club officials said Thursday night.

Matthews, former Blackpool player who transferred to Stoke City earlier this week, has not signed a firm contract with the Toronto team, officials said.

"Matthews was worth every penny we paid him but next year it will be different," a Toronto City official said.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RICHTER

Saturday, October 31, 1942

General Tendencies — Until noon you are able to get rid of many of the chores that keep you from having efficiency of surroundings and to add touch of art, color to your environment. Then rest of day and night bring desire for all kinds of new interests. Keep charm on, take no chances just yet. Stay. Be sure to seek out influential friends and get their approval, backing.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Morning is good either for resting or handling any complex matters. Be sure you think out in the evening how closest ties and friends can be of greater service to you and how they should be approached and handled.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Spend some time in a.m. telephoning friends and making plans for some time to come. You will also find that those you contact are eager-beavers and this will give you an opportunity to exchange ideas and experiences. Grow.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — It is important you use more care and efficiency in whatever work is necessary to be done than has been your habit of late. Evening is then ideal for making new contacts that are worthwhile through social gatherings, etc.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Be sure you study your paper well in a.m. for the information you need, and be very friendly with those you meet. Take time later to rectify errors that may exist in any business or outside affairs. Do not waste time — keep busy.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — No better time than this morning to contact those experts differently from usual during busy work week. Be alert to all suggestions made. Put them into operation later and these new arrangements will show a definite profit soon.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Make it a point to find out just what your true position is with partners during a.m. for which you have little time during busy week. Get out in the evening with loved one to novel and interesting places. Have fun.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Morning is just fine for cleaning chores and throwing away debris about. Later, be off with good friends for a nice time, but try not to be extravagant just to show off, as it were.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Morning brings excellent opportunities for new kinds of enjoyment and you can contact the right people to go along with you. Have fun. Then by night is best for analyzing any plans or problems that you may have in the offing.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Before lunch you should devote your time finding better ways to serve own kin and increase harmony within the home. Then concentrate on having a fine time at the things you like most to do. Be imaginative, too, and artistic.

Capricorn (Dec. 23 to Jan. 20) — Morning is ideal for shopping and doing some visiting as well. The sit down and go over accounts wisely, carefully. Enjoy own home and family, or have a little party at home in the evening. Find bright happiness, contentment.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — It is important you turn your attention in a.m. to vital financial affairs, property matters, etc. Plan a really workable budget. Remainder of day and evening are OK for fun with good friends, but drive and speak carefully.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Get appearance and affairs improved during a.m., then you can make plans for a profitable as well as pleasurable evening. Carry through just as you plan, without brooking interference from others or allowing small delays to disturb you.

If your child is born today—he, or she, will be one of those highly intelligent children who will absorb almost anything that is placed before him, or her, for study, so be sure you plan a most careful and thorough course of education that will fit your progeny for big things. There is desire for pioneering and originality in this nature and the success depends largely upon the cultural and practical background accorded your priceless child.

RECORD TURNIP

CAPE TOWN (Eastern) — A monster turnip weighing 50 pounds was grown by farmer Jan Schoeman of Cuddoccora. His neighbors, believing the world record for a turnip is held by Japan, at 34 pounds, are laying claim to a new record.

Religion and Attitudes

By ROY L. SMITH

There is an opinion widespread among us that the religious man is one who abstains from certain things. His religion, consists of a long list of things he does not do. As remarked a wise old man in our town, concerning a churchman who was held to be contemptible, by many people, "He does not drink, swear, run with loose women, smoke or gamble. And those things are all commendable.

"But neither does he take any part in any community charity, nor does he give any time to the Boy Scouts, the Red Cross, or the Community Chest. He says that no one ever helped him when he was a kid and he sees no reason why he should help other kids now. If he made it on his own, they can if they want to. If they don't want to work, there isn't anything anyone could do for them that would be worth anything anyhow. Oh, he's religious all right, but it doesn't make much difference in him."

VICES AND ATTITUDES

Most of us are troubled with a certain number of vices we call weaknesses. We have quick tempers, we find ourselves tempted to be profane, some of us are tempted to debauch ourselves with liquor or lust. And all such things can work havoc in the life of any person.

But there are other tendencies which are just as dangerous, or perhaps even more so. Because they work injuries to the soul and not to the body, we are apt to overlook them and the hazards they impose on life.

Drunkenness, for example, can be a terrible sin, betraying a complete indifference toward those the drinker professes to love most. But so also is censoriousness — the disposition to find fault with those we love most.

Gambling can become a terrible enslavement, but so also can self-centeredness. Many a man who is free from the vulgar vices has been enslaved by petty thinking, narrow prejudices and selfish interests.

To share in a theological heresy may be an indication of careless thinking; to share in an evil attitude may indicate complete selfishness. And who is to say that the grossly sinful man is less a sinner than the man whose theology had gone awry?

PUT AWAY ALL HEARSES

The Apostle Paul warned the Colossian Christians against heresies, advising them to put them every one away. And it was good advice for Christians in the town was in the midst of paganism of the grossest sort.

But there were more heresies than these which reprehended an infringement upon logic. There was the heresy, for example, practised by the man who pretended piety in order that he might gain a reputation for being a saint when he was, actually, a grafter. All of which reminds us of the churchmen in a certain town who, kept all his property in his wife's name so that he could not be sued in the courts for the recovery of funds misused.

Then there was the heresy with which another man was entangled. At home, behind his own desk, he was a model of virtue, but when he went back to New York on a business trip his neighbors would never have recognized him.

In a very large number of colleges and universities courses are offered in comparative religion, and the field is certainly an interesting one. But all too many times both teacher and class overlook the central principles of Christianity.

The religion of Jesus is identified with a philosophy, of course. But the supreme purpose of the faith is the production of lives into which a new nature has been injected. "There is a power outside of us," the Christian says, "which can be inducted into the life of us, even the humblest among us, and which will produce in even life most unpromising fields an exalted type of life." And this is our "secret."

Remarks a Young Poet Gets Tired of Hearing

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Remarks a young poet gets tired of hearing:

"If you ask me, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow said it all."

"How do you guys get paid—by the line or by the rhyme?"

"Could you knock off a couple of funny stanzas about my cousin and his wife? They're celebrating their 19th wedding anniversary next week and just for laughs, I'd like to have something comic to surprise them on the occasion."

"No, Algernon isn't sleeping. He says he can compose better when he lies down and closes his eyes."

"There's nothing in the mail, dear, except three more rejection slips."

"You couldn't exactly call Algernon a mute, inglorious Milton. For one thing he isn't mute—unfortunately."

"They tell me you're a poet, young fellow. That's nice. What do you do for a living?"

MONEY HELPS

"I realize Robert Browning didn't have to interrupt his genius by writing greeting card rhymes Algernon. But after all, Browning had a rich papa."

"Sure, I'll admit his spondees are okay, but just between us, do you really think his anapestics hold water?"

"I'm leaving you, Algernon, and going home to mother. No, it's not because I'm mad at you. But at mother's I can at least be sure of eating."

"Algernon kind of reminds me of Alfred Tennyson, particularly when he runs out of razor blades and doesn't shave for a month or two."

"I read his last ode forward, and I read it backward, and it still doesn't make sense to me. What should I do now to appreciate it, stand on my head and read it upside down?"

"Some poets have rhyme, some poets have reason. On the other hand, there's Algernon."

"Shakespeare merely wrote for the ages. But Algernon writes for Algernon."

"I didn't actually say he doesn't have ability. All I said was his lack of inspiration barely rises above his lack of perspiration."

PCs Keep Eye On Premier Frost For Preferences

Convention to Choose Leader Opens Monday

TORONTO (CP) — With the campaigning nearly over and the show about to begin, Ontario Progressive Conservatives are keeping a sharp eye on Premier Frost to see whether he will indicate his preference as the next leader of their party.

Mr. Frost has said repeatedly he will not interfere with the election of a new leader and will let delegates make their own choice at the party's convention here Oct. 23-25. But Conservatives would still like to know who their leader for the last 12 years thinks will be his successor.

Some 5,000 persons are expected to attend the three-day convention at Varsity Arena but only 1,769 delegates have a vote. It could become the most neat political convention ever held in Ontario.

The 66 - year - old premier did not refer specifically to age when he announced his retirement as party leader early in August, but he has said that the need for new ideas to be given a chance to germinate.

MEETINGS ADDRESSED

In a speech to the Empire Club here this week, however, he referred often to the need for young people to play a larger part in public service.

Candidates for the leadership are Attorney-General Kelso Roberts, 49; Education Minister John Robarts, 44; Health Minister Dr. Matthew Dymond, 53; A. W. Downer, 57, Speaker of the last legislature; Reform Institutions Minister George Wardrope, 61; Attorney - General Robert Welsh, and Provincial Treasurer James Allan, 66.

Mr. Frost has made no direct move to back a contender, but he applies to be watching him closely to see with whom he has personal affinities. Others ride on the platform, as for any sign indicating support of a candidate.

Many feel the premier's remarks Monday night here are similar to statements made recently by Mr. Roberts, the ambitious and energetic energy resources minister who has become a big vote-getter in only two years' cabinet experience behind him.

Noticeable in Mr. Frost's speech was a reference to developing "all resources" in power and trade "if we are to provide increased human betterment".

Mr. Macaulay, earlier this week in a campaign speech, said the only things left to be developed to improve its health, welfare and other social services is to expand its economy.

Mr. Frost devoted a whole page of his speech to the successful development of hydro-electric power, natural gas and mineral wealth in Ontario. Mr. Macaulay's department is re-

Churchill Held Partly to Blame

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill was held partly to blame by a member of the Royal Navy's setbacks early in the Second World War because of his brandy-and-soda habit at the enemy.

The charge against the wartime British prime minister was made in a new volume of the official history of the War at Sea, published today.

Today's Chuckle

A determined man with a trusty wrench can do more than a loafer with a kit full of tools.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis—Southern Ontario and much of central Ontario will continue with unseasonably warm weather today and Sunday. Cloudiness near Hudson Bay is associated with much weaker pressure gradients slowly southeastward. By late Sunday it should cover Lake Superior and the northern portion of Lake Huron.

LABOR MINISTER SAYS WALKOUT IS SETTLED

Quebec Workers Ready to Return

MONTREAL (CP)—A settlement has been reached in a strike by 30,000 Montreal construction workers.

Labor Department sources made Friday night by Labor Minister Rene Hamel of Quebec following two days of talks with union and management.

They did not disclose the terms of the settlement, saying union leaders had called a vote of membership meetings to deliver the news personally. But it was understood the agreement included a wage increase and other benefits.

Seventeen unions were involved while management was represented by the Montreal Builders' Exchange.

There was no indication of whether action was taken on a demand by the unions for the right to negotiate contracts with individual contractors, instead of through the exchange.

This was a major issue in the dispute which started Sept. 1 with the walkout of members of the single union, the Sheet Metal Workers International Union (CLC).

SAY MEN FISHING

Officials of the union said the men were not on strike. They had simply "gone fishing."

But the dispute moved to allied trades, 12 days ago. Picket lines were set up and work halted on 100 construction projects throughout the city, including several major developments.

Under a provision of Quebec law introduced in the 1930s, the collective agreement signed by the Montreal Exchange binds to conform all contracting firms in the Montreal area, even those that were not members of the exchange.

Several non - member firms signed separate contracts with a number of the unions before the general settlement was announced Friday night.

The last union to reach a legal wrangle when 14 contracting firms and exchange members, sought to have the provision's complaints against the Sheet Metal Workers' union fined $250,000 in fines and claiming the strike was illegal.

The union Thursday obtained a writ in Superior Court blocking the move.

Jobless Pay For Strikers Is Rejected

TORONTO (CP) — The Unemployment Insurance Commission Friday rejected applications by York Knitting Mills strikers for unemployment insurance for two days after Magistrate Thomas Ellwood Eamer ruled the CPR - owned hotel was not the law in disregarding them.

Records Office, Laboratory At Smithfield Experimental Farm Burn, $30,000 Loss

Property loss estimated at $30,000 plus the less valuable horticultural records, was caused early today when fire swept through the Dominion Experimental Farm buildings at Smithfield, west of Trenton.

At nine o'clock this morning Trenton firemen were still fighting the blaze but it was stated the fire had been brought under control.

Destroyed in the blaze which started shortly before five o'clock was the records office and the laboratory building. The building was a complete loss.

Mr. H. S. Heeney, farm superintendent of the Ontario Intelligencer that although the property loss was estimated at $30,000, the loss in farm records would be much greater.

"The building loss cannot be compared with the loss of records on horticultural projects which had been carried on over the past 16 years", Mr. Heeney said.

Dominican Republic Seethes After Night of Bloody Riots

CIDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (AP)—This Caribbean island country seethed with hostile anti - Trujillo rumblings today after a night of bloody rioting that heightened for a government proclamation of martial law.

Unofficial sources listed at least two teen-agers dead and about 45 others persons killed in Friday night's rioting — the most violent outbreak here since the assassination of Generalissimo Rafati Trujillo last May.

The official police report mentioned no deaths but said an undetermined number were injured, including 15 policemen who suffered gun wounds or from rock barrages.

Police announced the arrest of 15 score of youth groups who hurled stones in clashes with steel-helmeted police units in downtown streets of the capital. Officers beat back the attacks with semi - automatic rifles, water hoses and tear gas. Some youths lined the streets walks and rooted for the youngsters.

The exchange lasted about 25 minutes before police drove the demonstrators and reseized control.

The battle capped five days of anti-government protests and riotous set off by student protests ment.

against the appointment of a new rector for Santo Domingo University accused of being a Trujillo man.

Signs of Friday night's impromptu demonstrations were youths sealed off streets in a section of the capital where they called the "Free Territory of the Dominican Republic." They erected barricades of tops with stones and metal objects.

Four companies of police moved in later after hundreds of youths had taken over the street shouting "Liberty! Liberty!"

A car carrying Ernesto Rubirosa, vice-president of the ruling Dominican party, was stoned and sped away.

A young woman carrying a baby child was hit by a rock, bleeding and weeping injured from the scene. Police said the woman was hit by a rock.

There were reports that at least three members of the Trujillo family—all brothers of the late dictator—have fled the Dominican Republic this weekend with Canadian or United States visas. The departure of the family has been demanded by opposition factions before they will negotiate with President Joaquin Balaguer on his proposal for a coalition government.

Dr. J. A. Corry Installed As Principal at Queen's

KINGSTON (CP)—Dr. James A. Corry, 62, was installed principal of Queen's University and received honorary doctorate degrees at a convocation here Friday.

A fifth - generation Canadian scholar and author, Dr. Corry has been principal since 1952. He succeeds Dr. William A. Mackintosh, 66, who will carry on as a professor.

Dr. Corry had been professor of law at the university and a backbencher before joining Queen's in 1936 as professor of constitutional law. He was named vice-principal in 1951.

Represented at the convocation were 60 learned societies and universities, 13 from the United States and four from Europe.

Premier Leslie Frost led the province's delegation backed by Health Minister Dymond, Education Minister Robarts and Commerce and Development Minister Nickle.

Four men received an honorary doctor of laws degree. They were: Dr. John E. Hammett, Belleville; Dr. John Hall, Dr. F. Legare, rector of the University of Ottawa and president of the National Conference of Canadian Universities; Arthur Moxon, former dean of the College of Law, university of Saskatchewan; and Education Minister Robarts.

Otto Holden of Toronto, an engineering graduate, received a doctor of science degree and Rev. William P. Bannister, Toronto, a doctor of sacred letters.

Dr. Corry is a native of the Stratford area, is the 13th principal in the university's 130-year history.

"Without a vision beyond the immediate problems of today, Dr. Corry said in his convocation address.

"The greatest troubles come not from the fading of vision, but from the lack of it. We have an upward path in our immediate foreground. Nothing stays put around us any more. We have our sense of direction in the fog of increasing change and naturally we flounder.

"The first charge of the university is to throw a steadying and longer beam from the lamps of reason."

Mr. Robarts said the universities, like other corporate bodies, cannot be free from responsive policies arbitrarily imposed by the state if they are to make their proper contribution to society.

Khrushchev Seems Winning Fight With Enemies in Party

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

The events at the Soviet Communist party congress in Moscow suggest that Soviet Premier Khrushchev is winning the battle against his enemies in the party and setting the scene for the announcement of a house-cleaning.

It seems likely that the purge already is under way. Evidence of it was stated well in advance of the party congress, at least at the lower levels.

But Khrushchev wants and apparently needs total victory. He wants a definitive formal expulsion from the Communist party of those he labelled anti-party in 1957.

The congress can provide the machinery for Khrushchev's purposes. Anything formal approval are some new ideas concerning the standing by which the Communist party is supposed to govern itself.

ALBANIA HEADS UNDER ATTACK AT CONFERENCE

Begun by Nikita At Parley Opening

MOSCOW (Reuters)—The Soviet Communist party chief Khrushchev, Mikhail Suslov, today stepped up attacks on Albania's leaders and were hyped by Premier Nikita Khrushchev at the opening of the party's 22nd congress.

Suslov said Albanian leaders have been showing everything in their power to spread the cult of personality, which Khrushchev denounced at the 20th congress in 1957.

The Albanians do not want to accept the notions of Leninist principles of party life and criticism of the personality cult, he said.

In Belgrade, it was reported that Albanian Communist party has featured a statement by Albanian Labor Communist party leaders on "dangers and anti-Marxist attacks of Khrushchev" on the party congress, which called socialist camp unity.)

First Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan Friday blew down on the Albanians. Khrushchev followed Mikoyan with his own blasts of which the Albanian leaders are acting anew."

The Soviet news agency Tass also reported today that Mr. Mikoyan praised Albanian Communist chief Gen. Enver Hoxha of taking reprisals against Albanians "just because they do not want to leave the well-rested path of Albanian-Soviet friendship."

RED CHINA ABSTAINS

About the only Communist chief not to attack Albania was Chinese Premier Chou En-lai. Chou Enlai. He made only a passing reference to Albania in a speech Thursday but virtually rebuked Khrushchev with a call for alliance, not unity, to end quarrels within the Communist camp.

Albania, which was not invited to the congress, looks to Peking for ideological guidance and material aid.

The assault on Albania was considered a surprise. Since Soviet ideological differences, both Khrushchev and Mao Tse-tung have been watched closely here for any hints of new developments. Mao has not attended a party congress since 1945.

Friday Chou and Khrushchev appeared together in public after a 20-minute recess and delegates were reported to have talked in the interval.

News of the joint appearance increased speculation that reconciliation among Western newspaper men, who were barred from the 5,000-seat Kremlin Palace of Congresses where attempting to reach a reconciliation.

ALBANIA REPLIES

(Albania, meanwhile has replied to Khrushchev's attack with a statement accusing Khrushchev of being "anti-Marxist" and of "ignoring his responsibility" for setbacks in international Communism.

Mad Strangler Hunted in Brooklyn As 7th Elderly Woman Choked

NEW YORK (CP)—Police believe that a sex maniac with "powerful hands" has strangled seven elderly women in the last two years, all in poor neighborhoods of Brooklyn.

Fifty detectives launched a manhunt for the killer, referred to as a "sex fiend," Saturday after his latest victim, Mrs. Bessie Reibstein, 69-year-old widow, was found strangled and raped in her tiny apartment Thursday night.

The dead women, all of them at least 55 years old and all but one of their victims, were Negroes. They all had apartments on the ground floor. The murderer ransacked all of their rooms.

One detective said the killer "seems to get a line on the old folks." Another detective said he's a worse than Jack the Ripper.

Police theorized that the killer came suddenly upon his victims and strangled them with his hands. Some of the women were killed in their sleep. Some of were raped.

In all cases, the slayer entered either through a window or managed to gain entry, he got through doors which were locked and barred.

Mrs. Reibstein was a cautious woman, kept her windows locked winter and summer. Police said the killer gained entry through a rear bathroom window.

Her hands were tied behind her back with a belt and she was stuffed in her mouth.

Police said she had been beaten and raped. The killer ransacked her apartment, as he did in the other murders. But this time he fled without loot, overlooking $370 she had hidden in a pillow case on her bed.

Mrs. Reibstein had returned to her home Saturday night from a six-week visit with her son-in-law and told reporters: "there's no place like home sweet home."

Green Declares Reds Don't Care About Neighbors

War Against Bomb Test Waged on Two Fronts

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Canada has charged that the Russians a don't care about bringing atomic ashes to the gardens of their neighbors.

External Affairs Minister Howard Green said the world is talking about Soviet Premier Khrushchev's announcement that he plans to explode a 50-megaton bomb.

The Soviet-test overture at United Nations was waged on two fronts. In one of them, 75 nations assembled they want to find out more about atomic radiation and its hazards for human health.

This was the meaning of a Canadian resolution that did a steamroller act in the 104-member special political committee of the General Assembly Friday night.

The measure was approved 15 to 0 with 17 abstentions. The Soviet bloc, which had opposed Canada and 14 others on the resolution proposal of its own, abstained on the vote.

U.S. WARNING

"They didn't want to get in the path of a truck," said an American official who himself had earlier been lukewarm about the Canadian scientific proposal co-sponsored by 24 other countries.

Khrushchev's announcement that a 50-megaton bomb would be exploded soon has caused the deepest concern at the United Nations, and this was reflected in committee.

A Communist resolution on radiation — introduced by Czechoslovakia and then bolstered by neutralist India by amendment — also was approved by the committee but only by a vote of 33 to 22 with 37 abstentions.

The Czech resolution was mild compared with the Canadian one. It merely asked that the UN General Assembly where a two-thirds vote is required for approval, the Canadian draft is assured of approval. The Czech version is a dud.

Green, who returned to Ottawa Friday night, told reporters he was pleased with the results of the radiation vote.

ASHES ON GARDEN

He had just delivered a speech in the UN senior political committee in support of a resolution—co-sponsored by six countries including Canada—appealing to Russia to refrain from unleash the 50-megaton bomb equal to 60,000,000 tons of TNT.

Green said such an act would be a "great world tragedy." He took the gamble.

"As a homely analogy illustrative of the principle involved, I imagine two neighbors, one of whom proceeds to blow large quantities of arsenic dust into the air over his garden.

"This spreads with the blown across the garden of his neigh-

Canada Relies Tremendously On UK Market

HALIFAX (CP)—Trade Minister George Hees said Friday the Canadian government had made it plain to Britain that this country relies tremendously" on the British market.

Mr. Hees, speaking to a trade and industrial promotional conference, said Canada had told Britain existing arrangements covering exports from this country to Britain were of great importance to Canada's industry. Losing this market would be "very serious," he said

The federal government is conducting an industry-by-industry study on whether Canada should attempt to enter the European Common Market, the trading bloc British wants to join.

When this study is completed, Mr. Hees said, it should produce a balance sheet to show what the Common Market could do for Canadian industry as a whole.

It was obvious that entry into the Common Market would benefit some industries—he mentioned the automobile, which was just as obvious that others, such as manufacturing, might suffer.

If Britain felt she couldn't make satisfactory trading arrangements between Britain and Canada if she joined the Common Market, a Commonwealth conference should be held to discuss the issue, he said, but a conference could work out better trading arrangements with the Commonwealth.

All Govt. Departments At Work on Urgent Basis On Atom War Defence Plans

TRENTON — "Emergency planning has become an everyday task of government."

Speaking to an assembly of 133 members of the Canadian Industrial Preparedness Association at Trenton last night, R. S. Curry, director of the Emergency Measures Organization of the federal government, said that at one time the development of plans and preparations against the possible outbreak of nuclear war may have been thought of as a part-time job for semi-retired individuals, but the fact of the matter was that for many months all responsible departments of government, from the highest level fully-fledged full-time effort on the most urgent tasks to the plans that they must make within government and for the people whom the government serves.

Mr. Curry said that although federal and provincial governments had in fact participated in this field, in the final analysis, the survival of Canada lies in the hands of its cities and towns, counties and other areas of municipal government.

"One should consider how real the threat of nuclear war is," the speaker continued. "Those who best know the conditions in the free world are convinced that the threat is a continuous one. In spite of this country's determination, war may yet come to us. Both sides have the capacity to wage all-out nuclear war. The first requirement of a catastrophic result might come by miscalculation, in the belief that it is altogether possible for war to begin through misunderstanding."

Mr. Curry said that in a nuclear war, Canada, as a member of the North Atlantic Alliance and by its geographical placement between the two great opposing powers, is certainly not involved?

Mr. Curry said that because of Canada's dispersement of population and the fact that most of our cities appear to rank below certain potential targets in the United States, nuclear fallout could be considered the more general threat. He said that fallout could be guarded against by fairly simple measures. The fact that radioactive effect dissipates fairly rapidly, would indicate that protection of the people in the early hours after the detonation of a nuclear device, was of tremendous consequence.

SURVIVAL FIRST

"The first responsibility of government in planning is for the survival of people", said the speaker, "extremely important because here to be faced, such as the relative merits of evacuation and dispersal as compared with a 'stay-put' approach. Those municipal leaders who favor simplicity the problem in terms of 'do we duck or do we run?', cannot be given a simple answer. The problem is complex and the answer depends upon local characteristics of many kinds as it also depends on the nature and character of the attack. Each so-called target area must have plans tailored to its own circumstances."

Mr. Curry said that unless plans were made in advance to help people to disperse well ahead of an attack, warning times might be insufficient to do anything but take cover.

"We will undoubtedly suffer great losses if Canadian cities come under attack", said Mr. Curry. "All we can do is plan in a sensible fashion to take measures that will reduce such losses as far as possible. Outside the cities and in smaller communities, across the country, fallout shelters in various forms offer great hope for the saving of countless lives."

Mr. Curry said that the government had given considerable attention at all levels to the continuity of government as such.

Quoting from a recent speech made by the Prime Minister of Canada, Mr. Curry said, "It is absolutely essential that government be prepared at all times to give leadership and guidance to the people who would survive a nuclear war." To do this, said Mr. Curry, it is necessary for governments at all level to make physical preparations and to decide on functions which they would carry out in case of an emergency.

"The physical preparations entail the provision of emergency headquarters for government sites outside capital cities. Such sites are being provided throughout Canada and the federal government is not only making emergency provision for its own services but is also helping the provincial governments to meet any wartime responsibilities."

Mr. Curry said that new government agencies of a standby nature had been created in the defence planning, in many fields, such as transportation, communications, food, electricity, manpower control, and the use and control of essential materials in wartime.

The national director said that the federal government today are not unlike those facing industry, which is also required to consider the protection of personnel, the safeguarding of resources for the continuity of management; the possible provision of alternate facilities and the protection of essential records. He said that essentially the heads of industry prepare a succession list of persons in authority so that in the event of casualties it would be made known who is the next in line to take over. He said that provision should be made for the safe keeping of the plant's headquarters; that an adequate warning system be established in the industry and that arrangements be for the removal of key personnel.

Mr. Curry also suggested to the industrial heads that protection might as well to follow the government' example and put able people to work at developing emergency preparations.

The protection of plant equipment and valuable machinery was also suggested by the speaker, together with plans for the emergency supply of power, water and fuel must be made. He said that there is a great need in the process of construction, equipment should be arranged so that the greatest inherent protection against possible damage.

RESCUE WORK

On the subject of the protection of personnel, Mr. Curry said there should be great emphasis placed on first aid and rescue in industry. He said that living techniques should be improved and personnel should be trained with respect to plans for their own families in the portant industry. He said that industry target areas should enquire about ways and means of protecting workers in their plants themselves.

Mr. Curry said that industry should make long-range plans for a speedy recovery program which would get the people on the aftermath of a nuclear attack.

"The essential problem that our people will face is a stark simple one — how to survive and how to recover."

The speaker said that industry will have to concern itself with such essential items as the manufacture of cheaper materials for the construction of fallout shelters; the production of inexpensive radiation meters for use in such shelters and the need for easily assembled, non-perishable and reasonably inexpensive emergency food supplies.

NEW AWARENESS

Mr. Curry concluded by saying that there is a definite new awareness among Canadians concerning protective measures and needs for their survival in the event of a nuclear war and that industry should take cognizance of this.

"Just as people and as governments at all levels are involved in this most complex and yet most challenging matter, so also industry must involved."

Air Marshall Hugh Campbell, CBE, CD, Chief of the Air Staff, flew in from Ottawa last evening to address the assembled industrialists. The delegates were greeted upon their arrival at R.C.A.F. Station Trenton yesterday morning by Lt.-Commodore R. J. Lane, Air Officer Commanding Air Transport Command and Group Captain R. J. Williams, Officer in Command of RCAF Station Trenton.

This is the first time since 1953 that the Canadian Industrial Preparedness Association has held its annual meeting in this part of Canada.

Women's Club Hears Address On 'Theatre'

TRENTON — Mr. James Alexander spoke on The Theatre to the Trenton Business and Professional Women's Club on Wednesday evening. Mr. Alexander said that the theatre is an art, "A need for self-expression and desire to communicate what is expressed."

The first form of theatre originated in Ancient Greece where women were allowed to act in the theatre. Prior to 1662 women were not allowed to act in the theatre, being played by the females roles. At this date, acting was a profession job for women, audiences participated at times in battle scenes, throwing custard to the wicks.

Presently, Germany and Russia produce the most exciting and dynamic theatre in the world. Russians are perfectionists, who sometimes spend up to five years rehearsing for a play.

Mr. Alexander explained the sequence of play writing and the duties of the director and actors. He explained that an audience had a duty too, to listen, to be silent, participate and absorb, and to think.

This being Business Women's Week, Miss Mary Pye-Trenton spoke on job opportunities available for women.

Miss Patterson explained that there was a great list of occupations for women, such as real estate, banking, accounting, secretarial business. Women are missing opportunities because of being afraid to enter fields where the field of aviation is being explored by women, and sometimes progress is being made by women in political fields. She stated that women have been given education today because of being a necessity and not a luxury. Graduate courses are available in many fields to improve educational and women's status in the business world.

Miss Patterson mentioned the opportunities for stenographers in the Department of Veterans Affairs, Ottawa. The postings anywhere in the world for a two-year period, where Canada has representation, a most interesting and challenging experience for women. Miss Patterson said that her greatest desire was one day to see Canada with a woman as Prime Minister.

Miss Doris Webb, convener of Business Women's Week requested all members to attend the worship service on Sunday evening at the Salvation Army Citadel.

Four Gananoque Men Rescued By Search Unit

TRENTON — Around noon on Friday, four Gananoque men, Collis, Douglas and Percy Hollingsworth and Arthur Pullen were rescued from a small boat by a Search and Rescue unit operated by RCAF Station Air Station.

The boat had set out at 10 p.m. Thursday night to hunt ducks near Duck Island, about 20 miles from Trenton Air Station. The boat propeller became entangled in a trailing rope and the engine died. The men were seen floating helplessly in Lake Ontario by the lighthouskeeper on Duck Island early Friday morning. He at once alerted Department of Transport officials in Kingston, who in turn relayed the call to the Search and Rescue unit at RCAF Station, Trenton.

The search was initiated by Flt.-Lt. Bill Miller, was sent out and when the small boat was spotted, the helicopter, piloted by Flt.-Lt. A. L. Winter and rescued the men on the spot. The men were hauled, one by one, into the helicopter by means of a sling. This is the first time this type of rescue operation has been carried out in this area.

The four men were flown to RCAF Station, Trenton, where they were examined by a doctor and allowed to proceed home by car.

Members of the helicopter rescue crew were Sgt. R. E. Brooks, Cpl. Myles and LAC St. Armand, all of RCAF Station Trenton.

All Sections Of Bond Market Show Gains

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadian bonds markets in spasmodic trading this week and all sections showed gains.

In the mid and long term government issues, the Dec. 1 Canada 4¼-per-cent Dec. 15, 1986 issue was up 10 cents at $109.30 and the Canada 4½-per-cent Sept. 1, 1983, 75 cents at 103.75. Dec. 1, 1961, was up 5 cent, 1967, was quoted at 97.75, from 97.35 earlier in the week.

There was a strong undertone to the Canada bond market. The Manitoba Hydro 5¼-per-cent, 1982, issue of last week was quoted at $100.

The corporate saw some revival. The Low Loblaw Groceteria 5¾-per-cent, 1961, issue, which last week advanced $1 to $100.50. The corporate highlight of the week was the $3,000,000 Toronto Metro 5¼-per-cent and 5¼-per-cent issue which went to the market to yield 5.40 per cent for the 10-year bonds, 5.40 per cent for the 15-year issues and 5.58 for the 30-year bonds. The issue proved attractive to investors and they quickly moved to a premium of ¾ to ⅞ of one per cent. The city of Windsor $1,730,000 one - to - 25-year bonds was also well received by local by Canadian and American institutions.

The cities of Winnipeg and London, Ont., and the Montreal Protestant School Board are expected to announce issues soon. Tenders are currently being called for all three issues.

Verwoerd Says Racial Policy Is Vindicated

PRETORIA (Reuters) — Premier Hendrik Verwoerd said Friday the victory of his Nationalist party in Wednesday's general election showed South Africa's fitness for his policy of apartheid (racial separation).

The decision made by the all-white electorate was unequivocal, he said in his first public appearance since his party's sweeping victory.

In what observers took as a clear indication of a hardening of partheid policies, Verwoerd added: "Because the government obtained this assurance, they are strengthened to go forward."

He said his government will proceed on the chosen road, "namely not to integrate and to criminate against non - whites but to differentiate as reasonable, to give rights which are due to them, but on the basis of equality."

Verwoerd's Nationalists increased their representation to 295 from 108 seats in the 156-member Parliament when final returns were declared Thursday night.

The main opposition group, the United Party, also gained seats, winning 49 against 61 in the old Parliament. But its gains were at the expense of the breakaway Progressive Party. The Labor party also made a net gain, compared with 11 before the election.

Rotarians Will Welcome Their Area Governor

This Monday local Rotarians will be hosts at a dinner in honor of the annual visit of their district governor, Dr. Henry Kingstone, of Napanee. The district governor will be attending both the regular weekly dinner meeting on Monday afternoon at the Hotel Quinte as well as a club conference later in the day.

Dr. Kingstone, a practising physician, was elected a district governor of Rotary International at the service organization's 52nd annual convention held in Tokyo, Japan, this past May. He is but one of 160 district governors which supervise the activities of over 11,000 Rotary Clubs in 123 countries around the globe.

The district governor is expected to emphasize the effort which Rotary Clubs can make to promote understanding, good will and peace throughout the world today during these difficult times. One of the projects devoted to this cause is the student fellowship program of the Rotary Foundation, in which the local Club participates. Since 1947, when this foundation was established, some 1,454 fellowships have been awarded to students in 70 countries to pursue liberal studies in 39 countries at a cost of over $3,500,000.

A full turnout of Rotarians is expected at the Dr. Kingstone's visit, local club president Virgil James said this morning.

Miss Sheila Canning (centre) was chosen Miss Quinte Chapter Credit Unitor last night at the Club Canara. Also holding the title Miss Noriscite Employees Credit Union, she was competing against Miss Income Tax, Mercedes (4th Grave (left), and Miss Civil Service, sponsored by RCAF Donnie Nicholson (right). It is the first time in four years that more than one girl sought the title.

Miss Sheila Canning Named Miss Quinte Credit Union

An attractive petite 17-year-old Belleville girl, Miss Sheila Canning, was crowned Miss Quinte Chapter Credit Union last night at International Credit Union dinner and dance at Club Canara.

The auburn-haired Northern District teenager, earlier was chosen Miss Norgiect by her fellow employees, was placed first by judges Mr. George Curris of Whitby, District Chapter Field Representative, and Mrs. Gerald Roy from this city. Her competitors were Miss Civil Service, Miss Donna Nicholson, a brunette high school student from Trenton, who had previously won over three girls from that district, and Miss Income Tax, a dainty who is also a auburn-haired hairdresser, Miss Mereclth Graves.

Sheila, talented daughter of Mrs. Henry Canning; 20 Wilkins Street, has already appeared on TV three times, singing and dancing. For the contest she wore a mauve taffeta gown, 1800 taffeta dress, with bluffant over skirt, featuring full sleeves, les bodice accented by a square neckline.

Aside from the honor, the good crown and the bouquet of red roses, Miss Canning won an all-expense-paid trip to Windsor in March to the Ontario Convention, where she will compete for the Provincial crown.

The other contestants were presented with corsages by Mrs. William O'Neil of Trenton.

Father Dungeon said Grace before approximately 200 people and enjoyed a hot roast beef dinner, or if anyone preferred, fish.

Seated at the head table were: Mr. and Mrs. Edmunds, Kingston; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Comeau; Mr. and Mrs. William O'Neil Trenton, Mr. and Mrs. G. Cherry, Mr. Raymond Scott, Quinte Chapter Credit Council; Belleville and Mrs. Scott; Mr. John Hillman, Toronto; Mr. George Curris, District Field Representative, Whitby; Ald. Robert Temple, Deputy Mayor of Belleville and Mrs. Temple; Mr. Lee Grills, Ald. Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Wagar; Mr. and Mrs. Garry Roy, Belleville; Mr. John Black, Peterborough, and Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Smith, of Trenton.

Master of ceremonies for the evening, Mr. Raymond Scott, called on Ald. Temple for civic greetings.

Mr. Lee Grills stated that he was amazed at the growth of the Credit Union movement.

Before introducing the guest speaker, Mr. George Curris spoke briefly on the accomplishments of the International Union which are the result of good management control and direction, rising from 1,500 unions to 1,500 strong, with assets totalling over $2 million per annum. The speaker, Mr. John Hillman, general manager for the Ontario Credit Union League, explained the reason for setting aside one day a year for celebrating for Thanksgiving and giving. Members should be thankful to God for enabling them to create an economic security through sharing. This is an example of democracy in action, with each member having a say in the distribution of the surplus. The members should take pride in indirectly helping maintain the high standard of Canadian living, with the unions helping to keep interest rates on loans, by such as insurance companies, at a lower level.

Mr. Hallinan told of a world of opportunity where over eight people were brought from underprivileged countries to Canada to receive technical training and have now returned to their homelands.

After Father Dunphy thanked the speaker, Mr. Scott presented Mr. Hallinan with a bouquet of flowers for his wife who was unable to be present.

Mr. Scott gave a short financial summary of the three districts included in the Chapter; Trenton with six unions, 2,000 members and assets of $500,000; Kingston with nine unions, 2,300 members and assets of $850,000 and Belleville with nine unions, 2,025 members, total savings of $380,000, loans of $427,000 and assets amounting to $473,000.

The remainder of the evening was spent dancing to the music of Hugo Digbin' on cherips.

Saskatchewan Medical Plan Will Cost $63

REGINA (CP)—Increases in income tax, corporation tax and sales tax, family premiums of $42 and individual premiums of $13 are to pay for Saskatchewan's pro p o s e d compulsory, comprehensive medical care insurance plan.

Provincial Treasurer Woodrow Lloyd announced the figures in a major financial policy statement to the legislature today and hinted that the compulsory plan may come into effect next April 1.

He said the tax increases and premium together could cost the average family $63 a year. The income tax increase will be six per cent of payable income tax, and corporation tax will be raised to 10 from nine per cent. The sale tax will be raised to five from three per cent, but not all of this will go toward the medical care plan.

Albert College Graduates Told of Aims of Education By Convocation Speaker

By GLADYS WARD

"I have known many youths and have a high regard for them," Dr. A. C. Lewis, former Dean of the Ontario College of Education, told the graduates of Albert College at the fall Convocation held in Memorial Chapel on Friday evening.

"They are potentially intelligent citizens if they have good teachers, and the determination to succeed. It is no use being brilliant if you are lazy. Laziness is a habit to be overcome, you must be willing to do difficult things to reach your objective. No intelligence can make up for the lack of honesty and truthfulness, you must at least be honest with yourselves.

"The aims of education in Ontario are to develop the capacity to apprehend and practise the basic virtues to develop clear thinking habits and to develop the characteristics for happy family living. The teacher must see each student as an individual and help him to find his place, and to put people in groups, the unemployed, the handicapped, the criminals, and so on. Putting people in classes is dangerous and undemocratic and are foolish. The educator must focus his attention on the individual, to see each pupil clearly. Many parents fail to do this too, and the child often does not get a chance at them. A pupil needs independence of thought and action, to think for himself.

WASTE OF BRAIN POWER

"There is too much dropping out of school. Of every hundred students in Grade Two, only six graduate from University. We ought to be able to raise that figure to fifteen. It is a colossal waste of brain power. You have an advantage here at Albert College with small classes, living here and working and night, and study hours, but you must see that you are responsible for your own development."

Dr. Lewis spoke warmly of the new Headmaster, J. Alistair Haig, as a man who was a brilliant player in the game of football, who had had an unusual career, first qualifying as a teacher and then deciding to go into the ministry, taking a Master's degree in Theology.

"He is highly qualified to be a pastor and your Principal and I hope you know the quality of the man you have as Principal," said Dr. James Davis. This school has had an outstanding record, and the reputation depends on the students and staff rather than on the stones and mortar of the building. The reputation of the school depends on the graduates.

A CHURCH SCHOOL

"This is a church school, and Christ is the cornerstone. You get special training in order to be the way for a new order of international relations of friendship and good-will. Whatever you do, make of yourselves good citizens of the community and of your school."

The proceedings were opened with the academic procession entering to the strains of an organ prelude played by Mr. Douglas Woodland. Rev. J. M. Davis, minister of Bridge Street United Church pronounced the Invocation.

Chairman for the ceremonies was Rev. Andrew Haig, Principal of the College, who recalled his own graduation as one of the highlights of his life, and hoped it would be a memorable occasion in the lives of the young people present. "You will always be a part of Albert College and Albert College will always be a part of you", Mr. Haig told the graduating class. "We hope you will go forth knowing of the blessing of God and our goodwill attend you."

The school choir under the direction of Dean J. MacKay, Mus. Bac., Mus. Doc., and the audience joined in the Albert College hymn.

Two students contributed to the program with Miss Diane Parker giving a piano solo, and Garth Jackson a vocal solo.

The introduction of the guest speaker, Judge J. C. Anderson, chairman of the Board of Governors, traced his academic background as a graduate of Victoria College, headmaster of the University of Toronto schools, Dean of the College of Education, an important post he held for many years, and a member of the Board of Recruitment for the United Church of Canada, a position he has qualified to speak to the students.

Appreciation to the speaker for a Stimulating address was expressed by Vice-President of the Board J. Donald Baxter and Dean of Women, Lowell Lewis, of humor indicated his love of Dr. Lewis. He was an example of what one could get out of life by putting everything one had into it. Dr. Lewis was happy to pay tribute to the speaker was by emulating his example.

Yugoslav Mum About Report He Has Defected

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Nenad Pogacnik, 27, son of Yugoslavia's economic officials, defected to freedom on a Belgrade report that he has defected to the United States.

Neither would he confirm or deny a report by reliable sources in Belgrade, who said Popovic had decided not to return to his Communist country.

Popovic, 52, served as chief of economic affairs in Yugoslavia's foreign ministry, is teaching economics at Syracuse University. He signed as a visiting professor in August and plans to teach for the remainder of the current academic year.

He was one of the negotiators who signed for Yugoslavia last year $275,000,000 in loans and credits from the International Monetary Fund, United States and several west European countries.

Popovic, his wife and children left Yugoslavia for a vacation in August and were due to return early last month. Instead, they went to London, then came to the United States. His wife and children are with him here.

He has served as assistant director of the Yugoslav national bank and as assistant minister for foreign trade.

Free Democrats Vote on Support For Adenauer

BONN (Reuters) — National committeemen of the minority Free Democrat Party assemble here today for a key vote on a proposal to enter a coalition with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democrats.

The proposal was presented following a meeting between Adenauer and Erich Mende, leader of the Free Democrats, a small rightist party whose gains in the Sept. 17 election lost the Christian Democrats their absolute majority in the Bundestag.

Mende agreed to the coalition but only after the 85-year-old Adenauer promised to resign as chancellor sometime before the next election in 1953.

The vote was considered crucial because the 52 Free Democrat legislators have been unable to reach agreement on the coalition issue. They were still divided on the question Friday night after a five-hour meeting.

The decision of the 150 committeemen is subject to ratification by the parliamentary group which is expected to meet again early next week.

A Difficult Choice

Next Wednesday, the delegates attending the Progressive Conservative convention in Toronto will have a formidable decision to make. They must elect a man who, they hope, will meet with favor, not only in their own party, but with that wide band of public opinion which holds no strong party feeling.

The wealth of ability and talent possessed by several of the candidates is much above the average, and after assessing these assets each delegate must finally make his or her decision. This would be really a thorny problem even for experienced observers of the political scene for they are sometimes influenced by what they hear today and by something else tomorrow. However, there is a hint of what the future holds if delegates perused the press reports regularly. It would be seen that the four names most frequently mentioned as being the favorites were Allan, Macaulay, Roberts and Roberts, but not necessarily in that order. Would one or more of these men fulfill the requirements for leadership? And what are some of these requirements?

Firstly: He must have proved executive ability for governments under modern conditions are big business. No executive is worth the name unless he can surround himself with a selected group (the cabinet) of competent and conscientious associates to share the responsibilities of government. These men, as well, should have the qualities of leadership for they will be called upon to head departments employing large numbers of people, or civil service personnel, as well as having to give an account of their management when called for, chiefly by the Opposition.

Secondly: A good leader should be able to take care of himself competently in the rough and tumble debate in the Legislature. It is here that even a smart, experienced man, goaded by the Opposition, can make statements and comments which are better unsaid and which can be damaging to himself and the party he serves.

Thirdly: The qualities of leadership, which inspire loyalty and a desire to serve unstintingly, are beyond price. A good leader will, in turn, demonstrate his trust by placing more of the responsibilities of government on the shoulders of his associates. Government, these days, is so complex that no leader can hope to do more than give personal attention to problems except on policy level.

Fourthly: It is the responsibility of any party in power to develop potential leaders and this has been done to some extent by Mr. Frost, but can it be said that he gave the talented men in his cabinet the freedom of expression and management which Mr. Diefenbaker permits on occasion? After his victory in 1957 Mr. Diefenbaker selected many comparatively unknown men who only lacked the opportunity to demonstrate their abilities. That his judgment proved correct was served to point up the fact that the Prime Minister had to have the qualities of leadership so necessary to men in public life.

On the basis of competent administration of Cabinet posts, Mr. Kelso Roberts and Mr. James N. Allan have demonstrated they are of leadership calibre. Mr. Roberts, Attorney-General, being a native of Belleville, has a wide circle of friends and supporters here who can be counted on to use their influence in his behalf. He is noted for his prompt attention to any criticism of his department and for his friendly manner at all times. Mr. Allan, Provincial Treasurer, is less known in Hastings, but he has a fine record in the Legislature and has held several important posts including Minister of Department of Highways, Treasurer and Minister of Works.

Mr. Robert W. Macaulay, Minister of Energy Resources, and Mr. J. P. Robarts, Minister of Education, have received remarkably good commentaries in the press although the latter is less known to the public. Mr. Macaulay has spent ten years in the Legislature and is noted for great affability as an organizer, a speaker, an author, and besides has shown the qualities of able leadership in his public life.

Mr. Macaulay and Mr. Robarts, being men in their forties, could be expected to give long continuity to leadership and stand up under the heavy responsibility of that office. It is possible that Premier Frost had this in mind yesterday in his address to the Empire Club of Toronto when he commented that the future needs young men with vigor.

The Progressive Conservative Party of Ontario must have a new leader who can give inspired leadership and who has the health and stamina to give continuity to that post. It can be expected that one of the above four candidates will be chosen.

Difficult to Do Good

Montreal Gazette

The trouble that has arisen over the U.S. Peace Corps in Nigeria proves how very difficult it is to do good. Students of Nigeria's College of Ibadan are demanding that all members of the Peace Corps be sent home.

Yet, these young people from the United States have been sent to Nigeria simply to be of help to the Nigerians. They are all people with some special and needed skill. Moreover, they are supposed to live with the Nigerians in their towns and villages and help them to solve their problems.

But one of the girls in this Peace Corps happened to write a postcard to a friend in the United States. The postcard, bearing criticism of what she had encountered, was well-intentioned. The girl had simply been bad, but she was determined to carry on with her work.

"Work," she is quoted as having said, "is the training we had had", she wrote, "we were really not prepared for the squalor and disgusting primitive living conditions rampant . . . We had no idea what 'underdeveloped' meant. It is really a revelation and once we got over the initial shock, it is a very rewarding experience."

This postcard was found and circulated by the Nigerian students of the college of Ibadan. They are so angry that they insist the whole Peace Corps be deported.

But what is happening is not something peculiar to certain underdeveloped nations. It is a revelation of human nature and its ways.

Perhaps for the United States and for her allies, there are words of counsel to be had, for this ever-changing human problem, in the New England philosopher and poet, Ralph Waldo Emerson. He wrote one of his essays on "gifts". Though it was composed more than a century ago, modern instances only serve to illustrate the soundness of principles he presented.

With no thought for the aid programs of the Cold War, Emerson was writing: "The law of beneficial giving is difficult and . . . We wish to be self-sustained. We do not quite forgive a giver. The hand that feeds us is in some danger of being bitten."

Emerson went on to point out that the giver, by his very expectation of gratitude, may be himself the cause of his own unsatisfying reception. "For the expectation of gratitude is tyranny," he said, "and is continually punished by the total insensibility of the obliged person. It is a very common business, this being served, and the debtor naturally wishes to get you a dog."

Seeing clearly into the underlying laws of human behavior, Emerson declared that people only do good when they go out of doors, though you preach me house and lands. No service is a service, if it value, but only likeness. When I have attempted to join myself to others by services, it proved an intellectual trick, no more. They eat your services like apples, and leave you their core."

It is a hard law, and even a subtle one. But the West has spent billions of dollars in search for a very considerable generosity. It may ever be surprised and hurt, but never to whether it is worthwhile. But helping others in need or distress always demands a very careful touch. Patience, as Emerson said, must have its work.

"We can rarely strike a direct stroke but must be content with an obliging game of cross-bow. have the satisfaction of yielding a direct benefit which is immediately felt. Almost all gratitude scatters favors on every side without knowing it, and receives with wonder the thanks of the people".

Nigeria has apparently suffered hitherto in trying to buy friends in the Cold War has been a clear one. Perhaps one of the lessons ought not to be entirely unprofitable. The proof that we spend simply to buy allies is not an undeniable legend. Even the aid that we give through the Peace Corps has yet to learn to avoid the condescension that is resented.

Where the West has failed to be pitied its wealth in human behavior too low. The stakes in the Cold War come higher. We are dealing with human nature. And human nature cherishes its dignity, even when it is not highly developed. There would be less to respect in human nature if it were otherwise.

Coexistence In Nature

Brantford Expositor

"In Nature", piped the poet, Coleridge, soothingly, "there is nothing anarchical".

Fiddlesticks! The fellow didn't know Nature. "Red in tooth and claw" as the more realistic Tennyson did. Equally off base was Wordsworth with his blasting misinformation that "Nature never did betray the heart that loved her" when any observant student can spot her for the double-crossing beldam that she is. As for Goldsmith, another sentimental versifier, who "sought the simple life—that Nature yields," little more than insight and a little less poetry would have enabled him to see Nature vastly complex in many of her aspects.

Take the much lauded people, not only poets, like to imagine the sweet life in the fold—domicile sheep, the industrious bees, the gentle deer, and the like, as setting admirable examples for us cruder humans that we are, to follow.

Fish and tush!

Sheep butcher and crayfish quarrel; birds ruthlessly attack other birds — the dove, the emblem of peace, will mercilessly peck an opponent to death; wolf sheep will engage in deadly duels; so do deer; bees are murderous; soldiers are cannibals; ants go to war, led by fighting females, for in their case, too, that element of the species is more deadly than the male.

Naturalists (as distinct from nature poets) know this. At present, the U.S. National Geographic Society reports, scientists concerned with the psychology of animals are making a further study of the subject.

And that is as it should be with what may be, to the layman, surprising and useful findings.

The reputedly wicked wolf, for instance, often saves a belated fox; a dog will do the same; lions and tigers rarely fight strenuously among themselves, though the supposedly gentle deer will fight to the death; bunnies to the death!

Writers are also encouraging aspects of the case. There are many instances, often widely published, of animal-human friendships; a recent report is of a handsome male lion whose favorite playmate is a frisky black lamb.

Dr. Martin Moynihan of the Smithsonian Institution reports that some birds have developed their natural hostility sufficiently to make community living workable; howler monkeys contrive to restrict their aggression to vocal threats.

How they learned this is still a mystery, but it is what we are working on it. Maybe, if we don't succeed in blowing ourselves to smithereens before that, we humans, too, may discover the secret of peaceful coexistence!

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

CONCERNING INSPIRATION

The word "inspiration" is derived from two Latin words which mean to breathe into. An inspired writing is one which has had something breathed into it. An inspired person is one who has had skill breathed into him. Inspiration is the state of mind resulting when something has been breathed into a person or thing.

We are told in the early chapters of Genesis that God breathed into man's nostrils and he became a living being. We read that on Pentecost following our Lord's resurrection, the Holy Spirit came down upon an assembly of one hundred and twenty Christian believers. They were inspired. Something was breathed into them.

Occasionally we meet people who inspire us. We can all look back upon teachers who inspired us. Perhaps we have been inspired by the appeal of some splendid cause. We are not aware of the fact that inspiration has never ceased. It is a continuous process. This breathing of the higher into the lower goes on all the time. We can find new life because of the contacts they have with unusual inspiration. Perhaps we have been inspired by things breathed into them from above.

The Bible is inspired. So, very frequently, are its readers. The Church is inspired. God is ready to pour more inspiration into the world and into our hearts if we but offer ourselves ready to receive this lofty power.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

30 YEARS AGO

October 22nd, 1935.

Large congregations attended the sixty-eighth anniversary services at Victoria Avenue Baptist Church, Belleville, with Rev. N. E. McKechnie, D.D., of Port Hope, as guest preacher for the united church, preaching at both morning and evening services. The Belleville choir rendered well-pleasing music during the day with Mr. James Bankier singing solo parts. The services were in charge of the pastor, Rev. Dr. Hutchison.

Chief Kidd revealed today that the identity of the party who broke into Mr. Victor Schock and ransacked the principal office stealing parts of a public address system, had been established through the medium of finger prints secured at the scene of the crime. It was ascertained through the joint department of the Federal authorities at Ottawa that the bandit was a person serving a sentence in St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary in Montreal.

Before a large group of admirers, friends, relatives, civic, political heads and a cross-section of the city's business, professional life, the new interstone of the handsome Deacon Brothers, Limited new premises on Dundas Street was laid. In an aperture in the stone was placed a metal container which contained a scroll on which was inscribed the signatures of 281, employees, several newspapers, a large envelope containing the history of the firm since its inception forty years ago, coins of the realm and tobacco of the City of Belleville.

Pumpkin Pie Beats Squash

Ottawa Journal

There are many misguided citizens in our society, and in few areas are off track opinions more widely heard than when it comes to pumpkins versus squashes.

There are those who blandly state that pumpkin pie and squash pie are identical. They don't. Good countrymen know that a pumpkin pie has a certain flavor that squash pie will not reflect level. A squash pie is very nearly the only readily conceivable pie fact.

"What exile hath the past like this pie?" Whittier, the poet, asked John Greenleaf Whittier, the sagacious Quaker country poet. Half a century ago, one saw piles of the golden-oranges being sold against the north sides of old, weathered barns in October.

On frosty nights, tattered patchwork quilts and discarded coats and shawls were thrown over the heap. "Let the pumpkins stay there until after frost," Grandfather said, "before you store them away."

The word pumpkin comes from the French "pompion" which, we interpreted, is mean "cooked by the sun". For centuries before the white men came to the continent, the Indians had been raising the fruits. Along with beans, corn, squash and tobacco, the pumpkin is one of the Red Men's great gifts to us.

We hope you will distinguish between squashes and pumpkins. Now that we have canned pumpkin around the calendar, a dash, perhaps, of ginger, nutmeg and cinamon tinged pumpkin pie will furnish the concluding item to more meals.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

When I invited one of my acquaintances to lunch with me he suggested we go to a certain restaurant, he recalled.

"No, no!" he said. "Let's not go there. One of the most embarassing things happened to me there".

It seems some years ago he took his girl friend there for lunch, and discovered, when it came to paying the bill, that he had left his wallet in his other suit. He felt the whole place customers and waitress alike, were witnesses of his embarassment as he tried to explain to the cashier.

I protested that the cashier was probably dead by now, all the staff changed, and not a customer from the old days. But no, he'd left the place, he had never been back to that restaurant. And he wouldn't go now.

The thing to do, as regards embarrassment, is to go right back the next day to the very scene of the mishap. Like falling off a horse when learning to ride, you must climb right back on board, or you'll never learn. The old adage is: you would not worry about what people think of you if you realized how little they notice you.

Pneumonia Common Hazard to Small Babies

By Joseph C. Molner, M.D.

Today's column, I confess, will apply to only a small proportion of my readers. But the worrying letter is from a mother who is grieving, and possibly feeling guilty, because her baby died when she did. Even in fact she didn't die while it was ill.

"Dear Doctor— I had a baby and it was not sick a day. The night before it died it was fine. When the baby was just a few weeks old I put it to bed in my room while I was in the cellar washing clothes. We have millions of flies and I left a screen door open. The baby must have smelled over it extinguished the flame.

"I read that natural gas would make you sick but would not kill you. The baby seemed all right so I didn't tell anyone. This happened on Thursday. On Saturday I found the baby unconscious in bed. We rushed it to the hospital and it was dead.

"The doctor said it looked to him as if the baby were full of milk, but if I had had the baby on the floor it would have thrown out. The autopsy said it was interstitial pneumonia.

"Now I'm afraid to have another baby.

"Could the gas have done it? But wouldn't the baby have been sick? And if it had pneumonia, wouldn't it have had a fever or some sign of being sick? Please answer — Sleepless Mother."

I can wholeheartedly that this mother would forget forever that she "left the baby in bed". Should Mother, because she wasn't stupid. She was doing something wise. Her baby, poor little moved of humanity, just wasn't destined to live.

The most dangerous time through which a baby must live is the first few weeks. The tiny video babies with temporary immunity from many diseases, but is general the infants have to run the risk of a few dangerous, serious illness and of them. After have some protection from mother.

Despite all we can do, a certain percentage of babies happen to be born sensitive to the pregnancy or that. Nobody can prevent such.

The most frequent cause of the death of young babies is contact with a person who has a cold. Sometimes the cold is a severe one, sometimes it is only a sniffle. Sometimes the person reported as "being smothered by a blanket." It's the first attack of a germ, "catching something". Let's erase the signature. "Signed Mother." The baby is the victim of the sort of accident that overtakes some innocent bystander.

Today's question, in view of the unfortunate brevity of the above item, was why a baby has to be slandered? Herr Minister or the stein of beer?

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

BIOGRAPHY

There is no story so full of heroism, so full of the life of a human being.

History is but collected stories of men and women who did their separate jobs.

Fiction is but a recording of the fine strength of these same men and women. We are in turn by it well taught and a little touched in turn, melt into the circle of our friends, perhaps even into our hero.

You have to know the source of a drama or thought before you can honestly appraise it.

When I learned of the long suffering and great courage of W. H. Hudson, the naturalist, I took new interest in his books. They were full of life and truth.

In times of particular discouragement, get hold of a good biography and read it. And if you read between the lines, life is quite sure to soften your heart for you.

Which Was Slandered?

Vancouver Sun

An item in the news concerned a meeting of Nazis in beer halls and Bavarian drinking steins. It said that a county in Bavaria had ordered a West German newsmagazine to stop calling it Bavaria because of reference, Franz Josef Strauss, a leader there.

We've seen Herr Strauss's picture in the paper but we don't know what he looks directly well. But the news item describes him as 1.8 feet 6, weighing 200 pounds. Bigger and heavier than most steins, even when loaded with foaming brown brew.

Slanderous was the word the court used for the comparison.

As we said, we don't know Herr Minister Strauss too well.

We do, however, know how proud Bavarians, especially Bavarians speaking of their beer, and how important the correct atmosphere of a Munchner brauhaus is to the tourist trade.

The question is, in view of the unfortunate brevity of the above item, who was held to be slandered? Herr Minister or the stein of beer?

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED WILSON

Mrs. Ruffed Grouse stood on the little path with her head turned sideways. Was she expecting trouble or just posing for her picture? Neither — she was waiting for Mr. Grouse. You might think this quite natural, however, it really was rather out of the ordinary, because this was autumn, and because the little path was no more than three yards from a paved road where cars, trucks, and buses whizzed noisily by. True, some thick bushes hid the road, but suddenly his royal highness walked majestically from that very direction and for an instant the pair met. Then, with a whirr of wings she was off around another clump of bushes, while he followed on foot.

ARE POLYGAMISTS

Canada or ruffed grouse (misleadingly referred to by our hunters as partridges) are polygamists: each male may have three or even four partners at the same time. But this time is not autumn.

Mrs. Grouse, a year-round resident in our dim, silent forests, is an expert at camouflage. For a home she likes a hollow in the ground near a stump, rock, or tree and, in the spring, lines it with old leaves. There she places her 10 or 12 spotless eggs and carefully strews some leaves about and over them before leaving the nest. Even when she is at home her presence is rarely realized unless we almost stumble on her, because her coloring so well matches last fall's leaves and her plumage is a mass of bars and checks. Sometimes the dark feathers are red brown, sometimes more on the gray tone.

LEAVE HOME EARLY

The eggs take 3½ weeks to hatch, but the babies are able to leave home immediately and their mother teaches them how to find insects, the favorite food of these youngsters. For the first few weeks they sleep on the ground in a circle about her, then when their feathers have grown and they are able to fly better they all spend the nights roosting in trees or shrubs.

But by October, when the young grouse are full grown, there are probably only half as many in the family, for although they have an unusually careful mother to look after them, they have many enemies. Now their food taste has changed: they are hunting for fruit, seeds, leaves, acorns, beechnuts, and buds of birch, apple, and cherry. The grouse scratch and wander about close, fattening up for the season when food will be harder to find, and growing little horny, comb-like accessories on the sides of their toes which will take the place of snowshoes once winter finally arrives.

Women's Hospital Auxiliary Hears Address on Pharmacy

On Tuesday afternoon the Women's Hospital Auxiliary met in the Education Hall. Mrs. M. F. Jones, the president, was in charge.

Mrs. Finkle read the correspondence and Mrs. F. A. Seeley gave the treasurer's report.

Miss Doris Smith director of nursing education at C.J.G., who had the position of president elect at this hospital auxiliary meeting, has a degree in Business Administration. It is a matter of gratification to the Board that Belleville Hospital has been chosen for the purpose of field work by Toronto University.

Mr. J. H. Forrester briefly outlined a number of changes in the constitution to be considered at the coming convention.

Miss M. S. McConnell introduced the guest speaker Mr. Ken Fuke, who is a graduate of the University of British Columbia and head of the Pharmacy Department at the Belleville General Hospital. Mr. Fuke's address concerned pharmacy and the role played by drugs in the fight against disease. The Pharmacy Department exists for one main reason — "to serve the Patient". The task of Pharmacy is to have available the correct drug that has been ordered for the patient.

2,000 DIFFERENT PREPARATIONS

The combination of the 2,000 different preparations and their derivatives make it impossible for that department to provide as many as 35,000 pharmaceutical preparations. He also explained how these were distributed in the hospital. Drugs in common use are kept in convenient depots throughout the hospital. Others are kept in stock and they are made up and forwarded to the department concerned, to be administered by the nursing staff. This is adequate drug control with a minimum of investment providing a much available medication as possible. Pharmacy provides in the dissemination of information on drugs and drug therapy to members of the medical team.

ANTISEPTICS

Mr. Fuke said the use of antiseptics in isolation areas the Pharmacy Department is ready with the correct solution. There is a certain procedure regarding the arrangement of drugs; usually those from a drug house are kept together. Also in the dispensary where there is close control of narcotics and barbituates and amphetamines.

Men of science have been making antiseptic preparations for years such as quinine in 1630; Glycine in 1826; and morphine in 1807. In 1832 the age of medicine began.

Dr. Fortin called to attention the new wonder drugs such as the hormones one of which is better known as cortisone This drug is most potent and there is a delicate balance between enough and too much.

In conclusion; the speaker said, "One thing I might say is that when you read about these miraculous wonder drugs view them with a skeptical eye. What the article says may be true, but what is not said can burst the bubble created by the article. In question, Remember your doctor is the only person qualified to advise you as to both the use and effectiveness of drugs."

Mrs. Harry Fuke expressed the thanks of the auxiliary to Mr. Forbin emphasizing that this institution also is trying "To serve the patient".

FASHION FIESTA

Mrs. B. E. Burley was introduced by Mrs. Jones and asked to give a report concerning the coming fashion show. Mrs. Burley the Women's Hospital Auxiliary appeals to the public for its generous and financial assistance. This year's extravaganza is to be staged by Mrs. Burley, Mrs. Burley and will take place in November at the Belleville Collegiate Institute. Commentator needs that tickets be purchased prior to the entertainment since a sell-out is again anticipated. Included in the commentary are: Mrs. F. C. Beeby in charge of admission tickets; Mrs. V. "You, the Law, and Your Child" Topic at King George H-S Meet

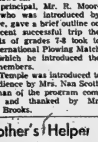
At the recent meeting of King George Home and School Association, the guest speaker was Mr. Robert Temple, prominent city lawyer, who spoke to an assembly of 150 on "You, The Law and Your Child", which he presented in three main divisions, (for clarity sake we'll address this child; civil wrongs and contracts.

Mr. Temple explained that under the provisions of the Criminal Code, a boy or girl of child under the age of seven years can be held criminally responsible for any of its acts. He further explained that no child between the ages of seven and 13 years can be convicted or any offence unless he was employed to commit the act. Torture and consequences of his conduct and consequences of it was wrong. After telling the meeting the difference between adulthood and juvenile offences he went on to state that a child under age 16 charged with a criminal offence is tried in Juvenile Court and this trial is held in camera. However, if the child is apparently or actually over the age of 14 years he can be tried in an ordinary court if the Court is of the opinion that this is in the best interests of the child, and also that the interests of the community demand it.

LAW OF TORTS

Mr. Temple then spoke on the Law of Torts. A Tort is a civil wrong to property or to another person. He explained that a parent is not responsible for the 'torts' of his child unless the parent was negligent in letting the child use an inherently dangerous thing which is capable of causing danger to others, for example leaving a loaded gun where which can be reached and fired by a youngster and which resulted in damage or injury could leave the parent actionable. He went on to advise that if a parent is negligent in not exercising proper control and supervision over the child then that parent could again be liable.

CONTRACTS



Dealing with the law of contracts, Mr. Temple went on to advise that a person under the age of 21 years, who is referred to as an infant, cannot generally make a binding contract unless it is for necessaries or else by his benefit. Mr. Temple spoke of prejudicial contracts which the law will not uphold and beginning. He stated in conclusion that a loan to an infant is always prejudicial to the infant's interests.

The business portion was in charge of Mrs. P. Downes, kindergarten teacher, who sang the theme song. This was followed by a short business session which included the election of room representatives for the year, and the year's program outlined.

The membership gave its approval to the children going skating and to a CANCER campaign at Hallowe'en.

The social, Mr. R. Moorcroft, who was introduced by Mr. Lee, gave a brief outline on the Red Cross activities in which students of grades 7-8 took to the International Provincial Match after which he introduced the staff members.

Mr. Temple was introduced to his audience by Mrs. Nan Scott, chairman of the program committee and thanked by Mr. Harry Brooks.

CEREAL BOXES seem to be an unending source of perforated cardboard for parents, die. If you cut these colorful strips off the boxes as they're finished, you can put them away for use on a rainy day or sick-a-bed time. Read the directions before you cut, though—some of them require the use of the entire box top to make the pattern panel.

Newly Appointed Principal Has Been Blind Since Baby

MONTREAL (CP) — Beryl O'Neil, appointed principal of the Montreal Association for the Blind, says she has been blind since she was two years old.

"I don't remember being able to see," she said in an interview. A brunette said in an interview.

But the handicap—the result of a rare disease—did not prevent her receiving an education, first at the school of which she now is principal, then at a high school and finally at McGill University, where she graduated in languages and took a teacher training course.

Her husband Lawrence, also blind, is assistant foreman of an association-run factory. Mrs. O'Neil worked for 10 years as an association secretary before starting to teach at the school.

"Our problems are basically the same as those faced by other children, except for the extra the training required for the use of special equipment," she said.

The special equipment includes braille books, special slates used to locate letters and the tape recorders that have vastly simplified study.

STRESS ATHLETICS

"They depended on volunteer readers in the past. I know I did. Now a volunteer reader can make a tape and it can be played repeatedly. This is quite an advantage."

USA Begins Difficult Task Of Enticing Foreign Visitors

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

The only new hotel built in New York in 30 years is the Summit. When it opened its doors it featured the usual ballyhoo and some controversy over its Miami Beach architecture, something significant about it was largely overlooked. Almost of its employees are required to speak more than one language.

Ever since the hotel business started, it has been accepted everywhere in the world that in a spa one ought to speak the languages of the guests wherever he is from. Yet in New York, as also elsewhere in the United States, foreign visitors and hotel staffs has been about as likely as finding a Chinese communist.

A journey of a thousand miles begins with one step, and the Summit's step is the direction of making the U. S. A. a more hospitable place for foreigners to visit was well taken. But there are a few more steps that must be taken before the U.S.S.R. — which has already taken a puff of smoke in the form of Yuri Gagarin's flight — is told Rittle more than show up how woefully out of order the United States is for visitors from other countries.

AN ECONOMIC NECESSITY

Stimulating travel to the United States from abroad is not a matter of economic necessity because foreign countries have not been drained dry by the visiting well-dollared American to their shores. What will attract them are the sights and things that they have not got coming in.

Acting, as usual, only when required by the crisis, America set up the USTS. Its job will be to make America the place foreigners want to go next year.

At one time foreigners had little difficulty coming on impulse to come to the U. S., and many still do not. But according to Miss Lucy Salamon of Mr. Gilmore have concrete plans to make it workable, though hesitant to know they've got their work cut out for them.

One of the most basic problems is that the U. S. has not been set up for the casual pedestrian on a street in Stockholm and ask him in English how to get to the zoo. He'll not only answer you but possibly take you there. The traveler only hopes it will be his answer anyway.

While Mr. Gilmore can't turn all Americans into linguists or make them sure to be patient with confused foreigners, he can at least try. He does have in mind to set up a bilingual bootseses at ports of entry, less terrifying customs and immigration officials, and campaigning for more bilingual hotel employees and policemen, as well as more courteous and considerate citizens.

ONE STEP TAKEN

One vital step already has been taken — that of simplifying the language of signs, a matter which used to put foreigners through the trials of Sisyphus.

Though foreign standards of living are higher than ever before in modern history, they are still so far below North American that the trip-to-do can afford to travel here is the style to which the natives are accustomed. Air fares, hotel prices and American meals are all out of the reach of the average foreign working man. And the Europtrec countries have their palaces hotels that have been suggested as solutions in the past are no answer to people who enjoy the amenities of travel as surely as American do.

This is the kind of work the churches are doing today. If people do not go to the church then the church must go to them.

It was decided to have a hotel meeting with evening families in December.

Miss Johns had charge of devotional; which opened with suitable music played by Mrs. Barlow. Lesson was read from Psalm 116. What shall I render unto the Lord for all his benefits towards me?" The answer is that in his heart that life was good. The greatest gift that God has given us is His son.

Mrs. Shirley Smith added to the spirit of the devotion by singing "How Great Thou Art".

Mrs. Morgan McFarland introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Vesey from Trenton, Subject was "Thanksgiving". The pilgrims were not the first to make thanksgiving. Mrs. Vesey told of three Thanksgiving celebrations in the old world before the pilgrims. Feast of Passover, Feast of Weeks, and Feast of Tabernacles or Booths. The people of the Jewish faith had just finished celebrating the feast of Booths when Christ was late harvest. The children were able to see one of the booths set up.

There are different ways of celebrating Thanksgiving with friends, special church service and in the home. Should thank God for material things because they are enabling us to help others. One should thank God for the power of the congregation, the power of the church in the congregation. Let us not be an audience in our church but a congregation.

"The strength of the church is in the membership. We can all work in God's field by being a Christian witness at all times." Mrs. Vesey closed by repeating address by quoting an impressive "Litany of

RESCUE 22 CUBANS

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A coast guard patrol craft Thursday picked up 22 Cubans adrift in a 16 - foot boat off Dry Tortugas Island at the end of the Florida Keys. A woman said the Cuban boat gave birth to a child two days ago. The boat had been adrift eight days.

Dear Family Council: We'll do anything for the kids, including sex ed.

Sherwin W. — She tries to force my love. The kids understand me.

Dear Family Council: Whom should a man love more, his wife or his children? If my husband had to make a choice between me and our three youngsters, I'd be out cold. She's already told me they come first.

Before going through the tortures of hell to produce his children for him, I don't count. I almost died during childbirth. And I've been a conscientious mother. I eat up sleepless nights with fevers and all. Now that they're in high school and college, she spends every spare moment with them and ignores me completely.

Somehow he seems to dread being alone with me. He finds excuses to keep his children close as late as 1 o'clock in the morning.

Sherwin W. — It's true I've been shocking Delia. But who wouldn't? How is a conventional hurricane, She's one of the rare ones the National Bureau names; those tornadoes after women. I've had to find some way to protect myself. Just stay close to above!

The kids understand. They've wonderful pals to me. They make no demands and just sit around basking in the conventional safety.

This makes Delia furious. She seems intensely jealous of her own children, of the way they need I enjoy being together. Her idea is for me to grab her by the arm and run out on the youngsters for a good time with just the two of us. Frankly, that's the last thing I want to do!

The Council — Obviously the wall that Sherwin huddles behind, and that Delia bangs her head against in vain, might be labelled "normal marital relations". And the device for branching it is mainly directed by Delia. The children are "two berrings" in this argument.

Regardless of the preachments made by a couple of transplanted "Freudians," there are many powerful and beautiful forces in marriage, besides the sexual. It is on these that Delia must concentrate. Instead, she seems to have been conducting a campaign for Sherwin's physical attentions.

Delia's Joe the wrong track. Even found points of agreement with comical enthusiasms in needlework. But she's not the love the person who makes him feel more of a man, who builds his self-confidence. He'll be better he really counts. At present, he's getting a feeling that from the children. But he, and his marriage, would be better off getting a divorce.

A marriage counsellor could help them. Or a psychiatrist. Discussions and build, step by step a bridge of fondliness and respect for her husband. The present impasse, her chances of winning back a loving husband are practically nil.

Once Sherwin finds that Delia can be gentle and considerate, he'll be glad to cling to her for reassurance. Then the kids must be turned loose to find their mates to cling to, too.

HENRY'S RIDE..A-WAY

"Though a tree grow a thousand feet, the fruits will fall to earth again."—Old Chinese Proverb.

As the elderly spectator speaks of the Henri Mercier Chatsen's brilliant past during its deliberate destruction by fire, here on Anti Costi Island, the love of fascinating old ward-robes conjure the mind, man's bedroom when a child, rare inlaid ones, found in all of the eight bedrooms, each with its own private bathroom, upstairs.

"Yes," he continues, "Chests and wardrobes, then available rather than clothes-closets, were carved and richly fashioned with inlays from such woods as teack, bird's eye maple, burled walnut, even zebrano: wouldn't you know it would be from Africa, a kind of African nut tree. The rooms were hung with luxurious silk damask, while airy hangings graced brass bedsteads. Marble tubs and sinks were equipped with a bronze bell for a servant be needed during a bath. Mindy sat on a velvet bench before dressing tables, thoughtfully supplied with silver brushes, combs and powder from an inviting array of crystal jars and bottles.

"The master bedroom, however, maintained on the main floor, fitted in such luxury as it'd ant from the world over. Built into the walls were two such wide secret stairway, which led to a small 'alcove-bedroom' for the use of the owner's visitor over Monsieur Henri's entire foedal realm of Anti-Costi.

"Also downstairs, was a massive-oak panelled library, with the same lady's head with delicate features and long flowing hair, as the one in the matching backs of arm and straight chairs, and settee.

"Rare and expensive rugs were everywhere, the costliest being those in the master's bedroom, with princess vases, jardinieres, candle-sticks, pool tables and apothecary jars. Strangely enough, grandeur midst such luxury, Monsieur Henri Mercier loved his hide-away and constant companions, the Canadian names of money on its travels, as well as on the decks of the island.

"But, his death in 1913, was the beginning of the end. Due to the devastation of the fires on his brother, Gaston, now bent, though he did his best to maintain the mansion, was forced to sell the chateau and island to a company which later merged with the present owners, the Consolidated - Paper Corporation.

"For a time, the owners allowed guides to lead sightseeing men to the secret salmon and trout pools, which included an over-night stay at the Chateau to and from hunting camps. But even this gradually had to be abandoned due to the carelessness and the magnificent furniture and furnishings were transferred to one of their own estates, where it may be seen and enjoyed to this day.

"The empty Chateau, now became a staff house for workers on the island, but exhorbitant cost for needed repairs, now reduced it to a storage house, until considered a dangerous fire hazard that might cost the island its treasure of pulpwood.

"Now a shell, even shorn of the staircase and panelling, this once virtual fairy Chateau is now burning to the ground.

WI Discusses Safety Program For Drivers

CHATTERTON — The Chatterton W.I. held its regular meeting at the Stirling Community Hall in the form of a discussion on the Safety Campaign. project. There were about 60 people present.

In spite of liberal advertising, notices and invitations, a large percentage of the local populace took an apathetic view of the Safety Campaign being waged by the Chatterton W.I., in particular, and the Ontario Government in general. Transportation is an integral part of the every day lives, and with the mounting deaths by accident it is up to the individual to help cut down the rising rate of casualties.

Mr. Murray K. Rowe stated some alarming casualty statistics. The number of deaths has outrated the total casualty list of both road users in the past ten years, and in 80 per cent of the accidents, the cause was carelessness or negligence on the part of the driver. In 1960 2600 deaths were recorded on Ontario's colorful past; seeing ghost towns; the galloping goose; narrow gauge trains; all filmed in color during the last days of the tourist seasons.

No one should miss this land of soaring peaks, sunlit valleys, and peaceful plains; a land in which vacations know no season, where the sun shines on five days of every six the year round.

Mr. Rowe also took the Driving Training Course in Western Ontario, only ten have been taken from the total number of these, two were at fault.

The Driving Training Course is being taught in high schools of Western Ontario, in the Oshawa Valley and in Rural Borough, in some places as a curricular course subject, and in some as extra-curricular, and in all cases it comes under the far-seer grant of the Department of Education and the Department of Transport will train the teacher and help set up the course and also help obtain the cars for practical dual control, for the training.

Parents, no matter how good their driving record is, are not qualified to teach driving. Parents would not be allowed if their 16 year old a loaded gun without first making sure the child knows the safety rules, but know the rules and will hand over the keys to their autos to the same 16 year olds without giving a laugh as the parent that two sons of mobile steel are equally as dead as a loaded gun without the proper training in use and safety.

Mr. Rowe's greatest hazards, and certainly the hardest to control is the fatal apathy of teenager's parents. Since they seemingly don't care about their children's safety, Mr. Rowe thinks dollars and cents will strike a note closer to home.

Mr. Rowe, in most circumstances parents of a minor under the age of 21, living at home, are responsible for their actions. This includes damages suffered by pedestrians. Also, drivers under age of 26 are subject to a surcharge for car insurance and any boy who has successfully completed the Driving Training course is immediately eligible for a 15 per cent re-fort of asking.

A Lift For Living

Good Minds Continue To Grow

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

Next to peace our greatest public concern is education. Before our eyes the Soviets are out-pacing us, sending her first sputnik, and her second, in 1960 and 3 per cent of college-age young people are in college. Soviet educators are now predicting that by the end of the century 50 per cent of the population will be 20 per cent.

Just about per cent of profit per person-hour worked. Our annual national income of well over a trillion dollars is an astonishing result of education. The value of a good mind is obvious. But our schools are not producing many outstanding minds to meet the challenge of living. Recently when Thomas Elkton spoke briefly in the Hall of Fame for Great Americans, the audience barely greeted that before the end of the century the industrial worker could produce in one day what one employee in a mine now turned out in a 35-hour week.

The spirit of faith keeps building even during the days of doubt. That spirit of Christ has been the spirit of the United States and Canada. Jefferson said, "It is part of the American character to consider nothing as desperate." And he was right. But that our fathers had in Christ the hope. Today, we not only obey God when he says, "Go forward to new frontiers but we keep on though he did his best to make us things that are not final.

Those who believe in things beyond this world are the ones who do the most to improve this world.

This is a point to remember when the Communists sneer at Christianity as "pie-in-the-sky." The sky bye and bye" instead of real improvement of earthly conditions. Communism boasts that it will give a better life here and now rather than the hope of heaven hereafter. But the testimony of history is that those who believe in immortality treat men with more dignity and care. To the Communist, the youths are work units to be shaped but what they produce for the state. To the Christian, youths are immortal souls of immeasurable value because Christ died for them; their possibilities are infinite because they live beyond this mortal life. That is why life is worth more than the whole universe, as Lawrence than along the Volga and the Yangtze.

We believe that a godly mind grows beyond the grave.

ask henry

The writer of this weekly advice column is an 11-year-old boy. The advice he gives is strictly his own. It has not been changed by his parents or the editor. He welcomes letters from parents. If you want him to discuss your problem write to ASK HENRY, in care of this newspaper.

Dear Henry:—I am 12 and whenever Dad spanks me he takes me out to the garage. He shuts the door but there is a window and a lot of younger kids in the neighborhood look in the window. Dad chases them but they come back and he gives up. This is embarrassing 'cause Dad takes my pants down when he spanks me. How can I get him to buy a shade or to spank me in the house?—TOMMY.

Dear Tommy—There are three things you could do:

1.—Save up for a shade yourself.

2.—Make it so that your father will have no reason to spank you.

3.—Run while your father is chasing the kids.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—My children wear their underwear under their pyjamas at night. Their grandmother says this is wrong to do. Should I let them wear their underwear all the day and night?—MRS. A. R. S.

Dear Mrs. A. R. S.—

Your children are lucky, I fear
Nothing but pyjama on the rear
The skin needs a change of air
Gramma's advice is quite fair.

Dear Henry:—Our 8-year-old son, almost a monster until recently, has changed all of a sudden to a very lovable, obedient and helpful child. How can we keep him that way?—ASTONISHED.

Dear Astonished—You have a serious problem. Your boy is covering up for something he did, and which you will soon hear about.—HENRY.

Dear Henry:—I have a problem about girls. My parents said school comes first and girls later. I met a nice girl the other day, she likes me. I like her. If my parents find out I won't live long. So what should I do? I am 13 years old, grade 7.—HELP ME.

Dear Help Me:—Nobody can help you if you won't help yourself. Forget about everything except school. Your parents are right.—HENRY.

Dear Henry:—My husband and I have a 13½-year-old boy. I am the mean old stepmother. I think the boy is old enough now to rake and weed the lawn by himself. My husband thinks one should work by his side, but he won't and I have my household chores to do.

Sometimes when his sister, aged 10, helps him he quits and runs off to play and is gone for hours. When I ask him to do the dishes, he gets up from the table and runs away and when he comes back his work is done by somebody else.

Rather than fight with him I do them myself. What do you think of all this Henry?—MRS. J. H.

Dear Mrs. J. H.—Make a chart with duties and days of the month on it and hang it up. Each kid will compete for marks on duties done. At the end of the month the kid with most marks will get a prize, for example an all-expense paid trip to their favorite store.—HENRY.

Spring Reverie

By ALMA MASON

Give me a day dipped in the sparkling liquid of spring; spattered with emerald buds; sprinkled with rain jewels and softened and molded by a gentle rain.

Sultry and sun-drenched June days may appease and exhilarate the seasoned traveller but they will never stir the pulse and quicken the heart-beats of a jaunty skip-a-long vagabond.

The vagaries of April, the merry moods of May, lend heady and zestful spice to the dragging spirit of the winter-weary wayfarer.

April spreads a jaunty and enticing green carpet for May to lightly tread on; then whistles softly as she weaves a wispy wind through slanting spears of rain; whistles for crocus babies to climb out of warm brown beds.

For a magic minute May holds her breath. She can scarcely wait to wield her wand. Suddenly the curtain of spring swings back and she sweeps it high and wide. Lo and behold! The endless hills appear brightly gowned in flowered jersey in shimmering daffodil sashs; in fabulous glistening silks of royal purple and cardinal red. The grey homespun cloak of winter is gratefully thrown aside for many months to come. The fashion show of glorious spring takes the place.

Looking through rosy sheer curtains with a backdrop of silver rain to an oriole smoothered in apple blossoms; admiring the gossamer draperies of spring as she darts along skirts held high as she spreads a chartreuse wall of forsythia beyond a marching column of sky blue iris; riding high the turquoise and white heavens with a care-free and capricious kite; salaaming to royal purple gowned tulips flaunting golden crowns; drinking in the contagious rythm of the dancing, swaying, lacy-gowned lilacs; feeling the tug of fresh new beauty on the heart-strings; the soothing and gentle fingers of newly-born loveliness on the soul. This is spring arrayed in ecstacy and enchantment.

You may have your hesitant and prosaic autumn; your calculous and cold hearted winter; your drowsy and placid summer.

For me the superlative crest of all desire is spring. My winter-bound feet take wings; my sleeping heart becomes feather light and soars to the tree tops and beyond with the first returning robins; my life shines with a newly-born lustre and sprouts green shoots of faith and hope with the unfolding trees.

On a crystal-clear enchanting spring day, I am accorded the homage only known to a princess of royal blood. Then I am laureas in jewelled sceptres and crowns, to ermine-trimmed robes, to the homage of courtiers, the tributes of regal subjects. Before me is spread for my rapture and fascination the purple and golden carpet of luxury that can only be unrolled for one born to riches. On a golden day in spring I am an uncrowned queen and my crown is held in the fleeting and fairy-like hands of spring.

My dreams are wrapped in cellophane;
Against the silver slant of rain
Spring beckons me
To April reverie.

A chubby robin, drunk with sun and food,
Chants boastfully of parenthood
And mother's breast
Serene on prim, brown nest.

Forsythia flings yards of frothy lace
Across the lilacs budding face
And walls a room
With gaudy, chartreuse bloom.

A spongy tapestry of threaded green.
Wee crocus heads tacked in each seam.
Is spread in royal disarray
To tempt a princess on a golden day.

YOU CAN be overenthusiastic about keeping every item for your baby absolutely hospital clean. His turn, for example, need not be boiled—rather warmed, chromium-steamed. Plastic teeth will soften out of shape with this hot treatment. A thorough wipe with a solution of baby soda and warm water is all that's usually needed, to keep them neat and sweet.

Mrs. Erwan Scott gave a synopsis of the land on which they reside, and hoped that others would give a history of their land for the Tweedsmuir History of Wooler.

Readings were given by Mrs. Gooding and Mrs. J./May, and a sing-along enjoyed, with Mrs. Percy Gooding in charge of the program.

Successful Living

By Doris Clark

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Grandma Is Concerned

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—Our daughter is separated from her husband and has twin daughters, ten years old. She supports herself and them by working in a store. She is almost never out in the evening without them except when she has to work.

I tell her it isn't good for the children nor her to always be together. As an instance this summer we went to some tennis courts to teach the children, and after that we played singles. Then we were asked to play mixed doubles with two young men which we did and had a pleasant game.

Before we took the girls the next time they had made their mother promise not to play with anyone else as we were there to teach them.

Am I wrong in thinking this is a mistake?—FOND GRANDMA.

DEAR FOND GRANDMA—You are right. But your daughter is as concerned for her children as you are for her. She is away from them all day and feels she has to make up for her absence as well as for their lack of a father.

She does need some diversion away from them and they need to grow up and away from so much dependence on her. They had their share of attention at the tennis courts. If she will let them, they will keep on exacting their promises from her, and this is poor training for them.

DEAR DORIS:—I'm ten years old and in grade six. My mother has told me what to do for almost a ten-year-old baby sitting, but I'd like your opinion too.—PATSY.

DEAR PATSY—You are a bright girl to be in sixth grade at ten and probably more able to take care of a baby than most ten-year-olds. But would you really know just what to do in an emergency? Suppose the baby had a coughing spell? You are just barely old enough to be left alone yourself.

Better wait a year or two. Make your spending money by helping around the house.

DEAR DORIS:—I have just been elected president of a club; the first thing I have ever done such a thing. In the past I have sat back and watched the others muddle through. Now I realize how little I know about procedures the proper way to run a meeting and so forth.

Is there any book or pamphlet on this topic? How do I hone up on such a thing without taking a college course? —KERRY CANUCK.

DEAR KERRY CANUCK—College can still have a fellow clueless about presiding at meetings. Many mature men and women fade right into the woodwork when asked to do such things.

There are books on it, thank goodness. I am sending you the names of three to choose from.

DEAR DORIS:—I am an Anglican and my husband is a Catholic. I went over and was christened in the Catholic faith. Could you tell me will it be all right with the priest?

Also, do their godparents have to be Catholic and will one act do for both of them?—MRS. M.

DEAR MRS. M.—Ask the priest these questions. Such christenings would mean, of course, that the children would be raised in the Catholic faith.

Such godparents accept responsibility for the spiritual growth of their godchildren, they, too, should be Catholic. Customarily each child has its own godparents, but I know of no rule saying two children could not have the same set.

DEAR DORIS:—I noticed in a magazine about mothers and mothers-in-law. I myself am suffering bitterly from a selfish, sophisticated daughter-in-law and one to whom I have been more than kind.

They forget we brought up our sons and suffered to bring them through many sicknesses, war and everything else. They accept lovely presents, but one's son can hardly come to see his own mother.

I have been sick and feel my life is slipping away. I feel terribly alone. When I had my home she and my son could drive over any time. Now she hardly ever phones or sets human.—MRS. BEWILDERED.

DEAR MRS. BEWILDERED:—Not all daughter-in-law, mother-in-law relations are strained, thank goodness! With level-headed, friendly people, the younger woman reaches out for the older, even as Granny takes her new daughter—and the babies as they come along—to her heart.

Be honest—have you given her cause to see you as a rival for her husband's affections? True, you raised him, but you had rich rewards as you went along.

Whatever your daughter-in-law is doing, you can't change her by harping on it.

It's possible that with you might find it boring to visit a sick old woman, I might ask; How about winning a star for your crown?

DEAR DORIS:—My daughter is being married next month. My husband and I have had heavy expenses on account of illness and I cannot afford to spend too much.

Please tell me what is expected of me. I have bought the cake. My daughter is making her dress and will pay for all that goes with it. If you would give me any help as to what I should supply in the way of food, I would be more than grateful. Do I have to get the drinks? It is only going to be a family affair.—WHAT TO DO.

DEAR WHAT TO DO—Serve a simple sandwich lunch with pretty garnishes of crisp greens; or creamed chicken in patty shells. The only drink you need is coffee; the bread is away from serving liquor at wedding receptions.

Ice cream or a sherbet would serve as dessert, with or without fancy cookies, and, of course, wedding cake. The important sweet is the friendship and sociability of the occasion.

TO D. C. and A.M.—Thank you for your letters, inviting Boxed Stamo to get in touch with you. If Boxed Stamo will write again, giving her correct name and address, I will be glad to pass these letters on to her.

New Canadian's 'Small Observation' Let's Us See Ourselves in New Light

"SMALL OBSERVATION" by a NEW CANADIAN

Editor's Note: The following letter was received this week from one of Canada's New Canadians, who gives her impressions of "strangers" department in a delightfully quaint, but discerning manner on the things encountered on several occasions. The writer has had but two winters' acquaintance with English at the Collegiate.

"One beautiful fall day. I walked slowly down the hill one of the city streets to do some shopping up town. I loved the fall in the full flory of the colourful trees. So, this part of my time, was the happiest, the most carefree years in my life.

Two seconds later I met again a nice looking young girls hurring home for lunch; and found a different pictures every one of them were at least three different colours, from natural to the fashion outfit. I presume my opinion about this dressing up would appear much as much as a pond of peas against the wall — much stark; but I will say that very very little: sharp colours throw a shadow over the nailed look more.

As it happens my observation burned within me for a few days on. The next day I run into another blunt real every day pictures. This time in the movies as is one of the city cinemas. As the picture movie was going on; I worked my way throught the seat — this empty people-filled seat, that was to me really be a nuisance; specially when wear a high heel shoe. I landed safely, and now I prepared mussely to follow what was going on on the screen, I could se the pictures well, but it was impossible to follow the actors coversation; the noise of the young neat inhabitanly was so loud it just was impossible to ride among them.

I moved out and went up to the balcony — thought to myself this will be better; in meantime the lights went out and it was easier to find a good seat. Here I found boxes, too. There at once from the direction of the screen came a sound of music, I presume it is called 'jazz' and here to my surprise two young girls sprang from theyre seat and started to preform some kind of pushing dance. Somebody nead a rester, they went back to theyer seats. Not far from me I noticed sitting and young teen-agers, a boy and a girl. The girl seemed quiet and shy, while her partner was more the idol of a Tarzan; shirt open, feet hanging over the seat in front of him. Opposite him was sitting another young boy, leaning forward, shaking his cigarette, I suppose a action to strack the attention of the girl next to him. Soon the dangling cigarette became a thing of pity — and they looked so young.

Farther in the wall there were a young chaps showing off to strackt some girls attention, sitting alone by theyr. They have been stretching dessetr trowing theyre legs over the seat in front of them, and they nearly preformed any act they could think of, and I suppose they thought it is great. They are so big and grown up that they behave theyselv as it suits them.

The preformances and my observations came to an end — the movie started.

After the movies on my way home I had to do by the special small group of teen-agers who knew the meaning of respect and etikt? I'm not pushing any moral up to themselve, but I think that these are only a little effort at least in a public place to be heave theyersely as a young respectable teen-ager.

Lady Alexander Is Happy To Be Back at Govt. House

OTTAWA (CP) — The Chatelaine of Government House for from 1946 to 1952 was back in the stately residence of Canada's governor-general as honored guest Friday, and obviously enjoying it more.

It was fun to see Canada not as the wife of the governor-general," was the dishotomic way Lady Alexander put it. "It's simply wonderful to be back.

"Now I'm just the wife of a travelling businessman," she said. It is as though Earl Alexander and his wife are guests of Governor - General and Mrs. Vanier while for a few a week business and pleasure trip around the country.

Lady Alexander remarked that she had always liked Government House, and was pleased to notice "an enormous increase in interest" in the grounds and the building itself.

The Alexanders will spend today at the home of old friends, Maj.-Gen. and Mrs. Harry Letson, in suburban Rockcliffe. Gen. Letson was Earl Alexander's secretary while the latter was governor-general.

TO VISIT KINGSTON

They leave Ottawa Sunday for Kingston, where their oldest son, Lord Rideau, is an executive at the Aluminum Company of Canada plant. Earl Alexander is a director of the parent company, Aluminium Limited.

Later the couple will fly to Vancouver, Elkmat, B.C., Hawaii, Australia, New Zealand and Singapore. Their oldest daughter lives in Singapore and they haven't seen her in two years.

"I wish someone would invent a suitcase that would pack and unpack at the touch of a button," Lady Alexander said ruefully, referring to the many quick stops on their tour.

She added, not without pride, that she took along only two suitcases, weighing a total of 66 pounds despite all the differences in climate they will encounter.

McIlmoyle of Gilmour, who acted as secretary for the organization and the reading of minutes of the

PRESBYTERY GREETINGS

A musical number was given by two ladies of the Belleville W.A., "Dear Spirit Lead Me," which was followed by the main address by Mrs. F. Davidson, who brought greetings from the Belleville Presbytery. She stressed the necessity of W.A. and W.M.S. organizations to be alert to the danger of becoming so busy in service that they inadvertently neglect to seek the presence and glory of the Father, the Source of all vitour. Mrs. Davidson explained the various philanthropies of the United Church, of these included the Cedarvale Home for Girls, Georgetown; the Victor Home for Girls, Toronto; the Fred Victor Mission, Toronto and the Bell Memorial Church Home for Senior Citizens. She urged the Dedication of "Little Things".

The roll call showed that each of the W.A.'s represented and those present were as follows: Stirling members — Murray; three members — Greenbush; three members — Gunter; 12 members — Rawdon; one member —Paudash; 11 members — Bancroft; two members — the Ridge; three members — Lake St. Peter; two members — Gilroy; 13 members — St. Ola; three members — L'Amable; 12 members — Wellington; six members — Gilmour.

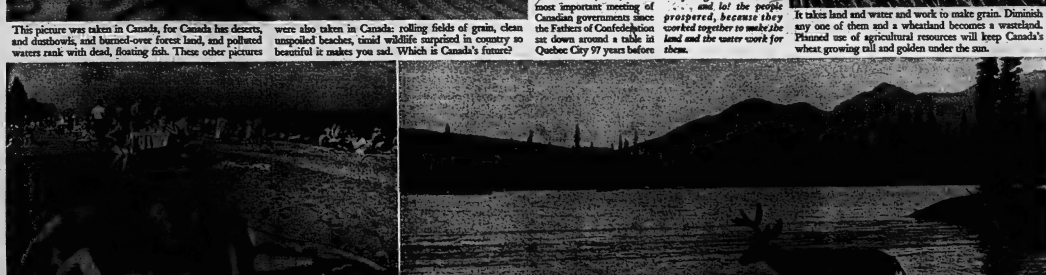
YOU GET

Wise Men Scan the Land that has Everything

How Shall We Use These Gifts?

This picture was taken in Canada, for Canada has deserts, and deathowls, and burned-over forest land, and parched wastes that look dead, floating fish. These other pictures were also taken in Canada: rolling fields of grain, clean unspoiled beaches, timid wildlife surprised in country so beautiful it makes you sad. Which is Canada's future?



Once there was a country that had everything: vast reaches of tall forest, mile on mile of rich black prairie soil, sparkling lakes, broad rivers and fish-abundant seas. But as the years went by the people of this country, busying so much, became careless with their riches. They misused the land and were profligate with water and forest. The very men of the country grew alarmed and one day they said to the people: "If this extravagance and waste continue, we shall soon no longer be a wealthy country but a poor one. Therefore, let us hold a great meeting and plan how we shall use our gifts that they may continue forever."

The 11 governments of Canada put in Montreal October 23-28, 1961, for the most important meeting of Canadian governments since the Fathers of Confederation sat down around a table in Quebec City 97 years before and decided that millions of square miles of virgin land and lake were to become a nation called Canada. The first truly national conference on "Resources for Tomorrow" has been two years in preparation. Co-sponsored by all the provincial and the federal governments, its purpose is to discuss common problems, pool information about resources and determine "how we shall use them". Discussing the seven topics of agriculture, forests, wildlife, water, fisheries, recreation and regional development, the experts at Montreal will assess the kind and value of Canada's renewable resources, work out guidelines to action by governing bodies. In their hands, on their plans, depends the future of the country that "has everything".

. . . and lo! the people prospered, because they worked together to make the land and the water work for them.

It takes land and water and work to make grain. Diminish any one of them and a wheatland becomes a wasteland. Planned use of agricultural resources will keep Canada's wheat growing tall and golden under the sun.

The miles of cars heading north out of the cities on summer weekends indicate modern man's need for space to relax. Recreation is one of seven topics to be discussed at the forthcoming national resources conference. Over 80 background papers have been written for the Montreal conference by experts in various fields.

Country like this was Canada at the time of Confederation, nearly 100 years ago. And much of Canada remains as unspoiled as this Rocky Mountain scene. But now the population is eighteen millions, all needing land, goods, space and water. Resources are no longer limitless. Planning becomes impressive. The conference will promote the idea of planned use of resources. A tree not cut at maturity is wasted, just as is one cut before. Planned development can once again make Canada's renewable resources virtually limitless.

sponsible for such matters and he is vice - chairman of the Ontario Hydro - Electric Power Commission.

Political sources were also quick to note in the speech a long reference to importance of education in the future growth of the province. Mr. Roberts, minister of education for the last two years, has earned the reputation of being one of the most efficient ministers the department has ever had.

ALLAN A FAVORITE

When the question of age arises, delegates always single out Mr. Allan, the oldest of the candidates but even before he announced he would contest the office, Mr. Allan has been one of the favorite choices for leader. It was always said in the party that if anything happened to Mr. Frost, Mr. Allan would form the caretaker government.

Supporters of Mr. Allan see him as a stabilizing influence after a suddenly shorn of its vote - getting leader.

The treasurer has years of able administration behind him and is well liked among Conservatives across the province. He resembles Mr. Frost more than any other candidate. Although the account seems to be on youth in modern - day politics, delegates point out that Prime Minister Diefenbaker was 61 when he led the federal Conservatives to victory in 1957.

Pro - Allan delegates say the age of the new leader is not as important as his ability to carry out whatever new political program the convention casts. Plans are for the convention to terminate cut a new party formal for the leader to present to the electorate in the next provincial election campaign; in other words, the leader is expected to fit the program, and the program fit the leader.

Each of the three men may have advantages over the other candidates in that they have supporters from fellow cabinet members.

MANY BACK HIM

Mr. Rohe is has backing from Agriculture Minister Goodfellow, Municipal Affairs Minister Warrender, Commerce and Development Minister Nickle, Transport Minister Rowntree, as from two ministers without portfolio, Hon. Allan Grossman and Hon. William Stewart.

Mr. Allan is backed by Highways Minister Cass, Public Works Minister Connell, Provincial Secretary Yaremko, and Hon. John Rook, minister without portfolio.

Mr. Macaulay is supported by Lands and Forest Minister Spooner and, in addition, has the support of Mines Minister Mines Minister Hess.

But delegates say such tried and weather - tested workhorses such as the attorney - general and the minister of health should not be discounted either. Both Mr. Roberts and Dr. Dymond are tough campaigners and have loyal support in many areas of the province.

Party sources say both Mr. Wardrope and Mr. Downer have made little impact on delegates. Mr. Wardrope, has done almost no campaigning. Mr. Downer has visited delegates in a number of ridings, but the other candidates do not appear to be worried about him.

According to informed sources, a great number of delegates have not committed themselves to any one candidate and will make their decision on the convention floor. A lot may depend on the candidates' speeches, although there will be a 24 - hour period before balloting and the effects of the speeches may cool off in that time.

Much may depend also on the number of ballots required to elect the new leader. If a candidate collects the vote going against him he could conceivably attempt some political horse - trading for a cabinet post or a new portfolio, or for a special favor for his riding. It is also conceivable, if he is a younger candidate, that he may make his support to one of the older candidates with the hope of getting another chance at the leadership in some years.

Union's National Executive Prohibited From Interfering In Affairs of Sudbury Local

TORONTO (CP)—The national executive of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.) has received a further setback in its attempt to achieve control of the Sudbury local.

Mr. Justice D. R. Morand handed down a ruling Friday which continues an injunction prohibiting the national officers from interfering in the affairs of Sudbury's Local 598. The injunction will last until the issues can be decided at a trial, probably in late November.

Until then, the national officers is barred from bypassing the local—as it had threatened to do—to negotiate a new contract with the International Nickel Company. Negotiations start early next month.

Mine-Mill national executive had authorized President Kenneth Smith of Toronto to take over Sudbury's affairs on the basis of a petition said to have been signed by 8,300 of the 12,000 Sudbury members.

ALLEGES CONSPIRACY

The petition alleged that the Sudbury executive, led by Local President Don Gillis, had conspired with the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) to lead the Sudbury workers into the rival union.

Mr. Justice Morand said it would be ridiculous if 25 per cent of the members could upset President Gillis. Noting the Steelworkers are campaigning to sign up Mine-Mill workers and seek certification from the Ontario Labor Relations Board, the judge added:

"There is evidence that this is true, but if true the result would be a vote of the workers and the winner would be the union supported by the majority of the workers.

"It has long been a principle of our democratic form of government that the majority rules and to allege that this calling of a vote to determine the decision of the workers as to which union should represent them is a hardship upon the defendant does not impress me."

GO ON TRIAL

In Sudbury, meanwhile, President Smith and nine of his supporters went on trial on a charge of unlawful assembly. The charges result from a disturbance outside the Sudbury arena Sept. 8 at the height of internal strife between heads of the national union and the local. The trial was adjourned until Oct. 31.

Const. Golden, counsel for the 10 Mine-Mill members, suggested police were "used as an instrument by one party against another" at a union rally Sept. 8 in the Sudbury arena.

Mr. Golden's suggestion was made during cross-examination of police witnesses at the hearing before Magistrate Ian Minnes.

Const. M. Charette said the disorder in front of the arena started on the arrival of a group headed by Smith. When fights started near the doors, Const. Charette said, he received orders from his superiors not to let any members in.

"The tear gas cleared the disorderly crowd from the door, and eventually people were admitted," he said.

TEAR GAS HURTLED

Const. Gilbert Lapierre said that when he arrived, groups of men outside the arena were trying to force their way in.

The constable said he retaliated when tear gas canisters were hurtled by a provincial legislative director, go through the door.

An earlier witness, Sgt. Ted Tyreman, said he was told that four men were not to be allowed into the meeting. These were Smith, Mike Solski, president of District 3 of the Mine-Mill union; Wally Kennedy, District 3 secretary; and Thibault. They are among the 10 charged with unlawful assembly.

KHRUSHCHEV

The changes may involve new methods for choosing and punishing members who have fallen into disgrace. There are indications that new rises will be invented...such as failure to show sufficient devotion to the Communist cause or lack of faithfulness to the principle of collective leadership.

If Khrushchev has won, it will mean expulsion from the party and possibly worse for former premier Georgi Malenkov, for Lazar Kaganovich, the onetime commissar of the Ukraine and a Stalin stalwart, for old former foreign minister V. M. Molotov, former premier Nikolai Bulganin and his adjuncts.

There may be shocks outside Russia. The Communist parties in parties abroad, particularly in the satellite nations, who have not shown sufficient devotion to Khrushchev's interpretation of Marxism-Leninism may be headed for the political axe.

A new party declaration—one is expected from this congress—likely will cover that phase of the purge, which could bring down such men as Walter Ulbricht, the Stalinist boss of East Germany, and others of his stamp.

SHOWN IN PHRASE

The sin which may be invented for such Communists is that of "fraternal solidarity with the workers of the whole world." This phrase already has shown up in the Soviet press, and seems to have a kind of hidden meaning.

If the Khrushchev purge is successful, it is likely to have a shock effect in the ranks of world communism, which has been in a state of confusion for several years now regarding the interpretation of Communist ideological scriptures.

This confusion has been compounded by the events of 1960—natural for union members kept waiting outside to be irritated, Sergeant all members of Local 598 had been invited to the rally. He entered as an exhibit a copy of the Sudbury Star carrying an advertisement of the rally.

ment, broadcast by Albania's Tirana radio and quoted by the Yugoslav news agency Tanyug, expressed approval of Ghoa's speech at the congress. The Chinese leader's statement was described as "important" and "correct."

During Friday's session, the congress also "unanimously" supported demands for the expulsion of the "anti - party" clique in the Soviet Union.

The Soviet Communist party newspaper today named the chief members of the group as: Former Soviet premiers Georgi Malenkov and Nikolai Bulganin, former president Klimenti Voroshilov, former deputy premiers Lazar Kaganovich, Maxim Saburov and Mikhail Pervukhin and former foreign minister Dmitri Shepilov and Vyacheslav Mocotov.

The paper said the party had "exposed and rejected the wretched handful of conspirators."

In his statement Friday, Mikoyan also accused Hoxha of praising the Stalin cult "in the skies."

According to Communist sources, the deputy premier quoted Hoxha as saying that anyone who worked against his (Hoxha's) line would be shot.

He also quoted Hoxhar's deputy, Gen. Mehmet Shehu, as saying on one occasion that Albania's army would retaliate—he died big soda and he failed to destroy the present Soviet leaders.

ston bomb resolution be given "absolute priority," saying that India already has a topic for debate on a cessation of nuclear tests.

Eleven said there was no competition between the items but Canada and the other sponsoring countries wanted to maximum something specific at Khrushchev on an urgent basis. The Canadian said he would support India's plea for a moratorium on tests.

India joined the nine-country Soviet bloc and Afghanistan, Cambodia, Ceylon, Cuba, Iraq and Saudi Arabia in abstaining on the radiation proposals.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1961

Wisdom's Attributes Listed To Graduating Class of Quinte Secondary School

"It is good to realize that man is really quite insignificant ,despite all of the wealth of technology and development about us, when placed in the universe is considered", the graduating class at Quinte Secondary School's graduation exercises was told by guest speaker A. C. Ritter, director of education for the City of Kingston. This is a part of wisdom, the Queen's graduate suggested.

Even if man does reach the moon he has but conquered one billionth of one percent of the known space of the universe, he told it. It is but one of such imponderables as space and time that man appears infinitesimally small by comparison and there becomes much which man had to accept on faith. That there is a reason and purpose in the universe which lies outside the influence or efforts of man which would appear to be the work of some Divine hand is the conclusion to which man has to accept on faith without support or proof from his own limited range of knowledge, Mr. Ritter suggested.

Besides this realization, or faith there are three other parts to wisdom, the speaker told his native said. One must also be able to think clearly — "to be able to examine a situation, analyze the various factors involved and to correlate these facts in such a manner that the experience one already has in order to arrive at an objective solution, he indicated.

One should be able to consolate ideas and concepts which man has experimented to current difficulties in arriving at a solution, he flexible enough, to realize a novel situation, when he is confronted with it. There may also come the time when one's decisions must be made with a minimum of thought of others. At such times ah this it is necessary to stand alone and not fear the loss of popularity, Mr. Ritter said.

"It is also important to have concern for others and to foster one's decisions with the realization that others may be affected by it in order to achieve wisdom, the speaker said.

LEAD OWN LIFE

Finally, one has to act from honest motives oneself and to examine closely those who have grown up over a certain course of action to determine what their real motives in such a course of action might be, in order to act wisely, Mr. Ritter advised.

In conclusion he suggested to the graduates that in a sense their children were not their children—that each was born to eventually lead his own life as determined by his own thoughts, actions and motives and not as a direct reflection on the life and desires of his parents.

The valedictory address was given by Joanne Waite who suggested that each student had grown in many way as the result of the past five years. There were many varied experiences, both of a serious and light-hearted, which will long be remembered, she suggested, adding that these years were beyond the scope of academic courses.

Co-operation, responsibility and the desire to learn were three of the major experiences for which Quinte students would thank their teachers, Miss Waite suggested. Thanks should also be given to one friends and pupils for these experiences and the opportunity of enjoying the experiences of a secondary school education, she concluded.

In reviewing the past year's activities at Quinte, Principal Leslie Reid said that a very high level of academic achievement had been attained and that almost 50 per cent had won by students in scholarships and awards through their scholastic efforts.

He attributed the year's success to a fine staff, to the excellent work of the Parent-Teacher Association, the first rate facilities provided by the Bay of Quinte District High Board and to the enthusiasm and quality of the teaching staff, whose members constituted the main cog in the educational system, he said.

Mr. A. L. Grestric, chairman of the high school board also spoke. He advised the graduating students that it was now up to each individual to accumulate experience on their own now that they had graduated. "Through their experiences," he said, "they would learn really somewhat the knowledge which man had at his command."

PRESENT

Over 1,000 persons were present for the ceremonies, which have been held in the school gymnasium-auditorium. Musical entertainment for the evening was performed by the school band which, under the direction of Mr. R. Turcotte, was one of the highlights of the graduation exercises.

Following the official ceremony graduating students and their parents were received by the staff for refreshments and the graduation ball was held for the student body.

The dinner was attended by executives and staff members of Weekend Magazine and Perspectives as well as publishers of daily newspapers who distribute the weekly supplement. On their behalf, Craig Baltzan-tyne, Weekend editorial director, presented Mr. Clark with a silver dish as a memento of the occasion.

The 69-year-old writer who has been described as a "poet, philosopher and a bit of a curmudgeon" at 19 joined the staff of the Toronto Star of which he later became editor. Mr. Clark, was editor for many years.

In the First World War as an infantry officer, he won the Military Cross and Bar.

He was one of the Toronto Star's feature writers between wars and his assignments included the trial of Bruno Hauptmann in 1935, for the Lindbergh kidnapping, and the Mount Rivers mine disaster in Nova Scotia in 1937. Negro Minister Will Not Take Part in Movie

ATLANTA (AP)—Bitter criticism of a reported movie role for Martin Luther King prompted King as a Negro senator from Georgia to issue a statement by a denial by King that he would take part in the project.

The statement Monday said Thursday night in Hollywood that the A.M.G. is a leftist broadcaster had been cast to portray a senator in the screen version of Allen Drury's novel, "Advise and Consent," a Pulitzer prize - winning novel about Washington politics.

Preminger said King was sought for the role because his appearance would create a positive statement about them. Preminger said he would show that it is possible for a Negro to be elected to the United States Senate.

The movie role for King brought immediate protests in Georgia. Former state senator John Greer, who took a leading part in opposing the Rev. King, described the movie project "an insult to the people of Georgia, to legislators and members of the Georgia congressional delegation."

Governor Ernest Vandiver also issued a statement, declaring the casting of King for the role of a senator would turn "an already explosive into sheer tinder."

Vandiver said he had not given any final consent nor signed any agreement, in considering the matter, in addition to the script, I feel that the brief role could not be one of importance in advancing civil rights and, therefore, have not accepted the proposal."

THE GOLDEN YEARS

This Businessman Discovered That Non-Retirement Is Best

By THOMAS COLLINS

The happiest man in retirement is the one who was never really a worker; never wanted a supervisory position, took his job only a minor role in community affairs and retired with an honest $330 a month income.

This is the considered opinion of a retired insurance man named Smith who rose to an executive job, took a major role in community affairs and retired with an income he admits reluctantly it $7,400 a year.

"There are three kinds of retirement pain in the life," he says, try, not just one as most of us suppose," according to Mr. Smith.

"There is the fellow who has built up nothing by 65, who needs his job to eat and who walks into want when he has to retire. He's the unhappy retirement."

There is the blue-collar fellow. He never wanted much. He doesn't expect much. His $200 a month will give him what he requires. As a rule he will enjoy freedom and idleness more than most, and his status in the neighborhood will tend to rise because he can live without working. This is the 'balanced retirement.'

LOSES HIS POWER

"Then there is the successful fellow. When he retires he loses his power. He loses his people. He loses his influence in the community. He loses an arena in which to exert his drive, energies and his talents — he loses a field in which he enjoys most men or he wouldn't have succeeded. All he has is money, war and services and cost of living at 65. This is the 'disenchanted retirement'."

When Mr. Smith retired three months after reaching 65, he had a long list of the businessmen's division of the annual campaigns for funds. He served on the boards of three civic clubs and on committees all I spend.

"I never doubted that when I was put on the board I would become one of the busiest civic leaders in the area. It didn't work out that way. I know now it never does. A businessman, by virtue of the fact that his influence, loses effectiveness in getting things done and loses his power. A retired man can't do much for anybody anymore. His client is gone.

Mr. Smith says that 18 months after he retired he had about 10 per cent of the contacts he had the last year he worked. He says it is a fact that he let it be known he was available, the phone didn't ring much.

"There was the other blind spot too. I built myself a glamorous retirement home, well swimming pool yet, would be the envy of the neighborhood.

"My wife and I built ours on Golf Course in Alabama on with two extra bedrooms At first we were going to spend the winters there entertaining friends. Our friends went to Florida or Europe and simply dropped by in two years, for a weekend.

"After the civic dream faded out and we moved into the home permanently, it was the same — because time had marched on and old connections had grown weak. We settled in with retired people who lived scarcely and since none of us had much thing to talk about except to keep rehashing the past; it was pretty boring. We invited in for a downspeople. A city executive had a heart attack — just don't hit it off too well. . .

BACK IN BUSINESS

Mr. Smith, disenchanted and bored, finally got interested in manufacturer of electrical household appliances.

"I'm not going to tell you how much money I got my franchise and went back to being a businessman. Financially I have been asked to join virtually every civic endeavor in the county. . . "

War Amputees Testing New Hydraulic Knee Mechanism Leg, Find It Satisfactory

By JACK VAN DUSEN

OTTAWA (CP) — Handpicked war amputees from across Canada United States are testing an artificial leg that may add a new swing to the step of battle-scarred veterans.

The Knab introduces for the first time in perfected form a hydraulic knee mechanism that, it is believed, will make artificial the-knee amputee smoother and easier. There are some 1,500 leg amputees in Canada.

The leg, invented by a Canadian now living in the United States, has been received enthusiastically by many veterans. The veterans affairs department injects a note of caution, however.

"We are treating this with guarded optimism," Dr. J. N. B. Crawford, director - general of treatment services, said in an interview.

The orthopedic specialists refuse to raise too high the hopes of amputees.

"Rehabilitation can be pretty bitter," said Dr. Crawford.

The Hydra-Cadence leg, invented by Jack Knab, is not new once then without success, may still be some "bugs" in it.

MORE OF GIAFF.

Ordinary artificial legs, some of wood, some of duralumin, and other kinds of laminated plastic and fibreglass, have a mechanical knee joint with an adjustable knee-brake control operated from the shoulder suspension.

The amputee clenches an uneven pull in his effort to have the leg swing forward in the swing-through phase—thus the obvious raising of the shoulder as he walks.

It's a physical effort on the part of the amputee to get the foot off the ground and forward in each step and to prevent the toe from digging as it swings back for another step.

With the Hydra-Cadence leg all this effort is eliminated. A pneumatic motion. Hydraulic mechanism controls the speed of the leg and even ankle, foot and toe motions as the amputee walks. The hydraulic-pneumatic unit in the ankle heel as the amputee moves forward and lifts the toe clear the ground, duplicating pretty closely what these joints normally do. one official said.

MP IN TEST

"I feel it's going to be a good leg," said O. W. (Mike) Weichel, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Waterloo South and a First World War veteran who lost a leg above-the-knee amputee.

Mr. Weichel, 67, is one of 30 Canadians and some 100 Americans picked by the respective governments to test the leg. He has tried it in his hometown of Elmira, Ont., only a few times so far and has trouble getting fitted but says: "I think it's going to be a good leg."

H. E. Weir of Calgary, chairman of the orthopedic committee of the War Amputations of Canada, who began wearing his leg March 16, 1960, said: "It gives me a feeling of security I have never had with any other kind of leg I've worn since wearing one for 20 years."

SPEEDUP

Borrowing from a 2,000-year - old Chinese theorem, scientists have developed a new kind of arithmetic which promises to make computer machines work faster.

Known as modular arithmetic, it was first used by the Greek mathematician Diophantus of Alexandria in the 3rd century A.D. Richard I. Tenzka of Lockheed Missile and Space Division, Sunnyvale, Calif., has found that it can cause a heart disease called bacterial endocarditis in people already suffering from rheumatic or congenital heart ailments. But this complication can be prevented by administering penicillin to such people before any tests are pulled.

Now comes a team of Georgetown University heart specialists reporting on their successful use, but even the cleaning and filling of teeth for dentists may open a gate. But for the "B.H. bug" so they strongly urge dentists to give the penicillin prophylaxis to vulnerable heart patients.

TESTS ON GUAM

From the faraway island of Guam has come a potential breakthrough in better understanding of amyotrophic lateral sclerosis, the fatal muscle-wasting disease that killed Lou Gehrig, the baseball great of the New York Yankees.

Among the natives of Guam, U.S. public health service scientists have found an unusually high incidence of the "Gehrig's" disease and a newly described neurological illness called Parkinsonism-dementia complex.

Further, there is evidence of a close relationship between the two disorders. The suspects that some biological factor present in daily living of the natives may create a special predisposition — may account for the relatively high rates.

DENTAL WARNING

All doctors and dentists have long known that dental x-rays are a prime means of admitting germs that can cause a heart disease called bacterial endocarditis in people already suffering from rheumatic or congenital heart ailments. Moments in History

1938 was an important year in still Belleville's history for that was the year it was declared an area free of TB. The first ocean-going ship to arrive was the Canadian Trader which had sailed from Glasgow with a cargo of Scotch coal for the City. The arrival date was May 8th. At this time Belleville's City Council had had its roots firmly planted in Belleville for almost thirty years. It was around the turn of the century that the predecessor of the Schuster company first began selling coal, lime and wood to Belleville's homes and factories.

Today, Moira - Schuster still supplies coal and has become Belleville's major supplier of fuel oil. Why don't you let Moira - Schuster attend to your heating needs this winter? Fuel oil will be delivered to you on your automatic "Dependo" heating system and our efficient Service Department is on call 24 hours every day. Call WO 8-4504 or drop in next time you're downtown.

Former German POW Picked Up On Traffic Case

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—A routine traffic violation case has resulted in a statement by a respected citizen that he is a former German prisoner-of - war who escaped from a Canadian prison camp 16 years ago.

Edward Lucak, who says his real name is Berger, was sentenced in magistrate's court Wednesday to 10 days for driving while his licence was under suspension and for using a false name to obtain a new licence.

Following the sentencing he told Magistrate T. J. Dunlop that he had lived for years in fear of being caught and sent back to old Germany — which now is in the Soviet occupation zone.

The magistrate was quoted as saying that in case of prisoners-of-war who escaped and evaded capture in Canada most were allowed to remain after the war. He did not think the traffic offence would do the man's past record any harm.

His wife, Mrs. Joanne Lucak, said in an interview Thursday that while she knows little about her husband's wartime experiences she does know that he escaped from a prison camp in 1945.

"I don't know where the camp was — Ottawa or Lethbridge, I think."

He told the magistrate he had worked on a farm near Vicksite, Ont., for three years after his escape. He married in 1948 and moved east. They have two children, both boys, aged 10 and 12.

NO FAMILIES ALLOWED — Canadians serving with the UN Emergency Force in Egypt's Gaza Strip are not permitted to have their families with them. But while they miss their wives and children, they are professional soldiers who recognize the importance of their job. Capt. D. W. Green of Kingston, Ont., company commander at Camp Rafah, buys some Egyptian souvenirs for his children back home. (CP Photo).

Canadian Soldiers Are Ready To Trade Gaza Strip Posting For Any Other One in Army

Earle Wolcheff, reporter for the Kitchener-Waterloo Record, had visited the Canadian UNEF detachment on Egypt's Gaza Strip. In this story he discusses the attitude of the Canadians.

By EARLE WEICHEL

CAMP RAFAH, Egypt (CP)—There is no easy job the Canadians have here.

Back in Canada, it's simple to see the task of this United Nations Emergency Force as one filled with a couple of soft patrols along idle desert brightened by hours of lolling on the Mediterranean beaches nearby; and leave stays in Cairo, Beirut Nicosia and Jerusalem.

But if it wasn't for the experience they're getting and the need to get the job done, almost all of the 600 Canadians here would trade their Gaza Strip posting for any other one this army could find.

For it's a tough and touchy job the Canucks have.

"It's touchy because any day some soldier does or carries out could spark an incident that might bring open hostilities between Egypt and Israel. They are still officially at war. It is the threat of this that keeps them from shooting; and, of course, the presence of the 5,000 men of the United Nations Emergency Force — Canadians, Yugoslavians, Brazilians, Danes, Swedes and Indians.

UNBEARABLE HEAT

It's touchy because it involves long hours of patrolling the desert in temperatures that soar to the 140s along the international frontier separating the two countries.

Maybe there's no war here, but this strip in the Gaza Strip involves frequent bouts down the barrel of an automatic rifle in the hands of some United Arab Republic guard. They halt every car on the desert roads surrounding this big camp and throughout the 25-mile-long strip to make sure Israeli patrols don't violate the frontier.

And they don't find, I got my first literary introduction to the Arab language Tuesday night ride in a little UNEF desert car from El Arish to Camp Rafah.

The guard stands in the middle of the road shouting orders to halt and pointing his rifle at the driver until the car stops.

"And he wouldn't hesitate to use it if we didn't," said the driver, Pte. Leo McKenney of London, Ont.

AWAY FROM FAMILY

This job involves a year away from wife and family — something the soldiers feel deeply.

And the Canadians are living in quarters that are below the standards of camps in Canada or at the brigade sites in Germany. Many of the soldiers still live in tents with wooden floors as a progress to hopeful permanent sleeping quarters continues.

Add to this the frustration of having to have all your drinking water treated, keeping scrupulous watch on the sands for lizards and venomous adders, putting up with endless and seemingly senseless regulations that abound in this country, and being denied most of the pleasures your buddies at home are enjoying.

Oh, there are some concessions. Because of the intense heat, the Canadians don't work a long day here. Six days a week they begin their duties at 7 a.m. and quit at 1:15 p.m. before the boiling sun becomes unbearable.

They get an extra UNEF allowance (about 85 cents a day) and extra leave that doesn't count against their annual leave.

BECOME LETHARGIC

Often soldiers have to be almost ordered to take the leave they become so lethargic from the heat and senseless here, Canadian officers told me.

But these concessions don't seem to mean much to the soldiers.

Ask any Canadian here if he'd like to go home tomorrow and you'd get almost a universal "yes"—from the top ranks to the bottom.

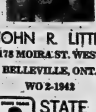
But give him a minute to consider and he'd probably change his mind.

He'd change it because he's a professional — the Canadians here this distinction with only the Indians in the force.

For the Canadians are very conscious of the importance of their job here.

"We try to impress it on their minds every day," said Col. G. F. Stevenson of Hamilton and Ottawa, the Canadian contingent commander.

They know that without them and the rest of this big peace force that the Arabs call "Police Dawli" or International police, a shooting war could break out again that might see all of us in the front lines.



CRITICIZES WRITERS

HALIFAX (CP) — Premier Stanfield Thursday criticized Canadian writers who say anti-Americanism is mounting in Canada. Mr. Stanfield, speaking to the Canadian Tourist Association, said "There are very few real Americans in Canada—perhaps only a few timid Canadians. And none of them come from Nova Scotia."

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

At the Fish and Game Association meeting the other night I heard past-president Bruce Kerr made some humorous excerpts from a magazine story. The author in fakeloric mood took some "cracks" at golfers, hunting, and the use of firearms.

Hunting down the years, has been productive of many yarns, tall, medium, and short, tragic and humorous.

I heard one the other day—the "Story of the Nine Hunters." They hunted together with a dog. Suddenly a action-tail rabbit broke into the clear. Nine shots barked. The dog fell dead and the bunny hopped away unharmed.

Years ago on a lake near Enterprise ducks settled so thick on a lake they covered the entire surface. Not a sign of water was visible.

Two hunters each fired two shots-a-piece into the dense mass of feathered and furred. Ducks rose in a solid body like a dark cloud being lifted. Not a duck was left on the water. The hunters were stunned. How could they miss?

They didn't. When the cloud of ducks reached a height of 150 feet from shore dropped into the water, "feather" than had year's vacation love affair.

And I will never forget the yarn the ancient fisherman told me when I was holidaying years ago on the Ottawa River.

The conversation drifted around to fishing—and muskies.

"We got lots of 'em in his river," the oldtimer said. "But nothin' like my old grampuppy got in the old lumberjack days."

"He and his crew were pike-polin' logs down the river when they noticed a thick dark mass that was moving slowly along the opposite bank."

"When they got close, believe it or not, they discovered the dark mass was a huge body of muskies, some of 'em as big as logs. Well, sir, those 'fusks' just switched 'tides' and rode them big muskies clear to Ottawa, pike-polin' 'em to the place where they caught 'em by the hundreds."

An authentic old record of 1857 says that salmon were so plentiful in Lake Ontario, off Wellington, they could be speared from the shore.

To quote the record:—"It occurred on an evening in July, 1857, when salmon were used off Wellington to haul in windfalls. Men gathered for miles to help the work and receive fish for remuneration. The owner of the seine, J. Rickerson Trumpour had his men and nets in use until dawn."

"By sunrise the seine had harvested 40,000 whitefish, the largest haul ever taken at the particular place. . W. H. Garratt assisted in the work by taking out a boat and holding up the cork line of the seine. The net was frequently so full fish were scooped over the top of it. His share of the fish was enough to fill seven barrels."

I recall the yarn that came out of North Bay concerning deer hunters, their days and two deer. During the morning thick, heavy clouds came down out of the west. They were so dense and black that it looked like night was falling.

The hunters could find no sign or get any trace of their deer. As they waited they heard the baying of the hounds from a great distance. Where were they? There was no sign.

Then a rift appeared in the dark cloud mass overhead. The light broke through. And the hunters gasped. Reaching down the edge of the cloudbank were two deer. Chasing them were the dogs.

And this one also came out of Sudbury. "Bill Hrinkevich was on Manitoulin Island on deer season opening day. He heard two shots and a yell. He thought someone had shot a deer. He decided to look.

"He didn't find a deer but he did find Sol Abrahams of Chicago with his head buried under a rock and his bare posterior up in the air. Abrahams had dressed in red but decided to go to the bathroom. His underwear was white and some other hunter seeing the white body opened fire."

"It took Bill almost ten minutes to calm down the victim who said, 'I did two years in the U.S. army in Korea, but this is going too damned far. It's my first and last trip up here. I'm getting in my car and won't stop driving until I hit Toronto—if I can sit down that long."

Shag Blasts The Majors

MONTREAL (CP) — Frank Shaughnessy, 70, the grand old man of baseball who delivered a tirade against the minors, served virtually attacks against baseball's major leagues Friday. charging that they are strangling the minor leagues by artificially destroying the money became he was "fed up with the interference and fiscality of baseball moguls."

"They (the majors) don't give a damn about what happens to baseball and will have to pay the minors and it's going to be in the red," he said in a bitter, pronounced bitterness at a press conference called by the International League to announce the ren... IL offices are being shifted back... to New York City. ...Shaughnessy, a ruddy - faced ... president of the ... silver belt, quit the practice of operating major league players in minor league territories has had a serious effect on lower circuits.

"But what really hurts is the way baseball has the player-by. A guy who is having a good season in the minors is snapped up, at any point in the league, without compensation for the minor league club.

"Fans don't want to stand for that sort of nonsense. They pay to see a player. The boy gets a following. Then, bang, he's gone."

Hibernating Bruins Meet Canadiens

But Watson Has A Point

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The sorry plight of Boston Bruins moved Coach Phil Watson to say this:

The Bruins are averaging three goals a game but a porous defence has reduced them to potato for the rest of the National Hockey League.

So far, Watson, as voluble as they come, has remained remarkably calm about the whole thing. He insists his rookies will come around and give us trouble for the rest of the league.

The Bruins have allowed 32 goals in six games, are in Montreal tonight to play the undefeated Canadiens, a club to whom they have earned their only point.

Toronto Maple Leafs are at home to Chicago Black Hawks and New York Rangers meet the Red Wings in Detroit in tonight's other games. Sunday it's Montreal at Boston and Chicago at New York and Toronto at Boston.

GOALIE HAS TROUBLES

One of Boston's big disappointments has been the play of rookie goalie Don Head, an octodoxx 185-pounder who had a great season with Pembroke and in the Western Hockey League in 1960-61. He has played only one in a number of games fired in his direction this season.

Otherwise, the Bruins have performed well enough to win a few games. Rookie Ted Green of Kamloops, B.C., and Terry Gray, both acquired from Montreal last summer, have shown they can score.

The Canadiens, winners of the league title the last four years but picked by most experts to finish in the lower than second this season, received some encouraging news Friday. Defenceman Tom Johnson, who suffered an ankle injury at New York Wednesday, will probably be able to play in the weekend games.

Left winger Dickie Moore, a training camp casualty, worked out with the team and reported his knee is improving. His status is still indefinite, but there is a possibility he will be back in action by the end of next week.

In Toronto, Leafs manager-coach Punch Imlach may come up with a revitalized power play against the Hawks. Bert Olmstead, out with an injured knee, has been trying all week to inject new life into the inept Toronto power attack, a Maple Leafs sore spot for a number of years.

Backstrom Gets Another

MONTREAL (CP)—The National Hockey League Friday credited Ralph Backstrom of Montreal Canadiens with a goal in Canadiens' 5-3 win over Boston Bruins last Sunday.

The Boston official scorer originally awarded the goal, at 9:18 of the first period, to Don Marshall, giving an assist to Backstrom.

Later Marshall told reporters "I never touched the puck" and the NHL straightened the matter out by making it an unassisted goal by Backstrom.

But the Canadiens' Marshall wouldn't suffer, the league gave him an assist on Montreal's tying goal by Claude Provost, at 4:39 of the third period. Origin... New York Rangers were given the only assist on the goal.

The league also cleared up another in a 4-4 hockey deadlock between by making it official that the goal by Marshall at 16:10 of the second period in Montreal's 5-2 victory over New York Rangers Wednesday.

Some reports of the game said the New York official scorer first awarded the goal to Backstrom, then changed his mind and gave it to Bill Hicke.

Backstrom now has a total of four goals in Canadiens' three games.

Letter To The Sports Editor

The Kenmores

The Kitchener Club is a fine baseball club, and up hall to new champions.

We are not going to allbi our loss to the Dodgers, nor do we need to. Our boys have had a stupendous season, and are not ashamed of losing to a good team in the all-Ontario finals.

Our boys played this year in a senior league of older and more experienced players, and finished the league schedule losing only 4 games out of 30. In the league play-offs they defeated Waterloo Intermediate A's 3 games to 2, then they defeated Port Hope Intermediate A's 3 games straight. In the Ontario playdowns they topped previously undefeated Peterboro Junior A's 3 straight games and defeated Kingston Junior A's games to 1. In the all-Ontario final, they met an experienced Junior A team which was rated as the hot-shot of Ontario baseball, being sponsored by the Kitchener-Waterloo Senior club finalists in the powerful Inter-County League. In the two game series they outhit us 6 to 4. The game in Kitchener was a tough one to lose, we played against the lead-off spark plug, Rickey Locke, and with the exception of one inning, he never got on base with them every bit of the way as the breaks would do their only 2 scratch hits and the only 2 Kenmor errors occured in that one inning.

Many people however ask me why our boys did not look as sharp in these last two games as they did throughout the season. The fact remains, and I had previously so complained to the O. B. A., that the Junior playdowns could have been started earlier, semi-finals completed sooner and the finals played much earlier, before University programs started and when more seasonable baseball weather prevailed (1960 finals were completed Sept. 10th), Kitchener (as Kingston) is a University town and their university boys attend university in Kingston and eat home-cooked meals, sleep at home, and practise through the week. Four of the Belleville regulars attend university at Ottawa, Toronto, and Hamilton; they miss their home meals and beds, and there are no team practices. They rush home on weekends, put on the uniform and are suddenly in the game — it makes a difference!

Kitchener are the new Champions — a fine baseball club. Long live the champs.

Manager, Belleville Kenmors.

Sugar Ray May Get Moyer Lumps

Columnists Blast Argos

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

It's the custom in professional sport to blame the coach when his hired hands play like miserable dunderheads. The mentality rate among coaches of Canadian football teams over the last 20 years or so stands to 60. In fact I have, about 40 have got the gate.

They are unsentimentally fired out and the players who remain, goes to assignments and commits the capital sin of forgetting the fundamentals of blocking and tackling "ich-ich" all the way to the bank to cash their pay cheques. In many cases, they are the overlooked subjects.

Toronto has not been an exception to this rule. Arguments have had some frustrating years and, generally, the coach received the razzing. That was it, until this week, when the lowse-boy occupants fired pointblank at the players.

Coach Lou Rowe hasn't escaped. He has been blamed for an unimaginative offence against the Ottawa Rough Riders some clubs. And he's been criticized for not adjusting when teams smartened up to Argonaut offensive patterns.

But when Argonauts were clobbered 37-10 by Hamilton Tiger-Cats, before 28,523 home fans, a couple of Toronto columnists got a lot of mileage out of their typewriters. The players received the razzing.

Milt (Toronto Star) Dunnell asked who shows Argos "the fools' failure to look like a first-class professional football team?"

"They're no No amount of hoodoo will help. Argos are a group of weary, dispirited bus-hamsters. They're the highest-paid club in the country. They're going nowhere.

"It isn't their fault they've been overrated. Nor is it their fault they're favorites in almost every game they play. If the gamblers have double-blind eyes when they look at Argos' record, why boo the poor clods who merely are plodded through another day's work?

"The people who buy tickets have a right to be resentful — and they are. But they must have suspected, a long time ago, that Argos are a poor excuse for a football team. There's only one alternative — try to enjoy the visiting club."

Scott (Toronto Globe and Mail) Young said he didn't go for "this stuff about football fans—including some Argonaut directors—being able to force the firing of a coach in mid-season because a lot of hobbled football players partially prove themselves inferior to any determined opposition."

Young advised his readers that they "might wish to spare some sympathy for Agnew."

"He is faced now with all the difficult detail of his profession under the cold pressure of produce or else. This pressure can be no surprise to him. It is part of being a professional coach. But that will make it no less a strain.

"For that reason, I hope that the Argonauts, indeed are capable of anything more stewacuss than playing to such a way that their coach always looks bad, they get off their cans and show it now."

Cowboys Meet Eagles

NEW YORK (AP) — Dallas Cowboys, league doormats last season, may hold the key to the National Football League's Eastern Division lead.

The Cowboys entertain the defending champion Philadelphia Eagles in a key encounter Sunday and next week try again against New York, The Giants and Eagles are tied with 4-1 records.

The powerful Giants, having completed an all-winning four-game road trip, are at home to Los Angeles Sunday for the first time since 1954. The Rams have a 1-4 record, but it's definitely three of their losses have been by a total of eight points.

Other games include Green Bay at Minnesota and San Francisco at Chicago in important Western Division games. St. Louis at Washington, Cleveland at Pittsburgh and Baltimore at Detroit. San Francisco and Green Bay are tied for the Western lead.

The American League four games are scheduled for Sunday—one of them Friday night's intersectional contest between Buffalo Bills and the Patriots at Boston which had to be postponed because of the threat from the tropical storm Gerda. Another game will have Dallas at Houston, New York at Denver and San Diego at Oakland.

Joe executive secretary of the Houston chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People said Friday night that Negro players for Dallas are being asked not to play against Houston because Rountree's Jeppesen Stadium is segregated.

Mrs. Jesse Evans said she sent telegrams to Abner Haynes, David Webster, Dave Hudson and Cotton Nagler asking them not to cross a picket line she said will be at the stadium gates.

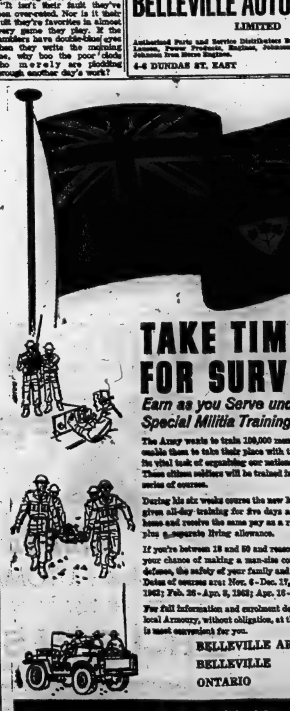
NEW YORK (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson makes his second start in less than a month when he faces Denny Moyer of Portland, Ore., in a 10 - round boxing bout tonight.

This won't be one of Sugar Ray's better paydays (he's getting about $12,500) but the 41-year-old veteran is hoping to do better the next time around if there is a next time.

If he can beat the 22-year-old Moyer he may wind up with another title shot at either Terry Downes of Britain or Gene Fullmer of West Jordan Utah, co-holders of the middleweight title.



Robinson has held the middleweight crown, or a piece of it, five times.

"My ego won't let me quit without the title," he said Friday. "I know I'm not what I used to be but I think I've got enough to beat either Downes or Fullmer."

Robinson is a 12-to-5 favorite although he had a tough time defeating Willie Greaves of Edmonton Sept. 30. He is ranked fifth among the contenders. His record is 144-8-3, including 83 knockouts. Moyer, ranked ninth, has a 30-5 record with eight knockouts.

The bout, scheduled for 10 p.m., will be televised nationally by the United States over the ABC network and in Toronto by CFTO-TV.

Hockey Groups State Meetings For Monday

The Belleville Industrial Hockey League and the Squirt division of the BMHA both have meetings called for Monday night to work on their plans for the 1961-62 season.

The Squirt grouping will meet at the Recreation Centre, on Pinnacle St., at 7.00 p.m.

The meeting has been called especially for team coaches but everyone is welcome. You are urged to attend and to "bring a friend." Plans will be formulated for the season's activities. Any coaches or potential coaches who cannot attend the meeting are asked to notify Lloyd "Red" Doran.

Meanwhile the Industrial league will hold its first meeting of the season at Doctor's Hotel at 8.00 p.m.

Anyone who is interested in entering a team is invited to attend. An election of officers will also be held.

At the present time, little interest has been shown in the loop this year. Russ Soule, a member of last year's league executive, said that the only sponsor to announce his interest to date has been Jerry Joyce of Joyce Real Estate.

The loop is badly in need of teams.

Flyers Off To Big Start

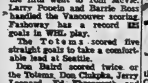
By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Edmonton Flyers are off to their fastest start in recent Western Hockey League seasons and are finally giving veteran goaltender Dennis Riggin some protection.

They won their third straight since Friday night by beating San Francisco Seals 5-1. Riggin, who had a league high of 255 goals scored against him last season, has allowed only five this season.

Portland Buckaroos defeated Vancouver Canucks 5-3 and Seattle Totems downed Los Angeles Blades 6-4.

Edmonton, which finished seventh last season in an eight-team league, leads the northern division with 14 points, one ahead of the Totems.



Len Lunde paced the Flyers at Edmonton with two goals, while singles went to rookie Don Ibbs, Ed Litzenberger and Ike Haley. Bob Bollinger scored for San Francisco.

LEAD ALL THE WAY

At Vancouver, the Bucks were ahead all the way. Gord Fashoway and Art Jones scored two goals each. Lheenate Arnie Schmautz added another and the fifth went to Tom McVie. Larry Poole and Barrie Rose handled the Vancouver scoring. Fashoway has a record 88 goals in WHL play.

The Totems scored five straight goals to take a comfortable lead at Seattle.

Don Baird scored twice on the Totems' first tallies, Jerry Leonard, Ed Ehrenworth and Rusty Fillon counted the others. Danny Bellisle, George Ford, Bruce Carmichael and Terry Slater were the Los Angeles marksmen.

Butch's Drive-in were top point winners in the Quinte Classic Bowling League at the Bowl-O-Drome last night.

The results were: Butch's (18) 2803, Farrell Motors (9) 2813, McDougall Insurance (7) 2672, O'Connor's Jewel Box (5) 2634, Hotel Proprietors (3) 2586, Elaine Footwear (5) 2485, Parson's Cleaners (2) 2498 and El Rancho (0) 2304.

Leo Labelle turned in the session's high four-string of 1213 including 366 and 348 singles.

Now Patterson Can Worry

Sonny Liston Suspension Lifted

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission lifted its suspension of Sonny Liston Friday and the No. 1 contender for the heavyweight boxing title immediately went into training for a Dec. 4 fight.

Liston, who last July was barred indefinitely from fighting because of two arrests, is scheduled to fight Germany's Albert Westphal in a closed television circuit fight doubleheader featuring champion Floyd Patterson against challenger Tom McNeely.

The Liston-Westphal fight will be in Philadelphia, while Patterson defends his title against McNeely in Toronto the same night.

Liston, who was cleared in court of both his brushes with the law, appeared before the commission here Thursday night in secret session. He was told then his license would be restored, but that one more action considered detrimental to boxing, and it would be suspended permanently.

Liston is to get $50,000 from the TV deal and $35,000 or 30 per cent of the live gate.

Liston, after appearing here, returned to Denver where he has been under the moral and academic guidance of Rev. Edward J. Murphy. Father Murphy told the commission the Negro fighter's conduct has been "most creditable," and that his progress in learning to read and write has been gratifying.

Liston's brushes with the law included an arrest last May for disorderly conduct and another a month later for allegedly stopping a woman motorist, also a Negro.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Twenty six successful daily double tickets were sold at Greenwood Park bubbling with joy Friday after they bet on the lucky combination of six and four, worth $1,238.40 — largest double payoff of the year.

The big win was set up when Top Field, with Dick Ainscough in the saddle, came with a rush in the home stretch to defeat Silvrille by half a length in the second race and returned $211 to win, $74.40 to place and $23.20 to show.

In the featured seventh race, the Belleville Pace, Wilmisteo won by equalling the track record of 1:59 for 1 1-16 miles, set by Hastney in 1957, with Hanover Hall Combs, Winisteo defeated Chompion by a neck. Icon K finished third. Winisteo paid $17.20 to win.

Wagering totalled $265,679 and the crowd numbered 6,803.

City Interdepartment League

It Was a Grand Party!

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

It was their first party—and like their first season, an unqualified success.

Last night under the Club Cedars floodlight, the softball division of the City Interdepartmental Sports Association said tribute to champions and others—and had a rollicking time doing it.

Les Potts stood up with his chest out like a pouter pigeon. Stan Finkle hoisted a couple of shirt buttons.

They should. They were the best men of the champion Public Works champions.

They stood there like a couple of Horatios at the bridge and accepted the handsome Mel Barriage Trophy from a generous donor. They didn't even blink when flash bulbs exploded.

Then they rounded up the Bulldozer gang, wiped their noses, straightened their ties and beamed over them like a pair of old biddy hens while they accepted beautiful miniatures from Mr. Barriage.

The Public Works, Firemen and Police teams were well represented. I didn't see too many of the City Hall Pencil Pushers there. Some body told me they were out of town taking a sharpener course.

Wherever they were some "outsiders" on hand. There was city engineer Turnbull, Fire Chiefalin Gerald Hewson (Warpy was singing in the choir), Mr. Barriage, a grand guy, Umpire-in-Chief Ray "Slim" Doherty, with his white cane, and this reporter. Mark Sinema, assistant to Doherty, was absent. He is taking treatment for eye strain.

However President Fred Smith, who deserves a lot of kudos for a job excellently done, presented the trophies with nice gifts.

Tribute, tangible and otherwise, was paid to a deserving official of the association, secretary-manager Jack Darvell of the Smoke Eaters. It was well earned.

I've drank root beer out of the Allan Cup, pea-soup from the Stanley Cup, lake water from the OHA senior trophy and what not, but the nearest approach to the McFarland champagne I quaffed from the world championship trophy in Prague did not taste half as good as that sarsaparilla I sneaked from the Barriage Trophy last night.

You just had one swallow. Stan Finkle had a half-gallon on the gleaming mug, with Polky close by with an upraised softball bludgeon. Charlie Peters was behind him with an "unouchables" billy. You didn't have a chance.

It was a grand party. And this bat-and-ball gentry of the league may not be Mickey Mantles and Marls' but a stroke back at 70, the day's only other sub-par score, they won't strike out in any circuit

Some of those gals were out of this world and somebody told me I went home mumbling something about being born thirty years too soon. (I am only kidding, Florence).

Hammy MacDonald tickled his Liberace accordion, and the rest of the Dixie Five "gave" with sprightly rhythms from the cha-cha to the Katanga Kick. There was nothing wrong with the music (charge it, Hammy).

In serious vein, the dance ended a highly successful softball season. Now the association is centring its efforts on a hockey league. President Smith told me the four depart. heads will be represented on the ice lanes.

And if the sportsmanship and camaraderie of the softball diamond repeats on the hockey surface then the Interdepartment Sports Association has nothing to worry about this winter.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Ruth Jessen and Louise Suggs fired two-under-par 70s Friday to grab the first-round lead in the $7,500 Civitan open golf tournament. Marilyn Smith came in a stroke back at 72, the day's only other sub-par score.

Trenton Handgun Champions

The Trenton Handgun Club won the Bay of Quinte Handgun League Annual Competition for the Labatt I.P.A. Trophy at the Rescherville ranges of the Quinte Marksmen Club, with a score of 1243 points.

In second place was the Quinte Marksmen Club of Belleville with 1214 points.

In third place the Northern Electric Handgun Club with 1142 points.

High score of the day was Carl McCoy of the Trenton club, with an aggregate of 371. Other members of the winning team were Rod Seabrook, 358; L. Armstrong, 283; Stan Millard, 249, and O. Barry 229.

High score on the second and third place clubs were: Harold Howring of the Quinte Marksmen with 361 and Bert Waters of the Northern team, shooting 348.

The Labatt trophy was presented to Carl McCoy, captain of the winning Trenton team, by Nick Stefan of the Labatt Brewery.

Umpires for the match were Cliff Smith, Harold Howring, Tony Clowes and Dr. Steve Morphy of the Quinte Marksmen. The range director was Frank Hall of that club.

Due to the keen interest shown in this match, the Bay of Quinte Handgun League plans two more matches during the winter months, hoping the Brighton, Campbellford and Picton Clubs will then have teames ready for competition.

Doug MacDonald, president of the Quinte Marksmen would like to remind those of the Belleville area, that the club meets every Wednesday evening at 7.00 p.m. in the Belleville Armouries and all those interested in Handgun Shooting are cordially invited. The Marksmen Club is affiliated with competent small arms instructors, and is affiliated with the Ontario Revolver Association and the Canadian Civilian Association of Marksmen.

INVITE CHAMP

KITCHENER (CP)—The low air pollution count here is being used as an inducement to have Floyd Patterson train here for his Dec. 4 world heavyweight fight in Toronto against Tom McNeeley of Boston. In a telegram to Patterson, Larry Hawin, Kitchener's air pollution control officer, said the city's pollution program can assure a healthy atmosphere and vigorous climate."

Amateur Champ Retains Title

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Al Proctor of Galt, 24-year-old Ontario middleweight amateur boxing champion, retained his title Friday night with a five-round decision over Tommy (Kid) McCoy, 21, of Niagara Falls.

The slim crowd, which went to a hotel ballroom seven miles outside St. Catharines for the card, saw Proctor given a stiff test by his opponent, although the champion was the unanimous choice of the two judges and referee.

There were no knockdowns, despite almost continuous toe-to-toe slugging. Both weighed 160 pounds.

In the five-round semi-final, Bob Ferguson of Galt qualified to meet Johnny Day of Hamilton for the Ontario welterweight championship by scoring a unanimous decision over Tony Morgan of Niagara Falls.

Preliminary results included: Joe Mackie, Hamilton, and Pat Campbell, Guelph, drew (3).

Gary Broughton, Galt, knocked out Don Whaley, Hamilton (2).

Brian Seals, Kitchener, outpointed John Koontz, Hamilton, (3).

Chuck Connors Is Starting Fourth Year With Rifleman

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Chuck Connors is a big, restless guy who aims to hold onto the success he has reached in television.

Rifleman is starting its fourth year, having eluded the gunfire that shot down half of last season's TV westerns.

"But it hasn't been easy. Rifleman rode high in its first two years on ABC, scoring in the top 10 audience ratings repeatedly. Last season the show was moved from its spring time, Tuesday at 8, to Tuesday at 8, Laramie, which started a half-hour earlier, cut into its rating.

"And we didn't have much of a lead-in," said Chuck. "Hugo Bunny, which preceded us, was supposed to be a world-beater. It wasn't."

This season Rifleman was juggled to Monday at 8:30, following Dick Powell. Such bouncings make it difficult for a show to build a rating. I asked Chuck how much longer he expected the show to last.

"In terms of audience acceptance and plot possibilities, it could go six years," he replied. "But realistically, I think this is the crucial year for Rifleman. It's got to come through with good rating, or its chances of survival are dim."

"One thing I am certain about . . . Rifleman is good for families. The relationship between the father and son is always done in a way that makes good sense. We'll keep it that way."

Middies Whip Detroit

NEW YORK (AP)—Navy excelled for the first time touchdowns Friday night to beat Detroit Titans 37-19 and thwart the Titans' bid for national recognition in United States college football.

The middies were trailing 13-12 in the third quarter when they turned to the passing arm of quarterback Ron Klemkiz to snatch victory. Klemkiz hit Carl Flak with a 37-yard strike for the winning touchdown.

It was also a blow to Detroit signal-caller Jerry Groza, who fired touchdown passes of six, 18 and 36 yards to wipe out an early Navy lead.

In another big game, Dick Drummond scored four touchdowns, including one on an 80-yard kickoff return, to spark George Washington to a 43-12 rout against William and Mary.

The spotlight turned today to Notre Dame, bidding to hit the top of the ratings against mighty Michigan State. Notre Dame won its first three games of the season and is fifth in the latest Associated Press ratings.

Michigan State, which the top spot in rankings off its victory over Michigan last week, is unbeaten and holds the favorite's role. Rebounding Notre Dame, which lost eight straight in one of its worst seasons in history last year, hopes to rebound all the way.

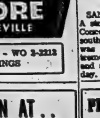
Welters Battle For Title

MILAN, Italy (AP)—Champion Emilio Marconi of Italy and challenger Eddie Perkins of Chicago tangle in a scheduled 15-round event tonight for the world junior welter weight boxing crown.



Loi, 32, considered the best fighter Italy ever had, says he is confident of winning, but that the 26-year-old American "has shown too much consideration for me as a fighter and as a person."

"I feel Perkins flattered me by not immediately telling my friends and the press that I am a chivalrous and conscientious (professional."

Loi said this is the first time he has been confronted by an opponent who "did not come here boasting he would dominate me in the ring."

"This is discongerting because although I will do my best to retain the title which cost me so many sacrifices, I will be fighting without hating my opponent this time."

American Cup

Yankees Are Favored

MONTERREY, Mex. (CP) — Hand - picked amateur soldiers from Canada, the United States and Mexico clashed today in the ninth renewal of the Americas Cup tournament. The Americans were favored.

"We should win but it won't be easy," said U.S. team captain Charley Coe. "It could be very close."

"The Canadians have a strong team but they have not had any best ball a point and a half at Ottawa like I've. Mexico has a young, aggressive team which has been practising here for more than a week."

Coe benched himself for the opening team matches over the picturesque 7,085 - yard Club Campestre course, which nestles in the elbow of a mountain chain. He planned to play in one of the afternoon singles over the par-72 layout.

Veteran Nick Weslock of Toronto, who has a string of four Ontario amateur titles, three Ontario open crowns and one Canadian amateur championship, teamed with Bob Wylie of Calgary in the opening team matches against Jerry Nicklaus and Dudley Wysong of the U.S. and Mauricio Urdaneta and Ra. fael Quiroz of Mexico.

In the second match, Gary Cowan of Kitchener, and Bert Desharnais of Vancouver were set against Bill Hyndman and Bob Gaetz of the U.S. and Mexico's Juan Antonio Estrada and Enrique Farias.

Eastern Pro Hockey

Wolves, Hull Tie

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sudbury Wolves, with a chance to move into a share of first place in the Eastern Professional Hockey League, wilted before a last-ditch power play of Hull - Ottawa Canadiens Friday night.

Only 30 seconds remained when centre Gerry Carter, with goalie Cesare Maniago on the bench in favor of an extra attacker, scored in the goal that gave the Canadiens a 3-2 tie. Carter, who has played in the American League with Rochester Americans but made the National League for only one game —with Montreal Canadiens in 1957-58, gave Hull-Ottawa a 1-0 lead at 7:32 of the first period while Sudbury's Ed Dilca chalked up a penalty.

But the Wolves went ahead 2-1 in the second on goals by Cummy Burton and Bob Dillabough with both teams at full strength. Burton tallied at 12:14 and Dillabough, a rookie who notched his fourth goal in four games with 17 seconds remaining in the period.

Besides the extra attacker who replaced Maniago in their successful dying surge, the Canadiens were helped by the fact that another Sudbury player — defenseman Healy—was in the penalty box when Carter pulled the game out of the fire.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Be sure you are loyal and support those who dwell under your own roof now. After you get to church, devote as much time as possible to them, and you find that you can be a veritable heaven if you are kind and understanding.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Since your mind is working so rapidly and accurately right now, be sure you formulate plans that will make your daily work easier and more profitable. Be with family or loved ones in P.M. for a delightful time. Be gay.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) Excellent results are possible today if you live according to the fine standards under which you were reared as well as the principles you yourself have found to be infallible. Apply yourself planning the new week during P.M.

Your child is born today be, or she, will be one of those delightful people who early in life is all-out enthusiasm to be of service to others as well as be interested in the most modern trends and ideas, but there seems to be little desire to prepare thoroughly for any project attempted. Early teach this valuable lesson or perseverance and the life can be successful and happy.

General Tendencies: Most surprising and interesting new events arise through being up and doing in all kind of new and improved ideas, methods and systems. Even if you attempt to hold on to the past, all kinds of delays, obstacles and restrictions face you. Be dynamic, up-to-date. Thus you find that a progressive point of view brings new opportunities, but a conservative one loses you backing, assets.

Aries (March 21 to April 19)—Put aside business and civic affairs now and give your time to entertaining, hobbies, having a good time. These can also prove very profitable in the long run. Evening fine for relaxation at the theatre, playhouse, etc.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)—Steer clear of recent acquaintances or you could get into trouble. Concentrate on what family and close friends have to suggest instead. They have very practical ideas for you. Time is easy in P.M. at own home. Retire early.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Don't waste time and money on advisors now who are not cognizant of true state of your affairs. Seek for ideas and information in your paper and other trustworthy printed media. Also, sit down with partners for good talk.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — If you are forced to or take up matters that are best if they remain dormant, you can cause a severance of valuable connections with partner. Concentrate upon how to have greater success in the future through larger enterprise.

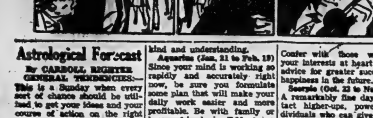
Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Don't be forceful where your daily duties are concerned and especially with co-workers and associates, but think out ways to carry through with those big ideas buzzing around in your head. Grow in character and wealth thusly.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Private backing and advice from experts bring wonderful results now. However, if you waste your time on worthless amusement instead, you stand to lose much. Take this opportunity to eliminate foolishness. Expand.

Libra Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Get out into the world of business and steer clear of that mounting situation at home. Confer with those who have your interests at heart and get advice for greater success and happiness in the future.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — A remarkably fine day to contact higher-ups, powerful individuals who can give you the assistance and support you need at this time. Don't get involved with dull and lengthy statements, however. Be civic-minded, though.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Get a far better idea where you are going and how best to get there now by contacting the right people and reading material that will give you more modern ideas. Then you will find your own constructive imagination going to work for you.



Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) —Since you are not thinking very clearly right now, it is best you confer with experts in certain fields. The benefits that are nonetheless possible to you now, whether in personal or business matters, P.M. Be kind to loved one.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) —Don't permit some private worry to keep you from getting out with a dynamic associate who could help you to get ahead much faster. Talk about the future in a sense of real co-operation. P.M. have dinner together.

Ford to Match Workers' Gifts To Colleges

OAKVILLE — Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited today expanded its financial assistance to Canadian colleges, universities and schools through a new "matching gifts" program.

"Through this program, Ford of Canada will match dollar for dollar, all employee contributions and gifts to accredited Canadian colleges, universities and secondary schools, valued at $10 dollars or more, subject of a limit of $3,000 each year for any one employee," Karl R. Scott, president of Ford of Canada said.

"The program is intended," Mr. Scott continued, "to encourage our employees to respond to the financial needs of schools in which they are interested and to give Ford of Canada an opportunity to demonstrate in a tangible way, its interest in our employees' efforts to support accredited schools of their choice, very often schools which have trained our own employees."

Effective date of the program has been made retroactive to January 1, 1961, so that all employee gifts made during the current year may be considered under the plan for matching grants. The plan will in effect double the value of employees' contributions.

Ford of Canada's Education Aid (Assistance and Incentive Donation) program is part of the company's broad plan for corporate assistance in education. Its objectives are to provide a means by which the company can join with its employees in contributing to colleges, universities and secondary schools to provide an increased incentive to employees to contribute to education institutions.

MIAMI BEACH (AP)—Medical researchers from two cities today agreed:

The death rate from coronary heart disease was three times higher among middle aged and older men smoking 1½ pack a day or more of cigarettes, compared with non-smokers, pipe or cigar smokers, and former cigarette smokers.

Their death rate from all causes was three times higher also.

Why they died earlier than other men is obscure.

The researchers from Albany, N.Y., and Framingham, Mass., said "there is strong evidence for some belief but non-specific factor associated with cigarette smoking."

They suggested caution "in drawing therapeutic inferences from these observations"—meaning what if anything smoking habits would reduce disease or death rate.

RISK INCREASES

But they said their preliminary results suggest the chance of developing coronary heart disease increases the longer and more a man smokes cigarettes.

The statistical studies involving 4,130 men in Albany and 5,209 persons during six to eight years were described to the American Heart Association's annual scientific session.

The Albany group is composed of 1,893 men, who were 35 to 35 years old in 1953 and have been studied for six years. The Framingham group is 2,237 men, 30 to 62 years old in 1950, and studied for eight years.

All had been judged free of coronary heart disease on first examination. Those smoking more than a pack of cigarettes a day were classed as heavy smokers.

Since then 171 men have died. 36 of them cigarette smokers and 102 who smoked cigarettes. Of these 132, 67 smoked a pack a day and 34 smoked more than that.

Among cigarette smokers, 16 deaths were attributed to coronary heart disease, while 10 cigarette smokers died from this.

Forty non - cigarette smokers developed heart attacks, compared with 160 others, of whom 37 smoked more than a pack daily.

In the studies, former smokers and cigars and pipes have had about the same rate of coronary disease or deaths as men who never smoked.

'Observer' Tops 300,000 Mark

Circulation of the United Church Observer has passed the 300,000 mark, and the current issue will be mailed to more homes this week than have ever received any Protestant publication at any time, anywhere in the British Commonwealth.

Published by the United Church of Canada's Board of Publication, the Observer's circulation has jumped from 169,750 in 1956. In 1946 circulation was 54,573; in 1936 it was 13,776; in 1926 (then called The New Outlook) 41,800.

Editors of the Observer announced today that on January 1st the journal will be printed on a better paper stock on a four color press, with 48 pages instead of 32.

The Rev. K.S. Bagnell has joined the staff as Assistant-to-the-Editor. Mrs. Grace Lane is the new women's editor. Character of the church paper will be changed somewhat after January 1, 1962, when a women's section will be included in the publication. Plans to initiate their own national magazine were abandoned by the United Church Women when the new character of The Observer was approved. The Missionary Monthly (63,000 circulation) will cease publication in December.

PC Convention 40 Minutes Late In Opening

Leadership Candidates Busy Seeking Votes

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Progressive Conservative leadership convention opened 40 minutes late today with fewer than 200 delegates on the floor of Varsity Arena and a thin number in the gallery.

Many delegates—and some of the seven candidates for provincial leadership of the party—were reported busy in nearby hotel rooms working to sway wobbly votes to the man of their choice.

Donald Summerville, acting mayor of Toronto, said the number of votes in the running for the top post in the Ontario party indicated the job was "a much tougher one than it looked."

Elmer Bell, convention chairman, called for sympathy and regret for the family of Harry Nixon—not a member of this province—who died today.

"Mr. Nixon, whom Mr. Bell termed "a great legislator," was a former Liberal premier of Ontario.

Premier Gunnar Thorvaldson of Manitoba, president of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada, said his association acknowledged "a great debt of gratitude for the co-operation which has existed between us."

CASTRO ACTION

There was expected to be little action during the first day of the three-day meeting, after opening remarks, resolution and leadership welcomes. Resolution committee reports were expected and convention committees named.

A "meet the candidates" reception and banquet will be chosen until Wednesday — was scheduled to be held late today under the auspices of the Young Progressive Conservative Association, with a similar setting set for this evening sponsored by the women's advisory group.

Feature of the first day's program is expected to be the address tonight by the retiring leader, Premier Leslie Frost.

The delegates, of which there are 1,700 eligible to cast ballots for a new leader, were handed their ballots Sunday and these date as they passed the booths allotted to each candidate.

Mr. Frost is to replace Premier Frost as leader and later as premier are Premier Thompson Lambda, Allan, Education Minister John Robarts, Energy Minister Dana Porter, Attorney-General Kelso Roberts, Health Minister Dr. Matthew Dymond, Reform Institutions Minister George Ward. Also in the race, however, even now for Dufferin - Simcoe and former Speaker of the legislature.

HALIFAX (CP) — Tropical storm Gerda touched the Halifax area Sunday but caused no damage before swinging into the Atlantic.

The weather office here said the storm, which had achieved hurricane-force winds of 72 miles an hour at its centre, missed Newfoundland as it picked up speed and moved easterly.

The Cuban freighter Sabina Del Mariel, earlier reported to have grounded in an eastern shore inlet during a storm Friday night, arrived safely in port Saturday.

Her captain, 48-year-old Rafael Quintana of Havana, said his ship had not been grounded but had sought shelter in the inlet when the tropical storm blew up the coast.

EXPORT SALES SHOW RECORD IN 2ND QUARTER

Gain of 7.7 PC Over Year Earlier

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's markets in continental Europe, Asia and Latin America provided the spark for record export sales of $1,377,600,000 in domestic products during the second quarter of the year.

The gain of 7.7 per cent over a year earlier, reported today by the bureau of statistics, more than compensated for a sales lag in the first quarter.

Exports of domestic products for the first half of the year reached a peak of $2,655,000,000 in the first half of 1960.

Combined re-exports in foreign merchandise, total exports in the six months rose to $2,972,700,000 from $2,812,200,000.

Domestic exports to the United States, though gaining in the second quarter, remained below last year's levels. Shipments to the United Kingdom and other Commonwealth countries, which had been in the first quarter, were considerably less in the second.

EXPORTS UP AHEAD

But domestic exports to all other countries during the second quarter were $1,377,600,000 against those year-earlier levels by a $362,000,000. For the first half of the year exports to these markets were up 35.8 per cent, to $1,364,000,000.

There were big sales gains to West Germany, Italy, Japan, Communist China and certain Latin American countries including Cuba.

Communist China, with big grain purchases, ranked as Canada's fourth-largest customer last after the big four of the U.S., Britain, Japan and West Germany.

Among commodities, wheat showed the largest increase with lesser gains for newsprint, wood pulp, nickel and crude petroleum.

Domestic exports to U.S. markets in the second quarter were $736,073,000—close to the year-earlier figure. The six-month total was down 6.7 per cent to $1,382,843,000.

Shipments to the United Kingdom declined 8.3 per cent in the second quarter to $268,900,000, and the six-month total was down 1.8 per cent to $425,363,-

CHINESE TRADE RISES

Exports to Communist China more than doubled in the six months from $6,100,000 a year earlier.

Six-month shipments to West Germany rose 26.9 per cent to $82,100,000 and those to Italy rose 83.7 per cent to $35,-100,000. Exports to Japan and to Belgium and Luxembourg rose by one - quarter to $32,412,000 from $25,900,000.

Exports to Cuba more than doubled for the six months to $13,380,000 from $4,930,000 — much of the gain being in wheat flour and oats.

For the same period, exports to Poland rose 50 per cent to $24,000 from $3,836,000, and to Czechoslovakia to $12,100,000 from $6,800,000. Exports to Finland declined to $5,141,000 from $13,673,000.

667 Escape in Lifeboats From Blazing Italian Liner

ST. GEORGE'S, Grenada, (AP)—The Italian liner Bianca C. sailed blazing furiously today off this British West Indies port after an explosion and fire killed one crewman and sent 667 persons fleeing over the sides.

Lifeboats carried to safety 362 passengers—many of them women in their nightclothes—and 305 crew members. Eight of the crew were injured in the blaze, one seriously.

Officials gave up all hope of salvaging the 20,627-ton liner, which was homeward bound for Genoa, Italy, after picking up passengers, mainly from Venezuela.

An engine room blast rocked the ship and set off the fire Friday night. Rescue ships—most of the passengers were still asleep.

Second Engineer Ridizza Natale was rescued but died later in hospital. A man working with him was killed instantly.

The liner had dropped anchor in St. George's harbor Saturday night about ½ mile offshore to pick up 16 more passengers for Grenada. It was the last port of call on this side of the Atlantic, many.

The Bianca C. was on a regular run from Naples to La Guaira, Venezuela, with calls at ports in The West Indies. Most of the passengers were reported to be returning home to South America.

Another Italian liner, the Sorriento, was ordered to Grenada to pick up the passengers and crew if necessary.

The fire broke out as the liner dropped anchor at the mouth of St. George's harbor. St. George's Constable Joseph Briggs said there was no panic-fighting equipment nearby and the flames roared uncontrolled, beyond range of other ships in the harbor and land installations.

The Bianca's owners, Lines Triestino Genoa, said the passengers were evacuated in orderly fashion on a ship from Port de France, Martinique.

The Bianca's captain, Francesco Crevato, had 20 of his officers slowly circled the liner helplessly watching the flames.

The Bianca C., launched originally in France as La Marseillaise in 1951, was bought there by Italy.

Serious Crime Surged Sharply Upwards in 1960

OTTAWA (CP)—Serious crime surged sharply upwards in Canadian urban centres in 1960.

In communities with a population of more than 25,000, serious crime cases increased by 12.6 per cent over the previous year.

Big increases were recorded in the number of murder, breaking and entering, theft and robbery cases reported to police departments. A large proportion were in the two cities of Montreal and Toronto.

Crime statistics for 1960 were issued today in a report by the bureau of statistics. However, the bureau noted that the information published left much to be desired in the way of completeness and uniformity.

The report listed a total of 118 urban communities in Canada centres with populations of more than 25,000 compared with 91 in 1959. Among these cities, there were 23 murders in Toronto, 18 in Montreal, six in Vancouver and four in Edmonton.

Robberies in 1960 totalled 8

Veterans Ask Armistice Day Declared Statutory Holiday

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) Sara veterans who protested that veterans' employment opportunities evaporate each year for observing Armistice Day as a holiday led the Canadian Command of the Canadian Corps Association Sunday to ask the federal government to declare Nov. 11 a statutory holiday.

A resolution passed by the command's annual meeting here requested that all industries and businesses include Armistice Day as an observance and be required to close Nov. 11.

Lead by command Secretary Mrs. Shirley Wood Hetzecker of Toronto, delegates said there is a growing lack of interest and co-operation in observing Armistice Day. Mrs. Hetzecker said employers have been showing less and less sympathy towards allowing veterans time off for observance in recent years.

Delegates also voted unanimously to ask Ottawa to make payment by all prepaid hospital and medical services plans deductible from personal income tax up to permissible limits.

Demand Space Projects Controls As U.S. Sprinkles Needles in Sky

LONDON (Reuters)—British newspapers today urged making the international consultation on space projects in the wake of the far-flung pamphlet scientists over the U.S. Needles satellite.

The pamphlet accused the United States of "cluttering" space by the launching this day of a satellite to scatter some 350,000,000 copper needles in a belt around the world.

The belt was designed to enable radio signals to be bounced half-way around the world.

The Times of London said the U.S. experiment now seemed less "high-handed" than it first appeared.

It pointed out that in the later stages of preparing for the experiments a committee of the International Astronomical Union was in touch with the U.S. National Academy of Sciences about the project.

The Times said such consultation would have been better when the project first was planned. But the paper commented:

"More important in the long run, the way has been opened for consultation in advance on the form of future experiments; the International Astronomical Union has a standing committee coordinating machinery and said perhaps the Americans had no option but to go ahead on their own."

"But," it added, "this very absence becomes more alarming every day."

Sunday night Professor Gustav Righini, director of an Italian physical laboratory at Arcetri, Italy, called for an investigation of U.S. experiments

HARRY NIXON, LAST LIBERAL PREMIER, DIES

Oldest Member Of Legislature

HAMILTON (CP)—Harry Corwin Nixon, who served the longest term in the legislature and the shortest in the premier's chair in Ontario history, suffered a heart attack while driving Sunday night and died. He was 70.

For close to 42 years, he had sat in the legislature—through one change of riding and three switches in political allegiance —to become its dean. At his death, he was Liberal member for Brant riding.

Mr. Nixon was returning from church to his 30-acre farm at St. George 14 miles northwest of here, when he slumped over the wheel. His wife steered the car to the roadside and a hired girl, on the farm, ran to help. He was pronounced dead at the scene.

After six years as right-hand man to Liberal premiers, Mr. Nixon was himself named premier May 18, 1943, but served just three months before suffering way Aug. 17 for a Conservative government under general elections. The general elections had stripped the Liberals of power. He was the last Liberal to be premier.

DISCLOSES OFFER

Premier Frost revealed only last year that the Conservatives had offered to make Mr. Nixon lieutenant-governor of the province after his party's 1943 defeat, but Mr. Nixon declined in favor of keeping his legislature seat.

His death brings to four the number of vacancies at Queen's Park. Present standings: Conservatives, 68, Liberal 21, CCF 5, Liberal - Labor 1, vacant 4. Total 99.

Mr. Nixon was born April 1, 1891, on the family farm at St. George and took pride in working its land all his life. He graduated with a degree of science in agriculture from Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph.

To his own amazement, he was elected to the legislature for Brant North in 1919 as a

Soviet Tests Will Kill Thousands Says Former Chalk River Expert

TORONTO (CP)—Recent Russian bomb tests will cause the deaths of thousands of Canadians in future generations, a former nuclear research engineer said Sunday.

Dr. Norman J. Alcock, who gave up his job at the Chalk River atomic research plant to devote his time to promoting peace, said the deaths will be caused through an increase in leukemia and stillbirths.

Dr. Alcock told a student discussion group in Toronto a lead-proof safeguard against a nuclear war standing by—not

He said that since 1951 there have been about 100 accidents involving nuclear weapons or nuclear - weapon carriers, but "by some luck, none of them caused an explosion."

"Eventually," he predicted, "there will be an explosion—and war will have started."

He said plans for the establishment of a Canadian peace research institute, which he proposed earlier this year, are marching ahead.

Under this institute, scientists would undertake full-time systematic research into means of preventing war.

Swede Believes Reds Explode Their Big Bomb

Blast Registered Early This Morning

UPPSALA, Sweden (AP) — The Uppsala University observatory recorded today the explosion of the Soviet superbomb, possibly the 30-megaton device detonated last week by Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

The violent explosion registered here was twice as heavy as any previous Soviet nuclear test, an observatory official said. He made no estimate of the power generated by the explosion in megatons.

But Dr. Arthur Basih, of the Uppsala Seismological Institute, said there was reason to believe today's blast was that of the 50-megaton bomb, equivalent to 50,000,000 tons of TNT.

At Newport, R.I., sources close to the Navy's atomic program skeptical that the device set off was the 30-megaton size. An Air Force spokesman in Washington was similarly skeptical.

The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission withheld immediate comment. It was understood the commission was holding a meeting on the subject.

In Stockholm French atomic detection services said an extremely powerful nuclear blast in the Soviet Arctic was recorded today. A spokesman for the French Atomic Energy Commission said it probably was the explosion of the Soviet Union's 50-to-60 megaton H-bomb.

Japanese sources had estimated at 10 megatons the strength of a previous Soviet test explosion, Oct. 23.

—Dr. Basis said:

"The first explosion took place in the same area, and at approximately the same time, as the previous nuclear tests, the power of the bomb must have been considerably stronger than any previous Soviet detonation in the Novaya Zemlya area.

"Another explosion took place in the same area, and at approximately the same time, as the previous nuclear tests, the power of the bomb must have been considerably stronger than any previous Soviet detonation in the Novaya Zemlya area.

AROUND THE WORLD

"This blast must have been registered 'round the globe.

The first reported reaction of the explosion was located in the general direction of Novaya Zemlya. It was situated 1,300 miles northeast of Uppsala in the Arctic Ocean. Earlier Soviet atom atomic experiments.

The explosion was registered on the Uppsala seismological apparatus as twice as heavy as the most violent previous Soviet tests on last Sept. 10 and Oct. 23.

The explosion was registered at 9:35.51 a.m. Swedish time, or 4:35.51 a.m. EDT

22ND BLAST

It was the 22nd Soviet nuclear explosion since the current Russians resumed nuclear testing Sept. 1.

Premier Khrushchev told the 22nd Soviet party congress in October that the current Soviet test series would be concluded at the end of November with the explosion of a 50-megaton bomb.

He said "in exploding a bomb equal to 50,000,000 tons of TNT we are thereby also testing a bomb of the explosive of the bomb equal to 100,000,000 tons of TNT, but would not explode it.

Hammarskjold Zulu Chief W Peace Prizes

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Dag Hammarskjold, secretary-general of the United Nations, was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize today.

The prize for 1961 was awarded to Albert John Lutuli of South Africa, former chief who became a famous leader.

Hammarskjold was killed in a plane crash near Ndola, Northern Rhodesia, Sept. 18, on a peace mission.

The UN official had left Leopoldville to negotiate with President Moise Tshombe's secessionist Katanga in an effort to halt fighting between Katangan and UN forces.

Hammarskjold was the first man to be awarded the post humously. Lutuli became the 31st.

The Nobel Peace Prize committee did not name the specific reason for the late Hammarskjold. He was however, mentioned as an outstanding figure in the struggle for his part in the UN Congo operation.

ACTION TOO LATE

This action came too late, however, for Hammarskjold to be alive, according to the decision by the prize, it has been a tradition.

Denies Stress Plays Part in Heart Attacks

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The popular idea that almost stress or unusual physical exertion are the chief factors in a person's heart attack is held Saturday.

Many doctors question whether heart patients think so much about their condition, said Dr. Herman L. Iverson of Cleveland, Ohio.

But "it is a fact that coronary thrombosis associated with unusual exertion or emotional effort is said. "It takes hours and sometimes days for a clot to develop enough" to cause heart artery.

He was speaking to the Texas Heart Association.

One standard example more people died of heart attacks when asleep or resting than when exerting themselves.

Employment Picture in Area Bit Brighter But Still 1,134 Persons Out of Work

Although the late October employment picture in Belleville area is a bit brighter than at the same time last year, planning to meet the problem of seasonal unemployment difficulties is still vitally important.

Mr. Cecil Hlusser, manager of the local employment office, said that "fairly steady one per cent fewer persons out of work than there were at the same time last year, but plotted statistics showed there were still 1,134 persons jobless — 726 men and 412 women.

"This means that we must do everything possible to create winter jobs," he said.

Mr. Hlusser urged all employers to examine every possible means of creating additional winter time employment.

A few general suggestions put forth by Mr. Hlusser were: 1. carry out all construction, repairs, renovations, decorations and maintenance during the winter months. 2. encourage staff vacations during the winter months. 3. when hiring part time help, give the work to someone unemployed.

For labor, Mr. Hlusser urged co-operation with government agencies, employers and labor groups in the community in order to create more winter employment. 2 — consideration of the impact of wage demands which could disrupt the structure and their effect on the economy as a whole and 3 — discourage fellow workers from "moonlighting," or taking additional employment at other jobs.

The winter work campaign is designed to help create winter time markets and so increase employment by encouraging home and business owners to have jobs done during the winter. Mr. Hlusser said.

Number of Children in Care Of Children's Aid Declines

The number of children in the care of the Children's Aid Society continues to decline, members of the C.A.S. board of directors were told at their October meeting held last week.

Mr. Bruce Kerr, the society superintendent, reported there were 161 children in the care at the end of September. During September there were 3 admissions and 7 discharges provided by the C.A.S. than for the same period in 1960.

At the present time, there are 106 children in foster home care, 11 in free homes on adoption probation and 19 in institutional care. There are 138 families under supervision, involving 404 children. Fifteen new families have been referred to, or came to, the Society for service during the month and eight children were admitted to care. Twelve children left the Society, nine being returned to their natural parents, two legally adopted and one reached the age of 18 and was wardship ceases. To date this year 40 children have been placed in adoption, 28 of the Belleville Society and 12 wards of other Societies. Of the women there are only three children of an age generally considered adoptable, two Protestant and one Roman Catholic.

FINANCIAL REPORT

Dr. S. C. Rose presented the report of a special committee appointed some months ago to study protection and prevention services in the area. With one minor change the report was accepted and now becomes policy policy. It included such items as the investigation of complaints alleging neglect, the admission of children to care, the provision of prevention service and payment for same, miscellaneous services, etc.

After considerable discussion the board by a vote of 9-1, moved by G. W. Whitman and seconded by Gordon Clarke, passed a resolution requesting the Attorney General to take immediate action to provide counsel to the plaintiff in actions arising under the Deserted Wives and Children's Maintenance Act.

Mr. Kerr commented, "if a man goes through a stop street and is brought before the court, crown counsel or the equivalent is provided to prosecute him. I suggest that when a man or a woman deserts his or her marriage partner and family, and that partner seeks assistance through the court, assistance in providing the basic essentials of life, then that person too is entitled to free counsel. Few of the plaintiffs in these actions have any money at all and while the legal aid section of the local Law Society is most generous with the services of its members, it should not be done on that basis.

"Contrary to what would sometimes seem to be the opinions of higher authority, the welfare of women and children should take precedence over the Canada Temperance Act and the Liquor Control Act of Ontario. The Ontario Department of Welfare has recently announced the formation of a squad of investigators to track down operators of "blind pigs." This must be a costly service. Let's encourage the giving of assistance at the local level."

A copy of the resolution was forwarded to the Ontario Association of Children's Aid Societies for study and action.

The principle of the Society building and staffing detention quarters was approved by the board. Gerry J. F. Bennett of Bancroft, chairman of the Juvenile and family court committee was asked to make this known to the foreign aid which has been studying the matter for some months.

The board authorized payment of the first of the existing mortgage on the receiving home. R. W. Hurley, Society treasurer, stated that, with this payment due in the fall, but a few of the approximate $35,000 cost of the project would remain unpaid. Mrs. Jas. H. Forrester, the president, conducted the meeting.

Heavy Damage In Two Crashes Over Weekend

The weekend was fairly quiet in Belleville, although city police reported two motor vehicle accidents in the Saturday afternoon.

Police said a vehicle driven by Michael Angus Smith, 18, of 15 Tunstall Ave., Seneca ville, Quebec, was travelling west on Highland Ave., when he changed into the east bound set on the south side of the street and one parked on the north side. Mr. Smith approached the two parked cars and crossed the line of the east bound car, Smith, to apply his brakes.

He was unable to stop in time and collided with the rear of a parked vehicle owned by William Pringle, 270 Dundas St. west.

Damage to the Smith vehicle was estimated at $170 and $150 to the Pringle vehicle. There were no injuries reported.

DRIVER DAMAGED

The second accident occurred at the intersection of Earl and Gordon Sts. Sunday morning, involving a light truck driven by Richard S. Bedford, 288 North Street West and car driven by Harold Thomas Crossley of R.R. 1, Halloway.

Police said Mr. Bedford was proceeding east on Earl Street and collided with a vehicle driven by Harold Crossley, who was proceeding south on Gordon Street. The impact is said to have taken place in the intersection.

Damage to the Bedford vehicle was estimated at $1,000 and $500 to the Crossley vehicle. There was an estimated $200 damage of the foundation of the house. Police understood a six-foot hole was knocked out of the foundation. No injuries were reported.

Conventional War Possible Altering Defence Needs Preparedness Body Told

TRENTON — Speaking to delegates of the Canadian Industrial Preparedness Association at RCAF Station, Trenton, on Friday, J. S. Vanderploeg of New Toronto, president of the association, told the assembled industrialists from Ontario and Quebec that although most of the previous defence talk in North America had been along the lines of the possibility of an all-out nuclear war, with ground forces playing a secondary role, it now seemed that some sort of a conventional war was a distinct possibility if war is to come.

Mr. Vanderploeg said that with this present thinking, it was obvious that some adjustment, both in types and quantities of defence equipment would be necessary in order. He said that such a readjustment would not necessarily mean that there would be any let-up in the need for those "sophisticated" items and accessories now being provided for the delivery of nuclear warheads to targets abroad. He said that missiles would be as necessary as ever, but that there would be a need for more and new types of missiles. He said that there would also be a need for new types of what could be termed "conventional" armament, such as guns, tanks, small arms, personnel carriers, etc., as well as ammunition and all the supportingmaterial which such equipment requires to be effective.

"It is obvious that any agreements with communist countries are not to be taken at their face value," said the speaker. "They should be regarded as subterfuges to mislead the other participants into a false sense of confidence. It is doubtful if the possibility of war has ever been so close to us since Korea. It remains to be seen whether Russia accepts President Kennedy's recent challenge to participate in a peace race.

"The existing situation has resulted in additions to the fighting forces both in North America and abroad. This fact should, in itself, convince us that trouble in the relatively near future is a distinct possibility, since true democracies do not add to their military strength except in cases of absolute necessity."

Mr. Vanderploeg said that this need for adequate defence had been forced on the free world by the actions and pronouncements of "that positive communist bloc of the east."

He said that every thinking Canadian would agree that this country must maintain as great a share of the responsibility in this preparedness program as possible, in order to ensure the safety of our own country and to fulfill its obligations to NATO and the rest of the free worlds.

MUST PRODUCE MORE

"Whatever measures are taken to meet the increased threat to freedom," said Mr. Vanderploeg, "it is obvious that industry must be prepared for an additional output. The government must plan ahead and industry must produce the goods."

In his address president suggested that industrial heads would do well to weigh the factors involved in expanding defence contracts. He said some Canadian companies were inclined not to make any great effort to meet defence needs, and warned that industry should do its share in providing for national safety. He urged co-operation with countries in the United States in regard to production sharing.

Wants Processed Imports Balanced by Materials Sale

TRENTON — Speaking to a group of more than 60 assessment commissioners and assessors from area, District No. 5 on Friday, George Kempf, vice-president and general manager of Erie Resistor Corporation, said that the general thinking among industrialists was that the Canadian Government should make an all-out effort to balance the import of manufactured goods with the export of this country's raw materials, and a further effort to "push" the export of Canadian manufactured goods.

"However," said Mr. Kempf, "Canadian industry will have to become competitive to compete in the world market. Through a co-operative spirit and good salesmanship we can succeed in attaining Canada one of the leading manufacturing countries in the world."

Outlining the problems which face industry today, Mr. Kempf said that each industry must make enough money annually to pay employees' wages and pensions; pay local taxes and corporation taxes; replace equipment and machinery; keep plants in repair and try to show a profit on the year's operations.

"Some companies show no profit at all at the year's end," said the speaker.

ATTITUDE ON TAXES

Commenting on industry's attitude towards the municipal assessment and taxation department, Mr. Kempf said that industry was more than willing to carry its fair share of taxes.

He suggested that greater co-operation and communication between the assessment department and industry would be a good way of avoiding misunderstandings on both sides. The speaker stressed the point that heads of industry in Trenton expect regular, well-planned relations with town council and the assessment commissioner.

For the district assessors' fall meeting Trenton's assessment commissioner, Allan Smith, was in the chair and the meeting was held in the upper auditorium of the Trenton Country Club.

The visiting assessors were welcomed to Trenton by Mayor James MacDonald.

Other guests were Dick Quance, president of the No. 5 district, Wally Parnell of the Institute of Municipal Assessors, and Morris Jelly, representing the Department of Municipal Affairs.

ASSESSORS SCARCE

Mr. Jelly said that 64th unemployment figures at a high level in Canada, personnel to fill positions as assessors were hard to get and "know how." He said that there was great opportunity in the assessment field for personable young men, but that they must be dedicated and enjoy working with the public.

Mr. Parnell outlined a three-year course for assessors sponsored by the Institute of Municipal Assessors and said that many municipalities included that their assessors take such course.

Attending the meeting from Trenton was Carl Charlton, assistant assessor, and from Brighton, C. R. Matthews, deputy assessment commissioner, Ron Bailey and John Kane, assessors.

Councils Meet To Discuss Road Works

TRENTON — The Murray and Seymour township councils met on Friday night to discuss brushing and improving roads leading in to Wilson's Island in the Trent River near Germany's Landing. Both township councils own land in this area and it is thought that if the roads were improved and the land cleared, summer cottages might be built on the island and on the nearby river bank.

Murray council has engaged the services of a Toronto lawyer, H. R. Manning, to represent the township in annexation matters, pertaining to the announced intention of Trenton town council to annex more than 600 acres of the township.

The Gift of Memory

Offhand, one would say that any similarity between a geisha girl and a waiter in a Canadian beverage room would be strictly non-existent—

Truth, though, is as weird as any fiction outside the true story magazines. A Canadian travel story by Kenneth Ishii on hostesses in Japanese night clubs reminded us of a waiter in a local beverage room.

Ishii described how the Japanese hostess, six months after an earlier visit, would greet a night club guest with "Hello! Long time no see!"

This seems to involve a psychological gift for remembering faces. It is not, however, confined to the Japanese. The writer, on the second or third time he entered a local beverage room, was amazed to have the waiter stroll to his table with a bottle of his favorite beer in hand. Considering the fact that several weeks had elapsed between visits, that nothing whatever had occurred to make his earlier calls memorable and that there are about a score of beer brands, this association of a face with a beer brand seems to us to involve a feat of memory at least matching that of the night club hostess. The waiter, when queried, had an explanation. The writer, he said, used to take his car to a service station at which the waiter then worked. If the reader can see how this makes the association of face and beer brand any simpler, we cannot confess that we do not. Moreover, watching new arrivals, we discovered that the instant production of the customer's particular brand of brew was as much a rule as an exception, and that not merely this particular waiter but the bartender, too, was proficient in this matching of person and bottle.

This type of memory for faces is one of greatest gifts which a person can enjoy. The guest remembered by the Japanese hostess, the drinker whose brew is recalled by the beverage room waiter, the customer who is recognized at some infrequently visited store, the car driver who is greeted by name at a service station—all these people experience a little glow of pleasure. Their vanity has been flattered—they have been remembered as individuals, picked out from the mass of people and given personal attention.

Most of us lack this talent. What can be more embarrassing—and less conducive to comfortable conversation—than to have somebody to whom one has just been introduced at a party remind one that a similiar introduction took place a couple of weeks before? At other times, we are aware that we have met the other person, but cannot remember the circumstances. "I know your face but I cannot recall when we met," we may say bluefferingly, an insulting remark if we knew what we were really telling the person we are addressing is that we thought him or her of such little importance that we never really separated him from the mob in our minds. Even more embarrassing are the occasions when we not only recall the face but the circumstances of meeting, and recall about the person in question—but cannot recall the name. "It is just on the tip of my tongue," we mutter angrily to ourselves. This may happen even with people with whom we work, or play. "I know his name as well as my own," we exclaim unexpectedly.

At times like these, what would we not give for the gift of memory that enables a Japanese night club hostess to recall a man she has met once before, six months past, or a Belleville beverage room waiter to associate a face and a brand of beer, though he has met the two in close juxtaposition only twice before in his life.

The strange thing is that difficulty in remembering faces, or names, does not always mean that the person who suffers under this handicap has a poor memory. In certain fields he may have a very good memory, indeed. He may be able to quote Shakespearean passages learned in school two or three decades ago, turn unerringly to the very page where a newspaper article appeared six months ago, remember the name of the Russian general who recaptured Kiev, tell you the chief ministers in George S. Kenyon's cabinet and recall that his slogan was "plowing a straight furrow." But when it comes to faces, only his own mother can be certain of instant recognition. Yet, while the closest associates of yesteryear may be greeted with a blank look, there may be an instant recall of all the circumstances surrounding association with some hitchhiker, met on a day long past and until his sudden re-appearance completely lost to memory.

There must be some scientific explanation for memories like this—but we are not sure we want to learn about it.

The mind is rarely so disturbed, but that the company of a friend will restore it to some degree of tranquility and sedateness.—Adam Smith.

Paar Appalled Canadians

By RICHARD STARNES in the New York World Telegram

When Jack Paar, whose bedraggled and slightly better fit hid by week's court jester's rattle, seemed to brandish the scepter might of Uncle Thomas Cobleigh in Berlin recently, Americans were properly angry at his witless gaffe.

But Canada was appalled.

Canadian reaction to the disgraceful episode in Berlin is typical of the growing resentment toward the United States that is being felt by her great and powerful neighbor to the south.

It is foolish to suggest that Canadians hitherto dislike Americans or that they widely distrust us, or that they are ungrateful because of their economic dependence on us, or that they are needlessly preoccupied with (one hears the term frequently) "being taken for granted" by the United States.

But it is true that elements of all these attitudes abound in Canada today and the American vice injudicity becomes aware of them.

An individual American is warmly greeted when he crosses the border into Canada. Nothing dictates it more than the contrast to our own are pleasant, friendly and have an astonishing familiarity to old hands. The same attitude is found in the shops and in the homes of Canadians.

But these genuine manifestations of friendship do not speak the fact that Canada is profoundly troubled by many aspects of its relationship with the U.S.

This uneasy undercurrent is the product of numerous causes many of them inevitable.

Canada's economic growth in the past two decades would have been impossible without the $15 billion American investment that has poured into the country.

Canadians make no bones about this, but neither do they disguise their concern at some of the side effects of this tremendous economic penetration. They are quick to point out that being the helpless creature of economic forces that ebb and flow in the U.S. has marked disadvantages. A recession in the U.S. example, comes perilously close to being a depression here.

When our unemployment was just over six per cent a year ago nearly one-fifth of Canada's labor force was jobless.

But more important than any detail of economic dependence is the human reality that Canada is the next door neighbor and jealous of its independence as they just chose it that foreign (overwhelmingly American) interests control half of Canada's manufacturing and a third of all her industry and more than $10 billion of her heavy industry.

Informed Canadians (and the average well read Canadian is infinitely better informed about the U.S. than his American counterpart is about Canada) are keenly aware that he fought partly in their skies. Many of them are bitterly skeptical that any Allied interests in Berlin justify the risk of war.

All this is not to say that Canada's position as a staunch partner in NATO and North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) is in any immediate jeopardy of reversal.

But it is wholly justified to observe that Canada is no longer willing to be taken for granted, and the visitor to this country quickly becomes conscious of the fact that he is interlocuted to take command of her economic destinies, economic and military.

The fastest growing political force in Canada today is the tiny, waspish, brilliant socialist premier of Saskatchewan, Tommy Douglas.

His star never be the nationalist power he is is tirelessly working for Canadian control. His New Democratic Party may not survive its birth pangs, but his growing influence is undeniable.

His program includes withdrawal of Canada from NORAD and NATO, and, on the economic level, the threat that a New Democratic Party government might take over Canadian subsidiaries of American companies.

He Demanded 100 Per Cent

St. Louis Post-Dispatch

A Chicago high school teacher's mathematics who demands 100 per cent scores of his students is himself learning the hard way that 100 is a passing grade at his profession. For eight years he has been a hot potato in the public school system, handed round gingerly from one principal to another because he thinks students who can't score 100 on his tests is in one of four tries. Now he has been suspended and is waiting to stand trial for incompetency.

This is, we suppose, carrying the cowardice of perfection—as well as the fetish of grades—about as far as it can go. That wise old realist Voltaire wrote some little while since that the best is the enemy of the good," and those who are unwilling to settle for less are going to become progressively maladjusted to human nature, in which there are few who can low-80s mixed with a lot of 60s and 70s, but no 100s whatever.

Perfectionism is a fine dream, and the world needs that things as a spur and a lure so long as it doesn't overdo it or kept firmly separated from the real; but when they merge, result is a crackpot utopia. Perhaps the closest a mere mortal may come to 100 is in making a perfect fool of himself, but that is a department in which some Belleville men can easily be borne. Meanwhile, we remain impressed and heartened by the accomplishments of less-than-perfect people scarcely any in the world, and settle in the conviction that the prognosis, while not perfect, is good.

Finds No Job Really Soft

Christian Science Monitor

Nearly everyone has heard of someone unseating a friend of a brother-in-law who makes at least $50,000 a year for sitting in an office and keeping his desk clear or for making calls and for lengthy lunches. He has probably also heard that this indulgent life really do anything but lean on shovels nowadays.

It is refreshing to discover whether jobs are always greener on the other side of the fence. A Winnipeg Tribune reporter named Peter Like went to work at a few of the occupations in about three weeks' time. After completing more than a dozen (more than Hercules attempted) he reported tersely: "This assignment (it charged many wrong impressions I had about various jobs."

None of his colleagues, from shoe salesman to bellboy, was the swallower that rumor might have it.

Thoreau spoke of man leading "lives of quiet desperation." We hope news of Mr. Like's experiment will encourage that may be just a sign that they need to pay more attention to magnifying their own.

STRENGTH for the DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

CONSIDER THE STARS

How would you feel if you walked down the street and met a Martian? Or if someone from the planets Venus or Saturn?

The question may appear silly at first but we are sure we shall never have such an encounter. No person from any other planet would be able to live on another planet if for no other reason than the tremendous difference in atmospheric pressure. No one knows whether the planets are inhabited or not. The number of heavenly bodies is practically beyond comprehension. More and more people are coming to feel and among them certain scientists — that some of these heavenly bodies, perhaps some of the planets in our own solar system, may be inhabited. But if they are we can be sure that these beings are quite different from ourselves.

We or some other nation will undoubtedly put a man on the moon within the next few years. There may be inter-communication between the earth and it but we know all there is to know about it before. Spiritually such knowledge would undoubtedly lead us to a more worthy conception of the creative power of God. If it became established that there are beings even remotely resembling ourselves on other planets, the established and spiritual results should be all to the good.

We should not fear invasion. Why invade this insignificant little planet when there is so much, and probably better, real estate farther out?

Strictly Personal Philosophers' Predictions Are Realistic

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

In 1933, the great Christian mystic and philosopher, Nicholas Berdyaev, wrote a little book entitled "The Fate of Man in the Modern World." It has just been re-issued, more than a quarter of a century later, in a paperbound edition.

It is fascinating and frightening to read it now, for many of his predictions have come uncannily true. He wrote in the darkness of Nazism, the Second World War, the course of Russian events, the awakening of China, India and Africa and the threat of aggressive nationalism everywhere.

This quiet thinker, secluded in his study, has proved a world contemporary call his every bower, has turned out to be the most accurate prophet of our time. For in his every lower he has foreseen the dangers of "totalitarian personalism" he has been able to look down and see the real and unreal forces of mankind's insanity and Western civilization with devastating impartiality.

Berdyaev sees the life of the free spirit—the creative personality—crushed by the despotic collectivism of the totalitarian state and distorted by the short-sighted individualism of the free capitalistic economy. Nor is he an apologist for inertia; his profound religious faith in ethics has surrendered to Communism and nationalism.

What is the central think of Berdyaev's ultimate solutions to these problems (which, again, does not permit me to set forth in detail), it should be chastening for us to realize that it is always the prophet in our midst who offers the most hope for us — although it is usually too late when we are ready to pay reverential attention.

It is only in the ivory tower of the prophet that we can obtain that we can rise above the petty, lowdy battle of contending forces, and so can look at the long view and assay the consequences of our choices and beliefs to our children and grandchildren. Down below, we are too much involved in the day and ultimate purposes are neglected for immediate ends, and that turn out to be fatal illusions.

What our age requires most of all is a stepping-back from the scene of combat and a withdrawal from involvement, to study events, so that we can gain some real sense of our goals. Otherwise, we are the agents and victims of world influences that destroy our collaborators.

Nearly 30 years ago, Berdyaev foresaw the fix we are in today; even then he called for a leap "from the era of exclusively of national states" and "movement" toward a world-citizenship of peoples" as the only means of saving us from the global holocaust that now threatens us.

One fears that the world will again crash on these words, for only after a considerable portion of humanity has been wiped out." Let us pray that he was wrong.

Change of Life in Males Is a Misleading Statement

By Joseph C. Molner, M.D.

This is the first of a series of seven articles.

"Dear Dr. Molner — I'm 51 and have been plagued with emotional disturbances, anxiety, fears, tightness of the back and leg muscles, etc., for two years. My doctor tells me I am going through the 'male change of life.' I take a tranquilizer every day morning. These leave me fairly calm during the day. Can you tell me more about this? — H.N.

Dear Sir — Would you like some information about anxiety and nervousness? I have taken different kinds of medication but they do not seem to help me. — P.H."

The "male change of life" is a rather misleading phrase, but it is still used to "explain" certain nervous troubles.

Women have the "change of life" or menopause, have a distinct and relatively abrupt decline in function of the ovaries — a decline in secretion of certain hormones.

Men do not experience this abrupt cessation of hormone production. As a rule, the sex potentiality is known to continue well into old age. There are among women fertility ends at the latest in the early 50's, and usually in the late 40's.

Men do, indeed, many times experience a gradual decline of nervousness, anxiety, tension, lack of confidence, etc., but the afflicts many men and women.

These symptoms are similar, the age is approximately comparable — but in men the cause is usually not found in a glandular or hormone deficiency. The male climacteric's no real harm in calling it "the change of life," the term is misleading, because it is apt to make a man expect that he recognizes some fairly well-defined course of treatment.

No, the nerves that sometimes get a man in his middle years or early 30's are as entirely different as night and day. They are not related as are a woman's to change in the child-bearing cycle (the end of it, that is.)

I hope today's discussion has been sufficient to indicate that the male does not experience a "change of life" that, with physical changes, as well as emotional manifestations, comes to all women.

That is to say, the women experiences a distinct change in the endocrine system, which provides hormones. A man does not. Yes, things can happen to him but they are not the same.

So tomorrow let's talk about what does, or what may happen to a man.

"Dear Dr. Molner — The cats of my two-year-old son are badly cupped. Could plastic surgery correct this? How much would it cost? Would he have to be hospitalized, and how long? Could you recommend a plastic surgeon in this city? — Mrs. R. L. S."

It is probable that plastic surgery could correct his ears — I haven't seen the child, it may be too early to try to decide whether it is advisable. Hospitalization would probably be brief, and as to cost, the best, most satisfactory way to find the right surgeon is to ask your personal physician to advise you.

"Dear Dr. Molner — I have a 1 yr. old baby girl, but several days ago a friend told me a doctor advised her that she should not have had it because it would stop up glands. Is there any truth in this? — E. L. S."

No, no truth to it.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In the old movies that are shown on TV, it is the custom for cops to pursue their law-breaking quarry at the highest knots of haugh. Not from the young.

"Did you actually," they demand of their elders, "have a car that could do that?"

Maybe a 1926 McLaughlin-Buick.

We certainly did. And a very stylish equipage it was.

It had wire wheels. The sleekest, slickest of the 1927 models now being unveiled will look positively like a fairy wagon from now, as now do the old high-kitchie Laurel and Hardy drove about in.

It is hard for us to accept the monstrous cars of today as cars. They are great jokes. It makes fools of most of us. And the greater your self-esteem the more sure stylish our pretensions, the silliest time will make us appear to others.

Let us always laugh softly.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

WE IN OTHERS

The life we live in ourselves is not always even or unperturbed.

And many times when it appears peaceful and all serene, the life is in turmoil and we might be in its most utter confusion.

In ourselves we are not what we appear to be externally at all times.

But when we run to others and knock at their doors and they let us in, we give at the door the hearty and cheerful and are accepted for what we are by our friends and in their love we live in helpfulness and contentment.

And that is the true life at its best and happiest.

We rarely carry us through hells and heavens and seems quite indifferent to both pain and happiness, but when we are being constantly born from others to our real selves. And when we are most unhappy in ourselves we are often spreading a feast of love and beauty before our keepers — those others in whose hearts we certainly live.

Samuel Butler once said that the life is in the birth throes." And when you come to think of it, how unfortunate for us to live out a single birth!

Not only must we be reborn day circumstance, but we must in ourselves agreeable to ourselves but we must do our part by the state of the soul in constributing good parts of ourselves for the betterment of others.

A shriveled life, I think, is the one which won't let itself be lived.

You can pile up a little money, and if you do it is a place strong enough, it won't run away, but just the minute you up yourself you begin to disappear.

That we are most and greatest we are in others!

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

SILVER MERCHANTS? . . . Not quite. Although they certainly had lots of silverware to show off last Saturday night, Ernst Kneisel (left) and Ian Morch (right) are not in the business. It was the occasion of the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club's annual meeting at which the two had just received the trophies. Mr. Morch received the Commodore's Trophy as overall club champion and the Wills Trophy, while Mr Kneisel received the O.C. Bell Trophy as runner-up.

New Yacht Club Commodore Proposes Additions to Club; Women's Group Is Urged

The improvement of and addition to present club facilities and the organization of a ladies' auxiliary will be two of the things which Ernie Colebourne, the new commodore of the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club, will be favoring during the 1961-62 year. Commodore Colebourne stated this during his brief acceptance speech following his unanimous election as senior executive of the local yacht club at its annual meeting, held in the clubhouse, Saturday evening. Some seventy persons were present for the annual committee reports, election of officers and presentation of the club's trophies.

Tops in the past sailing season and winner of the Commodore's Trophy was Ian Morch, who also won the Wills Trophy. Winner of the O.L. Bell Trophy, for the fourth year in a row, was Ernest Kneisel, for placing second overall in the club's racing season. Freeman Burrower won the Michael Trophy as well as his own trophy, presented for competition in the Day Sailer class. The latter he presented in runner-up Steve Forrester. The Grand Trunk Trophy was won by Kirk Reid.

Amongst the reports given by the past year's executive members was one on the junior sailing program by past-secretary, now vice commodore, Fred Yealland, who described the past summer's program as being "tremendous" both from the training point of view and in the fact that the program came out in the black for the first time in four years.

The vice commodore noted that the instruction had been well-received by the students and that interest had been generated to the point that several of the students had acquired their own boats and that the parents of some had joined the yacht club. He noted that the present equipment was wearing out and suggested, that a program of replacing it should be undertaken immediately. The future prospects of junior sailing are quite excellent Mr. Yealland concluded adding that in a few years there would probably be a waiting list of those wishing to take the course.

REPORTS SUBMITTED

Ernst Kneisel, retiring fleet captain, reported that 10 hard-fought races had been held during the summer and that an amount of equipment for marking the courses and timing the events had been acquired by the club. He expressed the concern that if the club was to remain a sailing and boating club more people directly interested in these activities to join the club and for the junior sailing program to be emphasized.

He noted that the Lake Yacht Racing Association's regatta being held here this summer was a distinct honor for the club as an active sailing group.

Other reports were given by Ernie Colebourne (membership and club bulletin), Orland Pinkston, Tom Wrenshaw (treasurer's report), W. C. Tatham (house committee - read by Fred Yealland), Jack Howe (entertainment report), Jack Tatham (past commodore's report) and Jim Jenkins (L.Y.R.A. regatta report).

Before turning over his command, Past Commodore Milt Davison reported that he felt the past year's activities had done much for the club. The L.Y.R.A. regatta had given the club an excellent name and had done much to promote good will around Lake Ontario for both the club and the community, he suggested.

He noted that the groundwork had been laid for a four-stage program of improving the club's facilities and that the initial work for the first stage was already underway. He thanked the retiring club officers for their full co-operation over the past year.

The officers for the 1961 - 1962 fiscal year are: Commodore - Ernest Colebourne; Vice-Commodore - Fred Yealland; Rear Commodore - Orland Pinkston; Fleet Captain - W. C. Tatham. Elected as directors were Jack Howe, Lennox Smith, Addison Lloyd, Bob McCulloch and Joseph Rayroft.

The meeting, which was preceded by a turkey dinner, concluded with a dance.

Artists Sketch Autumn Colors At Baptiste Lake

The autumn colors at Baptiste Lake in the Madawaska Valley, where artist David Miller spent many years of his life and near one of the A. Y. Jackson's favorite painting spots, attracted a large group of amateur artists last weekend. The occasion was the Fall get-together of the East Central Ontario Art Association, and was attended by approximately 30 painters from the district, ten of whom were from Belleville.

The white birches with their golden yellow leaves silhouetted against grey waters, and deep forests of dark firspice with their bronze and red leaves, made dramatically beautiful subjects for the group to paint.

In the recreation hall at Birchcliff Lodge an exhibition of Canadian paintings from the London Art Gallery was hung. On Saturday evening the day's work was also displayed, and each picture commented on by Mr. Jim Kraemer, art teacher from Oshawa, Ontario. To add a little fun to the evening, a large canvas was set up and each person was allowed to paint his sketch. The picture grew into a most unusual, if not beautiful, abstract.

After another day of painting on Sunday, the group broke up, with promises to meet again either at the annual meeting in Fort Hope next month, or in Belleville on February 2nd when the annual exhibition of paintings will be held at the Belleville Public Library.

Police Busy Probing Crashes On Area Roads

Ontario Provincial Police reported six motor vehicle accidents over the weekend. Few injuries were reported as the result of these mishaps.

A car driven by Herbert Chambers of Plainfield, and Thomas Canapa of Roslin, collided on Highway 37 Saturday night. Stanley Thompson, 18, of Lindon Park Road, was involved in a motor vehicle accident on the 8th of Thurlow and was treated for back injuries at the Belleville General Hospital as the result of the accident. Joseph Langer was involved in a car accident Saturday evening between Corbyville and Canniffon.

Donald Carr-Brainé, 31, of Shannonville, was admitted to the Belleville General Hospital suffering from a fractured right forearm as the result of an accident in which he was involved on the Shannonville bridge Saturday night.

Two accidents were reported on Sunday. Charles Miracle and Peggy Young were involved in a motor vehicle accident on the Indian Reservation at Shannonville.

James Sory of Brighton and John C. Glover were involved in a car accident in Sidney township.

Damage was not extensive.

Teacher Pulls Whale's Teeth In Spare Time

VANCOUVER (CP) — Pulling whales' teeth is probably rank as one of the most unusual extracurricular activities for a teacher.

But Sherry MacEachern is an unusual teacher. Her class-rooms have ranged all the way from the Canadian Arctic to France.

A native of Saskatoon who got her BA at the University of Saskatchewan, Miss MacEachern spent the summer working for another degree at the University of British Columbia.

She recalled that during a two-year stint in France she divided her time between classrooms in Metz, teaching the children of RCAF personnel, and exploring Europe.

This was followed by two years of teaching at Pincher Creek, Alta., then two more years at Aklavik in the North-west Territories.

"I liked it so much, I went back for another two years."

Her tour commission in the north were spent pulling and counting whales' teeth.

When school closed she would go to a fishing station two miles from Tuktoyaktuk on the Arctic coast. There, as Eskimo women boarded and cut up white whales, she would extract one tooth from each, memasins valued by the government as an accurate tally of the season's catch.

"I'd stand on the lower jaw, pry the mouth open—and pull."

From the tooth, experts can tell the age of the whale and, from the age, can judge the size.

"I did my housekeeping in a tent, learned how to bake bannock and reindeer stew—but not very well," she says.

After completing her time here, she was still interested in travel.

"I'm off to see Canada and maybe the Amazon," she said.

BPW Concludes 2nd Talent Night With Successful Sale

Wednesday evening marked the second event of Business Women's Week, when the Belleville Business and Professional Women's Club sponsored their second "Talent Night" under the convenorship of Mrs. Charlotte Strachan, which was held at the Belleville Club rooms.

The guests were greeted at the door by club president, Irene Haig, and ushered to find an array of desirable "white elephants" on the first table, which found many eager purchasers. This table was in charge of Hazel Smith and Charlotte Lockyer.

The talent table, which was under the direction of Miss Florence Fitzgerald, assisted by Enid Richards, Shirley Woodcox and Mildred Hall, boasted many hours spent by club members in preparation of the many items.

WINSOME DOLL

It was highlighted by a winsome doll, complete with wardrobe, and many attractive pieces of embroidery, pillow slips, bed socks, pot- aprons, and other items too numerous to mention, that had been donated by club members. It appears that they are not only talented in the field of handiness, but in many other ways as well.

The ever-popular home cooking table, with its delicious array of cakes, cookies, home-made breads, cream puffs, pies, tarts of all flavors, was in charge of Miss Hilda Collier, assisted by Rena Sternbach Marie Buckley and Madi Huffman.

Candies, preserves and other items, were sold at still another table by Mary Newman, Win Quincey and Colombe Both.

TEA SERVED

Tea was served to the guests by Helen Asselstine and Dorothy Brown, and helping in the kitchen were Vera Donaldson, Betty Anderson and Arlene Ashbury.

Treasurer for the evening was Miss Ruth McMullen, assisted by Joy Nichols, with the money at the door.

During the evening, tickets on a lovely white sweater, donated by Charlotte Strachan, were sold by Simone Monaldon, and it was won by Charlotte Lockyer.

The club wishes to thank the many people who patronized this event, and helped make it successful. It was also an encouraging day of local interest in Business Women's Week, which will conclude with a church service and luncheon for members on Sunday.

Belleville, Pr. Edward Club to Show Antiques

The October meeting of the Prince Edward-Belleville Ladies' Club was held at the YMCA parlors on Wednesday with 21 members and five visitors present.

The members of the club were sorry to hear that the corresponding secretary, Mrs. Pierson, was ill in hospital.

The secretary was instructed to send get-well cards to Mrs. Pierson and Mrs. Trumpour of Hilton.

Each group was asked to bring articles for a historical display, conducted by Mrs. Weese and Mrs. Parliament.

The display consisted of several old plates, a cup made without a handle and plate to match, a lady's earrings and necklace and brooch set; a sugar shaker; antique pitcher; pictures of the old "Whaling Tree" in a very old hand-made frame; a picture of all the rulers of England up to George VI. A picture of the Garbutt home, said to be the oldest frame house in Thurlow township. All the bricks, lumber and hand-cut nails were made right on the farm to build the house. A hand-woven bedsheet, glass salt cellars, an old lamp that was used following the Civil War.

The guest speaker, Mr. Rannom, a member of the Hastings County Historical Society, spoke on the operation of the Hastings County Museum, opened earlier this year, and urged everyone to visit it before the season closes in December.

Mrs. Weese thankey everyone who had contributed to the afternoon's program.

St. Andrew's Marks 78th Anniversary

IVANHOE — St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, West Huntingdon, observed its 78th anniversary on Sunday, October 15th with guest minister the Rev. D. C. Kendall, B.A. of Picton delivering the message taking his text from John 4: 14, "The woman saith unto Him, Sir, Thou hast nothing to draw with and the well is deep; from whence then hast Thou that living water?" The morning message was based on the story of the woman at Samaria who met Jesus at Jacob's well. Her unbelief is an example of the doubt which so often causes the work of the church to remain undone. Pioneers had every reason to doubt the effectiveness of their small contribution to the growth of the church. Yet by their faithfulness, the church of today has been made possible.

EVENING MESSAGE

The evening message was based on "An Inheritance incorruptible" and the question was asked, "What will be the inheritance which future generations will receive from the church of today."

A profusion of fall flowers graced the church.

Special music was rendered under the direction of choir leader Mrs. John McIlroy. Mrs. Lindsay Sills was pianist and the morning anthem was "How Thank We God" with solo part, "He Smiled on Me" by Mrs. A. Hassall. In the evening the anthem was "Consider the Lilies of God. The Rev. R. A. Sinclair of Madoc, clerk of Kingston Presbytery, pronounced the Benediction.

Sweet Adelines Entertained by Barbershoppers

The days of romance are not gone forever, at least to a group which met at St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill last Wednesday evening. To 30 persons, the age of serenading and good singing has is very much a reality.

The Sweet Adelines of Belleville, together with their husbands and sweethearts, were the guests of the Belleville Barbershoppers and their wives and girl friends.

Community-type sing-songs of the old favorites were led by Mr. Alf Evans and Mr. Roy Keys and established the setting for the program, planned and directed by Mr. Phil Squire. Although the men's chorus and the Keynote Quartet sang well, the girls were determined not to be outdone and the Sweet Adelines, under the direction of Miss Muriel Jobson, serenaded the men exceptionally well with their favorite songs: "Wait Till the Sun Shines, Nellie," "What a Wonderful Wedding There Will Be," and "Just a Song at Twilight."

The girls also entertained with a quartet comprised of: Miss Barbara Seeley, Mrs. Barbara Vallieu, Mrs. Beverly Hanna and Mrs. Georgina Digby. The latter's mother was in attendance celebrating her 85th birthday. By a strange coincidence the mother's name is Adelline and so the female foursome dedicated one of the numbers to her, "Sweet Adeline".

The evening's entertainment was complete with the presentation of a barber-shop quartet from Kingston called "The Maple Leaf Four". After singing for the C.N.I.E. in Kingston, the quartet journeyed all the way to Belleville to sing a few numbers. This in itself exemplifies the zeal and enthusiasm of Barbershoppers.

The Belleville Barbershoppers are now campaigning for new members from this area. Notice will be made in this newspaper of a special Membership Night program which is planned for November 1. All males in the Quinte area are cordially invited. Remember, "It's never too busy to sing, you're too busy!"

Quintebelles Mark 3rd Birthday

Last Tuesday evening the Quintebelles Chapter of Sweet Adelines held a "Dessert Party" before their regular chorus rehearsal celebrating their third birthday.

Chapter president, Mrs. Phyllis Chambers, honored Mrs. Edith Anderson, immediate past president, by presenting her with a miniature gold "pavel" to attach to her Sweet Adelines pin. Mrs. Anderson and Miss Muriel Jobson, who was the first president, were also presented with corsages.

A few comical skits and games were enjoyed by all, which were directed by program chairman, Mrs. Joan Kaye.

The beautiful red and white birthday cake was decorated by members, Miss Doreen Reynolds, and featured Barber Shop motifs.

The following evening, the chapter enjoyed a well-planned "Ladies Night" as guests of the Belleville Chapter of Sweet Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America."

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Arnold Y. — I'm a new man. I need a new wife.

Elise Y. — This is the thanks I get for sobering him up.

* * *

Arnold Y. — It's hard to have to say this, but I've outgrown my wife. We married as kids. We were both 18 and she roped me in.

That was nine years ago. The first few years I drank heavily, got into scrapes and couldn't hold a job. But thanks to A. A., and the sympathy and friendship of other alcoholics, I sobered up.

For the past three years I've held a fine position with a real estate firm. I've made many wonderful friends with whom I attend lectures, concerts and photography classes. But my wife hasn't kept up. She's all but illiterate and can't talk to people. I want a divorce.

Elise Y. — See what happens to a faithful wife who stood by a man during the years he was nothing but a bum! Now he is ashamed of me. I embarrass him in front of his fancy friends.

Well, I'm not giving in that easy. I'll admit we got off to a bad start. I had left school at 16 and after paling around with Arnie while I was living at home I scarcely remember how I let myself be talked into getting married. I was very unhappy for a while. And I was dragged into A.A. when the drinking got bad. I attended the meetings and helped him keep in touch. I fed him good meals, got his jobs back for him and tried my best to set him on the straight path. I also clerked in a store three days a week.

The Council — Marriage — Hollywood and Reno notwithstanding — isn't an overcoat to put on and off according to the weather. That's our word, too Arnold.

Elise played an important role in bringing to Arnold the cocky confidence he enjoys today and it would be more becoming for him to turn toward her now, rather than away, to help her find herself, too. Our emphatic words to him are — Slow down, Patience, boy!

This marriage hasn't even got ten off the ground yet. Give it a fair chance, without the handicap of unripe, dizzy adolescence of thirteen months ago.

Beneath her b e d r a g g l e d, neglected exterior there may well beat the heart of a real charmer!

How about evening school courses for Elise so that she may obtain a high school diploma? Or what about that popular course at the "Y" in health and charm, to get her figure toned up and her wardrobe, make-up and posture checked?

Arnold can help restore her courage when facing Arnold's fancy friends.

Just as fellow sufferers in A. A. rescued Arnold through patience and sympathy, he can make Elise his candidate for rehabilitation. It's a big job, but her now would be the gravest mistake of his life. Guilt feelings would assail his every thought of this girl who was his wife "in need," and a wife indeed!

Of course, Elise must realize that she can't hold her husband by ties of gratitude for his favors. She must now compete with the zippy girls he meets in business and at parties. But that shouldn't be hard once Arnold assures her that he's betting on her.

A tip to Elise: Study darkroom developing while he learns photography.

Chicken Bordeleaise Casserole

By Mary Moore

In the October issue of "Food Outlook" from the Economics Division of Canada Department of Agriculture here is the report on "Broilers: Supplies of broiler meat reaching market are large and will continue to be so for the next six weeks. During September prices were steady to a little lower, depending upon the area. Prices are expected to remain fairly steady in the coming weeks. Prices in September for fresh broilers and fryers, grade A, varied from 37 to 38 cents per pound in the central provinces; from 33 to 36 cents in the prairie provinces; and were about 31 cents in the maritime provinces. (All prices cited are wholesale to retail.)"

The old status symbol of "Chicken Every Sunday" is obsolete. Every knowing food shopper includes a chicken in her order every week because it keeps her budget in good order.

Nowadays I receive as many requests for different ways of cooking chicken as I used to for ways of cooking hamburg.

When I was in Paris, Miss Minister last month Margaret Osterhage gave me her dependable recipe for Chicken a la Bordeleise. She likes to make it for small parties and serve it from a chafing dish. When she makes it for the family alone she serves it on tea biscuits.

I wanted to adapt it to casserole cookery and advance preparation for guest meals and what follows is the result.

CHICKEN BORDELAISE CASSEROLE (serves 8)

This may be prepared in advance.

1 3-lb. frying chicken, 1 cup hot water, ½ lb. mushrooms sliced, 2 tablespoons margarine, 2 tablespoons flour, ½ cup table cream, ¼ cup chicken stock, ¾ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, shake of accent, generous shake of garlic salt, ½ cup crushed cornflakes (1 cup before rolling), ¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese.

Add the hot water to the chicken and simmer covered until meat will slip from bones. (1¼ hours at simmering or 35 minutes at 10 lbs. pressure in pressure cooker). Turn all out onto large platter or tray to cool enough to handle and slip meat from bones and skin. Keep pieces of chicken as large as possible. (If you have invited two guests keep the two breasts as whole as possible and put them at the top of the casserole — see below.) Scrub and slice the mushrooms each in four and sauté in margarine until limp but not all brown.

Sprinkle flour over and blend in. Add broth, cream, stock and stir until thick. Add salt, Worcestershire sauce, accent and garlic salt. Turn this into an average-sized shallow casserole. I used one measuring 8¼ x 8¼ x 2". Spread chicken pieces over putting the two whole breasts at the top so the server can lift them out easily for the first two plates served. Combine the cornflake crumbs and cheese and sprinkle over top. Note: If this is to be prepared in advance cool it to room temperature, cover and keep in refrigerator until baking time. Bake uncovered at 350 deg. Fahr. 30 to 40 minutes or until top is golden and edges are bubbly.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL

Question — A couple of weeks ago you wrote a column about behavior in restaurants in which you said it was not proper to make a sort of public audit of the check when the waiter brings it at the end of the meal.

While I agree with you generally, I believe that occasionally there are exceptions to the rule.

I'm referring to the custom of people in the same office going to lunch together. This is strictly a "Dutch Treat" situation, and, under the circumstances, I think it should be correct for someone to take out a pencil and paper and figure out each person's share of the check.

Isn't that easier than trying to remember the prices of the various dishes afterwards? To my mind, it's also fairer than delegating one of the group to pay the entire check and then have to collect from the others later. — S. C., New Rochelle, N. Y.

Answer — True, it is an impossition to have one of a group handle the purse strings for a large luncheon, especially since he does have to collect later, and there's always the chance he may be short-changed, or feel he has been, in some instances.

However, it's always a wo begone spectacle in a restaurant to watch a group of men or women passing money from one to another and then seeing to have the right amount of change to take care of tip and tax.

In a situation like this, it saves a lot of fuss if the waiter is asked in advance to write the luncheon orders on separate checks. Then there's no problem of deciding how much each person owes. It's exact down to the penny.

In many restaurants, waiters often suggest doing just this when a group looks "office-y", and they're willing to take the slight extra trouble that separate checks involve so they won't have to waste time during busy luncheon period while the audit you mention is being made.

U.S. Golfers Win Defeat Canada, Mexico

MONTERREY, Mexico (CP) U.S. amateur golfers overwhelmed Canada and Mexico in team and singles competition Sunday to easily win the sixth Americas Cup golf competition.

In individual matches Sunday afternoon, U.S. golfers beat three Canadians, tied two others and lost only to Canadian amateur champion Gary Cowan of Kitchener. Against Mexico the Americans won all six singles matches.

The victories paralleled those during the morning, when U.S. defeated Canada in two out of three team matches and won two and tied one with Mexico.

The final tally in the two-day competition gave the U.S. 28 points compared with 14 for Canada and 11 for Mexico.

Cowan, 26, a member of Canada's Americas Cup team in 1959-60, defeated Dudley Wysong of Monterey, Texas, in the afternoon for Canada's only victory against the U.S. Sunday in the singles matches. Cowan won 2 up.

Veteran Nick Weslock of Toronto and John Johnston of Vancouver, Canada's Amateur champ in 1959, tied their singles matches. Weslock met Jack Nicklaus, the U.S. national amateur champion, while John-ston went to a draw with Charles Smith of Gastonia, N.C.

BEATS CANADIAN

Bill Tyrrdman of Philadelphia defeated Keith Alexander of Calgary, last year's Canadian amateur champ, 1 up; Bob Gardner of Spring Lake, N.J., defeated Bob Wylie of Calgary 2 and 1, and Deane Beman of Bethesda, Md., beat Bert Tice-borne of Vancouver 2 and 1.

In the Canada-Mexico singles matches Sunday, Welock beat Enrique Farias 5 and 3; Cowan defeated Mauricio Urdneta 3 and 1; Alexander defeated Thomas Lehman 1½ up, and Johnston defeated Roberto Halpere 2 and 1.

Juan Estrada of Mexico beat Wylie 1 up and Theberge played to a tie with Hector Alvarez. Estrada was Mexico's only victor in the singles against both Canada and the U.S.

Of the three Canadian teams playing in the morning matches, the Calgary pair of Alexander and Wylie gave the best showing by defeating the U.S. and Mexican teams they met.

Gen. Gees Wins Panda In Squeaker

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The University of Ottawa Gee-Gees, with 13-12 squeaker over Carleton University, have taken possession for another year of Pedro the panda.

Pedro is symbolic of victory in the annual football conflict between the two Ottawa universities, each a member of the Ontario Intercollegiate Football Conference. In the conference's other Saturday game, McMaster University's Marauders defeated Waterloo University Warriors 29-7.

At Ottawa, halfback Derek Callan and Mike Blain each scored a touchdown for the Gee-Gees, Pete Barnabe kicked a single to round out the Ottawa scoring. Ken McKaig and Rev Clark produced the two Carleton touchdowns.

At Hamilton, quarterback John MacLennan was the scoring leader with two touchdowns and two singles. George Chris, with two, and Marve Robertson added the other touchdowns.

The lighter Waterloo club threatened on several occasions, but only in the first quarter manager to beat the tough Mc-Master defence when Dick Aldridge scored a touchdown. Bob Beneditti kicked a single in the same quarter.

Robinson Takes Moyer By Decision

NEW YORK (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson, 41 - year - old veteran, outpointed baby-faced Denny Moyer of Portland, Ore., Saturday night in a fast 10-round bout in Madison Square Garden.

Robinson, who turned professional 21 years ago when Moyer was just a year old, won the verdict of all three officials.

Referee Barney Feke had the 159¾ - pound Robinson ahead 8-to rounds to three and two even. Judge Bill Recht saw it 5-4-1 and Judge Johnny Bran 6-3-1.

Moyer, who weighed 157 pounds, showed an era for the five - time world middleweight champion and was willing to fight right from the start.

There were no knockdowns and both fighters came out of the scrap without a scratch but Moyer staggered Robinson with a right to the head in the fourth.

Robinson, winning his second bout in his quest to regain the middleweight title for the sixth time, started fast and connected with some solid rights in the first and second rounds.

Moyer scored the more sensational blows, sharp rights to the head, while Robinson was swinging wildly and the crowd kept urging him on.

"My timing was off," Sugar Ray admitted later but said he was "in very good condition."

"I thought I won," said Moyer. "He hit me below the belt a lot, but the referee never said a word to him."

U.S. Horse Wins Title

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—The United States' Billy Steinkraus and his big grey mount, Ksar d'Esprit, closed out a spectacular performance at the 19th Pennsylvania National Horse Show Saturday with a pair of faultless rounds to win the Real international jumping event.

It was Steinkraus' sixth individual triumph.

For the 14 - year - old Ksar, they were the eighth and ninth perfect rounds turned in under the team captain. The pudding relaxed only one fence in 10 rounds.

Steinkraus' final victory came in a jump - off with teammates Kathy Kusner, Jim Elder of Aurora and Ireland's captain, W. A. Ringrose. Both Elder, on O'Malley, and Ringrose, on Loch an Easpaig, refused two jumps for eight faults and tied for third.

The final team standings were: U.S. 16, Argentina 12, Mexico 40, Canada 32, and Ireland 34.

270 Horses Now Owned By Egypt

CAIRO (AP) — The Egyptian government today found itself possibly the world's biggest tour owner of thoroughbred race horses.

As a result of measures seizing the property of 187 wealthy Egyptians, the government took control of at least nine of the biggest, with some 270 horses. The government is expected to end up with more horses.

Among them was this year's top money - winner, Gaebar Mansour, a four - year - old who romped home in the Alexandria Grand Prix. The seized stables included that of Ahmed Abboud, Egypt's biggest horse fancier with 70 thoroughbreds.

There is no official estimate of the value of the horses under government control. It was not known how the government will dispose of the animals.

Canadiens Tie For Top Rung In NHL

Win Two Over Weekend

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Claude Provost finally appears to have learned the knack of cutting in towards the net once he hits the opposition's blue line.

The 28 - year - old Montreal Canadiens right winger until this year always seemed to skate directly to the corner—from which it is difficult to get a good shot at the net.

Needless to say, Canadiens have been reaping dividends.

Provost scored three big goals and set up two more in four weekend games as the Canadiens remained unbeaten in five starts and roared to the top of the National Hockey League standings.

Against Boston Bruins Saturday, Provost scored twice — including the winner — in a 6-2 victory at Montreal. Sunday at Chicago, Provost set up two goals for Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, then broke a 3-3 tie with an early third period goal that gave Canadiens a 5-3 triumph over the Black Hawks.

GIVES 9 OF 10

For Canadiens, rated no better than second when the season got under way, the win gave them nine out of a possible 10.

Actually they've tied in points with New York Rangers, who gained only a tie in two weekend outings against Detroit Red Wings, but rate first because of a superior won - lost record.

Rangers had to rally for a 4-4 tie Saturday at Detroit, losing goalie Lorne (Gump) Worsley via an injury in the process.

Sunday, with Marcel Paille in the nets, the Rangers grabbed an early 3-0 lead but couldn't hold it and lost 5-4.

Boston was swamped 9-1 by Toronto Maple Leafs Sunday, hiking their number of goals against in eight games to 47.

The Leafs rallied to tie Chicago 1-1 Saturday on Bob Nevin's goal at the 16 - second mark of the third period in the weekend's other game.

BEAT CHADWICK

Canadiens were nursing a slim 3-1 lead Saturday when Provost poked the puck away from Boston's Murray Oliver and beat goalie Ed Chadwick in the Bruins nets at 11:40 of the third period. The Habs then rammed in three more goals in the next 14 minutes to win going away.

Ralph Backstrom also scored twice for Canadiens Saturday—his fifth and sixth goals of the season. Marshall and Street of Richard added singles for Montreal while Andre Pronovost and Terry Gray, both traded to Boston by Canadiens within the last year, tallied for the Bruins.

At Chicago, Provost set up Geoffrion, a 50 - goal man last season, in each of the first and second periods. The he climaxed with a three - man rush early in the third for the winning goal. Stan Mikita scored Hawks' two goals.

Chicago defenceman Pierre Pilote, one of the big men in Hawks' Stanley Cup victory last spring, was hurt in this game when he hit Marshall of the Canadiens with a body check at centre ice. He was rushed to hospital. X-rays may reveal a broken left arm.

Gaels Undefeated

Roll Over Mustangs, McGill Wins

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Queen's University's powerful Golden Gaels smashed University of Western Ontario Mustangs 36-13 Saturday to continue their domination of the Senior Intercollegiate Football scores. Hot ominous rumblings were heard from the home of the deposed champions in Montreal.

The passing arm of quarterback Tom Skypeck, which led McGill to the title last year, showed signs of coming back into form as the Redmen shut out University of Toronto Blues 30-0.

It was McGill's, first win in three starts and left the Redmen in a three - way tie for second place with Toronto and Western.

The Gaels, who now have beaten each league member in their three games, needed a late scoring outburst to overcome the fumbling (10 times) Mustangs. Queen's went ahead 14-0 but had it cut to 14-13 in the third quarter.

The turning point came when Western quarterback Ken Ryerdale was thrown for a 15 - yard loss and had to punt. A few plays later Queen's pivot Cal Connor hit rookie fullback Larry Burridge with a goalline pass and from there on Western wasn't in the game.

GETS TWO TOUCHDOWNS

Bill Edwards scored two touchdowns, Bill Sirman and Harold Wash one apiece and Gary Strickler, a defensive standout, added two converts and a field goal.

Western scoring was on a plunge by Gary Cremmer, a 35-yard sprint by John Nash and a convert by Nash.

Fazzing made the difference in the statistics. Connor was 12-for-21 for 189 yards and got some fine running from Bob Milligan, who accounted for 151 of the Redmen's 280 yards along the ground. The Blues had a total offence of only 116 yards —all but 11 on the ground—as Keith Acheson and Jim Inwood completed only two of eight

Kenmors Honored

Port Hope Is Scene Of League Banquet

The Belleville Kenmors walked off with most of the top honors at Port Hope Saturday night as the Lakeshore Intermediate Baseball League officially wound up a very successful season with a presentation banquet.

Over 100 persons from Orono, Newcastle, Peterborough, Port Hope and Bellevile attended the banquet, termed by ORA President Jack Carson as "one of the best I have attended in a long time".

Jim Crumble, league president, was Master of Ceremonies while Jim Millman, of London, was a special guest and entertainer, Mr Millman brought the house down by living up to his reputation as one of the best speakers on the banquet circuit. Millman was equally popular while cutting loose with his jokes and stories or while entertaining with the piano. He has been a top worker in baseball circles for many years.

ORA president Jack Carson made the presentation of one of the Labatt trophies to the league champion Belleville Kenmors.

President Crombie presented Dow trophies to Gary Geyer, of the Kenmors, and a Port Hope player. The pair tied for the league batting title.

Millman made the presentation of another Labatt Trophy to Belleville's Larry Sloan, named the league's top pitcher.

Head table guests, besides Crombie, Carson and Millman were Bill Walker, president of the Port Hope Optimists, Eric Mercer, manager of the Orono Orphans, Arnold Wade, a member of the ORA executive from Newtonville, Larry Huffman, coach of the Port Hope Orioles, Ken Soden, manager of the Belleville Kenmors, and Bob "Gunner" Whitehill, representing Peterborough Pannings.

It was announced that money left after all expenses had been paid would be used to help promote minor baseball in centres along the Lakeshore.

League President Crombie thanked all those who had assisted the league in any way during the past summer. Hopes were expressed for an even bigger and better season next summer.

Blair Angry At Robazzo For Spearing

KINGSTON (CP) — Manager Wren Blair of the Eastern Professional Hockey League Kingston Frontenacs Sunday demanded punishment for Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds defenceman Reno Robazzo.

Blair was angered by Robazzo's spearing performance in Saturday's game when Kingston defeated Sault Ste. Marie 8-3.

Robazzo picked up two spearing penalties, one for five minutes.

Blair suggested Robazzo should be dealt with by league President Ed Houziss.

Blair was also irked because Thunderbirds' coach Jack Stewart used his team to the dressing room in the final minute of play, leaving only six players on the ice.

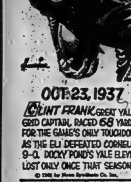
"Robazzo could hurt some player seriously," said Blair. "He's been a bold-out, he's out of shape and has to resort to unfair tactics to keep up with the play. Players are human beings, not a team purpose only tries to injure another man he should be punished."

Bid to Halt Slump in Boxing

LONDON (AP) — Britain's boxing administrators have called in the big men of the sport in a bid to halt a slump in professional boxing and to bring the fans back to the ring-side.

The British Boxing Board of Control has set up a committee to find out why there are fewer professional fighters than there used to be and why fewer people are paying to see the fights.

Three years ago there were about 700 licensed professional boxers in Britain. Now there are 400. In 1952 there were twice as many professional boxing shows as there are now.



The fans still roll in for the big promotions at London's Wembley indoor stadium, especially when U.S. stars are on the bill. But in cities like Manchester, Birmingham and Glasgow, formerly great boxing centres, top-class fight programs are few and far between.

Teddy Waltham, secretary of the BBBC, says the big slump started in 1953, when the government increased the entertainment tax to 33 per cent from 20. After two years the tax was cut again, but the promoters who had quit didn't come back.

HIGHWAY REVENUE

Canada's 10 provinces in 1960 collected about $375,000,000 in gasoline taxes and $150,000,000 in motor vehicle registration fees.

Defeat Riders 21-7, Als Are Out

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Eastern Football Conference playoff race tightened up during the weekend but nothing near setled enough that Montreal Alouettes are out.

Sunday's 15-2 defeat at the hands of league - leading Hamilton Tiger - Cats left the Als six points behind Toronto Argonauts, 21-7 victors over Ottawa Rough Riders Saturday, with only two games remaining.

The Ticats' win gave them a four - point margin over the second - place Riders and guaranteed them a share of first place — but not a bye into the final. Ottawa, only a single point ahead of Toronto, can still catch the Ticats with two victories combined with a pair of Hamilton defeats and in that event would get the nod by virtue of having defeated the Ti-cat - Cats in all of their three meetings.

The Argonauts, left for dead after a 37-10 trouncing by Hamilton the previous week, marched into the capital Saturday with a revamped lineup and a couple of their brightest stars on the sick list. They came up with their best effort of the attack of the season and never gave the 18,380 Ottawa fans much hope.

SERVE DOUBLE DUTY

Art Gabriel and Jim Rountree went into the backfield in addition to their regular terms at defensive half. Johnny Bright flanked while Dave Mann moved to the inside halfback spot to replace the injured Dick Shatto. Bobby Taylor took over at fullback while Cookie Gilchrist was used only defensively as roving end and linebacker.

Toronto quarterback Tobin Rote clicked on 12 of 18 passes for 179 yards compared with nine of 21 and 134 yards by Russ Jackson and Ron Lancaster.

Johnson took a 13-yard pass from Rote for one touchdown and set up another by recovering Dave Thelen's fumble on the Ottawa eight. Rote, who elected to roll out on several plays rather than drop into the pocket as is his custom, smashed over from the one for the score and Kuntz got another touchdown on a short dive over centre.

Two converts by Wes Gideon and a single by Mann rounded out Toronto's scoring. Ottawa's only tally came from Gilles Archambault on the ninth when he rambled 72 yards after Jim Reynolds blocked a Mann punt. Garry Schreider converted.

FUMBLES HURT ALS

Hamilton's first Sunday game was largely a dull, ice-to-ice defensive battle for the 22,178 spectators. The Tiger - Cats couldn't break it open until the final quarter with the help of two Montreal fumbles.

The Alouettes were ahead 2-1 at the half on a 20-yard field goal by Bobby Jack Oliver and single by Bill Bewley and Don Expenship after Hamilton's Don Sutherin had opened the game with a 35-yard field goal.

Another single by Sutherin off a field goal by Val Jones narrowed the gap to 5-4 when Ron Hayes recovered a George Dixon fumble on the Ticats' 40. The Ticats marched to the two from where Sutherin set up McDougall's clinching touchdown.

Bombers Meet Stampeders

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Winnipeg Blue Bombers can sew up the Western Football Conference title here tonight by defeating third - place Calgary Stampeders. The loss would send Stamps into Edmonton to battle with the second - place Eskimos in the league semi-final, with Winnipeg sitting back and waiting to take on the winner.

Calgary wrapped up the third and final playoff spot Saturday in Regina, defeating Saskatchewan Roughriders 32-17 to end the Riders' chances of catching them. A Winnipeg win tonight would give the Bombers 36 points, five more than the Eskimos who have just two games left.

Winnipeg coach Bud Grant said last week his quarterback tonight may be Kenny Ploen, Hal Ledyard and Leo Lewis.

He may not have been joking — Saskatoon citizens, who popular in United States professional football, requires three quarterbacks, or two quarterbacks and a halfback that plays like one.

NOT READY YET

Grant said later that he's not quite ready to experiment—unless the Bombers are far ahead or far behind.

But Grant is interested in the shotgun offence, and the Bombers may try it in their final two games if they can win tonight.

Blizzard-type prairie weather, prevented the Stamps from leaving Regina Sunday after-noon, so they headed for the nearest YMCA for a workout. The Stamps were to leave Regina this morning if the bad weather detained them overnight.

Lloyd Lantz Aces Hole At Club

Lloyd Lantz, a ten-handicapper at the Bay of Quinte Country Club, came up with every golfer's dream Saturday when he shot a hole-in-one on the 235-yard 18th hole.

Lantz ordered golfer who has been playing the game for some 15 years, Lantz admitted this morning that the feat was "quite a thrill."

"I was playing with Don Barrett, Terry McCabe and Al McCallum," he said, "and we all watched the ball roll into the hole. I used a three wood and my shot hit about 15 feet in front of the green, rolled on and disappeared."

Lantz said that it was his first ace. He came around in 83 on Saturday, "about par for me." Barrett, McCabe and McCallum hit came in with 87's and 88's.

Club Pro George Balazs, who was just getting ready to tee off on the first and heard the shouts when Lantz aced the adjoining 18th, confirmed that this was the first hole-in-one registered on the course this year.

He said that the last ace on the 18th that he could remember happened about five years ago. "Some chap from Trenton did it in a field day but it was more or less a fluke, not a straight shot like this one."

He recalled that the Trenton golfer had sliced almost on-

San Diego Chargers All Alone on Top of Section

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

San Diego Chargers undoubtedly favor a change in coaches after some sad days, but finally a team that could do them no harm.

Not that San Diego needs any help in the American Football League, race since it has won all its games. But when Houston Oilers beat Dallas Texans 38-7 Sunday through the inspiration of new coach Wally Lemm, it virtually wrapped up the western division championship for the Chargers. Lemm took over last week when Lou Rymkus fired Lou Rymkus.

With seven games to play in the regular schedule, San Diego is 5½ games ahead of second place Houston's 4. The Chargers clouted Oakland Raiders 41-10 for their seventh straight triumph.

All was turmoil in the east division, too, as Boston Patriots beat Buffalo Bills 33-21. That brought about a tie for 2nd place between New York and Boston. Buffalo is only a half-game back and Houston the same, although fourth in percentage.

FACTS OFF

The first thing Lemm did was to move Goose Blands off the bench, where Rymkus had sat him, and let the veteran pass for three touchdowns and kick a 33-yard field goal. It was just the kind of game the league record of 34 yards set by George Fleming of Oakland against Houston last year.

Versatile Gino Cappelletti scored 16 points in spearing Boston's triumph and it increased his league scoring lead. He has the lead over Dave Kocourek of Houston by 2 points. Kocourek has 58 points after all 13 members of his team, and 34 in all in the group, were tallied in a plane crash near Brussels last February.

Red Wings Beat Junior Habs 4-2

MONTREAL (CP) — Third-period goals by Norman Dupuis and Pit Martin — his second of the game — gave Hamilton Red Wings a 4-2 victory over Montreal Junior Canadiens in the opening game for Ontario Hockey Association Junior A league.

The Canadiens, making their debut in the fast six - team Ontario loop, outshot Hamilton 35-30 but were turned back-time and again by Buddy Hoen's fine goaltending.

Lowell MacDonald scored Hamilton's fourth goal and also assisted on the two by Martin.

Rejean Richer set up Germain Gagnon for Montreal's first goal and then scored the other one himself.

Jacques Laperriere, Montreal team captain, suffered a knee injury near the end of the first period and was taken to hospital for x-rays.

Fourth Win for Kingston

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The current Eastern Professional Hockey League season is shaping up to a study in contrasts with Kingston Frontenacs boasting an four wins in as many starts and Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds starved on a diet of six straight losses.

Weekend action saw the Kingston-bashing Frontenacs whip the winless Thunderbirds 8-3 in Kingston on Saturday to stay one point ahead of Kitchener-Waterloo Beavers who split a home - and - home series with North Bay Trappers.

The Thunderbirds travelled to Holt Sunday where the Holt-Ottawa Canadians defeated them 5-3 to move into third place with six points, one more than Sudbury Wolves who were idle over the two days.

Kitchener-Waterloo had Sunday on home ice Saturday when they toppled North Bay 6-3 but the Trappers turned the tables with a 5-4 win the next day.

With eight points, Kingston now has two games in hand over Beavers whose total counts three wins, two losses and a tie.

McCARTHY A STANDOUT

Frontenacs were paced to victory over the Thunderbirds by a brilliant four-goal effort by Tom McCarthy. It was the best single performance since by any player for 15 games so far this season. Three of the four markers came on power play.

Other Kingston marksmen were Guy Trosier with two and Bobby Leiter and Harry Sinden with one each.

Miller Marcovitz scored two unassisted goals for Thunderbirds with the other going to defenseman Guy Brassard.

Thunderbirds downed all both the Kingston and Holt Canadians games resulted from penalties. They collected 14 against Frontenacs and 13 against Canadiens. Shortage of manpower cost them three goals in each game.

Right-winger Wayne Connelly sparked Canadiens with two goals while Stan Maxwell, Jean Gauthier and Willie O'Dee provided one each.

Eddie Kachur, Merv Kaytaz and Earl Schmaltz counted for Sault Ste. Marie.

In Saturday's game at Kitchener, Len Ronson counted twice for the Beavers. Singles went to Adam Cosentillo and Sahadrin Ed Hoskins and Sandy McCreadie.

Gerry Merk scored all three North Bay goals.

Portland Leads Pack In West

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Portland Buckaroos beat Spokane Comets 3-2 in a penalty-marathon Western Hockey League game Sunday night, while Seattle Totems downed Vancouver Canucks 3-1 in a run-of-the-mill engagement.

Ross Brooks defended a shot from the right of the net to give Portland the victory in home ice. The goal, early in the third period with Spokane short a man because of a penalty, broke a 2-2 deadlock.

The other goals came from Aslo Goodwin and Tommy McVie for Portland and Bev Bell and Ralph Backstrom.

In Seattle, Don Chiupka's two goals sent the home team ahead. Vancouver took the lead after a scoreless first period on a shot by Ron Hakkinen. Seattle tied it on a rebound by Don Bamburak. Both Chiupka's goals came in the second period. Seattle made it 4-1 when Bill Speer deflected a long shot by goalender Gordy Schuhr.

Vancouver's second goal came in the third period on a shot by Ron Hakkinen. Hooks Jimmy Baird added the final Seattle goal.

WIN AT LAST

Calgary Stampeders registered their first win in three starts by beating San Francisco Seals 5-3 in Calgary Saturday night. Spokane edged Seattle 4-3 in Portland and Los Angeles Blades defeated the Comets 3-2 in Spokane.

The weekend action left Edmonton and Seattle tied with six points at the top of the northern division, followed by Calgary and Vancouver. Portland leads the southern division with eight points. Spokane follows with five, then Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Tim Moroney, Bill Davidson, Bill Saunders and Art Jones were the Portland scorers Saturday, Totem goals came from Jim Baird, Ed Ehrsworth and Gerry Leonard.

Los Angeles sharp shooters were veterans Doug Macaulay, Gerry Goyer and Ralph Keller. Steve Wilson and Max Maklak scored for Spokane.

Centre Cliff Bristow scored a second - period goal that put Calgary in front. Other Calgary scorers were Doug Barkely, Gord Rigatoni, Wayne North and Mel Pickey. Buddy Boone and Yves Locas replied for the Seals.

Progress of Horseless Buggy Sketched by Project 20

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—It was inevitable that some time or other NBC's Project 20 would take up America's great and lasting love affair with the automobile.

It did Sunday night, and as usual gave its subject careful and affectionate attention. It was a two-hour archives film, much of it never seen before, and dating back to the turn of the century.

It followed the progress of the horseless carriage gradually and amusingly through the "tin Lizzie" era, but there called it quits. The musical score accompanying the hour program was a delight and, except for an occasional try for a joke that wasn't there, so was the narration of Orrando Marx.

The program, however, wound up with a much too long chase scene stitched together from ancient movies, notably including the Keystone Cops. This really didn't prove as much about autos as it did about trick photography.

Ed Sullivan got to TV first night with a demonstration of the new dance—if that's what you call it—called The Twist. His show's version of the New York fad, apparently, seemed mostly to consist of a song with unintelligible words rendered by a young man named Chubby Checkers as he was pivoting his hips from time to time. The Twist appears to be a sideways version of rock 'n' roll, and not much of an improvement on it.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RICHTER
GENERAL TENDENCIES—

After yesterday's Full Moon we find that a waning of the powerful influences starts to take place and it is essential that you get every single detail of your psychic and personal as well as your practical affairs so you will then to be in the future, or a long-time estrangement could occur. Show respect for feelings of all others now.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) It is important you concentrate upon monetary matters and whatever has to do with property or business so that all practical affairs are ameliorated. This kind of thinking will increase abundance materially. Work.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Fine day for getting things in the order you wish them to be in days to come. Read your paper for suggestions that suit your present needs. Also, if you think right, you find that your appearance and health improve.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Investigating into whatever is puzzling right now, will give you the solution to present problems. Then you can go about happily enjoying whatever cultural or entertaining pursuits most appeal to you. Be gay, happy.

Children (June 22 to July 21) It behooves you to give an ear to the fine suggestions of friends who are experts, since planetary forces are with them right now and you benefit immensely. Then, tonight, get out and be more sociable than you have been in the past.

Leo (July 22 to August 21) Dislike that wonderful charm and personality that is yours now to draw higher-ups toward you who have the power to help you get ahead much faster. Dine out in style during the evening — smile more for best results, too.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) Show understanding and appreciation for any good ideas which partners proffer today, and also listen to the suggestions of new friends. Pick out what is good in these and put them in operation. Use own best judgment.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) It is vital to your welfare that you get a good idea of present financial status by going over your books carefully, P.M. Concentrate on how you can please a loved one more.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) Be very diplomatic with associates and even competition now. Politely listen to their views and ideas without letting them color your own principles. Be sure to have dinner out and come to a far better understanding, P.M.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Much can be accomplished now if you keep busily occupied in own affairs exclusively. Also, endeavor to co-operate more with co-workers so that work can go on in a harmonious and pleasant fashion, and be more efficient.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If you are not extravagant, you are able to have a wonderful time at whatever pals like best to do. However, if you go off with strangers, act in a thoughtless fashion, much trouble can be the aftermath. Think.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Every opportunity is yours now to do nice things for kin that will be highly appreciated, that are really your duty. Be sure you buy little gifts in P.M. and also do something about the house that makes it more comfortable, pretty.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) Nearly everyone you contact today and almost everything you read brings some kind of information your way that is very desirable or valuable. However, you must be in a studious mood. Ride some favorite hobby in the evening.

If your child is born today there will be astuteness and diplomacy in this nature, and the ability to advance in life will come from an innate sense of knowing what is practical and doing it. Be certain to give fine spiritual training early, however, or your progeny could get in with the worried and wrong people and use these fine talents destructively. The banker and investigator are very strong here, whether male or female.

candidate for the militant United Farmers of Ontario and was brought into the United Farmer-Labor political coalition of E.C. Drury a month later as provincial secretary. He was 32. He also became cabinet minister over in this province. When the government was defeated four years later, he held his seat and won again in 1930 while running as a Progressive after a deliberate redistribution had left his riding simply as Brant. Nine times more he was endorsed by his constituents, usually with substantial majorities.

He was a Liberal-Progressive in 1934 when Mitchell Hepburn's Liberals took office, and again he became provincial secretary, adding the jobs of registrar and minister of game and fisheries at the same time.

A Liberal convention in Kitchener in 1935 nominated him as party leader and Mr. Conant resigned the next month in his favor.

Mr. Nixon resigned the next year as Liberal leader to clear the way for Mr. Hepburn's return, remaining through the era of Adelard Godbout and Maurice Duplessis in Quebec City.

Besides his wife, the former Alice Jackson whom he married in 1914, he leaves to include a son Robert and daughters Mrs. Margaret Farrell and Mrs. Kathryne Forbes, all of the St. George area. Another son, Jackson, died in the RCAF bomber crash in 1941.

Funeral arrangements were not immediately announced.

Breaking and entering offences increased to 50,112 from 45,260.

The report showed a fluctuation in sex crimes. Offences of indecent assault on females increased to 1,561 from 1,405, but rape offences declined to 250 from 321.

Indecent assaults on males, police officers increased to 1,632 from 1,734, offences of forgery and fraud rose to 14,837 from 13,019; and assaults causing bodily harm increased to 4,779 from 4,642.

PC CONVENTION

Peck Pitman Dunsford by-passed the Royal York Hotel because of a strike there — and spread his news conferences out in as many as four other hotels. Here they will celebrate delegates and delegates' campaign literature in a last effort to catch votes.

Tonight, the party he led for 11 years will pay tribute to Mr. Front. A dinner in their honor will be administrative record of the Front government will be shown, after which the premier will address the convention.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker will speak Tuesday afternoon. The same night, cash dividends will be showed 15 minutes to address the convention. A Wednesday period has been set aside for speeches for demonstrations.

Balloting will be held Wednesday afternoon, followed by a former leader's acceptance speech.

Throughout the convention, delegates will debate resolutions submitted through a policy committee which will tell us a general guide for the new leader.

FORMER DRAMA

Delegates are speaking of a dramatic, anything could happen because of the way the candidates sealed their campaign — a close race, or a crushing support from the same block of delegates; one candidate's campaign, or his opponents' campaign literature, and another threatening to make the other candidate ministers work harder if he were elected leader.

Early sources say Mr. Allen, Mr. Roberts and Mr. Macaulay are shaping up as the favorite candidates. Although Mr. Allan is 68, the same age as the retiring leader, he is well known and generally respected by Conservatives for his administrative ability.

Mr. Roberts and Mr. Macaulay, both 46, are said to be the choice of delegates seeking a younger man.

But party officials are keeping an eye on Mr. Roberts and Mr. Macaulay as the favorite candidates. Although Mr. Allan is 68, the same age as the retiring leader, he is well known and generally respected by Conservatives for his administrative ability.

Successful Living

By Doris Clark

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Boy Friend Shy?

DEAR DORIS:—You suggest that a parent make his daughter's boy friend welcome in the home. What do we do when he refuses to come?

He is 19 and she is 18. He won't come near to us than a doorway. He seems tough and his own home is broken up (he lives with his father). Now they have been going steady for a year and I'm getting anxious.—PERPLEXED PAPA.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR PERPLEXED —Insist. Invite him for a special occasion.

Either you get a chance to know him or daughter stays home. A year of going steady could mean a serious attachment. He may be afraid he can't measure up—and your girl probably has her doubts too. But a tentative attitude on your part now is just no good.

It may surprise you to find daughter relieved when you lay down the law.

DEAR DORIS:—I returned from a good job in the east last year to take care of my sick father. Now he is dead and my mother is here also.

I was a receptionist in a doctor's office for a while; then he died of a heart attack. This is a town of only 500 and with crop conditions the way they were this year there is not much likelihood of anyone buying the practice or of any new position opening up for a stenographer.

I don't think my mother would consider leaving here entirely, but I was wondering if there would be a possibility of going to a city for the winter, perhaps where the weather is milder and not so hard on her. How can I find out about such things as climate, job possibilities and accommodation?

Mother is in good health and could live for many years yet. I hope she does but I want to do something too. I am 45 and sometimes feel that life is just passing me by.—DUTIFUL DAUGHTER.

DEAR DUTIFUL:—Your duty is to both of you. You need to work, and if this means a shift in location, the sooner the better.

How about writing to the city, or cities, you are wondering about, addressing your letter to the Chamber of Commerce? Ask your questions. If the response is encouraging, perhaps you could take a short holiday to see how things are before making a final decision.

Your mother may come to like what she now dreads, because of a fear of the unfamiliar. Certainly it will please her to see you both better settled. With so interesting job, you could bring the world to her doorstep.

TO MRS. R.:—It takes a miracle worker to stretch $250 a month to feed eight children and two adults, let alone save anything. Not long ago I published my reply to a similar enquiry, and will send you a copy of this. To maintain a car for the sole purpose of transporting your husband to a job 150 miles away twice a month sounds unnecessarily extravagant.. Is there just no other way of getting him there?

* * *

(Have you talked it over with Doris? Even the toughest problem can succumb to skilled help. Write a letter care of this paper and tell all.)

Albania, Smallest of Red Countries, Special Friend Of Communist China Regime

Odd Bodulich is the first North American who any ruling reporter is visit Albania in years. Here is his report on a recent three-week tour of the country.

By CARL BUCHALLA

TIRANA, Albania (AP)—The Chinese are here.

A traveller in Albania need not be an expert on Communist affairs to know that this smallest of Communist countries is a special friend of Communist China.

You see Chinese in the Dajti Hotel, built by Italians in the 1930s and still the finest in the capital of Tirana. You see them on the streets of Tirana, Durres or Vlone, strolling with friends, calm or talking busily among themselves. They sit in hotel lobbies intently studying Albanian grammar books.

Chinese economic and military experts were sent here to help Albania with her new five-year plan. They are replacing experts pulled out by the Soviet Union and her European satellites. East Germans were reported to have received orders from home to get out by Aug. 31.

This changing of the guard is the result of a bitter ideological conflict within the Soviet bloc.

COOL TO NIKITA

Enver Hoxha, Communist boss of tiny Albania and her 1,460,000 people, was never enthusiastic about Soviet Premier Khrushchev or his downgrading of Stalin.

I saw no pictures of Khrushchev.

At the Communist summit meeting in Moscow last winter, Hoxha allegedly accused Khrushchev of revisionism, the worst of all Communist offences. An enraged Khrushchev is said to have replied:

"Comrade, you have covered me with dung. You will wash it away."

But Hoxha made no apology and came home to Albania a week before other party leaders left the conference.

As relations between Moscow and Tirana cooled, those between Peking and Tirana warmed.

Hoxha is largely dependent on outside aid to keep his country going and his regime in power. China, despite serious economic problems of her own, has come through with an announced credit of $125,000,000 equal to all the credits given Albania by Soviet bloc countries during the previous five-year plan.

BOYCOTT REBORTS

The current economic boycott of Albania by her sister Communist states is most immediately apparent in the resorts on the Adriatic coast. Since mid-June, not one tourist from the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia, East Germany or any other Communist satellite has come to spend a vacation on the sunny beaches stretched along the sparkling blue sea.

Perhaps I have the tourist season to thank for getting my rare Albanian visa. The Albanians, counting about for people to fill their hotels and bring in tourist revenue, put out feelers to a West German tourist agency.

Two July takers for the first trip were four journalists and an older woman who wanted to visit a childhood friend in Tirana.

Throughout our three - week trip we were kept under close watch by Albanian guides. It was nearly impossible to talk to anyone without a state official interfering. Except for brief and rare instances, we could never talk alone with Albanian civilians.

SOLDIERS ON GUARD

The capital at Tirana and border villages opposite Yugoslavia in the north and Greece in the south sit bristle with soldiers and policemen in uniform.

We got a strong taste of the security precautions on a trip to southern Albania along the Ionian Sea.

Our guide had to produce our passes repeatedly at innumerable control points along the road to the Greek border below Vlora.

Even at one long wait for guards to study our papers, one of our party produced a pack of American chewing gum to help pass the time. We tossed the wrappers away and were surprised a few minutes later to see the guide carefully picking them up from the ground.

It was not a sense of neatness. He sheepishly explained that if some over-eager guest should enter chance upon the chewing gum paper,he would immediately think "American spies" were in the area and would sound an alarm causing all kinds of trouble.

Mountain View

MOUNTAIN VIEW — Miss Lillian Anderson entertained several ladies recently to dinner at Tops Motel and afterward they attended the theatre. Those entertained were Mrs. Stanley Barber, Mrs. Clark Young, Mrs. Ben Anderson, Mrs. Norris Gibson, Mrs. William Burkitt and Mrs. Alfred Poole.

Anniversary services were held at Mt. View United Church on Sunday, with the Rev Pooler as guest speaker.

BOMB FALLOUT BLOWS BACK ON REDS

Retiring Leader Urges PCs Work For Progress

Frost Says Candidates Are 'All My Boys'

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Frost delivered his farewell speech as Ontario leader of the Progressive Conservative party Monday night—a call for progress through order and a warning against change for the sake of change.

The 63-year-old premier, who has held office throughout Ontario's most prosperous and abundant years, gave his "best wishes" to the seven candidates seeking the leadership and called them "all my boys."

He is expected to remain as premier and member for Victoria for the time being, stepping down as premier before the next session of the legislature, tentatively set for late November.

Speaking at Varsity Arena, where the party's leadership convention is being held, he told all the candidates: "You are friends and always will be.

"During my years of leadership I have encouraged anyone who seems to aspire for the leadership. I have asked them to state that objective, I have encouraged them to enter public life."

'EXPERIENCE' LEADER

He told delegates to rally around their new leader when he is chosen "and order him our prayers, our allegiance and our utmost help in the great task which is his."

Delegates will vote Wednesday, at the close of the three-day convention choosing the new leader from among Provincial Treasurer Leslie Frost, Attorney-General Kelso Roberts, Health Minister Matthew Dymond, Energy Resources Minister Robert Macaulay, Reform Institutions Minister George Ward, Labor Minister John Yaremko and Rev. Wallace Downey, former Speaker of the legislature.

Mr. Frost said the Conservatives have to search constantly for improvements but should not make changes merely for the sake of change.

"We want to make sure that the ways we plan are indeed the best ways and that we are not merely tampering and tinkering with tried and successful methods and policies."

He told the 1,780 delegates the new leader must be ready "to give new effect to our dynamic economic creed of the past—more people, better jobs, more opportunity and from these things more activity; more money as a means to better the way of life of our people and to provide opportunities for others not only for ourselves but for countless millions who look to their eyes to Canada and Ontario as the place of freedom and opportunity."

Mr. Frost's speech wound up the second day of a convention that was slow starting. Delegates attending opening ceremonies Sunday were delayed in reaching their seats and even ambiguous phrasing of Marshal Rodion Malinovsky left in doubt his exact meaning.

But there could be little doubt about the significance of the two other Soviet experiments.

The big bomb is intended as an ultimate weapon.

But underwater nuclear weapons and anti - missile missiles—if indeed the latter have been developed by the Soviets —were designed to spoil strategic strikes.

The Soviet claim to having solved the problem of destroying rockets in flight raised the question of the kind of "rockets" Malinovsky was talking about. If there were comparatively short-range tactical rockets, flying at slow speed compared with intercontinental ballistic missiles, the announcement might not be startling. The U.S. army has been testing anti - missile rockets against other rockets for some time.

But if Malinovsky was claiming that Russia had found a way of destroying or neutralizing an ICBM warhead, this was another matter.

Claims Russia Able to Destroy Enemy Rockets

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Russian underwater nuclear test indicating the Soviet Union is making a major effort to counter the mounting force of U.S. Polaris submarines.

The report by the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission that a relatively low-powered nuclear explosion was set off under the ice south of the Arctic island of Novaya Zemlya was overshadowed by the rest of the AEC announcement—that Russia also had detonated the atomic sphere a nuclear device of high yield.

At about the same time, Russia's defence minister issued a statement that "the problem of destroying rockets in flight has been solved successfully." The

CHIGNECTO CANAL PLAN BEING DROPPED

Maritimes' Dream Is Shattered

OTTAWA (CP) — A centuries - old Maritimes dream was shattered — at least temporarily — when Works Minister Walker announced Monday that the federal government is not prepared to undertake construction of the Chignecto Canal.

He called the project to link the Bay de Fundy and Northumberland Strait "very unsound economics" and said the annual cost of the canal would be at least 20 times the estimated saving in shipping costs.

It was hard news for resi-dents of Canada's eastern provinces who cherish the thought of having the waterway cut 300 miles off the 1,403 - mile sea journey around Cape Breton and Nova Scotia to Saint John, N.B.

Premier Robichaud of New Brunswick said the people of the Maritimes "have been looked down the river on the project."

Liberal Opposition Michael Wardell, honorary secretary of the Chignecto Canal Committee, said he doubted Robichaud's intention to put aside the plan that had been evolved since June, 1960, when the Progressive Conservative government headed by Hugh John Flemming was defeated by Mr. Robichaud's Liberal administration.

CONDEMN STUDY

Both the premier and Mr. Wardell expressed dissatisfaction with the government's study of the project.

To illustrate just how strongly their feeling runs, students of Mount Allison University in Sackville, N.B., started digging a shallow ditch across nine miles of road and furnished on the Isthmus of Chignecto connecting Nova Scotia and New Brunswick in the hope that "some people who have looked into the situation locally will come forth to either prove or disprove to me his (Mr. Walker's) statement."

Mr. Walker said preliminary surveys indicate the cost of the canal at $142,000,000. He said surveying and actually operating the canal would cost $10,000,000 a year while the annual saving in shipping costs would be $500,000 at the most.

"The project would be very unsound economics to spend $20 to make $1. I am convinced that the engineering advice proposed the construction of this canal on the basis of a relatively minor, and highly questionable, transportation savings."

Mr. Walker said a shipping canal is older than Canada itself. He was first referred to by the explorer Jacques Cartier who wrote to the court of Louis XIV that he could easily be done.

He was not until 1822 that the first survey was done with a view to making it a fact.

Commercial surveys were taken and with Confederation in 1867 it became a theme in Dominion politics, but never with undaunted persistence.

Pretty Girls, Bands, Campaign Buttons Enliven Leadership Race

TORONTO (CP) — Bands, pretty girls, campaign buttons and bright signs littered the corridors of Varsity Arena and the lobbies of downtown Toronto hotels Monday.

Bowing in mind the occasion was Progressive Conservative Ontario leadership convention staged in the dignified setting of Tory Toronto — but there was impressive enough.

The campaign teams tried to look nonchalant, but lost the fight to television cameramen and kept moving from lobby to outside to repeat their colorful entrances.

A coterie of matrons in mauve mat marched in singing loudly "We will follow Mr. Dymond" (Health Minister Matt Dymond) and carrying placards which read:

"Dymond is a Worker." "Dymond is Dynamic." "Dymond Sparkles." "Dymond is a girl's Best Friend."

Education Minister John Robarts had a dixieland band play.

Chou En-lai Snubs Parley, Abruptly Leaves for Home

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Soviet novels was telling the conference leaders were faced today with grass that Russia has successgrave new problems after Premier fully developed a weapon for China following the sudden departure for home of Chinese Premier Chou En-lai.

Observers saw Chou's abrupt departure from the Soviet party congress here as a sign of a deteriorating quarrel between the two countries over latter Peking's plan attacks on tiny Albania for following "Stalinist" policies.

Chou rebuked the Soviet leaders last week for bringing their quarrel with Albania into the open and told them disputes between Communist countries should be settled in private.

Despite the rebuke, Chou was a guest at the airport Monday while night by Premier Khrushchev and other top Soviet officials.

No reason was given for his sudden departure. Chou arrived back in Peking this morning and was greeted at the airport by Communist party chief Mao Tse-tung and by the Chinese head of state, Liu Shao-chi.

As Chou left Moscow, Soviet Defence Minister Rodion Malinovsky also said that a radical reorganization of the Soviet armed forces had been carried out and a new branch created — "strategic rocket-nuclear troops which are in constant readiness."

P.M. Calls on Provinces To Join Co-operative Effort

MONTREAL (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker called on the provinces Monday night to join with the federal government in a co-operative effort to harness Canada's natural resources in a dynamic drive towards greater national prosperity.

He offered three - part plan for getting the program under way, each part linked to a pledge of financial backing.

"It is vital to Canada's destiny that Canadians develop a bold and vigorous policy of national expansion," Mr. Diefenbaker told a dinner marking the opening day of the Resources For Tomorrow conference.

To translate the conference's decision into action, he proposed:

1. A National Resources Council to be set up by the federal government and involving members from all 10 provinces which would be concerned with resource conservation, renewal and development.

2. A full - fledged conference

BERLIN SOLDIERS GIVEN TEAR GAS, MORE WEAPONS

Tension Increases Along Border

BERLIN (Reuters)—Tension increased along the border between East and West Berlin today following repeated bursts of gunfire during the night and a tear-gas battle between Communist and West Berlin police.

Repeated shooting was heard during the night in the border areas, particularly those between the French sector and East Berlin.

The Berlin police, newly armed with automatic weapons and tear-gas grenades, threw the grenades for the first time Monday night, when the East Germans threw tear-gas bombs at a West Berlin loudspeaker van, shattering its windshield. The West Berlin police hurled six tear gas grenades at the Communists.

The clash came as the Communist East Germans the night imposed new restrictions on the border to clinch its authority over all traffic between East and West Berlin.

The restrictions banned foreigners entering East Berlin in civilian clothes to show passes, journalists in particular.

Despite the announcement Monday, Allied officials allowed to drive into East Berlin Monday without any special identification checks.

U.S. COUPLE STOPPED

The latest Communist move was linked with an incident at the Friedrichstrasse crossing point Sunday night in which a U.S. official and his wife were detained as they tried to enter Communist East Berlin. They were released after a formal protest from the U.S. military commandant.

Allan Lightner, assistant chief of the U.S. mission in Berlin, refused to show his identification, insisting on the right of officials and military staff to enter East Berlin freely.

A group of U.S. military personnel crossed the border Monday and were attacked by East Germans.

Some minutes later there was rapid sub-machine gun fire in the same area but out of sight of the Allied sentries.

West Berlin police said a total of 22 East German refugees fled during the last 24 hours, including three plainclothes Communist detective i n s p e c t o r s.

In 1957 Mr. K. Was Almost Kaput Until He Counter-Attacked Foes

MOSCOW (Reuters) —Nikita Khrushchev was on the brink of being ousted from the Communist party leadership in 1957 before he struck — attacked against the "anti-party" group, the Soviet party congress here has been told.

The account was given Monday by Leonid Ilyichev, Khrushchev's Communist party newspaper chief, Khrushchev himself interrupted the speech at times to add details.

Ilyichev was speaking in support of a motion to expel former Premier Georgi Malenkov, Lazar Kaganovich, Stalin's brother-in-law.

He said the aim of the group was "to destroy the party leadership, change the membership of the Central Committee and the party leadership before the next congress and restore the order which existed in the times of the cult of personality."

"In this foul work Kaganovich, Malenkov and Molotov were guided not only by hurt of personal pride, but also by fear for responsibility for their acts of lawlessness and persecution of which many party members and non-party people had been brutally victimized," Ignatov said.

He said that when the central committee attacked the group in 1957 that the presidium was discussing the question of leadership behind the committee's back. Khrushchev had an "settlement-score" talk with Malenkov in the presidium.

The group proposed that enlargement from the committee should be received not by the party congress but by part of its own members, Marshal K. Voroshilov or Marshal Klimenti Voroshilov, Ignatov said.

"When Nikita Sergeyevich Khrushchev learned about the group's aiming at, he said that he would also get to meet the central committee members and insisted on this," Ignatov continued.

Ignatov said the president-in-t e n c y proposed Marshal Voroshilov, Kaganovich, Malenkov, now first deputy premier, as well as Molotov, Ignatov and Shepilov, to meet the emissaries.

When the members of the anti-party group found that the full committee was solidly behind Khrushchev, they began to climb down, Ignatov said, but Khrushchev "did not believe them."

Of their double-dealt before, at and after the plenary meeting."

Biggest Blast In Man's History Shocks World

Put Massive Explosion At 30 to 50 Megatons

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union is getting a backfire of radioactive fallout today from its monster nuclear explosion, U.S. Weather Bureau scientists reported.

They said the fallout was carried on winds blowing south to southeast over Russia.

The massive blast Monday in the atmosphere over the Novaya Zemlya area in the Arctic, may have been the 50-megaton weapon that Soviet Premier Khrushchev announced the Russians would test. But the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission said it doubts the detonation was that big.

The AEC said the blast's yield "was very high, possibly as high as 30 megatons." But it added that preliminary analysis indicates it was more probably on the order of 30 megatons."

There has been no word from Russia on the explosion.

BIGGEST BLAST YET

Either size, it was the biggest man - made explosion in history. A 30 - megaton bomb releases energy equivalent to 30,000,000 tons of TNT. It would carry more punch than all the previously announced 31 tests by the current Russian series. The largest previous Soviet test was reported at about 10 megatons. The biggest U.S. nuclear test has been reported at 15 to 20 megatons.

Robert List, chief of the U.S. weather bureau's atmospheric radioactivity project, said Russia is "would get more of the immediate fallout" than the explosion than other areas.

Since it was likely the bomb was fired high in the atmosphere, only a small fraction of the fallout would sift down to the ground. The greater portion of it would be sucked into the stratosphere and would come down perhaps next spring.

But considering the size of the explosion, the total amount of radioactive debris blowing over Russia would be appreciable.

Two U.S. scientists said, however, that in the tests the United States will get most of the fallout from the blast.

But in New York, Nobel prize-winning chemist Harold C. Urey said he does not believe the fallout will be unpleasant but not critical—"not at all." He did not elaborate.

Your United Appeal

(Below are two questions frequently asked of the volunteer campaigners during your United Appeal. The answers, it is felt, are of general interest in the citizens of the community.)

At what do some agencies charge for services? Charging for service, is there who are offered it in order to relieve the giving public of trying to support the whole program. For example, fees for visiting nurse service are on a sliding scale, dependent on ability to pay, but still permitting free service to those unable to pay.

Is Do I have to include "extravagancy in my gift? No. You may designate your donation or pledge to go to any participating agency of your choice. Most people, however, are willing to entrust the budget committee of the Board of Directors to allocate funds according to the total relative community need.

TORONTO (CP)—Police are investigating the death of a baby boy found dead on Monday in a paper bag on Dundas Street West. The infant died of strangulation.

Expect 2,500 Children Will Take Part

More than 2,000 children are expected to take part in the annual "Shell out for UNICEF" parade in Belleville on Hallowe'en, Mrs. Arthur Watson, local chairman for the UNICEF, has announced. The children will pick up their UNICEF boxes and leaflets on Monday, October 31st after school and parade downtown back to the UNICEF centres at 8 p.m. All money collected will be tabulated and forwarded to the Canadian UNICEF headquarters in Toronto, and thence to the International Headquarters in New York.

Response from the children has been enthusiastic Mrs. Wilson said, "Children are by nature generous, and many are quite especially when they have far more than they can enjoy themselves. No one wants to deprive the youngsters of their traditional Hallowe'en fun. Last year the children in Belleville sent $1,083.83 from their Hallowe'en program to the UNICEF headquarters in Toronto. This with other donations and money from the UNICEF Carol cards amounted to $1,367.33. We hope that Belleville residents will continue to help as they are well provided with the usual treats. Many parents in recent years have expressed concern about the abundance of sweets which children have received, and have welcomed the UNICEF idea of encouraging children to think of others in the midst of the gaiety. Children are in the more world-minded than we were a generation ago, and the idea of sharing with children in Pakistan and Borneo seems a very natural one to them."

The Hallowe'en Shell Out project is the only fund-raising activity of UNICEF during the year. Funds received help UNICEF in its emergency aid Fund to provide needed food, drugs and clothing, and to help children in lands recovering such aid. Contributions from UNICEF must be matched with contributions of local goods and services by governments receiving such aid, since it is a self-help operation, Mrs. Watson explained.

Referendum on Legal Sunday Sports, Movies Turned Down In 2 Motions Before Council

Hopes for legal Sunday sports and movies in Belleville died at least a temporary death yesterday when council voted down two motions to have the one issue go to the people in a referendum.

Two weeks ago city theatre operators requested council have the matter put to the people, to the executive and finance committees which yesterday recommended it several times to council to be held early in 1962.

But Alderman Don Whalen took issue with the recommendation and asked Alderman William Jarvah if he realized how much a special referendum would cost the city taxpayers.

Alderman Jarvah said he understood the cost would be between $5,000 and $7,000.

MOVES AMENDMENT

Alderman Whalen moved an amendment to the motion calling for the referendum on the day set to be held at the time of the municipal election this fall "when it wouldn't cost the taxpayers anything."

But Alderman Jarvah didn't agree. He said if the referendum was held at the time of the municipal election the matter would become a political issue and candidates could be elected or defeated on their stand on Sunday sports.

Alderman Ben Corke pointed out that Belleville ratepayers had not asked for the Sunday sports issue only two years ago. He said the request of theatre operators in a letter to council was not enough for council to consider holding another referendum.

Speaking to Alderman Whalen's amendment to hold the referendum in connection with this year's municipal election, Alderman Jarvah said it would be absolutely foolish to bring it on at this time.

ENFORCEMENT FARCE

"Municipal candidates should not be asked to say whether they are for or against Sunday sports," he said.

He admitted that the issue had been debated soundly two years ago but said enforcement of the present regulations against Sunday sports was a farce.

"People are still going to ball games and also playing golf on Sundays and are paying for it," he said.

Council turned town Alderman Whalen's amendment calling for the referendum this fall, and also defeated the executive committee recommendation to hold a special referendum early next year on Sunday sports and movies.

Council Votes to Expropriate Front St. Property for Parking

Despite a personal appeal from Mrs. Ethel Goodson action to be delayed to allow him more time to arrange for development plans, city council yesterday gave third reading to a by-law for expropriation from Front Street property with a view to providing additional off-street parking.

Kingston businessman Samuel Goodson appeared personally before council asking deferment of the expropriation proceedings. He said was formerly known as the James Roy property, claiming that he had plans for use of the property for a much better purpose than merely parking.

He said his plans could mean an additional assessment of at least one-and-a-half million dollars for the city, but was unable to give council further details until he had met with an appraiser who, he said, would arrive in the city "tomorrow."

Two weeks ago council held up third reading on the expropriation by-law after Mayor A. M. Haig said Mr. Goodman may have development plans for the area.

ASKED DEFERMENT

Alderman Robert Temple at that time moved that the third reading be deferred for two weeks to give Mr. Goodman the opportunity of presenting his plans to council.

The city parking authority want the property for development of off-street parking and requested council to acquire the property by expropriation.

Ex-Mayor Garnet Ryde, appearing as spokesman for the downtown retail merchants section of the Chamber of Commerce, yesterday asked council to proceed with the expropriation proceedings for the Goodman property.

He said his organization had consistently campaigned for additional off-street parking north of the footrights gangway and though this was the first time council support of their request had been made. He said the city has declared the area required double the present parking space.

He said immediate favorable consideration for procurement of additional parking facilities was needed to assure the continued high assessment of the downtown business area.

Resident Says He Is Confused Over St. Name

How many Bellevilles people are getting confused over the two Belleville area roadway arteries named Wallbridge Road?

At least one local resident admits he is all confused and wants the Belleville "Wallbridge Road" changed either to Wallbridge Street or Elmer Street.

In a letter to the city public works committee, the resident claims many persons share with respect to Wallbridge Road in the city and Wallbridge Road in Sidney township.

There are complications to any name change however. The Belleville Wallbridge Road is now a continuation of Elmer Street and if the name was changed to Elmer all the house numbers would have to be changed.

The matter has been referred to the executive committee.

Haig Sideroad May Be Used as Connecting Link

Consideration of what was formerly known as the Haig Sideroad was given within limits of the city as a future link between No. 2 highway and Station Street and 401 highway has been recommended to council.

The report has been recommended to council by City Manager C. R. Reynolds following consultation with the engineering staff and planning department.

Mayor A. M. Haig said extending Haig Street through to Station Street would open the entire northeast area of the city as a potential industrial area "which at present we have not got."

It is recommended that subdividers in the area be required to construct a collector road along the un-opened section of the street to provide for an 86 foot right-of-way.

Alderman Dr. John Barlow noted it was up to the property owners in the city to develop new road ways under the general rule.

Avondale Residents Protest Increase in Speed Limit And By-Law Is Deferred

Avondale district ratepayers, staging a continued fight against city council's move to increase the speed limit from Dundas Street, West, from the present 30 miles per hour, yesterday saw third reading of the reversing by-law temporarily delayed.

Third reading of the by-law increasing the speed limit on arterial roads leading into the city will be deferred until construction of a proposed sidewalk on the North side of Dundas Street from Panther Street to the city limits is assured.

Specifically final reading of the speed by-law was delayed until the sidewalk by-law is given third reading.

The speed increase by-law was given two readings by council several months ago and then was forwarded to Toronto for approval. Third reading was scheduled for yesterday.

BLOCK FINAL PASSING

But a strong delegation of Avondale district ratepayers turned up at council to block final passing. Their presence at least delayed the final passing.

Mrs. David McDonald, acting as spokesman for the Avondale ratepayers, said council should not seek to create conditions which would make it more dangerous for school children in the area.

She said her delegation was strongly opposed to any increase in the present 30 miles per hour speed limit and did not agree with the attitude that enforcement of the present limit was impossible. She said operation of the police radar unit had helped materially in cutting down the speed of cars.

Mrs. McDonald said the fact there was no sidewalk on the north side of the street, and only a short distance on the south side, added to the danger to children.

"What is the urgency in passing the by-law?" Mrs. McDonald asked. Please do not give motorists the license to kill".

When the question was raised in council whether construction of a sidewalk would make any difference in the feeling of Avondal district residents, Mr. McDonald said "even if sidewalks are provided we still want the speed limit to remain at 30 miles per hour".

Yesterday council declined to again discuss the issue which in recent months had been thrashed out on many occasions on the council floor and without comment voted to defer final reading of the speed increase by-law.

Rotarians Told World Is Our Community

Some 95 Rotarians and guests were present to welcome Dr. Henry Kingstone, district governor for Rotary International, on the occasion of his official visit to the local service club.

Dr. Kingstone, during his luncheon meeting address at the Hotel Quinte, said that Rotary International's theme for this year, involving action, understanding and leadership, suited the world conditions very aptly for never has the need for these things in the world ever been so great.

Today, the speaker suggested, there is a need for a deep understanding of man in order to resolve the conflict which has always seemed to exist between the constructive and destructive powers of mankind.

"The world is our neighborhood . . . our community," Dr. Kingstone advised and suggested the possibility that some day the various nationalities and cultures could be blended into one universal civilization.

He proposed that Rotarians could use their "Four Avenues of Service" which consist of club service, vocational service, community service and international service.

Regarding community service the district governor suggested that club members should find items are to be found at the community level where, quite often, answers to problems can be found also. He felt that the Rotary Foundation is the organization to take more action in this field of service by transposing "dreams and ideals of local community problems to areas of international service." He challenged the local club to take action in this respect.

Speaking on international service, Dr. Kingstone said, "It is great to be a Rotarian because of service." With over 500,000 Rotarians throughout the world, he said, there exists a tremendous possibility for action to be made for the cause of world peace, but that this action would have to be undertaken.

He queried local Rotarians as to whether their club's membership could match the potential greatness of Rotary International in International service through their actions to further the promotion of international understanding, respect, good will and love.

He challenged local Rotarians to assume the leadership which was so necessary to accomplish these ends and to maintain the initiative in such action and projects as this leadership might demand.

Amongst the persons present from the meeting were Rotarians from Texas, California, Toronto, Gananoque, Napanee and Belleville. Club president Virgil James conducted the meeting, which heard some rousing renditions of Rotary songs under the leadership of Rotarian Jack Deacon. President James also introduced the district governor and vice-president Harry Burns expressed the club's thanks for his address.

A club assembly was held Monday evening in the Hotel Quinte at which time the district governor discussed the various projects, problems and progress of the local club with its members.

Believe Faulty Light May Have Caused Blaze

Fire Inspector Del Hope said yesterday that the cause of the fire Saturday morning at the Smithfield Experimental Farm building may have been a faulty fluorescent light in the building. He said while at first it was thought that the results of 60 years of experimental work had been lost, a number of documents were found in a fireproof safe and can be salvaged.

There are long range plans to build a larger laboratory but, in the meantime, experiments will have to be carried out in other administrative buildings on the farm.

RETIRING LEADER

then only about 200 persons were on the floor as voting delegates and another 300 were scattered through the public galleries.

Much of the first-day action was in back-stage and in the hotel rooms and corridors as campaign teams worked to line up all the votes they could for each candidate.

But the pretty girls, beards, ribbons, buttons, placards and other trimmings usually connected with big political conventions were all there.

Premier Premier Gardiner, Metropolitan Toronto chairman, is scheduled to begin to report of his policy committee's plans. Minister Diefenbaker is on the program for early this afternoon.

Monday night, in an address introduced by Hon. Paul Martin, Mr. Gardiner said the Progressive Conservatives should endorse any political group which tries to find funds in a workman's pay envelope.

He did not name the party but left no doubt he was referring to the New Democratic Party which proposes to collect membership fees through payroll deductions.

Mr. Gardiner said the system compares with that of Julius Caesar, who extracted tribute from conquered peoples.

"It is all right to say that when a citizen of Rome or Athens is invited for tribute to a political party that the person has the privilege of excusing himself out of such a levy. But the facts of life indicate it would be long before such a workman would become a parish."

Resolutions and reports from committees will report today, and nominations for leadership will be made.

Shirley Wildi, women's champion, and Carl Charlton, Trenton's "Mr. Golf," display their trophies at a closing day festivities at the Trenton Country Club.

'Idiot\Golf' Is Given Try Winners Get Pie in Eye

TRENTON — Last Saturday was "Idiot Golf Day" at the Trenton Golf and Country Club and, to quote one devotee of the game, "there were plenty of idiots but very little golf" in evidence.

Players were given one club, (or in at least one case, a curtain brush, with which to whack the ball around the immobile course.

Overnight, the holes had been moved, mysteriously, and one found oneself creeping and crawling in and out of sand-traps, gravel pits and brush looking for the four-leaf clover at which to aim the ball. Some jokester had even provided trick goalposts, which cried encouragement "cuss" back at the players.

Finally, the ordeal was over and while the members and their unwary guests enjoyed what must be termed a "rumpsous feast", for lack of a better phrase, harrassed judges sorted out the score cards, trying to come up with winners out of the 14ls and worse recorded.

At last, the prize list was

Lions Hear Talk By Ald. Temple On Juvenile Law

Ald Robt. Temple gave a highly informative talk on "Juvenile Law" at the last regular meeting of the Lions Club of Belleville, in the Trenton Legion. He ranged from how the law deals with the breaking of windows by juveniles to the more serious offences under the Criminal Code and the relating juveniles.

An interesting factor pointed up by Mr. Temple was the reason for some juveniles cases being made public, and some not. If the court sees fit, a criminal case involving a juvenile between fourteen and sixteen years of age can be made public if this would be of benefit to either the accused or the public.

Mr. Temple closed his talk by telling that in the administration of law, breach of promise is not recognized by the courts when it involves those under twenty-one years of age. However, Mr. Temple showed how involved this could be if one of the parties concerned was under twenty-one and the other over twenty-one.

Mr. Temple was introduced by Hon. Tom Kelly, and thanked by Lion Charles Lappan.

The highlight of the business session was a discussion initiated by the project chairman, Lion Lloyd Jack Taylor on a forthcoming major project which will be made public at a later date. The possibility of forming a "Lionettes Club" (wives and wives of Lions Members), was also discussed.

The club greeter, immediate Past President, Harvey Frid, announced the visitors who were/Lion Maurice LaRoche of Trenton, and Jack Lapp, Lou Stewart and Lion Gerry Parkhurst, who were guests of Lion Alvin Parkhurst and Mr. Ed Smith, guest of Lion Jack Lapp.

Lion President, George Strahan, thanked the members on behalf of the Plowing Match project chairman Lion Roger Neal, for the effort in making the restaurant project at the Plowing Match a success.

To top it off, Carl also won the award for the highest score in Saturday's Idiot Golf game.

Shirley Wildi received the trophy for the year's best woman golfer (open championship) and also won the prize for the ladies' open. Runner-up in the women's section was Huda Chivas and runner-up in the men's section was Al Blair. Consolation prizes went to Eric Rank and Kitty Uttley.

The McLean trophy went to Lottie Niddery and the Breguet Memorial trophy was won by Jim Alexander. The junior trophy was given to Ronald Bell.

BEST MEMBER

The McDowell men's award for the best all-round member of the club for the year was given by vote to past president Alec Wilson.

Club member Bob Condon told the members and their guests that the McDowell award was given in memory of an ex-member, S/L Eric McDowell, DFC and Bar, who met his death in an accident three years ago. The club membership set up the trophy for sportsmanship and each year the winner is chosen by a committee.

Dr. Ralph Aylsworth of Otonabee, president of the club for six years (Dr. Aylsworth is the club's only honorary president), told the members and guests of the early struggle to get the club built in Trenton.

President Jim Duncan and manager Bruce Deedy presented Dr. Aylsworth with a photograph of last year's "Past Presidents' Night" and also a photograph of Deedy.

Awards were given out by Doug Bagnoo, Mrs. Howard Ash, Mrs. Fran Owens and Mr. Duncan.

Rotarians Give Club Reports On Institute

TRENTON — At last night's Rotary meeting president D. D. McDonald and four Trenton Rotarians who accompanied him to a recent Rotary Institute in Toronto reported to the club.

Jim Page, reporting on classification committee activities, said that this committee was considered the backbone of every club. He said that this committee was responsible for getting new members for the club and that a classification survey of the community should be taken periodically and businessmen asked to join to fill out vacancies in the club's classification roster.

Jack Goldberg, as the bulletin committee head, said that the bulletin was vital and necessary to the club. He said that the committee should supply this information and that this could be done in assemblies, boards meetings and executive sessions at regular meetings.

Clifford A. Baker reported on club by-laws and constitution to a special committee, appointed at the regular meeting.

Guests at last night's meeting were past-president of the Trenton club, Fred Preston of London, Ont., Rotarian Dr. Ralph A. H. Williams of Ohio and John Good of Stirling.

Plan One-Storey Addition To Present Police Station

The city police department is going to get increased office accommodation.

Yesterday city council approved the awarding of a contract to local contractor Harry Carre-Braint and Sons for the construction of a one-storey addition to the present police building at a cost of $5,482. The addition will be at the end of the present building, extending about 12 feet to the west.

Plans call for Police Chief Oliver Pickett and for Inspectors J. Clair Hayes and J. B. McLauchlan to have their offices in the new addition.

Alderman Don Whalen questioned the advisability of providing funds for additions to the present police building, declaring that he could not see how the department could be handicapped.

"We should face up to the fact that we need a new police building," he said.

But Mayor A. M. Haig said the city just could not afford a new police station at this time.

Also he said there was a matter of location for a new building to be considered.

"There is no question in the minds of the police commission that a new building will eventually have to be built, but we have been assured that the addition now planned will suffice for at least five years."

Would Exile Morpheus

If the works committee of the Halifax city council has its way, it will be illegal to sleep in a fallout shelter.

We do not expect many people will lose much sleep about this possibility, even in Halifax. If the bombs begin to fall, there is little likelihood of the works committee gum-shoeing around to discover who is breaking the law by snoozing away the waiting hours. Indeed, we expect that the proposed law would make an exception of such emergencies.

The attempt to exile Morpheus from the fallout shelter is, however, but one phase of the committee's recommendations. The recommendation deals with the revision of minimum housing regulations and defines "habitable rooms." A habitable room is one which can legally be used for sleeping. Ruled out as sleeping rooms, besides fallout shelters, would be workrooms and recreation rooms.

Altogether aside from the handicaps this will impose on the master of the house, when he decides to retire to the basement under cover of some big project in order to catch a little shuteye, and the even more alarming prohibition against catching forty winks at a leaping recreation room which is not above the standard of many "sleeping rooms" in innumerable shacks and slums.

This brings us to the crux of the matter. Any committee which has anything to do with minimum housing regulations would be much better employed spending its time in devising methods of raising the standards of many existing "sleeping rooms" than in drafting laws to forbid people snoozing in fallout shelters, workrooms and recreation rooms.

In Full Daylight

Stuart St. Laurent, in an appearance before CBC television cameras this week, told how he refused to permit the RCMP to pick up suspects in the Gouzenko spy case in simultaneous night raids. He insisted the arrests be made in daylight.

It is difficult to advance logical arguments for this reluctance to apprehend suspected traitors during the hours of darkness.

Of course, Mr. St. Laurent attributed to his credit, to think of the government he headed and to the country he governed and which chose him to govern.

St. Laurent was adamant in his insistence that even the appearance of evil should be avoided, that in the arrests of these suspected conspiracies spies there should be nothing to compare even remotely with the tactics used by the police of totalitarian regimes.

This may seem a little other-worldly in the harsh international climate of today, with the H-bomb hanging like the sword of Damocles over our heads, but it provides an example par excellence of a civilized, freedom-loving government proceeding with dignity and caution against its suspected enemies, remembering that by its own code they must be considered innocent until proven guilty and that, even if guilty, they must be treated with the strictest fairness.

Nothing could present a greater contrast between the moral standards of the country these people betrayed and the immoral standards of the regime for which they spied than this fastidious insistence on their arrests being made in an open and regular manner, in the full light of day.

Pavement-Sitter's Tale

Stratford Beacon-Herald

Did you ever wonder what kind of people do the pavement-sitting in front of the one hundred block of W. Richmond Russell in jail? In this case, about 600 people blocked Trafalgar Square in London, England, by sitting down on the pavement. They offered no resistance, when police picked them up and loaded them in a convoy of patrol wagons; their purpose was to call attention to the fact that Britain has begun nuclear bombs. The police acted like class dismissed at three, and let traffic get moving again.

Next day the pavement-sitters were back in Trafalgar Square in court, of paying a fine of $5.00, or five days in jail. The backsliders got world-wide press coverage, because one of the pavement-sitters was Lord Russell, the famous old philosopher and author. He chose the jail term.

One of the 600 was a young Shakespearean actress, Vanessa Redgrave, daughter of Miss Rachel Kempson and the late Sir Michael Redgrave, "but then so is every single person in the world, so I care terribly about the theatre, and I would be very miserable if I could not act in the world." Also on balance, I have come to the point where I feel that this issue is something more important than private happiness or money. At the time we all formed up in front of the swine down in Whitehall, I thought and came out. I felt very frightened indeed. Standing there in the cold I thought about the rest of the National Gallery steps with more press photographers.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Gold has always enjoyed popularity as a decorative material for jewelry and the gadgets of Nebuchadnezzar, or even further back. But when I was paid three or four years manufacturers and designers appear to have gone a little haywire on gold. It has been next to impossible to buy a chesterfield suite that did not have gold tacks in it and worked into the upholstery. Curtain fittings, lamps and ashtrays have been more or less discreetly splashed with gold thread. Next came wash cloths and towels. And in trying to get some linoleum for the summer cabin the past season we had a tough time avoiding gold splatter-dashed on most patterns in pursuit of precious living.

In a gift shop yesterday, I was looking around at the curious glossy golden object displayed. It was about two feet long and had a handle at one end like a rolling pin, and completely shapeless.

"Ah," said the proprietress of the art shop, "that is driftwood gilded."

"You mean," I gasped, "driftwood gilded?"

"Yes," she said, "actually it is plaster shaped to look like driftwood and then gilded."

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

IN THE RIGHT SPIRIT

Are you somebody's boss? If so, what kind of a boss are you? Do the people whose activities you direct every day go home and tell wife and children what a grand chap you are? Or do they sit dejectedly in the evening and wish to heaven they could have another job?

It will be a thrilling moment if on the day of final judgement we can hear the Divine Judge saying, "Well done, good and faithful servant." But there is considerable satisfaction to be gained also if when we come to the end of our days here on earth everybody from the office boy to the chairman of the board will say, "He was a good guy. He gave everybody a square deal. He worked hard and encouraged everybody else to do the same."

The responsibility of "boxing" is great. We are all too prone to think of such situations only in terms of privilege. Yet one never takes a step upward but that he puts upon him added responsibility. The people who are at the head of everything — the cabinet ministers, presidents, commanders-in-chief — have on their backs a multitude of grave problems. They clutch at little opportunities for real happiness. Because they take their responsibility seriously, their responsibility weighs them heavily upon them.

We have gone a long way toward solving life's great problems when we think of life as a challenge, and of its requirements as grave and heaven-sent responsibilities.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

Mrs. Roy Atree of Charles Street.

Capt. T. K. Ruston spent yesterday in Richmond Hill and was present at the laying of the corner stone of the Royal True Blue and Orange Society's Orphans' Home.

50 YEARS AGO

October 24th, 1911.

Mr. Raymond Axtell reported to the police that his house and his family) are just "all right" and a baby girl has arrived for him! But if he's worried about his health, he needn't. He's some younger competitor, will get the next promotion, or something else that means he'll be the position he wants, or he's worried about the coming convention; or whether the shop he works in is likely to shut down for a holiday.

I've known plenty who were worried because they had to take a daughter (or son) planning a marriage that doesn't seem to be a wise choice. Worried in school; entanglement with the law. Such things can worry about for months or years at a time, become an overwhelming load — or even a

Let's speak frankly. Some men drink because alcohol dulls the worry. Some just become very tired. Fatigue, we call it! Some are aware of declining virility and feel challenged to prove to themselves that they are still young bucks.

Many do not know why they really doesn't care, although he has been having a period of insomnia, trying-to-bed, worry. I don't condone it — but I can't help feeling sorry for the man who got trapped in this sort of thing.

Some men have been habitually nervous since youth, but have been able to "bottle up their nerves" for many years. In time, the pressure starts exploding a bit.

The answers to all this? First, just recognizing the facts. Check for any health facets, with a good look at thyself. Second, admit your age, whatever it is. Be your age! If you're 30, be glad of it. Don't try to be 25. Look to the advantages of your years. Use experience, judgement, knowledge. Let your "head save your heels."

Really tough cases may require some talks with a psychiatrist to get the root of the trouble focus. Other times a few mild sedatives or tranquilizers may ease the pressure until a man has had time to catch his breath, observe that life is not so grim, and learn to adjust. In fact, it's fun to be 30 — but not, if at try to be 25 at the same time!

Dear Dr. Molner: — Is powdered milk as good as whole milk, except for the fat? — K.B

Yes, it's nearly as good, I guess, yes.

Note to C. D. M. — "Errosa," when you get down to brass tacks, is a vague term that covers pretty close to meaning "a rash." And there are so many causes of the skin break-out that it's hard to treat, generalize. You'll have to examine your own case with your doctor, or should I say "dermerits?"

Pal! Al Scalici, "The Lost Love of Lucrezia Borgia," how to get rid of it the easy way. You should write to Dr. Molner in care of The Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P. O. Box 10, Dundee, Ill., enclosing a long, self-addressed, unstamped envelope and the price, which is to cover handling and postage.

Stridly Personal

Spring Beauty And Summer Over Stressed

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Each section of the country has its own special time of the year, when Nature shows it off to the best advantage, when things. For me, at least, this fall season, the Maine coast is beautiful as in New England.

In past years, some time in October, I have driven to Vermont in a trip East — ostensibly to visit New York — but actually to motor up through New England for a few days, Maine. I love the rolling hills of it has little to rival the glories of New Hampshire and Vermont in the autumn.

This year, due to pressing personal matters, I had to take my talk, for "total lack of funds to change to a trip to Maine, essential." I am again foregoing this annual loop. It is already too late, anyway, for one of my favorite haunts — taking the road to Lake Placid, to view the finest season in the year, all to themselves.

Even the first delicious whiff of leaves burning in the backyard stirs up old stirrings. I can only be more redolent and nostalgic if one youth? That's what I pity most about my opulent friends sulking alongside the pools in Southern California — condemned to the slow death of a perpetual summer. I envy them in January, but feel sorry for them now, as the autumn smoke rises from the raked leaves.

LEAKS

The most disastrous happenings in all business are the leaks.

A magnificent business may decide to nothing if leaks appear and are not stopped.

And an observing business observer may be enscinated through leaks.

The little carelessnesses of discourtesy, slothfulness, inefficiency, and stubbornness go further than one thinks.

Some men seem to think face and see their manhood actually leaking from their fists! Others, their wholeness, their first impressions.

I have seen the eyes of some men and women and you see an overflow there of manhood, wholeness, wholeheartedness, and cleanliness of mind. Nothing is leaking there.

The shrewd physician looks for leaks the first thing. If the lease, and representation of powers, and, when the sum total of contracts leave the executives, it is then that the auditors, for the last time, look for the finest season in the year, all to themselves.

Even the first delicious whiff of leaves burning in the backyard stirs up old stirrings. I can only be more redolent and nostalgic if one youth? cabinet secretary Masagoshi Ohira said.

Speaking in the British House of Commons today, Defence Minister Harold Watkinson interpreted the latest series of Soviet tests as a sign that the Russians "have realized they are behind the Americans in the development of nuclear weapons."

Watkinson said preliminary estimates of Monday's big Soviet blast suggested that it had a yield "of the order of 30 megatons" — the equivalent of 30,000,000 tons of TNT.

He said a close watch was being kept on any increase in radioactivity in Britain. The main problem was radioactive iodine, which could contaminate milk, he said.

"It is not expected that the level will be such that either children or adults will be at risk," he added.

The Norwegian parliament was debating a proposed resolution protesting Soviet atmospheric tests when word of the mammoth blast was received.

Newspapers in Scandinavia quickly noted that the Kremlin's move had received the largest single dose of radioactivity to date.

Nehru declared that "such tests are a constituent of the atmosphere but pollute the hearts and minds of people everywhere."

"How can peace be established if that power continues those armaments race?" he asked.

SEEKS MORATORIUM

He called for a moratorium on all nuclear tests until the great powers reached agreement on a permanent test ban.

In Ottawa Prime Minister Diefenbaker expressed "deep concern over the contemptuous attitude of the U.S.S.R. in disregard the atmosphere and thereby bringing danger to millions and millions of innocent people everywhere in the world."

In Copenhagen, Denmark, about 20 communists invaded the grounds of the Soviet Embassy Monday night and staged a sit-down protest against the new explosion. Police had to lift and carry the 50 out.

In Britain, the deputy leader of the opposition Labor Party, Georgie Brown, said that the Russians had exploded a 30-megatonic bomb. It was an immoral, shocking and horrible thing.

British newspapers denounced the blast as a wanton act of terrorism.

"It will arouse loathing across the earth, rather than fear of Russia's might," said The Daily Herald.

"Though American restraint in the last few months has been admirable, the time must quickly be approaching when the United States will consider itself to be at an intolerable disadvantage in the testing of nuclear weapons."

Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies told the Australian House of Representatives the Soviet explosion was designed to terrorize the people of the world. He said Premier Khrushchev was not concerned if the health of thousands of people was damaged by fallout from the bomb.

The weekend demonstrations in Brussels may foreshadow another eruption in the chronic struggle between the Flemings and the French of Belgium.

The cod Flemish - Walloon quarrel has never been far below the surface of Belgium's politics since the country became an independent state in 1830.

Inspired by the revolution in France that year, the area that now is Belgium revolted against its connection with The Netherlands.

The Flemings, speaking their variant of Dutch, occupy mainly the northern and western areas of the country, run the ports and engage in light industry. In the south and along the border with France, the Walloons, who speak French chiefly, work in the coal-fields and heavy industries.

A third piece in this complex jig - saw puzzle is Brussels, capital and largest city of the other two into a growing distinctive whole. The official list of parliamentary deputies, for instance, names the deputies in French, Flemish, French-speaking and Bruxellois.

FRENCH MORE POPULAR

They are both official languages in the country and although there are more Flemings than Walloons, French is more popular in the capital—particularly among politicians and civil servants having dealings with other countries where French is widely spoken.

The division runs deeper than that. The language issue is causing disunity in cultural, educational, political and social areas.

Both Flemings and Walloons are nominally Roman Catholic but the Flemings generally are more staunch in their religion while many of the Walloons tend to be anti-cleric. Politically the Flemings are anti-Socialist, the Walloons supporting a strong Socialist party.

Religion, or lack of it, for deciding on an official language, is the touch community in the matter cause of the current unrest, particularly in central areas where the population is more mixed.

The language registered for a community on the basis of the last census in 1947 is the only official one for that specific region. Citizen families get tax forms or other official papers in a language they cannot read.

SCHOOL PROBLEM

A number of suburban areas registered as Flemish now are populated mainly by French-speaking families who then must send their children miles to school since only Flemish education is available locally.

The 61,000 Flemish-speaking demonstrators who marched on Brussels Sunday called for equal treatment for both national languages prodigified against the Gallicizing of the Flemish areas around the capital and demanded a legal demarcation of the Walloon and Flemish regions.

The government already is drafting a bill for stabilizing the language frontier and to adjust it to the boundaries of the provinces. But this still may not satisfy some groups.

Under the plan some Flemish villages of the Walloon provinces would be moved into a Flemish province, and vice versa.

HERE WE ARE . . . may have been what Belleville's United Appeal campaign chairman was saying to some of the divisional chairmen present for the "Dutch Treat" breakfast meeting this morning as he reviews the progress of the 1961 campaign to date. Watching are: A. L. Gnaedinger, executive director; Gerry Wishart, divisional chairman; Enos David; J. J. Trudeau, president of the appeal; Dave Gale and Larry Beck, divisional chairman.

Donors Urged to Be Ready With United Appeal Cheque When Canvassers Make Call

J. J. Trudeau, president of the Belleville United Appeal, stressed the importance of citizens helping in the 1961 appeal, now in its second week, by being ready to make their contribution before their volunteer canvassers call on them. He was speaking at a "Dutch treat" breakfast session held for the campaign's divisional chairmen this morning at the New Queen's Hotel.

All canvassers in the United Appeal's annual campaign for funds for the 11 participating welfare, youth work and service agencies in this community are volunteer workers who are giving up their personal time and effort," he said, and it was discouraging for them to be asked to call back a second time when the prospective donor made up his mind as to how much he would give.

Certain circumstances exist where those "callbacks" are necessary but many of these could be eliminated with the full co-operation of the residents of the community, Mr. Trudeau suggested.

It was reported that $31,-236.76 had been collected during the first week of the campaign. This amount represents 14 per cent of the overall goal of $220,000 and, to compare it with the 1960 campaign, is running about five per cent better than over the same period of time.

The importance of canvassers turning in their completed kits promptly so that an accurate picture of the progress of the campaign could be obtained as quickly as possible was stressed.

Campaign chairman, Enos David, also requested that canvassers make sure that each person or firm on his list be contacted even if "callbacks" are necessary. Often the failure to do this means that someone who wished to contribute is missed just because he was not in the first time the canvasser called.

Mr. Trudeau expressed the feeling that everyone in the community wanted to see the campaign go over the top and that he was excited to see children in need, sick people unattended or handicapped people ignored and left on their own. He urged that individuals put the interest of the community first and set aside "petty differences" they might have with others to make the campaign a truly successful community endeavour.

The possibility of a radio campaign consisting of the presidents of the various participating companies giving answers to various questions which canvasser have received or other requested information was also discussed at the early morning meeting. It was felt that this campaign was both a necessary and fitting climax to the annual appeal.

The various divisional chairmen present re-emphasized the necessity that the volunteer canvassers finish up their "callbacks" and turn in their completed kits as quickly as possible to their team captains. If this action is carried through it is possible for follow-ups to where possible results have been accomplished, it was noted.

It was reported that all kits were out, the last group having been distributed yesterday. Preparations for the household "blitz" next Monday are well underway, executive director A. L. Gnaedinger reported, although there still exists a shortage of cars for the occasion.

May Relocate Railway Tracks On Pinnacle St.

Relocation of the present Canadian National Railways track which now runs along Pinnacle Street through the downtown section of the city, may become a fact in the not too distant future.

Mayor A. McLean Haig, at yesterday's meeting of city council, said that the railway sub-machine guns.

had apparently changed its thinking on the matter of relocating the line and had asked the city to make a formal request for the removal of the Pinnacle Street tracks.

Accordingly council passed a resolution formerly requesting the CNR to remove the Pinnacle Street tracks and to relocate them so the present service would not be disturbed.

Mayor Haig said he and local railway officials had discussed the problem with the Board of Transport last week in Ottawa.

He said it was quite possible that certain grants from the Board of Transport might be secured to assist in the cost of re-locating the tracks.

Congolese Government Still Buried in Political Chaos

By LYNN HEDGERLING

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—Sixteen months of bloodshed, political chaos and near bankruptcy — not to mention millions of dollars — have failed to awaken The Congo to reality.

Congolese leaders still cannot put aside tribal suspicions, personalities and ideologies long enough to face their real problems as a nation.

The republic's "government of reconciliation" under Premier Cyrille Adoula has failed to reconcile.

The backyard government set up by Antoine Gizenga in Stanleyville with Communist help collapsed and Gizenga joined the Doula government as vice-premier. He contributed little and has gone back to Stanleyville. Nobody knows when or whether he will return.

The army is still divided, with Gen. Joseph Mobutu commanding in Leopoldville and Gen. Victor Lundula in charge at Stanleyville.

The United Nations has reached a cease - fire agreement in the secessionist province of Katanga, whose rich copper deposits are the country's greatest asset. It is desperately trying to bring Katanga Premier Moise Tshombe into negotiations with Adoula.

TALK OF INVASION

Both Mobutu and Lundula talk vaguely of taking Katanga with their armies, although the logistic problems alone are far beyond their capabilities.

The Congolese parliament considers its most important order of business is to chop up the jungle land into still more provinces with diverse tribal urges. There are not enough skilled Congolese to run the country's government and administration.

Meanwhile, the present six provinces are breaking up.

The shadow of the first premier, Patrice Lumumba, still lies across The Congo. The Lumumbayst nationalist leader was slain in Katanga more than eight months go while being held by Tshombe's government. Lumumba's top lieutenants, Gizenga, Interior Minister Christophe Gbenye and Chairman President Joseph Kasavubu all leftists — are contending for his mantle. They hope, too, to get power from Adoula.

Anti - white excesses in the year started as exodus of Europeans that almost paralyzed the economy and threatened to turn The Congo back to the jungle. They are coming back now — Belgian teachers, businessmen, technicians. The Congo can hardly survive without them. The central government cannot hope to operate this huge country of 905,000 square miles without a share of Katanga's rich copper profits. United Nations officials are confident that preliminary contacts between Katangan secretaries and the central government will be followed by a meeting between Adoula and Tshombe.

Young people are fortunate if, early in life, they are taught the values and uses of life insurance—and how to build a step-by-step security programme.

They are doubly fortunate if their parents have started them on such a plan while young —by paying the premiums until they are earning incomes of their own.

If you are the father or mother of a young son (or daughter), the insurance you buy for them now assures them lower premiums. It encourages thrift, starts them building an estate, and you can include provision for future policies even though their health may be later impaired through illness or accident.

As a parent—you can teach your children the importance of buying permanent personal policies of life insurance while young—other forms of savings and investment can wait until later when age or health isn't a controlling factor.

To guide you, we suggest you talk to The Excelsior Life man in your neighbourhood—he has been selected and trained to help you and your children develop your own "Blueprint for Security".

GUEST SPEAKER

Mr. Frank O'Connor introduced the guest speaker for the evening, the Rev. Sister Mary Theresa, principal of Loyola Junior College. Her talk was on "Transition Problems" to be met by the child on entering high school.

During their elementary school years one must instill in them the idea that we'll make high school attractive and beautiful. The student should try to do his or her best work; be obedient; have respect for school authorities and pay strict attention to homework assignments.

Grades IX and X are important for here the pupil is laying the foundation for his higher education. As the student progresses he or she must learn to work on his or her own and keep the standards as high as possible. There is no doubt that there are students whose talents are not those required to follow an academic course. For them it should be honest enough to realize this, then, they should take vocational courses and trades open to boys. For girls it is recommended that equally good high-school education as possible.

Sister Mary Theresa was thanked by Mr. F. Nobis for her interesting talk. She had a good helpful advice.

Mr. Pat Pillery asked for volunteers to help out with the work for the Hay Bazaar.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Lane, Mrs. Desjardins, Mr. Mulcahy.

Individualism Preserved By Arts, Crafts, States Danish Artist at WC Club

"Arts and crafts are a means of individuality, individualism in child, an individual sign," so spoke Mrs. Ingeborg Cook, an known Danish artist and one of Canada's pioneers in the arts and crafts movement, during the address at the Women's Canadian Club meeting held last evening in the auditorium of Queen Elizabeth School.

Mrs. Cook came to Canada in 1928 from Denmark and spent his first few years in Montreal. She moved to Toronto which time he specialized in pottery and ceramics and in textile ring design, which fact the story of Canada is evident and has been used in many of her art designs came from all over the world. He expressed the fact that Canada is now different aspects, using Canadian birds, art and Indian lore as motifs.

The speaker in his opening remarks expressed his pleasure at being in Belleville once more, having been here on several previous occasions. He continued by saying that in the last ten, 15 years Canada has excelled extensively throughout the world during which time his has spoken of the vast number of people and has noted the great interest in and interest in culture and how at one time it was a subject never discussed.

Culture defined, as meaning the refinement to cultivate, to train, improve the mind, and the need to culture is through cultured soil. Art, it is pointed out to reach a goal beyond material things and this sense of well-being can be attained in culture.

He stressed the fact that Canadians have not paid attended too hard, in the line of individualism and history had an inferiority complex in this respect. Canada, must be true to itself, and to the world, although, not necessarily, the same cultural standards. Culture has to be planted and then to grow, it cannot be forced, pointed out the speaker. Universal culture, Mr. Hansen explained is not to be expected as this there would be no objective, each particular region should have its own individuality, which when taken altogether, adds up national culture.

WORLD'S OF ARCHITECTURE

Temple Bar is a world of substructions, the speaker continued, as he compared the Book of the Dead with the Alps in relation to human life and legend, and in this comparison, "the Rockies," he said, "have not been humanized, as are the Alps."

The interest in culture is increasing, the speaker said is not a case of status seeking, but people must be exposed to culture in its true meaning. Culture it or not and as an example, attendance at a local symphony would not be considered "highbrowing" but is a status symbol.

MOOSE TRAINING NOT COMMERCIAL

The speaker went on to say that no one can produce culture by Mrs. D. Hendley had a good by Mrs. D. Hendley had a good display of knitted mitts, socks, baby sets, pillows, fancy bottles, pin cushions, plants, pot holders, pillow cases, slippers, tea towels, jewellery and other novelties. All-Fur Hat Walks Off With Top Honors in Show

By PEGGY MASSEN

PARIS (Reuters) — Paris fashion, weakened by two years of waving their hats this season but they are hair with a difference.

This season's hat is outrageously big and made of the finest fancy vestige of past economical tion. It is made of such flatteries as fur, velvet or tulle, and its soft shape complements the new mood of feminine fashion.

Finally, Balenciaga, past-master of the darting, comes up with a towering whimsy for evening, concocted of ruched velvet. This "decorative thing" shoots straight up in the air to a height of 18 inches from the top of the head and resembles the stylized costume head-dresses still worn by peasant women in the remote regions of Brittany.

Older People Are Getting Poor Deal

VICTORIA (CP) — Canada's older people are getting a poor deal, says the retiring director of Red Cross Home Nursing Service in British Columbia.

Mrs. Lucille de Saige, said in an interview that her criticism was aimed at families rather than any elderly members in institutions or who administer unlicensed, unskilled care at home.

"Some of the sights I see, the stories I hear, just break my heart," said Mrs. de Saige.

"I don't know any country in the world, where the neglect is so evident. Maybe because, we are a new country, rich and wasteful and feel that this already dollar can buy everything, including the happiness of the people who were our pioneers."

"Well, it can't BUY love and affection—the sense of belonging that is important."

Mrs. de Saige said she is convinced that knowledge of home nursing would help solve the problem, would keep families united, obviate hospital and institutions last crowded.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Frieda B. — I wish he'd stop encouraging Victor to leave school.

Carl B. — He'd be better off working as one of my employees.

Frieda B. — Just because my husband is self-made man' who left school before graduating, he doesn't think it matters whether our son finishes or not. He is a freshman at the agricultural college near here and, whenever he reaches a tough spot, like before teh, exam or when a term paper is due, his father slips in a word about quitting.

Vic is trying not to listen, even though his father holds out the lure of an immediate job in our automobile agency, and a some-day full partnership. It's true that Carl made good despite little schooling, but he's a hail-fellow-well-met type with lots of self-confidence. Vic is quiet. He needs the backing of a diploma before he sets out.

Carl B. — If Vic comes into my business now, he'll be five years ahead of the fellows who waste time on books and theories. He'll learn the same stuff and more, but he'll learn it through experience and activity, instead of through imagination.

* * *

In a few years he can either become my partner or take a big job somewhere else. He'll be the guy all employers look for, grab and promote. They don't want the green kids who can only use the big words, but can't get results.

* * *

Plenty of great men, like Lincoln and Edison, taught themselves and learned from life. Vic is losing good time. He's in the wrong place and having a terrible time trying to keep up. He should join me now.

* * *

The Council — This father's stand is a strange reversal of the usual proud, sometimes hysterical, pronuciam ento: "I never went to college, but I'll see that my son does." To many men this is a treasure to be enjoyed in their son's name, if not their own. We advise Mr. B. to take an honest look at four directions—at himself, his son, the world and his business — and then hush up on the subject of Vic's education.

Even men who can't afford it, who really need their son's assistance, strain themselves and bend every effort to keep a boy at his books until he has a broad enough base of education to "heap o' living," not just for making a living.

What will Mr. B. see in those "books" we recommend? He'd see difference between his son and himself. He'd see changes in "the competition" from what it was a generation ago when "college graduate" wasn't so commonly used as it is to-day. He'd see how even in his own field, he'll note the inroads made by salesman who have "gone to college, psychological motivation, principles of design, laws of economics and other textbook topics.

Of course the knack the back slap and the quiet flash of initiation still have their place. But, as Mrs. B. notes, Vic will be more assured in his future work with a prescribed and promising course of study behind him.

Correction, too, Mr. B. Higher education is no longer confined to "books and theories." There's more contact with "the outside," through field work (actual jobs, paid or volunteer) in established organizations. Many college kids take summer and weekend jobs selling out what they've been cramming in. "Real life" invades the ivory tower vigorously nowadays.

* * *

It takes a strong ego and great self-assurance to feel comfortable among all kinds of people. Vic's studies can fill in, perhaps, for the gaps in his ego which his father never had.

Comfort of Fall Fruit

By Mary Moore

When two cooking experts get loose in a kitchen and their sister and cousin (me) has sent out an S.O.S. for help—bake apples. Two were coming for dinner to my house and it was Thanksgiving Day. When I asked "what will we bring?" I quickly asked for dessert.

That Fall I have acquired two fruit compotes to you. My cousin Irene who was visiting my sister does these with painstaking care and they brought to my house a compote of fall fruits that was a picture to behold and a delight to taste.

COMPOTE OF FALL FRUITS:

Pears and Peaches made double these amounts to serve 16, but I have reduced this to serve 5 for I think that will be more useful to you.

Five peaches, 3 Bartlett pears, 6 blue plums, 1 cup large green seedless grapes, 1 cup sugar, few drops rose food coloring; 1 cup water, 1 2" piece stick cinnamon, 2 slices of lemon, ½ cup water (a second amount), ½ doz. can orange juice concentrate.

Make a syrup of the 1 cup sugar and 1 cup water, rose food coloring, the stick cinnamon and lemon slices. When it boils reduce the heat so that it simmers only. It must not boil. Add the washed whole plums pricked 3 times with needle and poach them, carefully turning once, until barely tender. Remove with wooden spoon before skin breaks and transfer to large bowl. Now add the washed whole peaches and poach them the same way, turning once, until they are barely tender. Remove care fully and add to the plums in bowl.

Thinly pare but do no stem, 3 washed pears. Add and poach as above, turning care fully once. Peats take longer to soften than plums or peaches. Lift out and add to bowl. The peaches and pears take on some of the rosiness of the syrup.

To the remaining syrup add

TUESDAY

the ½ cup water and orange juice concentrate and stir. Pour over fruit. Add green seedless grapes (uncooked of course). Chill. Serve in large flat glass bowl. Any leftover fruit should be stored covered in refrigerator for the following day.

NOTE:

Plums or pears or peaches or apricots alone may be made into a compote the same way, but amounts of a single fruit would have to be increased. Pears alone are pretty if the syrup is tinted a pale green. If you use pears only a good change is to add a little ginger root instead of cinnamon bark.

TIPS FOR THE RELUCTANT SHOPPER

Department stores take the stand that "the customer is always right."

But many would like to amend the policy of read: "the customer is always right — as long as he doesn't manhandle the merchandise."

If you have any friends who are salesmen or saleswomen, you've found to hear almost tearful complaints about the sort of ruthless treatment ready - to - wear gets in the dressing rooms.

One buyer recently confided that impolite shoppers force her to take large mark-downs at the end of each season. Dresses that have been soiled, or are left buttons and belts, necessarily go on the "sale" rack; and the loss each year can run into the thousands.

Most of the damage is unintentional our buyer friend said, but she did point out how shoppers could help cut down on losses. These are her suggestions:

Either remove lipstick entirely or apply it discreetly from your lips before trying on dresses.

If you plan to shop, then go easy on the use of make-up around the neckline.

Jewelry can easily and is hard to get out of most fabrics without dry cleaning.

In the course of her remarks, she pointed out the importance of the work to be done, if the true aims of Home and School were to be carried out, and emphasized the necessity of sincere dedication in the carrying out of the duties of the various offices in the executive body.

CURRENT OFFICERS

Officers for the current school year are; president, Dr. S. C. Rose; 1st vice-president, Robert J. Hendry; 2nd vice-president, Alan M. Green; treasurer, George A. Grant; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Margaret Bakay; recording secretary, Mrs. W. L. Canniff; membership chairman, Mrs. Harry Gibson; social and scout chairman, Mrs. R. L. Bodley; publicity and bulletin chairman, Mrs. Sol Mandell; publications chairmen, Mrs. George Greatrix; members-at-large, Mrs. H. A. MacKillican, W. E. Riley, A. J. Fort, C. E. Principal J. E. Bateman introduced the members of his staff to those present, and then presented the speaker of the evening, Inspector Cousins. Briefly tracing the evolution of the history of educational philosophy through more than 2000 years of western civilization, Mr. Cousins pointed out how the modern modes in education, at thinking came to be, and how old and tried some of the basic ideas were. He concluded with an interesting analysis of modern trends, indicating the changes that are going on at the present time.

QUESTION PERIOD

A question and answer period followed at which time a lively exchange took place between the speaker and his audience, which took great delight in the Inspector's lucid and forthright manner.

Home and School programs can be interesting and rewarding to those who attend if some consideration is given to their content, as attested by the high of interest and informal discussion that followed during the refreshment hour.

The speaker was thanked by Mr. A. M. Green, in the absence of program chairman, Robert Hendry.

The school's annual fun fare was announced for November. This will supplant the regular November meeting. The December meeting is to be an open house evening, at which time parents will be enabled to visit their children's rooms and chat with the teaching staff. This meeting will be held on December 12th, a week earlier than originally planned, due to the near approach of the Christmas holiday season.

Successful Living

By Doris Clark

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Not Stupid But Shy!

DEAR DORIS:—How can I help my boy friend with a terrible inferiority complex? His father has told him he is stupid so much that he believes it. Also that he will never amount to anything because he is so shy with people.

Whenever anything is wrong with the animals he is the one who worries and stays up all night.—ENGAGED BUT ENRAGED.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR ENGAGED:—Believe in him hard! You've got twenty years of talking down to make up for. If you are steady enough you can be his lifeline.

Get a book on how to make friends, and help him with this. Others have struggled—even those at the top.

DEAR DORIS:—Boys like me, but the girls just don't envy.

I had a friend Valerie, but I wasn't satisfied with her so I drifted away from her. I used to pal around with a girl out of my religion but my mother said I'd just hurt myself so I left her.

Then I palled with Jean and she drifted away from me; then the same thing with Marjorie and others. Whom I was in it—for four years, all I had to play with was boys.

Now, what I'm asking is, how can I make friends with these girls and keep them? Also, how do I make people like me?—NEARLY FIFTEEN AND FRANTIC.

DEAR NEARLY FIFTEEN—To make friends, be a friend. Don't try to impress other people, don't boast about yourself or your possessions.

Try thinking about what your companion wants or likes and be a help to her. Be quiet and listen—show a real interest in her.

Just in case personal lack of cleanliness is driving them away, check up on yourself with someone who will tell you the truth.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Lorne Cook, OHA convener for the district, in a down-for-the-third-time effort to retrieve some kind of hockey for Eastern Ontario, has called a meeting for all interested clubs between Kingston and Oshawa. The confab is slated for Port Hope Legion hall tomorrow night.

The teams invited include the Lakeshore Intermediate Hockey Loop, and "special guests" from Kingston, Oshawa, Belleville, Napanee and possibly Picton. The possibility, but not the probability, is the emergence of an eight-or-nine-team circuit. But don't hold your breath.

Despite the smiling efforts of Mr. Cook, all attempts to form a senior circuit in the district failed. In an in-and-out sequence of events the proposed loop died aborning. Toronto an early "save-fire" entry was found to have no sponsor. Kingston refused to enter a four-team league. Napanee and Belleville stood their ground. Oshawa eventually wanted a gold-lined deal with subsidy from practically every entry through the medium of a league pool.

Next Mr. Cook, a tenacious worker for hockey and a lover of his district, has refused to toss in the towel. Tomorrow he makes his final effort, at least that is the way it appears here, to get Belleville, Kingston and Napanee into an intermediate loop.

I am told, and this is hearsay, that the Lakeshore Intermediates did not go through the formality of inviting Napanee to sit in on the pre-season meeting. Something about being three-time champions, too strong, or what have you.

Earlier in the season, or at one of the proposed senior loop meetings, Harold Langabeer, master-mind of the Kingston team, not only refused to enter his club in a four-team loop, but voiced the opinion that he would not enter a circuit that included teams of intermediate calibre. He said such clubs would not hold drawing power for Kingston fans with the pros established in the city.

Since Kingston hockey people have changed their minds it looks like the Limestone City won't be interested in tomorrow night's meeting. Jean Paul Lamirande dashed at all the senior meetings that his Belleville team, was ready to go in a four or five-team league.

But the Bellerville club, if the entry and league, does materialize, has an ice problem. Arena natherl, then have stalled off potential ice commitments in order to give the Belleville senior city ice time, but the consolidated arena is to form a senior league to forward the officials to go ahead with the winter program.

With his winter ice-times schedule practically filled, there will have to be a shaking up of dates and possible consolidation of some ice-times on the part of the commission, if it is to do anything about intermediate hockey — if it materializes.

After all, arena officials cannot be blamed. The major part of arena revenue comes from winter activities. And looking at the arena schedule based on the other day, there appeared to me to be very little ice time left.

The formation of an expanded league, it seems to me, lies in the hands of the Lakeshore League executive. And if it is true they did not invite Napanee because of its potential strength, what will they do with entries like Belleville and Kingston? They might consider a Picton entry but beyond that "I has me doots."

The prospect does not look too bright from this corner at least. Oshawa might pull in its finances. Request barm with the fraternal set-up of the Lakeshore, but I doubt if Kingston will ever put in an appearance. Belleville is a possibility but there again is the ice-time problem.

However, we'll know tomorrow night.

LONDON (AP)—Three fillies today led the call-over for Saturday's Cambridgeshire handicap—a horse race that has not been won by a filly since the Second World War.

Sticky Case remained the favorite at 10 to 1. Rachel advanced to 11 to 1. Another filly Barbara Beaumont more than Plaza, shared third place with £16 (about $45) Monday. The race at Newmarket is the last of the season to carry the Irish Sweepstakes. Thirty-one horses are entered.

Bathgate Fails To Gain On Hot Litz

Gordie Howe Moves Up

MONTREAL (CP) — Andy Bathgate of New York Rangers continued his hot point-getting streak last week but failed to gain any ground on his closest pursuer Eddie Litzenberger of Detroit Red Wings, in the National Hockey League individual scoring race.

Official NHL statistics released today show Bathgate, 28-year-old right winger, scored two goal and collected six assists in four games to extend his league-leading point total to 15.

But Litzenberger, on a comeback trail after two relatively non productive seasons with Chicago Black Hawks, did even better. He played only three games in which he scored three times and helped set up four other goals for his total production to 12.

Bathgate holds the league in assists with 11 while Litzenberger is tied with Montreal Canadiens' Dickie Moore for the lead in goals with six.

HOWE MOVES UP

Litzenberger's linemate, Gordie Howe, and New York's East Coast sharpshooter Camille Henry also had seven-point performances last week and are tied with Claude Provost of Montreal Canadiens for third place at 10 points.

Dave Pendelton of the Rangers and Johnny Bucyk of Boston Bruins share sixth place with nine points.

In a three way tie for eighth place with eight points are Montreal's Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion and Backstrom and Boston's Cliff Pennington.

Veteran Johnny Bower of Toronto Leafs is the goaltenders. Bower, winner last year of the Vezina Trophy awarded to the goalie who plays the most games for the team that allows the fewest goals, has a 1.86 average. He has given up only eight goals in five games.

Montreal's Jacques Plante is second with a 2.40 average. Detroit is the most penalized club with 82 minutes. New York follows with 73 minutes and Boston has 71.

Nears 1,000 Mark

Clark Holds Rush Lead

TORONTO (CP) — Fullback Don Clark of Montreal Alouettes pushed his personal yards gained total close to the 1,000 mark during the weekend to remain solidly in the individual rushing gains in the Eastern Football Conference.

Clark scrubbed 52 yards in Montreal's 15-5 losing effort Saturday against Hamilton Tiger-Cats and boosted his 13-game tally to 983 yards. He has carried the ball 181 times for an average gain of 5.9 yards.

Ave Tiller of Ottawa Rough Riders was held to gains totalling 20 yards in five attempts against a solid Toronto Argonaut defence Saturday. But he retained second place in rushing gains with 730 yards in 140 carries.

Toronto's Cookie Gilchrist formed part of the defence that gave Argos their 21-7 victory over Ottawa and helped him hold on to third place in rushing advance—764 yards in 130 hits at the opposition.

Argo fullback contained his leadership both in pass receiving and punting.

Although Allen, playing running halfback instead of end, snatched only one pass Saturday for a four-yard advance, he stayed on top with 48 passes received for 630 yards in 13 games.

His 11 punts against Ottawa averaged 51 yards, raising his 12-game average by one foot to 40.6 yards. No other league kicker approaches Mann's powerful punting record of 87 kicks for a total distance of 4,324 yards, scoring seven singles. His longest was a whopping 81 yards.

Will Use $14 Million Sports Arena

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimore officials and a hockey syndicate reached agreement Monday over terms of a five-year contract for use of a $14,000,000 sports arena now under construction.

The lease on the downtown arena gives the syndicate 60 days to acquire a franchise in the American Hockey League.

The AHL was the second choice of the city's Civic Center Committee. Initially, the group sought a franchise for Baltimore in the National Hockey League but was turned down.

Canadians May Be Absent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Canadian team may be absent from the winter international jumping events when the sixday Washington International Horse Show starts today, officials said today.

The other four countries entered are Germany, Mexico, Ireland and the United States. But show officials said Monday the Canadians are having difficulties. Two of their top riders, Douglas Clubner of Winona Ont. and Jim Elder of Aurora, Ont., were raised horse for personal business reasons after the window of the Harrisburg, Pa., horse show closed day night.

Any hope to get back in time, though, to join in competition for the new President of the National Show Jumping Challenge Cup. Elimination, for which Canada open jumper event start Thursday.

Mrs. John F. Kennedy, wife of the President, will present the trophy to the winner Friday night.

Some 400 horses are entered for the fourth annual show at the National Guard Armory here, with prize money totalling more than $12,500.

Bombers Clinch Top Spot

WINNIPEG (CP)—If anyone had hopes of knocking Winnipeg Blue Bombers out of first place in the Western Football Conference this season, they were shattered Monday night.

The Bombers clinched the top spot and a bye into the conference's best-of-three final series before 13,774 fans. The Bomb. ers have a five-point lead over the second-place Edmonton Eskimos, who have only two games left in the 16-game regular schedule.

The Stamps and Eskimos clash in a two-game, total-points series opening Nov. 11 to decide who meets Winnipeg in the final.

Paced by fullback Gerry James, who scored a touchdown, two field goals and five converts, the Bombers had 3-0, 11-3 and 25-7 at the end of the first three quarters and 42-7 at game end.

Other Winnipeg touchdowns were scored by Faired Franklton, with two, Leo Lewis and Gordie Rowland. Jack Delveaux kicked a single.

On the first play of the second quarter from Calgary 30, yard line, quarterback Eagle Day and Coleman settled behind the Bomber goal men with a pass that went 50 yards in the air. Coleman ran the rest of the way and Gene Filipski converted. But that was all for the Stamps.

Chihawks Call Hillman

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago Black Hawks called up 23-year-old defenceman Wayne Hillman from their Buffalo farm club Monday.

Hillman, from Kirkland Lake, has been with Buffalo two years. He will join the Hawks in New York for their National Hockey League game with Rangers Wednesday.

Hillman is a replacement for captain Pierre Pilote who suffered a shoulder separation in Sunday night's 3-3 loss to Montreal Canadiens. Pilote may be out of the lineup a month.

First line centre Bill Hay also will not make the trip east. He still is nursing a carbuncle on his right ankle and has missed the Hawks' last four games. He is not expected back for about 10 days.

Rich Bait Not Luring Nicklaus

MONTERREY, Mexico (AP) A world tour with Arnold Palmer and a yearly income rseading six figures is the bait being dangled before Jack Nicklaus, the United States amateur golf champion who is to turn professional.

The 200-pound Ohio State senior said Monday that the offers were tempting but repeated he's not buying—not immediately, at any rate.

"I may turn professional tomorrow and I may not turn professional for 50 years," Nicklaus said.

HUNGARIAN RETIRES

BUDAPEST (AP) — Istvan Rozsavolgyi, lean Hungarian middle distance runner, quit competitive track Monday because "my nerves feel as if they are frying," Rozsavolgyi, 33, still holds the world record of 5:23 for 2,000 metres.

Winless Bruins Undismayed

BOSTON (AP) — Coach Phil Watson says things are bound to get better for his winless Boston Bruins in the National Hockey League.

The Bruins have lost seven games and tied one in eight starts this season.

"We're not discouraged, Watson said Monday, reflecting on a 9-1 loss to Toronto Maple Leafs Sunday. "Things always get worse before they get better. We refuse to panic. We'll get going one of these days."

General Manager Lynn Patrick said the Bruins "have been working of the personnel problem since the middle of last winter. But these players are not the best we could come up with."

Bill Sweeney On Old Ground

NEW YORK (AP)—Bill Sweeney of Springfield Indians was treading on familiar ground today — coach of the American Hockey League scoring race.

Sweeney, who won the title last season, heads the-list with nine points on three goals and six assists in four games. Paul Larivee of Providence Reds is second with eight points. Seven other players are tied for third with seven points.

Dennis DeJordy of Buffalo leads goaltenders with a 1.50 average.

Scrap Ryder Cup Golf Says Gene

MELBORNE (AP) — Gene Sarazen, veteran United States golfer, said Monday night the Ryder Cup golf matches between Britain and the United States should be scrapped and replaced with an international event using the lines of the Davis Cup in tennis.

In Australia to narrate a televised match Sarazen said the world should be split into zones and elimination matches played.

Sarazen predicted the balance of world golf power could swing to the Japanese.

"Hundreds of thousands of Japanese are playing the game," he said. "If they can get the right instructor, they could take over from America."

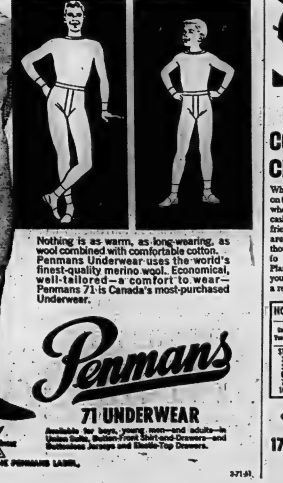
BALTIMORE (AP) — Ageless Archie Moore floored Pete Rademacher eight times and scored a sixth - round technical knockout Monday night in a scheduled 10 - round non - title fight.

Referee Harry Goldstein stopped the bout at two minutes and 10 seconds of the sixth round after Rademacher was sent down for the eighth time with his hard right uppercut.

Moore, in his 25th year of boxing, weighed 198 for his first bout since defending his limited version of the light-heavyweight title last June against Italy's Giulio Rinaldi. Moore is recognized as the champion in New York, Massachusetts and Europe.

The 47 - year - old Moore knocked out Rademacher's opponent with a left hook to the solar plexus at the end of the fourth round. Rademacher took a four count before the bell rang.



Rademacher, who weighed 192, was cornered early in the fifth round and went down five times under a barrage of blows. He got to his feet again, decked Rademacher early in the sixth round for a six-count. Frosh Tops College Race

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

An 18-year - old freshman member of Queen's, University Golden Gaels has the top scoring statistics at the halfway mark of the senior intercollegiate football season.

Ron Stewart, a graduate of Ottawa's Nepean High School, has four touchdowns in three games and a 10 point margin in first place.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press show Stewart has six places shared by players of Queen's, the 1961 leaders, with three straight victories, and the defending champion McGill Redmen.

Behind Stewart with 14 points is Gary Stickler, the Gaels' placement specialist. The six-foot-two, 205 pounder from Windsor has kicked one convert, a field goal and two singles. This is Stickler's third year on the senior team.

Sharing third place with two touchdowns are 12 points each for McGill's Eric Wallace and Jim Moughan and Bill Skinner of Queen's.

Rounding out the top seven are McGill's Jacques Dussault, Harry Hauldaits, with five converts and two field goals for 11 points; and John Nash of University of Western Ontario Mustangs who has been their sole scoring output in three games.

Norm Turner, University of Toronto's alternate quarterback who quit after two games, is the only Toronto player represented in the statistics. His touchdown in the Blues' 8-4 season-opening win over the Mustangs has been their sole scoring output in three games.

Faith in Medicine Men Being Shaken by Series

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—A neighbor, convalescing from surgery, telephoned this reporter at the end of last week's episode of NBC's Dr. Kildare.

"I must say," she began with considerable warmth, "that I'm glad I didn't tune into that show before my operation. I would have been a nervous wreck."

The story concerned an elderly surgeon who was slowing up so much that his operations were taking twice as long as they should—and at least once considerably peril to his patient.

The effect of Dr. Kildare and his companion dramatic series, Ben Casey on ABC, on ailing persons, persons facing hospital treatment or surgery—even on healthy people—is one to think about.

DOCTORS HELP

Both entertainment features take great pains to make the shows correct from a medical point of view. They have the whole-hearted co - operation of medical organizations. Both have hired physicians as consultants, to make sure doctors are neither overdrawn nor superfluous when actors pretend to be doctors.

The programs may provide diversion for the masses — the healthy masses—and they may persuade the medical organizations that they are patching up the image of the dedicated doctor.

However they may also be scaring the wits out of some of us.

The weekly opening of Ben Casey, for instance, consists of a wild dash through the hospital corridors for a woman patient on a stretcher-on-wheels, presumably getting her to the operating room in the nick of time. Each week, tactless, impatient Dr. Casey is fighting the hospital medical board composed of stodgy, old-school doctors, to give him a chance to perform the only operation which will save the patient's life: They are against it. So far, he has won.

Dr. Kildare is just as dedicated, but a bit more gentle in his approach—but the need for drama still can shake one's faith in medicine men

Sid Caesar, missing from regularly scheduled TV shows for two seasons, will play a straight dramatic role in the Nov. 15 Checkmate, "Playing Possum" TV roles has become routine for out-of-season comedians. Shelley Berman played an anguished accountant in a GE theatre program this season. Jonathan Winters will don Bertie plays a non - funny part as sharp on The Dick Powell Show.

NBC has exlusive use of Soviet film of the space flights of the two Russian cosmonauts — and will use experts on a special 90-minute show, Tuesday, Nov. 14.

Hit Five Grand-Slammers

Gentile Sophomore Star

NEW YORK (AP)—Jim Gentile of Baltimore Orioles, who tied a one-season major league record with five grand slams some runs in 1961, was named American League sophomore of the year today.

The strapping first baseman was picked by 149 of the 170 members of the United States Baseball Writers' Association taking part in the annual Associated Press poll. Pitcher Steve Barber of the Orioles was a distant runner-up with 12 votes.

Gentile, 27, hit .302 last season. His 46 home runs deadlocked him with Baltimore teammate of Minnesota Twins for third place in the American League home run derby behind New York Yankee sluggers Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle. He drove in 141 runs, one fewer than Maris, the runs-batted-in leader.

Kingston Whips Wolves

SUDBURY (CP) — Kingston Frontenacs defeated Sudbury Wolves 3-1 Monday night to take their fifth straight Eastern Professional Hockey League victory.

Kingston, chronic last-place team in three years in the EPHL and before that in Ontario senior, now heads the EPHO with a spotless 5-0 mark.

The Wolves have a 2-2-1 record.

Bobby Attersley broke a 1-1 third-period tie to win for the Frontenacs. Don Blackburn got the first period gave Kingston a 1-0 lead. The insurance goal was scored by Randy Miller.

Norm Morison scored for Sudbury.

Sports in Brief

DEFENDS BOXING

SEATTLE (AP)—"Boxing is bad," the new president of the National Boxing Association said Monday, "but I refuse to believe it is as bad as it is painted."

Dr. Charles P. Larson said Wednesday he's a fan, has helped but have not eradicated the evils. "The gangsters and hoodlums are just sitting back and waiting to come out again. The public pressured me to propose a tax-free, non-profit research and education foundation with a budget of $500,000 a year. "We want to find out what boxing really does and do something about it," he said.

BUILD NEW STAND

TORONTO (CP) — Construction of a 3,300-seat addition to the Woodbine grandstand will begin Oct. 30, George C. Hendrie, managing director of the Jockey Club Limited, announced Monday. The $1,200,000 object will be completed in time for the 1962 racing season at the 200-acre race course on the northwestern outskirts of Toronto. The addition will accommodate crowds of more than 35,000.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP)—King Ormsby until now a disappointment to his owners, Lanson Farms, won the third race at New Woodbine Monday and with his performance he will rank with the favorites in Saturday's running of the $37,000 Coronation Futurity.

King Gorm, purchased by Mrs. J. Boyden, owner of Lanson Farms, for $35,000 as a yearling, came up with the best performance of his career, which has seen him start 10 times but lay colt by Never Say Die defeated a field of fellow Coronation Futurity aspirants by a good margin.

In the afternoon's secondary to the Windsor Slap bested five other nominees for the running on the Durham Cup, which also will be run Saturday, the last day of the New Woodbine autumn meeting.

Tony Randall Says Status Basis of Getting Dress Room

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — If you really want to know how Tony Randall happened to get a dressing room in the female stars' building at MGM, he'll tell you.

"It's status," the actor says. "Very important thing in this town, status."

Randall's quarters are in the hallowed halls that once housed Greta Garbo, Joan Crawford, Greer Garson, Judy Garland, June Allyson, Ava Gardner and more. His apartment is comfy adjacent to those of Lana Turner and Doris Day.

"It's a housing jam," he explained. "Their couldn't fit me into the male stars' building."

The studio tried to house him in the featured players' building when he reported for work with Kim Novak and James Garner in Boys' Night Out.

"For three whole days I couldn't go to my own dressing room," he said. "I had to hold out for another one. Status."

THREE CATEGORIES

Randall explained the divisions of dressing rooms:

1. Actors—a plain room, no bathroom.

2. Featured players—a room, dressing room and bathroom but no shower. "To take a shower you have to pad down the hall in slippers and robe."

3. Star—a handsomely decorated suite complete with shower.

"But there are degrees of star dressing rooms, too," Randall added. "Do you have a bar in your dressing room? Further, does the studio stock it with Scotch? Do you have a refrigerator—with ice?

"An actor must consider these things. So you end up demanding things you don't even want. Rock Hudson has a piano.

Big stars like Doris Day and Rock Hudson, with whom Randall stars in Lover come Back, have massive trailers on the set.

"Rock's was a sort of love gift from the studio after signing a new contract," reported Randall. "It has the works—bar, stereo, refrigerator, telephone."

Randall agreed that his room in the female stars' building is suitable to his status. It allows him all the privileges of the male stars' building "except that I can't walk around the halls nude."

AT THE PARK — Johnny Burke, the little lyricist who wrote the big songs for Bing Crosby and Betty Hutton's personal boyhood, is portrayed by Mickey Rooney in "King of the Roaring 20's — The Story of Arnold Rothstein", now at the Park Theatre for its first city showing. Rothstein is played by David Janssen. On the same program "Pay or Die", starring Ernest Borgnine. One complete show starts at 7:30 p.m.

Bergman, Mostand, Perkins star in setting—story

"Goodbye Again"

Anatole Litvak's "Goodbye Again," starring Ingrid Bergman, Yves Montand and Anthony Perkins is now showing at the Belle Theatre. The Special Artist release is based on the popular novel, "Almezyan Brahms," by Francoire Sagan.

Miss Bergman stars in the romantic drama as a successful Parisienne torn between two lovers, one older Montand, and one younger than she, Perkins. Jessie Royce Landis co-stars as Perkins' mother, with Jackie Lane, Michele Mercier and Jean Clarke portraying the three young girls who lead Montand on sporadic but infidelities.

Perkins won the best actor award at the 11th annual Cannes Film Festival for "Goodbye Again", was an official entry. His performance also earned him a Crystal Star Award from the Academie Du Cinema, Paris's version of the Oscar. Montand, a relative newcomer to American films, added Miss Bergman to his already impressive list of leading ladies.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 25

General Tendencies: This is one of those days when making any sudden or dramatic moves can cause or bring you a lot of trouble. Don't get upset if you do find others acting strangely. They are under much pressure. But you also have an unusually good chance to carry through with very constructive plans if you early systematize your hours intelligently.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) —Control that urge to cast duty aside for worthless pleasure and concentrate upon becoming more successful and popular as well. Get credit higher, too. Then dine in style at a fine restaurant in P.M. and have fun, also.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Many excellent new ideas and thoughts occur to you for increasing success now, plus ideas from experts you meet this fine day. Take care in executing that you use diplomacy with close ties so that no arguments are started. Be generous.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Confidential talks with others now bring out the best methods of operating in the future. But be sure they are authorities in your field of endeavor. However, do so quietly and be sure you drive most carefully, speak kindly.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Get the approval of associates in whatever matters you are handling in the outside world. Take any advice they may have to proffer. Also, don't commit yourself or them too heavily in any case. Remember that moderation is the keynote to success.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — You would be unwise to make radical changes at this time, and you are not thinking correctly if you are so inclined. Concentrate on working more efficiently instead and be more co-operative with co-workers. Then all is OK.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — By following orders and orthodox standards, this can be a day of accomplishment and happiness for you. Co-operate with associates, though you may feel they are imposing on you and throw too much work on shoulders. Don't quit!

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — If you plan your day wisely all affairs connected with home and family can be handled very wisely and efficiently. Avoid that friend who gossips and could get you into trouble.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Take the opportunity afforded you today to prove to associates that you desire to work hard in mutual enterprises, but that you prefer a more human approach in such as befits your nature, which is also honorable. Get more credit.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Don't run after some worthless pleasure today, but keep busily occupied getting order and cleanliness around you, thereby making a fine impression on others. Be loyal, too, and you find success is just around the corner.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Trust to own judgment today and you will get the ideas and information that will help you to advance much faster. However, don't fail to heed the good advice of an expert who happens to come along now. Follow it, too.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Look to closest friends for the information you require at this time in connection with public duties. Later, take care you are not involved in some altercation between outsiders that has nothing to do with you. Be calm.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) —Be sure you listen to what a somewhat serious but well-informed individual has to say that will give you a more modern approach to today's problems and activities. Put aside usual dull routines for now — be on the qui vive.

If Your Child Is Born Today — then will early be evident a desire to approach situations and people in a rather odd way, purely from a sense of wanting to be different and to satisfy the natural curiosity in this chart. This can lead to all sort of trouble and you should give fine spiritual training as well as a certain amount of discipline so that interesting qualities are utilized in the proper way — then success is limitless, especially in the theatre.

Picton Reaten Twice

Moira Srs. Win First

By JOE CLAPP

Moira Seniors won their first game of the season yesterday at they downed Picton 25-18 yesterday in Picton. The game was penalty ridden and hampers flared, but Moira held the edge in play.

Moira Juniors were also victorious over their Picton counterparts as they swamped the opposition 25-8 to keep their hopes alive for the Bay of Quinte championship.

SENIOR GAME

Moira opened the scoring early. Picton kicked off. Moira moved from their own thirty to the Picton 25-yard line in five plays, including a five yard penalty. Mission scored the touchdown on a reverse from the 20-yard line. Gerry Jones kicked the extra point.

Moira received a break and capitalized on it after the touchdown. Picton moved to their 20-yard line after kick-off. Rathwell intercepted a Picton pass and Moira gained possession on the 25- yard line. Minion again scampered the distance for his second touchdown of the day. The convert was missed.

Picton scored late in the first quarter after a roughing penalty put them inside the Moira twenty. They scored on a run up the middle by Brown. The convert was missed.

Picton had the ball ended with Moira in front 13-8.

Moira kicked off to start the second half. Picton gained possession on the 33-yard line and Glenn intercepted a pass to give Moira possession on the Picton 37-yard line. Ladouceur gained five yards from 13 yards out on a dive through centre. The convert was missed.

Late in the third quarter Moira sustained the longest drive of the game. They moved eighty yards in seven plays. Ladouceur scored his second touchdown of the day through the middle from four yards out to complete the effort. The convert was missed.

Picton each team had punted once. Picton had the ball on Moira 45 and scored after four plays. Brown got the major for Picton. The convert was missed.

Picton scored late in the last quarter. Moira was in possession but G. Salisbury picked up a fumble and moved 19 yards for a touchdown. The point after was missed.

JUNIOR GAME

After Picton kicked off, both teams were forced to punt once. Moira gained possession on their own 35. They moved 65 yards in five plays and Bob Murray drove the remaining eight yards for the score on a run through the middle. The convert was missed.

No points scored in the remainder of the first half. Moira's passes played a good defensive half. This was shown by the number of fumbles, which indicates hard tackling.

The second half was more wide open. The first scoring play came mid-way in the third quarter. Moira marched 45 yards and Glenn scored the touchdown on a quarterback keeper. Faulkner kicked the extra point.

Picton was held after the kickoff. They were forced to kick. Moira took over on their own 25-yard line and moved in bi-bopby plays to the Picton 5-yard line.

Fraser scored for Moira on an end run. The convert was missed. Key runs in the drive were turned in by Murray and Faulkner.

Picton moved from their own in the Moira 20-yard line but their efforts were late. Moira moved to the Picton 40 but Picton intercepted a pass and scored their only touchdown after a 30-yard pass and run play.

After the kickoff Moira moved in three plays to score and put the game on ice: Fraser got his second major of the day on a quarterback keeper from seven yards out. The clock ran out before the convert could be tried.

PATZ
BARN CLEANER
LINKS do their heaviest work while RESTING

That's one of the many "special" advantages of a Patz Barn Cleaner Chain — a unique, patented, case-hardened, manufactured — especially for Barn Cleaner Operation. As the drive sprocket and on the bottom run pulls the chain over the cross — the Patz link rolls smoothly — actually "walks" on the bottom instead of "pulled" through it, like other chains must. Simple, but effective engineering that contributes to the life of a barn cleaner. Ask the Patz dealer in your area to be grateful for years to come.

Winter Construction

By C. R. CROCKER

Winter construction is now an accepted fact in all parts of Canada. There are still, of course, some who believe that it is costly and produces low quality buildings, in spite of the many examples to the contrary which can be found in every part of our country. Whether construction is not new in Canada and much valuable experience has been accumulated over the years by contractors and sub-contractors. This experience, combined with new techniques and new materials which have come on the market in the past few years, has led to a marked change in the attitude of engineers, architects and owners toward winter building.

Larger building projects continue during winter months without interruption, and although it is still considered desirable to be "closed in" before the cold weather there are more and more cases where major projects are initiated during the winter. Many projects are held over until spring are smaller ones which can be substantially completed in 4 to 6 months. It is here that one finds the greatest advance in winter construction, due to the fact that although the extra direct cost of winter construction can be absorbed on a large job, it is just not feasible to provide the equipment necessary for year round construction and remain competitive on small jobs. In this note conditions under which winter work is carried out in Canada are examined and the problems which arise and how they may be overcome are discussed.

Winter is defined as that period requiring special precautions to prevent damage by frost action or excess precipitation, varies from more than five months on the prairies to less than three months on the lower British Columbia mainland.

Under average winter conditions, construction continues at a high level in all parts of Canada, but severe weather in any region will cause a stoppage of work unless adequate winter construction equipment is used. The effect of winter weather on various phases of construction is not always that which would be expected.

Excavation in deeply-frozen ground is expensive. In most regions outside the Prairie Provinces and North Western Ontario, however, frost penetration under snow cover is seldom more than 1 foot. When this is the case, excavation is not difficult and, in fact, is usually carried out with greater ease than in spring and fall because of the firm footing for equipment and trucks. Ground water levels are lower in winter except in coastal areas, and the sides of frozen cuts do not slump into the excavation. Where it is known in advance that excavation work will be carried out the depth of frost can be kept to a minimum by leaving the snow undisturbed or by covering the site with a layer of straw as insulation. As soon as excavation is made, of course, steps must be taken to prevent frost from getting into the ground. Again, straw is often used and can be re-used to protect footings after they are placed.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In case hemorrhoid cases after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where observations over 3 months were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of medical conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, astringents or dangerous drugs, they say kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a world famous research institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with Pile Applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Earl of Avon, Better Known As Sir Anthony Eden, Makes First House of Lords Speech

By DAVID GANCIA

LONDON (CP) — The noble Gothic hall with the red leather benches where Britain's peers meet and debate was the scene for a touching return to the political arena.

The Earl of Avon, better known as Sir Anthony Eden, made his maiden speech in the House of Lords. It was the first time he had addressed Parliament since illness forced him to relinquish the role of prime minister almost five years ago.

"Never was a novice so burdened with experience," said The Guardian of Manchester in its report.

"It was as though the clocks and calendars were running crazily backwards, but the House of Lords, which listened to this beginner with eager attention, judged his performance sane and salutary and entirely promising."

Lord Avon's theme was Berlin. He rose from his corner seat looking fit and alert and spoke with an authority that impressed his colleagues in the chamber and the strangers in the gallery above.

AGE SHOWS

Time and illness have left their mark on the 64-year-old earl, once the golden boy of British politics. His hair was whiter and the lines on his face deeper.

That maiden speech last week was a warning not only to Britain, but to the entire free world that it cannot submit to atomic blackmail and survive.

The West must stand firm against Soviet threats, cajolery and blandishments aimed at getting the Allies out of Berlin. Russia did not want war as Hitler did, but she wanted Berlin. There was no reason to expect that Communist pressures would subside.

"We must expect them to gather force as the Kremlin glories in the new power to intimidate," he added.

The Marquess of Salisbury followed Lord Avon.

"There was no one in this country whose enforced silence during these last years has been so widely and deeply regretted," Salisbury said of Avon.

"He has qualities which I think are most valuable in a statesman and especially in the present difficult times—an unrivalled experience of the international scene, realism, courage and unshakable integrity."

The new peer, however, made clear that he has little desire to return to the thick of political battle and international affairs.

Deliberately, or — as some said — almost casually, he described himself as "out of the main stream of active politics."

This appears to be the new role for the man who, in the dark days of the Suez crisis, was described as "a Hamlet called upon to play Henry V."

As Anthony Eden he spent a lifetime training to become prime minister. He grasped the prize when Winston Churchill retired in 1955. It slowly crumbled in his hands and 21 months after he took office, he was forced to resign.

Even his political enemies conceded that no British leader in recent decades has played against such hard luck. To top it all, he was the one big loser to come out of the abortive British - French military intervention in Egypt.

Spanning 50 years, a 1911 Corbin roadster meets a modern, electric-powered tram on Lincoln Road Mall, Miami Beach. More than 500 Corbin cars were built by the lock company before it discontinued auto production in 1912. Seated at the wheel of the vintage car, one of only eight remaining, is Richard G. Edwards, vice-president of American Hardware Corp., parent company of Corbin. Seated beside him is Eleanor Crane, former New Britain centennial queen. The Corbin was brought to Miami Beach as a highlight of the National Building Hardware Association convention.

"This car, which revives memories of an important era in American history, was the prestige vehicle of its time," said Edwards as he patted the maroon-painted Corbin. The company ceased car production in 1912, when the automotive industry, because of economic problems, was becoming concentrated in Detroit. Original cost of the Corbin was $2,800 with extras and it was obtained several years ago from a New Jersey owner and reconstructed at a cost of around $2,500.

New Red Blast Hints Superbomb Is Yet To Come

Point Out K. Intimated Big One Would Be Last

UPPSALA, Sweden (AP) — The Soviet Union today exploded another atomic device in the Novaya Zemlya area, the Uppsala University observatory reported.

Today's nuclear explosion was only living as strong as Sunday's superbomb blast which was estimated in the West at from 30 to 50 megaton-equivalent to 30,000,000 to 50,000,000 tons of TNT.

This blast tended to support a belief that the 50-megaton blast which Premier Nikita Khrushchev has promised is still to come.

He told the Communist party congress in Moscow last week that the current Soviet test series would probably be concluded at the end of October with a blast of that size. The current series started Sept. 1 and Sunday's explosion was the 23rd reported.

Believe Chiang Abandons Veto On Mongolia

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Prospects brightened today for a break in the Security Council deadlock barring Mauritania and Outer Mongolia from membership in the United Nations. N a t i o n a l i s t China appeared to have abandoned its intention to veto the Mongolians.

A Nationalist spokesman said his delegation did not expect to get voting instructions until just before the council meeting this afternoon to consider the two membership applications. But reports from Taipei said Chiang Kai-shek's government has reluctantly concluded it will have to change its hitherto rigid position and the Nationalist parliament has given its assent.

A double-barrelled resolution covering both candidates was being considered to get around a dispute between Russia and the West over which application should get priority.

The Russians have been insisting that Outer Mongolia be considered first. Then, if Mongolia was blocked by a Nationalist veto or failed to get the required seven approving votes, the Russians could retaliate by vetoing Mauritania.

WEAR RUSSIAN VETO

Western delegates in turn were suspicious that the Russians, if they got Outer Mongolia accepted, might then veto Mauritania to dirty favor with Morocco, which claims the former French colony.

The Soviet Union vetoed Mauritania's application last December, partly in support of Morocco and also on the ground that if Mauritania got in, so should Mongolia.

The Nationalists used the veto against Mongolia in 1955, provoking a Soviet reprisal veto that blocked Japan's admission until the following year. This year, the Mauritanian group of 12 former French African colonies indicated that if Mauritania is kept out as a result of Nationalist action, they will retaliate by voting to seat Red China when the Chinese representation question comes up in the General Assembly later this year.

OTTAWA (CP)—Russia's explosion today of a 24th nuclear device indicates the Russians intend to pursue their series of blasts up to and including a 50-megaton bomb despite world opinion, Acting Prime Minister Howard Green said today.

The external affairs minister, who returned Tuesday night from the United Nations and a speaking engagement in Montreal, said today's explosion gives renewed urgency to Canada's resolution in the UN demanding that Russia call off the tests.

"They said they were undertaking a series of tests ending with a 50-megaton bomb at the end of the month, and it looks as though that is what they are doing by letting off a smaller one today," Mr. Green said.

"We are doing what we can to get a resolution through the UN Tuesday or there or to let off a 50-megaton bomb."

Mr. Green said world opinion, as was shown by the vote of nearly all delegates to the UN outside the Iron Curtain, is being mobilized against Russia pursuing its testing program.

Frost Will Resign Friday Says Star

TORONTO (CP) — The Star says Premier Frost will resign as leader and the next leader of the Ontario Progressive Conservative party, to be chosen today will take over as premier next week.

Mr. Frost, who has not disclosed his retirement plans publicly, could call a final meeting of his cabinet Thursday to request Lieut.-Governor Keiller Mackay to call for dissolution and the Nationalist parliament has given its assent.

GOVT. SQUEEZED ON NUCLEAR WEAPONS ISSUE

Defence Minister Favors Arms

OTTAWA (CP) — Like the proverbial gambler into a corner, the government day by day is being squeezed into a smaller space in which to manoeuvre on the issue of nuclear weapons for air defence.

Informed sources said Tuesday the squeeze is being applied sometimes deliberately, sometimes unwittingly — by at least four elements.

These elements are Defence Minister Harkness and his advisers who favor nuclear arms for the security of the United States, which has much at stake in Canadian air space; the shortening time for decision and Canadian withdrawal nearly three years ago from the field of major weapons development and production.

Mr. Harkness is understood to feel, like his senior military advisers, that it takes a nuclear weapon to fight a nuclear weapon.

A nuclear warhead would be required in the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile so much to make sure of shooting down a hostile bomber but to break apart or detonate the nuclear load in the air.

The United States is said to be putting pressure on the Canadian government to accept American nuclear warheads for

Ghana's Volta Dam Is Facing U.S. With Duplicate of Aswan Dilemma

ACCRA (AP)—Ghana's huge Volta Dam project threatens to become a "proxies-beg" issue in West Africa, much as the Soviet Aswan Dam was five years ago in the Middle East.

President Kennedy is sending a special mission to Ghana to review U.S. participation in the $262,000,000 Volta project.

The team of experts will try to determine how to avoid putting some $170,000,000 into what is becoming an authoritarian state under President Kwame Nkrumah.

Observers in Accra see a parallel between the Volta and Aswan situations. The U.S. refusal to help finance the big Egyptian dam set off a Middle East surge of anti-Western feeling climaxed by the Suez attack by Britain, France and Israel.

Nkrumah has earmarked a smaller dam for building by the Russians. He is sending 400 army cadets to Moscow for training. And big Ghanaian Air-ways is partly equipped with Soviet Ilyushin planes.

Some Westerners here believe U.S. refusal to back the Volta undertaking might finally push Ghana's leader into the Soviet orbit.

Others, however, feel it will be a sign of Western weakness to submit to any such threat. In this view it is questionable whether to provide Nkrumah with dollars when he is throwing opposition legislators into jail and virtually turning Ghana into a one-party state.

Nkrumah is expected to carry out an "economic revolution" in Ghana. The Volta Dam is a key part with which he hopes to industrialize the nation.

According to present plans, the United States, through the World Bank, Export - Import Bank and Development Loan Fund, will put up $77,000,000 toward the cost of the dam itself. Britain is putting up the equivalent of $14,000,000 and Ghana the rest.

Most of the power would be taken by a $140,000,000 aluminum smelter to be constructed by an American group — the Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corporation, Reynolds Metals, the Aluminum Company of America and Olin-Mathieson.

The group hopes to get $98,000,000 from the Export-Import Bank to build the smelter and also is asking the U.S. government to guarantee its investment. That would bring the total U.S. commitment to more than $370,000,000.

U.S. Police Fix Bayonets, Escort Men Into East Berlin

BERLIN (Reuters) — U.S. military police with fixed bayonets today escorted two civilians over the border into East Berlin after a big American show of strength when the Communist East Germans refused at first to allow their car through.

Four U.S. jeeps carrying 16 military policemen escorted the car across the border in blank defiance of East German attempts to force American personnel crossing the border to show identification papers.

The car drove to the first intersection in East Berlin and then turned back to West Berlin again.

After asserting its right to free movement in Berlin for the second time this week, the U.S. made a conciliatory gesture to the Reds. The U.S. commandant, Maj.-Gen. Albert Watson, announced a temporary restriction on the movements of American private vehicles into East Berlin.

Countries Take Steps To Counter Fallout Danger

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Countries throughout the world took steps today to counter the danger of radioactive fallout from Russia's big nuclear explosions.

The British government announced plans to distribute dried milk to babies under a year old should Soviet testing increase contamination of liquid milk supplies.

Defence Minister Harold Watkinson told Parliament dried milk will be made available if radioactive iodine 131 in milk reaches the danger level for babies.

Britain's Medical Research Council said the radioactive iodine concentration in milk will not reach the maximum permissible level unless tests continue.

Radioactive iodine is considered a threat because if enough of it gets into a person's system, it can cause thyroid cancer.

Japan, lying squarely in the fallout path from the new tests, was alarmed at the possibility of radiation contamination.

Dr. Yasuo Miyake of the Japanese meteorological institute said the explosions came at the worst possible time for the country. Autumn rains would wash down radioactive debris down onto the land.

Japanese planes will take daily samples of atmospheric dust to be checked for radioactivity and the meteorological institute will check rainwater every four weeks.

French health officials said they are making a constant check on sea water, milk and food for any change in radio-

Fallout From Russian Tests Unchanged First Half Oct.

OTTAWA (CP) — Average level of fallout from Russian nuclear bomb tests continued to be relatively low for the first two weeks of October but was virtually unchanged from the last week of September.

The health department reported Tuesday that readings in the Oct. 2-15 period also continued a pattern of sharp rises followed by rapidly sharp drops.

Such readings reflect the rapid changes which occur in levels of short-lived fission products, the type of radioactivity which is not yet considered a health hazard.

For the week Oct. 9-15, the average radiation level in air samples from 24 testing stations was 26.8 disintegrations per minute per cubic metre of air. This compared with an average of 44.5 for the week Oct. 2-8, 35.6 for Sept. 25-Oct. 1, 75 for Sept. 18-24 and 35.3 for Sept. 11-17.

Fallout levels in air samples are determined by the rate of activity and the radiological intensities created by nuclear explosions. They are given in disintegrations per minute per cubic metre of air.

Fallout levels in drinkingwater and diet are designed to provide a quick report on atmospheric radioactivity. They are not related to absorbed doses of radiation and do not give other than indirect information on probable fallout at ground level.

The levels for the first two weeks of October do not reflect fallout from the 30-megaton nuclear explosion Sunday.

U.S. PREPARES FOR EARLY TEST OF GIANT ROCKET

Hope Dims for Plan To Put Man in Orbit

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States, with some misgivings, may fire the first stage of its most powerful rocket this weekend. But its hope of orbiting a man in space this year has dimmed.

Government space authorities said that if no further technical difficulties are encountered, the eight - engined Saturn rocket may be sent aloft in a few days at Cape Canaveral on a flight 100 miles above the earth and some 200 miles out to sea.

No attempt would be made to recover the Saturn or its dummy second stage. But there will be tremendous interest in it among scientists if the shot succeeds. American authorities are banking heavily on it in the turn to show the world they can outstrip the Russians in production of powerful rockets.

Representing three years of designing and precision effort, the Saturn is described as capable of producing 1,300,000 pounds of thrust, enough to lift about 10 tons of cargo, almost twice the weight lift of the Russians rocket in its two successful launchings earlier this year.

MOON ROCKET?

The Saturn was designed as the possible forerunner of the world's biggest space ship or even as a moon rocket.

If this proves successful, a multiple-stage Saturn may lift a vessel of a dozen people on an orbit 300 miles above the earth by 1964.

Meanwhile, a new delay appears likely for the planned 1961 man shot. The government had hoped to get an American astronaut circling the globe at least once this year, but authorities now consider that will not take place until early 1962.

That is partly a race with the once-around - the - earth orbit, which the Russians did last April, American officials say a chimpanzee to go through the performance.

The chimp flight initially was planned for the first week in November, but the astronomical tracking equipment may delay the shot until the latter part of the month.

On the basis of this delay, it appeared unlikely that a chimp with its human cargo will be sent up before next January or February.

Candidates' Last Pitch Turns Convention Into New Year's Party

TORONTO (CP)—Seven men aspiring to the leadership of the Ontario Progressive Conservative party made their last pitch to the voting delegates Tuesday night, and then the scene changed into a combination of New Year's Eve and Grey Cup Night.

The uproar began about an hour before midnight as the party's leadership convention drew to its close in their seats to hear 15-minute speeches by each of the candidates for the post vacated by Premier Leslie Frost.

Campaign workers with loud hailers—self - contained microphone-loudspeakers — chanted their favorite slogans. Donald Dymond now," boosting the cause of Health Minister Matthew Dymond.

Snake - dancing teen - agers pushed through the crowds that gathered around and through Varsity Arena for the opening of Tuesday night's session of the three-day convention.

They had letters too, blaring "One, two, three, four, who are we for, Keiso! Roberts! Kelso! Roberts!"

A kick line of young girls in cheer-leader outfits, led by one with Jim" (Allan) emblazoned on their sweaters, shrieked and posed for pictures.

A honky - tonk piano jangled from a Robert Macaulay booth.

Outside the arena, beneath the stands of Varsity Stadium, the booths faced each other in a miniature midway. Placards and gas - filled balloons bearing candidates' names filled the air.

Pretty girls fastened "Do It with (Rev. Wallace) Downer" buttons on passing delegates, guests, reporters and other pretty girls.

Air-raid rattles drowned out the blare of the New Year's eve noisemakers.

Souvenir canes with pennants were handed out along with umbrellas, all bearing cards, dates' names.

PC Leadership Ballot Figures Will Be Secret

Candidates Have Last Fling at Convention

TORONTO (CP) — A groundswell of c o n s e n s u s was evident at the Ontario Progressive Conservative leadership convention today as delegates gathered to choose a successor to Premier Leslie Frost.

Some of the 1,700 voting delegates, who will cast their ballots this afternoon for one of seven candidates, said they were disappointed that progressive vote figures would be kept secret.

Under the party's constitution, only the standing of the candidates is announced after each secret ballot. After each vote, the low man is dropped off and the delegates choose again.

"This is supposed to be a grass roots convention by a grass roots party," said one delegate who asked that his name not be used.

He pointed out, without the vote figures, delegates will be unable to detect a trend early and jump on the bandwagon.

"Without the figures, it will be risky to vote for anybody except the top man after the first ballot for fear of missing the boat."

CANDIDATES CAMPAIGN

The seven candidates had their last final "round" Tuesday, treating the delegates to a carnival of banging, blaring party gifts, banners, livestock, balloons, fight songs and oratory.

Each delegate had 15 minutes to make his last pitch and five minutes more for demonstrations.

Today the delegates took over. They had been wooed and wined for their votes ever since the convention opened Monday. They had heard Premier Frost ask for their loyalty for the new leader, had listened to Prime Minister Diefenbaker hint that a new system of public service would be found for Mr. Frost—possibly in the field of diplomacy.

The speeches came Tuesday night.

Provincial Treasurer James Allan, at 66 the oldest candidate in the field, offered experience as his platform. A Holstein farmer with the slogan "This Man for Rural Ontario" endorsed by Public Works Minister Roy Connell, Mr. Allan's demonstration for Mr. Allan. House Building Picks Up But Lending Down

OTTAWA (CP)—The pace of new house-building picked up in September, with 20 per cent more homes started than a year earlier. But a drop in mortgage lending signaled a possible slowdown in new construction during the winter.

Housing starts in the month totalled 8,930 in centres of 5,000 population and over compared with 7,443 in September, 1960, Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation reported Tuesday.

This brought total starts in the first nine months of the year to 67,279, up 27.8 per cent from 52,642 for the corresponding period last year.

However, CMHC report showed the number of new National Housing Act mortgages approved fell to 4,435 in September from 5,173 a year earlier.

McBraith, Central Office foreman is the ball. He is the president of the Belleville unit.

Your United Appeal

(Below are two questions frequently asked of the canvassers working for your United Appeal. The answers, by Mr. Bell, are of general interest to the citizens of the community).

Q.—Must I pay all my contribution now? No. Many people want to give more than a token "out of pocket" gift. The United Appeal makes that possible through the payroll deduction and the payroll contribution plans. Those who do not have access to these plans may make their contribution by instalments.

Q.—How do I know the money is being well spent? An efficient budget committee, made up of prominent local citizens, who have donated their services for over each agency's annual budget and, in a sensible and business-like manner, give careful consideration to each item, eliminating it necessary, at last the minimum needed and bring the quota to a realistic figure.

District Parks Were Visited By 318,866

Tweed District Provincial Parks use records for the 1961 regular park season have now been compiled and summarized.

From the middle of May until the end of September a total of 318,866 people visited district parks, and of this total 37,865 men, women and children shunbered close to nature under canvas or in some form of mobile cabin.

As an added service, Black Lake and Outlet Beach Provincial Parks provided a program of evening outdoor movies on conservation, nature study and other outdoor topics.

Their films were made available through the co-operation of the Kingston Office of the National Film Board and were shown twice weekly to a total of 4,119 park patrons.

It is becoming apparent that more people are making use of provincial parks in the spring and autumn months for not only picnics but weekend camping trips.

During the Thanksgiving weekend, for instance, 15 families camped at Bon Echo Park and 8 families slept under tall skies at Outlet Beach Park.

The major park improvements presently in progress are as follows:

Bon Echo Provincial Park: Drilling water (piped under pressure) to several outlets in camping area.

Black Lake Provincial Park: One large washroom complete with flush toilets.

Outlet Beach Provincial Park: One large washroom in campground complete with flush toilets. One Superintendent's residence.

Sandbanks Provincial Park: Reforestation program involving mulching with straw to stabilize an extensive area of blowsand ready for spring planting of forest trees.

New Post Office At Wellington Robbed of $270

WELLINGTON (Special) — Thieves took $270 in cash and stamps from this village's post office some time since some time last night.

The haul was taken from a smashed safe in the back room of the office.

Entry was made through a window at the back of the office. The attempt was made to remove the safe.

Chief of Police Earl Marvin and O.P.P. officer Brown Pelton, investigating the break-in said that nothing more had been found missing.

Postmaster Ralph Preston discovered the theft after he opened the office at 7.45 this morning.

The post office was erected early this year and opened in April.

Police are continuing the investigation and at noon today the safe was back in the facility of the thieves had been uncovered.

White Man's Good Intentions Completely Killed by Action Of Verwoerd, Kiwanis Told

Dr. Verwoerd, South Africa's premier, and his National Party have completely killed any confidence or trust which the white man in Africa may have held in the white man's good intentions and motives for the "Apartheid" policy, the former South African citizen advised his fellow club members. He addressed the club's African situation to a man sitting on top of the safety valve of a steam boiler while down below him stokers are feeding more and more fuel to the fire. Whether he hops off the valve quickly or not depends on what he is found to get added.

The recent national election, held October 18th, has seen Dr. Verwoerd and his group re-elected for a period with an increased majority despite the fact that South Africa has left the Commonwealth and has been sharply rebuked by the United Nations, Mr. Bellstedt commented.

With only 16 years passed since another nation's way of life crumbled because it was based on a policy of nationalism and racialism as advocated by Nazi Germany, it is startling to see South Africa following the same policies. In any many well wonder how such a group is given an increased mandate by its people, the speaker suggested.

It has to be realized that the black people, who have no vote, are confined in their movements, some even living in virtual concentration camps, and have a standard of living which is merely at a subsistence level. So many of them voluntarily, the speaker advised, since South Africa's worst conditions are materially better than those experienced by the blacks anywhere else in Africa.

VERY PROSPEROUS

The living conditions of the three million whites are second only to those of North America thanks to a very prosperous economy based on secondary industry, mining and agriculture (in that order) and very cheap black labor provided by some six million blacks, Mr. Bellstedt said. There also exists some two million colored people, mostly Indians in origin whose votes were taken from them just a few years ago.

The main argument of the National Party is that the whites were the first people in South Africa, even before the black Africans, and that they are responsible for the development and investment in the country, the speaker said. This fact is overlooked, he advised, that it was only with the help of the white man that this prosperity was achieved.

Of the few whites who oppose the present policies, leader of the National Party only a very small group, the Liberal Party, has made an opposing policy of one man one vote; whilst another group, known as the progressives, offered a policy a qualified vote.

The possibility of a peaceful settlement of the problem is, however, very remote indeed, stated the speaker, Mr. Bellstedt visor at Corby's. The Nationalists have carried out their policy beyond the point of no return, he concluded.

It was announced by President Bob Brain that the club had chartered its third Key Club, at Centennial Secondary School, on the past Wednesday evening. A review of the year's goals and objectives were also given by the president, who received unanimous action on the part of club members in gaining new members and in taking part in interclub visits.

Not Single Fallout Shelter Known to Be Built Here

Belleville residents apparently are not interested in the construction of fallout shelters to protect themselves against the after-effects of a nuclear bombing—said.

So far, to the knowledge of City Hall officials, not one fallout shelter has been built in Belleville.

And there has been only one request at city hall for information regarding the construction of shelters. The request was from a local building contractor who apparently at that time had made no use of the information.

"We've got stacks of literature on survival procedure and on the erection of fallout shelters but there just haven't been any inquiries," said City Manager J. R. Roberts.

ASSESSMENT PROBLEM

And with no shelters constructed the city assessment department so far has had no cause to establish any policy as to whether or not such construction should be assessed.

The current opinion of the assessment department is that if the fall-out shelter was part of the basement it would be assessed.

One city homeowner in the west end of the city has had what could be turned into a fall-out shelter with little extra work.

The area was built as an extension of the residence basement outside the regular basement walls. It is floored, roofed and covered with patio stones but was actually built as a fruit cellar.

"There was no thought of a cellar, fallout shelter when it was built, and I wouldn't want to depend on it for that purpose" noted the owner.

"But I guess it is something which we in Belleville should start thinking about", was the comment.

Branch Feed Of Trusteeship

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto branch of the Canadian Federation of the Blind has been freed from a trusteeship lasting 16 months.

The trust was put under trusteeship of Edward R. Powell, a member of the national executive of the federation, after a bingo operation. The two-day meeting was expected and two other executive members were replaced at the time.

Mr. Powell said at the time that a profit of only $3,742 was made out of $113,904 taken in.

Five Positive Cases of Rabies Since Sept. 15

The incidence of rabies in this district, although showing a quite an increase during the last two months, is not at present at alarming proportions, stated Dr. J. F. McCorquodale, Belleville and Hastings county veterinarian, Dominion Department of Agriculture, in a recent interview.

Although a great number of specimens have been forwarded to the Federal Laboratory at Hull for an examination there have been only five positive cases diagnosed since the middle of September. However, as this represents a considerable increase in rabies infection, Dr. McCorquodale has advised local authorities to use caution in the handling of animals suspected of being rabid. He also urges parents to advise their children not to play with stray pets nor to handle rabid animals. He also states that all dogs and cats should, if possible, be vaccinated against this disease, but that this is the responsibility of the owner.

Dr. McCorquodale states that his Department is always willing to prepare and ship specimens to the Dominion Laboratory at Hull, Quebec. However, he advises that due to the volume of work and expense involved in submitting and examining specimens only those will be forwarded that have a history of a known contact with another person or animal. He states however that this Department does not have any facilities for handling live animals and that a specimen must be dead before it can be forwarded to his Department to be examined for rabies infection.

the Bomarc and the Voodoo jet interceptor.

Obviously, authorities say, Canada's defence depends on North Bay and La Macaza, Que., area—because the Russians would use the air corridor over this region as the major avenue of attack on the prime industries in the U.S.

The U.S. is concerned about Canada's hesitation on the Bomarc warhead question because, paradoxically, it can't possibly substitute bases on its own territory for the North Bay and La Macaza sites.

The defence department has indicated that prime ministers may be taken on acceptance of nuclear warheads until the Bomarc question is settled early next spring.

Canada is campaigning vigorously against Soviet nuclear testing and is preparing to campaign again for an East-West disarmament agreement.

The fact that the test series in Russia has avowed they will next week, much of the zing has been taken out of the Canadian anti-fallout campaign by next year. And if the United Nations made no advance in the disarmament field, the way would be open for acceptance later for the Canadian government to accept nuclear arms.

Don't weep, girls, I'm only sleeping
We will meet again dear sister.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Speculative interests reigned supreme during moderate morning trading today, amid generally declining prices.

Late Dutisch, once the hottest issue on the board, dropped 35 cents to 85.00 in profit-taking after today's $1 gain on a volume of 43,339 shares.

Area Mines issued the news that in their property north of Lake Abitibi no significant silver body was found in the seven holes bored. Area promptly slipped 20 cents to 81.18 in heavy trading.

Mt. Wright persisted in its falling pattern of yesterday and dropped a further eight cents to $1.37 on a volume of 15,335 shares, while Canadian Dyno rose a five cents to $1.80, still on the basis of rumors of a rich silver strike east of James Bay.

Industrials fell behind losses among steels, utilities and foods. Widespread profit-taking predominated.

On index, industrials fell .19 to 395.10 and base metals .11 to 300.98. Golds rose .05 to 89.75. Western oils fell .52 to 92, and the 11 a.m. volume was 625,000 shares compared with 550,000 at the same time Tuesday.

The senior base metals list was pressed lower with high Cochenour, Geco and Campbell Chibougamau all off in the 10 to 30 cent range.

Gold trading was slight.

Western oil trading was weak. Lake Dufault, the 38 - cent dog that ate a night became everybody's baby, gained 8 to 85.35 with volume of 162,125 shares on rumors of favourable findings in the second hole bored at Lake Dufault has property adjacent to Dufault and has trailed along behind the latter for the last month. Turned over 102,700 shares and was ahead a small two cents to 38.

Canadian Dyno, lively after a rumor circulated 10 days ago that a rich copper strike had been made east of James Bay, added another cents to 81.75 with turnover of 129,627 shares.

Federal Farms, which traded 5,000 shares in Monday, slipped ½ to 5¾ Tuesday on news that the company plans to buy a 26 per cent interest in Dale Estates Ltd. Transaction is subject to Toronto Stock Exchange, Ontario Securities Commission approval.

Other industrial activity featured a 520-lot to 8145 by Dominion Glass and General Insurance Co., listed only three days ago. Trading in the stock was light.

Industrials were sparked in early trade by gains among steels. Foods, refining oils and banks also participated. Institutions Widespread fractional gains were posted, and trading was generally heavy.

On index, industrials rose .23 to 395.29 and base metals .06 to 300.70. Golds were down 1.06 to 89.70, and western oils .89 to 96.09 compared with 2,516,000 Monday.

The base metals list was relatively high with a strongly resurgent Falconbridge leading Noranda, Campbell, Kerr-Addison, Campbell Red Lake and Dome all advanced as much as $1.25.

U.S. POLICE FIX

to let the jeeps and the car with the two civilians through.

When the East Germans turned the car back on its first attempt to go through into East Berlin, Howard Trivers, a member of the American mission here, crossed into Communist territory with an interpreter and talked for 30 minutes with a Soviet official.

Their argument was heated at times, with shouted gesturing by both men, but they were smiling as they parted.

Trivers returned to the Western sector, placed a telephone call and then went back into the Communist zone. After four minutes, Trivers came back to the Western side, placed another telephone call, and the jeeps then moved up to escort the car across the border.

The refusal by the Communists to allow the two American civilians through unless they showed identification papers was the second in the last 24 hours.

A one point in his statement with the Russian official, Trivers was heard to say:

"We have passed persons through here year after year without showing their papers and we intend that it continue."

As the two men argued, Communist loudspeakers at the border crossing in uniform, sent through the crossing point with the two civilians inside the second car was held up.

An American helicopter hovered overhead as the argument raged on between the American and Soviet officials.

The new incident came as the United States prepared a protest to the Russians against stopping Tuesday night of an American military car at a crossing point. It was the second such incident in three days.

The Americans refused to show their identity documents to the East Germans on the ground that Berlin is still under four-power control and they are consequently not subject to control by the East Germans.

Hawk Swoops In and Makes Pass at Dog

TURNER, Me. (AP)—Mrs. Robert Dixon almost lost her Chihuahua dog to an airborne attacker, she reported Tuesday.

Mrs. Dixon said she was hanging out a washing when a hawk swooped into the yard and grabbed her 3½-pound pet. The dog squirmed free and the hawk flew off, only to return for another try. The second time it had the dog five feet off the ground before the pet wrested free.

The dog raced under the Dixons' trailer home to await the "all clear."

The latest thing happened Sunday in Goffstown, N.H., but on a larger scale. A golden eagle was carrying off a 20-pound beagle when the dog's owner shot and killed the bird.

Served a Lifetime

Harry Nixon was a politician, a professional politician.

Nobody who knew Nixon will dispute that statement, nor will he read any implied slur into it. Nixon made politics half his life-work—the other half was as a farmer—and he brought honour and dignity not only to himself but to the profession he practised with such skill and such invincible integrity. His death on Sunday, at the age of 70, will be mourned by those of all shades of political belief, not only amongst his own generation but by preceding and succeeding ones. He was at one and the same time a former member of the oldest surviving ex-members of the Ontario Legislature and the mentor of the province's youngest MLAs.

Indeed, it may be said by some that his career did not measure up to the standard envisioned for him in his freshman days in the Legislature, which he entered in 1919 at the age of 28. Within one becomes a cabinet minister after a mere month in the House, one is expected to scale the heights with the greatest ease. Scale them Harry Nixon did, being numbered amongst the province's former premiers, but this post he held only in a caretaker capacity, his term of office being of short duration on record. It was Nixon's misfortune that his original political affiliation should have been with one of those meteoric third parties, in his case the United Farmers of Ontario, whose political fortunes ebb as rapidly as they rise. Then, after years in the wilderness of the Opposition, he returned to Cabinet rank when he joined forces with the mercurial Mitch Hepburn, being eclipsed by Mitch's brilliance during the hey-day of Liberal power and going down with the wreck of the Liberal ship after Hepburn had virtually scuttled it. It stayed afloat long enough to give Mr. Nixon a three-month term as premier in 1943, before the Progressive Conservatives under George Drew formed a minority government, with the Liberals reduced to the status of a third party.

This may not be a record of exceptional brilliance, but Harry Nixon's contribution to the political life of this province was not of the flashy type. When a man serves through practically his whole adult life, 42 years without a break and with never a defeat at the polls, and when the diligence with which he serves never varies, be the years rich with honours or lean with the following the defeat of the UFO Government and those through which the Ontario Liberals have passed since 1943, he has amply earned the gratitude of his fellow citizens One would say that his is a record which is not likely to be soon challenged, were it not for the fact that one of his staunch colleagues, Danyluk Oliver, elected in 1926, also an UFO, still sits in the Legislature and being thirteen years Mr. Nixon's junior may perhaps overcome Mr. Nixon's seven years' earlier start.

Betrayed!

We have no idea of what opinion Dr. Herman K. Hellerstein of Cleveland, Ohio, holds of Dr Herman Hellerstein of Cleveland, Ohio, but we would be willing to wager that it will not be the same opinion as many other people hold of him.

This, of course, is by no means an unique situation. Few men see themselves as others see them, as more men than Rabbie Burns have realized over the years.

In Dr. Hellerstein's case, though, the difference of viewpoint is likely to be particularly sharp.

When Dr. Hellerstein told the American Heart Association last Saturday that it was highly unlikely that unusual physical or emotional efforts are the cause of coronary thrombosis, we suspect that he believed he was bringing mankind—and womankind—a message of cheer. This may be true as far as half his audience is concerned, but the male segment is likely to greet his announcement with something less than overwhelming enthusiasm.

At a time when the lawn is heavy with leaves, the storm windows are beckoning for attention and the snow shovel is stretching and yawningly throwing off its summer-long sleep, the good doctor has done nothing more than rob the fraternity of mature years of their most reliable alibi. The dictum that hell hath no fury like a woman scorned may be put to a severe test if Dr. Hellerstein should venture into those parts along about the time of the first heavy snowstorm. The male of the species who thought that advancing years and the public service advertisements of life insurance companies had built him a fortress, and who now finds its walls breached by Hellerstein tactics, is likely to be formidable rival to the scorned woman when it comes to giving the good doctor the first syllable of his name.

Too High to Be Seen

By Gordon Dewar in the Ottawa Journal

For 12 hours on a recent weekend the skies over Canada and the United States were criss-crossed by fighting aircraft, for the most part unseen from the ground.

A simulated bomber attack was made on us and our defenders rose to meet it.

Most Canadians saw nothing and might have concluded that the exercise was largely in men's minds.

They would have been wrong. For there was a very definite "attack" on all prime industrial and military targets across the two nations and attackers were chased and "shot down" by defending aircraft and missiles.

At the end, the top brass of NORAD (North American Air Defence Command) pronounced not even say if they found any weaknesses, or whether there had been a winner or loser in the "battle".

* * *

The attacking force was an independent one, formulating its own tactics and routes of attack, but keeping in mind it must do its best to test all the defences.

No real enemy bombers are likely to be quite so considerate; they will avoid the defences as much as possible.

Large B-52 and B-53 jet bombers at U.S. Strategic Air Command combined with jet B-58 bombers (Valiant, Victor) and the Royal Air Force to make the attack.

The SAC force was only part of the overall SAC strength, the exercise pointed out. Deterrence is always airborne, carrying nuclear bombs and headed for stop-and-turn points for gas on routes to Russian targets.

A light initial attack was made, the bombers coming down over the Canadian north and fanning out to make single-plane attacks down the east and west coasts and the centre of the conflict.

This was to draw out the defending interceptor aircraft before a second, heavier attack. The interceptors have limited endurance and can be ousted on to return to bases for refuelling at a definite point in time.

The defenders were aware of the attackers' strate gy and held back sizable reserves of fighter aircraft.

So interceptors also rose to meet the second attack. Every possible effort was made by every bomber—which could be reached.

In doing their best to exercise the defences, the bombers never left the fray even if presumed to have been destroyed.

They crossed the DEW-Line in the far north, exercising that prospective barrier. They crossed the Mid-Canada Line and the Pinetree Line farther south.

They might be "shot down" over any part of Canada. They might be "shot down" again at the U.S.-Canada border, but still they went on.

They finally were engaged by short range defences — batteries of Nike-Zeus and Hercules anto-aircraft missiles which do not explode over Detroit, Chicago, New York. The missiles were never fired, but the raid allowed some further assessment of their capacity in defence.

Fighter-interceptors flew a total of 6,000 sorties — intercepting flights—and there can be no doubt a large number of them engaged and "destroyed" bombers.

If a radar-aided fighter can find a bomber, it can be 99 per cent sure of downing it with the type of weapons now used.

Granted, the type referred to (nuclear) is installed only on U.S. fighters, which can operate far into Canada in an emergency.

At any rate, the bombers exercised almost all 800 units of NORAD — triggering radar sets and calling up interceptors across the whole continent.

No winner could be declared because "our side" was not "downed" so many times authorities said.

They did not add that even with most bombers downed in a real attack, the bombers could still get only a few slipped through to prime targets with multimegaton nuclear bombs.

And there does not seem to be any evasion of the possible effect of intercontinental missiles on the defences. Defending aircraft destroyed although nothing had happened, despite the fact the bomber attack was carried out in a world preceded by a simulated attack.

Still, the defence was exercised — made to do its pushups and deep-knee bends at altitudes so high it could not be seen from the ground.

Even electronic jamming of warning radar was used, as well as counter-jamming measures and electronic defence aircraft navigational equipment.

This was why civilian aircraft were grounded. They would not have been in the way but their navigation equipment would have been jammed along with that of the bombers.

And to give one final answer to the original question of what went on:

It was in every respect a massive bomber raid on North America with massive defence retaliation, real in every way but no one — nobody pulled a trigger or flipped a bomb release switch.

Student Good Credit Risk

Financial Post

College students may be traditionally short of money but, say Canadian banks, they rarely fail to repay a loan.

Banks are bustling to lend money to students.

For example, Royal Bank of Canada, under a special student packaged loan, is offering up to $1,000 in each of four college years at six per cent simple interest, to be repaid over five years after graduation.

Loans are rising. Student demands for education money. Last year 81 per cent of students in Canadian universities got provincial government aid.

What do banks gain? Lifelong customers and community goodwill.

THE PACKSACK
By GREGORY CLARK

"The police" is too anonymous an institution. Every police force appears to be an increase in the number of racketeers, swindlers, tricksters and petty gangsters. Obviously new ways of living at the expense of the innocent public. Therefore the simplest is the advice usually given by their friends to victims and intended victims of these sharpers. But "the police" has a dismaying sound to a great many people. There is also a fairly wide-spread fear that going to "the police" will incite reprisals by the crooks.

"The time has come," says a lawyer friend of mine, "for a new type of public relations in police work. Nobody wants to keep track of the gangster and racketeer merely for the police. Thus there should be, in every police force, an official of fairly senior rank, an inspector or detective inspector well-known at the public by name as being the man to contact confidentially on all matters involving fraud, deception, abuse, threats. His department could check on the person involved the way a better business bureau checks on fraudulent enterprises. Then, if sent, the police are confined to action on demonstrated breaches of the law. But there a situation is developing in which a public relations function can be exercised by the police and the information files of the police thereby enriched."

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY
DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS
NO NEED TO FEAR

There is no sin His not forgive;
His mercy endureth for ever;
No load of sorrow but His touch can move,
No hedge of thorns that can withstand His Love;
For the tenderness of God
Is from age to age the same,
And His Mercy endureth for ever.

Thus wrote John Oxenham many years ago. He set forth in plain but musical terms that really upon which you and I must rely for most of our satisfactions, namely, the mercy of God.

God does not accord us mercy because we deserve it but because He is God. It is part of His nature. Why do we go through life plaguing ourselves with fear lest He pounce down upon us and destroy us? God is love. Let us always keep that in mind.

What hideous caricatures we think up to describe the God of

Stridly Personal
Glory-Seekers Reflect Their Phoniness

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Professor Irwin Edman used to tell his Columbia University classes that "There are two kinds of people in the world — those who divide the world into two kinds of people, and those who don't."

Even though I like to think I belong to the latter group, I must confess a tendency to separate people into those who enjoy sitting up on platforms, and those who don't. In these are irreconcilable personalities.

Since I do a great deal of public speaking, I am able to see the jockeying that takes place for favored seats on the platform or at the speaker's table. Some organizations are almost been fractured in two because somebody was overlooked in struggle for prominence and attention. That's forget to introduce so-and-so," is a note that has been passed across to me more times than I can count.

What is ironic in this tug of war is that, broadly speaking, the persons who do not want to be seated at the speaker's table are nicer than those who do. And those who do not want to be introduced usually are more worth meeting than those who cannot wait to rise, bow and say a few ill-chosen words.

One of the penalties of being a professional lecturer, in fact, is having to compete with the Mover and Shakers, and never getting a chance to meet the ones agressive but possibly more rewarding members of the congregation. People who enjoy the limelight, I have found, are too rarely enjoyable in and for themselves.

The late Alexander Woollcott had a feeling for this respect. I remember a story in which he provided the ultimate rebuff to the glory-seekers. He had to fill a lecture date in Newark, and prevented Moss Hart to drive him there.

"On one condition," Hart said, "I must be elected to a Newark bookshop and I'd like to show them I'm a big shot now. Let me sit on the platform with you, and introduce me to the audience." Woollcott agreed to this.

They arrived at the hall, which was packed, and Hart took a chair on the platform to Woollcott's left. For almost an hour, Woollcott spoke on, making no mention of Hart. Then, at the lecture's end, Woollcott said, "I generally have a question period at this time, we'll dispense with it tonight. I have a question myself, and I'm sure you will want to know the same thing: Who is this foolish-looking man seated here on the platform with me?"

Hart, they say, has never again returned to Newark. Who would?

To Your Good Health
Lumps Occurring in Breast May or May Not Be Cancer

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner — Please discuss lumps in the breast cancer — where located etc. Are they easily recognized?

"I have what feels like a pea-sized growth over one of my ribs. It feels hard, can be noticed easier by certain movements of my arm. Also the nipple seems a little sunken.

"The description does not fit my notion of lumps as pertaining to cancer, but since I don't really know what to look for, and since there's a history of cancer in my family, I would like your opinion. — Mrs. L.L."

You've done your part by finding the lump. The next thing to do, and at once, is to see your doctor and let him decide what it is.

Not every lump is cancer — not by a wide margin. But every cancer, and your doctor's idea can be very different, and there isn't any way in the world to tell people how to look just for cancer that will mean that you can do is find the lump and let your doctor decide whether it is something or nothing. Cysts small skin tumors, and various other oddments can cause lumps.

Some lumps, once identified as innocent, can be ignored. Others, while not cancer, may require treatment but later treatment may be advisable. The occasional ones that are cancer require treatment as fast as possible.

Yes, I know it's a scary business to find a lump and go to the doctor to have it looked at. It's also a thoroughly rewarding experience to go home again with the word that it isn't cancer.

It's also a relief to have the doctor say, "It's malignant, but I'm glad you came soon enough so we can do something about it."

The terrible thing is for a person to notice the change and not have it examined and in time realize that it has become a cancer that is beyond the stage of surgery.

There isn't any particular place to look, nor any special size to expect the smaller, the better. Look in all parts of the breast; have more cancer than others, but a cancer in a unusual place is cancer just the same.

So — don't waste any effort wondering "what kind of a lump to this will be." Any lump for any. Then have it examined at once. Whether it is or it isn't cancer, you'll save a lot of worry and tear on your nerves by finding out right away. And if it does happen to be an early cancer, you will save more than your nerves.)

"Dear Dr. Molner — Ever since I can remember, hot summer weather has been hectic. I feel perpetually tired, just get clammy, I get sick at my stomach, dizzy and weak. All I could do was stay on the cool floor or in a cold tub.

"Now I am told I have an inactive thyroid. In spite of this I have never been hefty, rather overweight. My blood pressure is low and the heart beat slow and faint. Could this be the reason for my summer sickness? — M. L."

Yes, all those symptoms (intolerance to heat, weakness, reduced perspiration, slow pulse) are compatible with an underfunctioning thyroid, and should be corrected by thyroid therapy.

Note to Mrs. L. C. — Falling hair can involve varied causes. The dry skin suggests a deficient thyroid activity. On the other hand, worry and anxiety can also to a factor. A basal metabolism test will tell you what your doctor might want to make, but complete physical examination would be in order. Medication for hot flashes should have nothing to do with your trouble.

Fat May Not Harm Heart

Sherbrooke Daily Record

Jack Spratt could turn out to be just as responsible for heart disease as his fat-eating spouse, according to Professor Irwin Yudkin, professor of nutrition at the University of Birmingham, England, in a paper delivered to the Association for the Advancement of Science.

He said there is no direct evidence for the theory connecting fat intake and coronary thrombosis.

Mr. Yudkin was more impressed with the fact that the increased rate of heart disease fitted closely with the increased number of car and television sets.

He suggested present evidence indicated that obesity, linked to physical activity, smoking, mental stress and anxiety are the contributing factors to heart disease.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

SOBS, SNIFFLES AND SMILES

In one of O. Henry's stories "The Gift of The Wise Men" I came across this line: "Della made up of sobs, sniffles and smiles, sniffles predominating." And I said to myself is there are many more cross currents that enter our days than those always for us to realize. That is why we are apt to be downcast more than we should be. If we took more of our troubles for granted and as a part of the program of life we would be fewer complications in the world needing to be solved. Hurts in themselves are not necessarily the fact that the gardener realizes enemies are all the time being at war for his flowers or crops makes him more alert. Consequently he builds better ground and keeps an extra eye peeled in watchfulness.

We can take our sniffles as they come and just slip around the corner and let them have their flood. Or we can find a big easy about it.

PC LEADERSHIP

paraded and the slogan read "do it with Downer."

Health Minister Dr. Matthew Dymond was supported by the Bowmanville Royal Canadian Legion pipe band. He called for defeat of the forces of materialism and said as leader he would try to better the lot of every Ontario resident. He favored a eight cent hockey pension plan.

Energy Resources Minister Robert Macaulay asked delegates in accompanying him to win the next provincial election.

"We shall go out to win in 88 ridings . . . we will concede them nothing—no seat, no city, no town, no ward, no subdivision—and you and I will win and we will win them with ideas and not prejudices."

Education Minister John Robarts said he had made no deal or commitments to any other candidate in the leadership race. He said in his view education is the key to Ontario's economic well - being and he would work to "provide a steady flow of well-trained and educated young people". His followers paraded in highly-organized fashion with a dixieland band and many campaign signs beneath the rostrum.

Attorney-General Kelso Roberts was the most confident of victory, drawing boos from the packed arena as he said he preferred to his six opponents as "a great group" to any cabinet I might form." He pledged to appoint "a full-time member to the prime minister's staff to maintain open contact with the north" but other pledges refused to be uttered when he ran out of time.

Finance Minister George W. Gomme was the last to speak as the convention dragged on toward midnight. He pledged himself to support "a goal of economic growth, maximum employment, full utilization of our natural resources, sensible and humanitarian government support of social reforms based on need."

His supporters paraded with evergreen branches and Orangeville and Caledon units of the forested Lakehead area he represented—the first of the 4,000 delegates and guests he began to head for the exits of the sweltering Varsity Arena.

Today, before starting to vote, delegates were scheduled to hear the last of the resolutions prepared by the policy committee under Toronto's metropolitan chairman Frederick Gardiner.

They heard Tuesday that a resolution dealing with broadening of Canada's labor laws had been stricken from the draft report of the committee. It had recommended the laws be modernized "so as to make them consistent with the circumstances and conditions which now prevail in this large and cosmopolitan province."

Mr. Gardiner said the resolution was dropped because the 150-man policy committee did not want to try to influence the party's new leader "on such a controversial subject," preferring to hear his views first.

Speculation that Premier Frost might return to public life was touched off during the prime minister's speech to about 3,000 persons.

"I don't think I will be breaking my confidences when I say that in the days to come we shall be able to have use of his services . . . and give him the opportunity to make use of his services for the good of the province and the country."

Later, touching on election promises, he said:

"We said something would be done about reformation of the Senate. We haven't forgotten that."

He declined, under questioning later, to highlight remarks. "I haven't anything more to say," he told reporters.

Mr. Frost, expected to remain as premier and retain his Velletta seat at least until the next election, did nothing to enlighten delegates.

He said he had no plans other than "to try to do a good job in the transition of power" from his administration to the next.

Mr. Diefenbaker's visit was a short one. He had time only to lay a wreath on the legislative monument to Sir John A. Macdonald, Canada's first prime minister, deliver his speech, then late off for Ottawa and connections for a flight to Tokyo.

sandwich boards and wearing straw hats with the message on them.

Over it all was the hum of the temperamental public address system.

A barbershop quartet in plaid jackets sang fight songs for the man of their choice and a group of delegates trundled a stuffed bear through the melee on behalf of Macaulay.

INDIANS IN THE ACT

Indians wore feathered headdresses and the former mayor of North Bay, Merle Dickerson, wore a "Win With Kelso" skirt around his neck like a Superman cape.

The floors were ankle-deep in streamers.

Trumpeter and drum corps in green tartan paraded for Attorney-General Roberts.

The uproar overflowed into Stadium where Dymond supporters formed up in the end zone around the Bowmanville Canadian Legion pipe band and marched in to the convention floor.

Inside, photographers fired a summer lightning storm of flashbulbs and the monotonous chant for delegates — "Dymond Dymond" and "Kel-so, Kel-so" — harmonized not with a hypnotic effect.

Convention chairman Elmer Bell mounted to the rostrum and restored order with repeated pounding of his gavel.

But he had to shoulder a television cameraman out of the box first.

Prime Minister In Gay Mood on Way to Japan

VANCOUVER (CP) — An affluent Prime Minister Diefenbaker arrived here Tuesday night expressing a non-chalance about the outcome of the new federal election and giving External Affairs Minister Green a solid vote of confidence.

Mr. Diefenbaker was in fine fettle as he answered and parried questions of reporters at a press conference at the RCAF's Sea Island base after a six-hour non-stop flight from Ottawa by air force Comet jet. He was to leave today for Japan at 10:45 a.m. EDT.

He said he has the same feeling of optimism now about Conservative election prospects as he had in 1957 when his party ended 22 years of Liberal rule.

Mr. Diefenbaker said Mr. Green has become one of the world's leaders as a result of his fight for peace in the United Nations.

Asked about a report that Mr. Green will be appointed to the Senate and that Justice Minister Fulton will replace him as external affairs minister, the prime minister said:

"Mr. Green—and I want to make this clear—enjoys my entire trust, and there is no intention whatsoever to make any change in that regard."

'Resources for Tomorrow' Conference Puts Emphasis On Air and Water Pollution

By BEN WARD

MONTREAL (CP) — New ways of using such renewable natural resources for greater national prosperity today and in the future.

EMPHASIS ON POLLUTION

Two of the national problems which drew most of the attention Tuesday related to pollution. The workshop groups, limited to 40 persons for any one subject, ended up by calling for increased research and the coordination of efforts in those fields.

Discussion leaders said both air and water pollution are increasing at a rate which endangers public health. The annual loss in damage from air pollution alone was estimated at about $500,000,000.

Delegates, disagreed sharply on whether water pollution is being held in check. Dr. Maurice Prevost of Quebec said pollution is growing across the nation.

On air pollution, the experts agreed that not enough is being said about the so-called "safe factor" and a federal-provincial responsibility exists for control is done almost wholly from the agricultural standpoint. The objective seems to be to drain water off the land as quickly as possible."

This haphazard control also destroyed waterfowl and other wildlife.

The highest weekly average reading for the week of Oct. 9-15 was in Windsor where a level of 56 was recorded. Winnipeg was next with 50.8, followed by Ottawa with 47.4 and Toronto with 38.6.

The health department made no comment on the significance of the figures. However, a department spokesman said the levels present no immediate threat to health.

Average weekly readings for other Ontario testing stations Oct. 9-15 with the average for the previous week in brackets: Fort William, 15.1 (71.2); Kapuskasing, 13.2 (68.6). There was no reading from Moosonee.

activity. No increase has so far been reported.

Swedish physicist Kurt Liden said radioactivity in northern Sweden already was 100 times greater than in southern Sweden because of earlier Soviet tests.

But Swedish Prime Minister Tage Erlander said winds appeared to be carrying the fall-out away from Scandinavia in the latest blasts.

In Denmark, a government committee was set up to consider plans for outfitting bomb shelters as fallout shelters and constructing new public "protection rooms."

In Canada, the health department reported the level of fall-out from the Soviet tests continued high for the first two weeks of October, but a spokesman said the levels present no immediate threat to health.

U.S. health officials said it is too early to forecast if the fall-out will create any significant health hazard either in the following few weeks or next spring.

Leading newspapers in both India and Ceylon condemned the Soviet superbomb blast.

The Ceylon Daily News accuses the Soviet Union of "contemptuous contempt for world opinion."

CHINESE SEEK FREEDOM

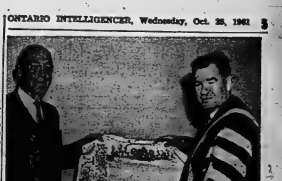
HONG KONG (AP) — More than 1,000 farmers on the Communist side of the Hong Kong-Red China border made a dash for freedom but less than 100 managed to reach British territory, reliable sources reported Tuesday night. Many were shot by Communist border patrol guards or mangled by police dogs.

United Nations Day Praised By Diefenbaker

TORONTO (CP)— In a United Nations Day statement Tuesday, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said that perhaps in no other country is the work of the United Nations supported as strongly by private citizens as in Canada.

This United Nations day takes on special significance because it falls so soon after the death of Dag Hammarskjold who "symbolized the high ideals and principles which inspired the creation of the United Nations".

Mr. Diefenbaker said the greatest danger the world faces today is the long-standing difference between the great powers.



The Berlin crisis "not only threatens the freedom of 2,500,000 people, but has seriously increased international tensions." Progress on other vital questions such as disarmament became difficult in such circumstances.

"Indeed, measures have been taken by both sides to increase their military strength; and the resumed testing of nuclear weapons in the atmosphere by the U.S.S.R. after a voluntary moratorium of three years, has increased the dangers of radioactive fallout and the danger of the arms race," Mr. Diefenbaker said.

He noted that the United Nations has passed through many crises during its 16 years of development. This was possible because the UN did not remain a mere debating society but had developed as an effective instrument for dealing with situations of potential danger to international peace and security. The prime minister cited the Congo as an example.

Then the alert is sent out across the nation. He also handed out booklets on "Steps to Survival", "Fallout Shelters" and "Safety in the Home."

He stressed the need for protection against fallout, and for emergency supplies for the family for a period of at least two weeks. He emphasized the importance of having a battery-operated radio. Each family should have a plan of its own and the children should know what to do in the event of such a warning.

"We are here because we are genuinely frightened and in fact, horrified by the rapid deterioration in international relations caused by threats of war and brinkmanship. We do not assumption of nuclear tests in the U.S.S.R.

"The purpose of this meeting is to make a start at reaching the solidarity of mind and a clarion call across the world to those who hold the fate of mankind in their hands. We call for sanity, for a turning back to peaceful negotiations and co-operation before it is too late.

"If the women of the world in all countries would unite in this objective, I am convinced at all that we would succeed in arresting the present headlong flight to destruction."

In order to focus the attention of the people of the world to peace, a suggestion to initiate a World Peace Year was discussed and adopted. The World Peace Year meeting has taken the following statement:

We affirm the human capacity to learn, to act, to invent new ways to keep the peace open. We affirm human courage to face fear; we affirm man's ability to organize in the interest of human survival. Therefore we propose a "World Peace Year" to proclaim and implement this affirmation.

Mr., Mrs. Norris Gibson Happily Wed 50 Years

The days of excursion steamers operating up and down the Bay of Quinte with the Thousand Islands, Rochester and Toronto as destination points were recalled by Mr. and Mrs. Norris Gibson of Ameliasburg township as they recently observed their 50th wedding anniversary.

The steamers used to stop off even at Roblin's Mills so you could go aboard at Belleville or Trenton," recalled Mrs. Gibson, "and at Murray Canal." Mr. Gibson said.

Possibly the reason that Mr. and Mrs. Gibson recall the excursion steamers so well is that they took a excursion boat to Rochester on their honeymoon half a century ago.

At that time the across the lake boat trip to Rochester was a special weekend holiday.

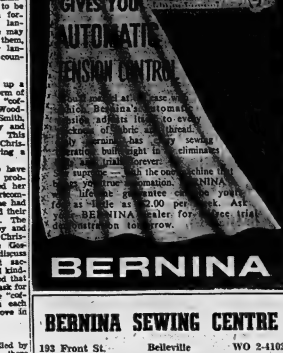
Vota Vita MC Enjoys Panel Talk

A trip which has become an annual event for members of Vita Vita Chapter, Imperial Companions of Malta Circle, Victoria Ave. Baptist Church, held on Wednesday evening, was at the home of Mrs. M. Lush, Deseronto.

Lighthouse Flashes, Miss Stuart reported graphic accounts of Baptist conditions in Cuba under Communist influences. Baptist activity was noted in Honduras where, being 500,000 Baptists there, in comparison with Cuba, and many more under Baptist influence.

Illuminating committee of three: Joyce Stovell (chairman), Mrs. Ethel Hall and Dorothy Reilly, will appoint new officers for 1962.

Mrs. Lush's group took charge of the remainder of the meeting, with Joan Redding a capable panel leader. Her theme was, "Our Neighbor and Our Friend in Whose Keeping Are We." "We should not hesitate to be friendly to people from foreign countries, because of language barriers; often we may be embarrassed about them, perhaps learning a new language and of far-away countries and customs."



PANEL DISCUSSION

Group members made up a panel discussion in the form of a make-believe morning "coffee hour" with Mrs. Woodcock as hostess, Grace Smith, Joan Lowe, Ruth Redding and Dorothy Reilly as guests. This was a novel approach to Christian discussion, making a "coffee hour for God."

Each guest seemed to have a particular interesting problem and freely discussed her views on Christian friendliness as a Christian; some had neglected the church and their responsibilities, others thought hostess spoke of the joy and satisfaction of being a Christian and of sharing the Gospel. Too often we discuss other subjects of "social interest things." She offered kindly solutions and suggested that they all start anew and ask for God's forgiveness. The "coffee hour" ended with each "guest" vowing to improve in the future.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Embury Hough are shown cutting the wedding cake following their recent marriage in St. Andrew's Church, Belleville. HOUGH — VINCENT

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Belleville, was the setting on Saturday, October 7th, at 1.00 p.m. for a very pretty wedding when Reta Irene Vincent, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alton L. Vincent, was united in marriage to Robert Embury Hough, of Halloway, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. Embury Hough, before a lovely background of commercial, chrysanthemums mingled with white Shasta daisies. White satin bows designated the guest pews. The Reverend R. D. MacLean, pastor of the church, officiated.

Mr. Egerton Boyce, church organist, rendered the traditional wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Miss Loretta McDougall, of Belleville, who sang, before the ceremony, "O Perfect Love," and during the signing of the register, "The Nuptial Benediction." The processional and recessional included "Praise, My Soul, the King of Heaven," and the "Mid Summer Nights Dream", by Mendelssohn."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiantly lovely in her white brocaded satin bridal gown featuring a molded bodice with Sweetheart neckline and long, scalloped sleeves. The full-length skirt was softly pleated at the sides, cascading into a chapel train. A large flat back bow formed the accent. She wore a tiara studded with crystals and seed pearls, with finger-tip veil of illusion tulle, and carried a cascade of large yellow roses mingled with tiny yellow Sweethearts flecked with dots of gold on the leaves.

Mrs. Gordon Crake, jr., attended her sister as matron of honour, wearing a gold brocaded satin sheath gown with Sweetheart neckline, and short sleeves. The half turtle overskirt was caught at the back with a flat bow. Brown shoes, gloves, and bow type headdress with veil, with nosegay of three commercial yellow 'mums, completed her ensemble.

The bridesmaids, all sisters of the bride, were identically gowned in periwinkle blue sheaths with tunic overskirts and fitted bodices having scoop necklines and three-quarter sleeves. They wore flat bow headdresses with veils, matching shoes, white gloves and single strands of pearls, gifts of the bride, and carried flowers similar to those of the matron of honor.

The little flower girl, Miss Sandra Lynn Ashe, niece of the bride, was sweet and demure in her full-length white tulle frock with mauve cummerbund having a back bow and streamers. She wore a floral mauve headdress and carried a single commercial chrysanthemum with yellow streamers. White shoes and gloves completed her ensemble.

Mr. Darwin Benson, of Ivanhoe, Mr. John Haggerty, of Sarnia, cousin of the bridegroom and Mr. William Hough, of Toronto, also a cousin of the bridegroom, were ushers and Mr. Lorne Cronkright, of Belleville, was the bridegroom's attendant.

The reception was held in the church parlors, where the bride's table was appointed with white three-tier wedding cake topped by an arch of frosted bells and flanked by crystal candelabra with tall white candles. The bridal bouquets from the table were used for the nuptial setting. Guest tables were centred by rose bowls with yellow and white gladioli florets.

The bride's mother received wearing a Copenhagen blue gown of peau de soie in sheath style, with matching jacket lined with white peau de soie; her accessories were white, with white marlbora hat, and blue shoes, with white rose corsage. Assisting in the receiving line was the bridegroom's mother, gowned in black and fuchsia-shade satin brocade in sheath design, with complementary dark green beaver hat; dark green gloves, black suede shoes and purse, with pink Sweetheart corsage.

Out-of-town guests present from Belleville; Ottawa; Detroit; Cardinal; Odessa; Stirling; Peterborough; Cobourg; Toronto, Sarnia, Picton and Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. Hough will reside in Halloway, Ontario.

Showering the bride were held at the home of Mrs. Lorne Cronkright, Belleville, R.R. 2; at the home of Miss Mildred Wickerson, Belleville, by the girls of the Mead Johnson office staff of which the bride is a member; at a cup and saucer shower at the home of Mrs. Peter Murray, with Mrs. Douglas Ashley as co-hostess; at a presentation of a yellow mixer by the office staff of Mead Johnson and a trousseau tea given by her mother. The bridegroom was also honored by the Northern Electric with a gift of money from his fellow employees.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Mrs. J. L.—He's 20 years older than she. What's her hurry?

Gertrude L. — While attending a language school last spring to learn Spanish, I met a charming gentleman. We had coffee together after class a few times and then began to meet for dates. During the summer our friendship strengthened and now it's turned to love. Michael wants to marry me.

My mother objects strongly because he's 43 and I'm 25. But he's such good company, so courteous and considerate, that I think of him as a contemporary. Besides, he holds an excellent position in a shipping concern. Up to now he travelled too much to settle down.

Maybe my mother's afraid she won't be able to boss Michael around, the way she'd try to do with a younger son-in-law.

• • •

Mrs. G. L. — Imagine Gertie calling for a man who's exactly my age! Her Michael could have a daughter of 25, but not a wife. Gertie should come down out of the clouds and face a few facts before she rushes into marriage with this stranger.

First, what about 20 years from now? She'll be peppy and eager like me and have an old man to take care of. Also, what about children? Michael will be more like a grandfather than a father to them. And besides, is Gertrude has other admirers. He isn't as if this is her last chance.

I'm not being bossy. I know my daughter and I know life, so I'm speaking up.

The Council — Those who follow this column know that we reiterate, with the persistence of a broken phonograph needle: "A marriage is good only when it is entered into for the right reasons, primary of which is unselfish love." So, Mrs. L., the matter of age wouldn't cause us to discourage Gertrude's plans. But an examination of her reasons might.

Evidently mother and daughter disagree about more than Michael. Gertrude considers Mrs. L. the bossy type, and she should know having been, alone with her father, among the "bossed." Can it be that with a 45-year-old husband at her side, she'd feel "on top" at last? Through this marriage she may bridge the generation between Mrs. L. and herself and feel "equal," never again to be talked down to. Does this make Michael's proposal more welcome than it would be if she had a relaxed relationship with her mother?

Maybe not. Maybe this is a clear-cut man-and-woman attraction. But Gertrude must consider other "pushes" that may be operating in her subconscious. Is it Michael's ability to provide for her that makes him from the ranks of her other suitors? Is her mother's opposition making her leap to his defence? Is he really gallant and self-sacrificing after 45 years of doing exactly as he wanted? Or is the painting portrait with rosy tints to balance her mother's denigration?

Those are the reservations not Michael's age or his talents as a father. And since when, Mrs. L., is a 45-year-old regarded as "an old man to take care of"? That's still "late middle-age" on the new actuarial tables.

If Gertrude's quiet self-searching indicates that she loves Michael as a man, not merely as a breadwinner or a protector against her mother, then we say the essentials of a good marriage — for all ages!

Women Never As Free as Now Is Claim

CHATHAM (CP)—Mrs. J. R. Cuit of Orillia, provincial president of the National Council of Women, told the Chatham group Tuesday night that Canadian women have never been as free nor have they ever had the opportunity to be as democratic as at present.

"It has been a long, hard struggle with a few carrying the fight for the others," she said.

She told members that it is the duty of all women to see that the laws passed in this country are beneficial to all mankind. What is done in Canada will encourage world peace, she added.

Mrs. Cuit said women should be given a place on censorship boards which rule on movies shown in Ontario. She said the council feels there would be more control of questionable movies if women had a say.

Belleville West WMS Rallies At Wellman's United Church

The fall Rally of Belleville West Section, Woman's Missionary Society was held in Wellman's United Church, on October 18, with Mrs. Reg McMullin, Bayside-press, presiding for both morning and afternoon sessions.

"Churches For New Times" was the theme for the Rally.

Three ladies from Hiver Valley Auxiliary, Mrs. Glenn Bush, Mrs. Roy Bush, and Mrs. Ernest Carr conducted the morning worship service.

Mrs. Gordon Deacup, Wellman's W.M.S. president, welcomed the ladies, and mentioned that Wellman's W.M.S. had celebrated their 60th anniversary. The Rev. W. G. Fletcher, B.A. added his welcome, and he felt the W.M.S. women had carried on efficiently over the years and knew they would be of great assistance in the new organization, "The United Church Women."

The Christian stewardship secretary, Mrs. H. M. Davis, said she did not feel that the program being set up for the new organization was neglected our Missions responsibility or the local Church, adding "Where our interests are, there will our stewardships be."

Mrs. R. C. Coulter, Presbyterial treasurer told that $1-600,000 was needed by the W.M.S. of Canada to meet its ointments this year. She urged treasurers to send in funds promptly as the end of the year, that all funds may be totalled before the change to the new organization on January 1st.

LITERATURE VIEWED

A variety of literature was reviewed by Mrs. P. MacMullen, the literature secretary. "There is plenty of informative material for the new organiza, tion, the United Church Women.

Mrs. Johnston and Mrs. Payton, members of Grace Church Afternoon Auxiliary, summarized from stories from one of the adult study books "Listen theyDay." in a skit entitled "Signals the Sister".

Mrs. G. May, supply secretary, said she felt what has been done for Overseas Relief should be more widely known. The W.M.S. of Canada sent 156 tons of used clothing overseas in 1960.

The secretary for Affiliated Explorer groups, Mrs. D. Williams, came to the rally to interest all in girls 9-11, who would like to belong to an Explorer group. After January 1st, all younger girls will be under the direction of the Board of Christian Education. Mrs. Williams felt the W.M.S. should be interested in these youth groups as these youngsters are the future leaders. Under the new organization, the Explorer group will still have a missionary program.

Mrs. Gerald Clancy and Mrs. Jim Pollock of Wellman, sang a duet, "Back of the Clouds." They were accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Beckett, who also played for the hymns sung during the day.

AFTERNOON PROGRAM

Holloway St. Auxiliary was in charge of the afternoon worship. Mrs. Bertrand and Mrs. Coulter conducted the service.

Miss Hettie Unger, candidate secretary, expressed concern of the lack of interest by young people in full time Christian Service. Teachers are needed in Japan and Trinidad and nurses in India. Miss Unger wondered if perhaps the W.M.S. needed to be more concerned over the apathy and unconcern shown by church members than over Communism.

Christian citizenship secretary Mrs. N. McKibbon felt she could express her thoughts in three words, "Peace, Patience and People". Women are wondering what they can do for peace, but perhaps they should consider just where their influence really ends. She said, "often we are impatient but each one of us is important. Each one of us may be a channel for the Christian message".

Mrs. G. Carlisle, Belleville Presbyterial president introduced the guest speaker, Miss Louella Rorke, retired W.M.S. missionary now living in Ottawa. Miss Rorke was a High School teacher. She received her B.A. from Queen's University and spent 30 years in Japan and 20 years in Trinidad.

Miss Rorke spoke on "World Mission of the Church", she realized that many church members opposed, "Overseas Missions", at somehow it had failed to awaken an interest in "Mission" in everyone. Miss Rorke felt the new women's organization was a step to correct this. Jesus said "Go and make disciples of all nations". The church would have died in Palestine if the disciples had not gone out to Gentiles as well as Jews.

"Are we really a church of Jesus Christ if we do not have the "World Vision" of the Church?"

Miss Rorke spoke of a young man the son of a U.S. missionary to Japan, who grew up with a keen interest in Japanese affairs and is at present, the U.S. Ambassador to Japan. He helped formulate the plans for the occupation of Japan after the second world war and has taken an active part in many of the affairs of that country. China is a Communistic experiment and other Asian and Orient countries are keeping a close watch. There is no strong Christian influence. The foreigners were completely confused by the freedom of Democracy after being ruled to worship of their emperors, their ancestors and various idols.

Miss Rorke closed with the hope that God will help all to see the need for more living sacrifice Christian workers and show what can be done to help.

Mrs. Gordon Deacon, Wellman's, favored with a lovely piano solo, "Nearer My God to Thee."

Mrs. Greer, conference counsellor on Auditing and Aids, suggested a well ventilated room in which to show films. She felt people should be stirred to action after viewing a film.

The Missionary Monthly secretary, Mrs. Bertrand, conformed that the Missionary Monthly would be discontinued after being related to study

A letter of congratulations from the Eastern Star of which she is a member, was read. Sister Irene Aman P.P.I.A.P.M. spoke briefly as did the N.G. of Stirling, and P.G. of Madoc.

Lodge closed in regular form following which all retired to the upper Hall where a delicious banquet was served, thanks to the efforts of Sister Marjorie Large, P.G. and her committee.

The centre table was adorned with a large bowl of pink and green 'mums flanked by crystal candalabra holding pink and green tapers and each seventh was held in place by a golden rule, beside the place card. The side tables had old-fashioned ladies holding the three links and beside each place was an old fashioned lady guarding the place cards and the golden rule holding the serviettes. It was most colorful.

May Court Clubs Hear Fine Reports

WINDSOR, Oct. (CP)—Delegates to the 31st annual meeting of the Affiliated May Court Clubs of Canada Tuesday night heard an impressive review of contributions their clubs are making to the community.

Mrs. W. G. Curry, president of the Windsor club, told of a home for emotionally-disturbed boys to be established here on a two-year experimental basis. It will be operated in conjunction with the Children's Aid Society.

Mrs. Robert Bradley, Chatham club president, estimated her members spent 2,339 hours during the last year on a variety of projects. Part of the money raised is used to supply clothing to needy families.

In Ottawa, 221 members took part in a campaign to pay for building and furnishing a new convalescent home. Nearly $400,000 has been raised.

May Court members in St. Catharines are operating a cerebral palsy treatment centre where 36 children receive speech training, physiotherapy and occupational therapy. Members are also acting as coaches and pin boys for a team of blind bowlers.

More than $4,500 has been given for hospitals and the YMCA this year by the Sault Ste. Marie club. Members also staffed for two months a clothing depot for needy persons.

The Porcupine club, which takes in Timmins and Schumacher, has furnished a lounge in the Children's Aid Receiving House and is furnishing a sitting room in St. Mary's Hospital. Members solicited this year for blood bank donations to aid the Red Cross.

The convention continues today and Thursday.

Clean Lines

By ALICE ALDEN

No matter what the current line or fashion favorite there is always a demand for the non-clutter type of dress, clean and spare of line, well-cut and well-detailed.

This frock is a good exponent of the smart simplicity school. The slender sheath has a high neck, elbow-length sleeves and a belt belt. It is fashioned in a colorful matte jersey print, the fabric a blend of nylon and acetate that is soft and silky and sheds wrinkles readily.

Featuring Popovers And Peppers

By Mary Moore

Yesterday I gave you the detailed method of compoling fall fruits. The main course of the meal at which we served those fruits is worthy of mention.

For one thing I had roast beef and did it by the low-slow method. Readers constantly write asking temperature and time for specific weights of beef roasted this way. This 6½-lb. roast of beef was rolled (10-lb thing 24 days!) and cost $3.45. I brushed the outside with a mixture of 2 teaspoons vinegar, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, 1 tablespoon sugar, shake of accent, ¼ tea. spoon all-spice and ½ teaspoon salt. I placed it on a small trivet and roasted it in an open pan (no water) at 190 deg. Fahr. for 7 hours. It was dark brown on the outside, well done for an inch and the rest was pink. Perfect for me and my family

But the Cheese Popovers were a bit of the meal. Please take a strong tip from me and make these. I think you know they may be served for breakfast, but are excellent with roasted meats too. They are a delicious crown between a muffin and Yorkshire pudding.

CHEESE POPOVERS (12 — serves 5 people):

On cup stirred but not sifted all-purpose flour, ½ teaspoon paprika, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup cream 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese (or use grated old Cheddar). Sift together, flour, paprika and salt. Beat in milk slowly. Beat in eggs and cheese. Let stand 2 hours. Heat oven to 450 deg. Fahr. Put ¼ teaspoon butter into each of 12 muffin tins. Put in oven to butter and heat pans. Quickly stir popover mixture again. Ladle in the batter to fill each 2/3 full. Bake in oven at once and bake 20 minutes at 450 deg. Fahr. then reduce heat to 350 deg. Fahr. for 15 minutes longer. Serve at once without butter. Clip this recipe and remember to use these for some special breakfast such as Christmas morning.

I bought these green peppers, 17 in a 6-quart basket, for 50c on our open air market on Saturday morning so I used these for the vegetables.

STUFFED GREEN PEPPERS (to serve 5):

Wash 4 large green peppers and cut in halves lengthwise and remove seeds and core. Pour boiling water over them, let stand covered for 2 minutes and drain. Fill with Rice Filling: Into a heavy pot put ¾ cup raw long grain rice and add ¾ cup water and ¼ teaspoon salt. Cover. Bring to boil. Do not remove cover, but turn off heat for 5 minutes. Turn on heat at low as possible for 25 minutes. Saute ½ cup each washed and chopped celery tops and chopped fresh onion in 1 tablespoon margarine until lump but not brown. Add to rice along with generous shakes of curry powder, salt and pepper. Fill blanched pepper halves. Bake on pan with ½" water for 40 minutes at 375 deg. Fahr. These were popular and made a pretty border around the roasted meat on a large platter.

Cape Costume

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Teen-agers who, happily these days, veer towards pretty clothes will certainly approve of this cape costume.

The skirt is a wrap-around with an adjustable waistline. The fabric is black cotton poplin.

The cape is of the same fabric and is lined in a vivid provincial print in bright yellow and red to match the classic shirt. There are long shorts to match.

The skirt is of the prevalent knee-tickler length.

FRANKFORD U.C.W.A.

FRANKFORD—The October meeting of Frankford United Church W.A. was held in Ross Lowery Hall on October 12th with 20 members and one visitor present.

The meeting was opened in the usual manner by the president, Mrs. F. Rabel, with Mrs. F. Charlesworth at the piano. Mrs. M. Grills gave the reading on Thanksgiving. The Scripture reading was taken from St. Matthew's 25 16-30. Mrs. Rabel gave the theme talk.

The secretarial report was given and correspondence was read by Mrs. W. Scott. There were "thank you" notes from the China Free Methodist Mission for used Christmas Cards, and a thank you note was read from the C.G.I.T. for a donation. There were invitations from the C.W.L. to attend their bazaar, also from the Stockdale W.A. to attend their bazaar in November.

The business was discussed with Mrs. F. Rabel in charge. Frankford United Church bazaar is October 28th and W.A. members are asked to contribute to the following tables: bake; apron; fancy work; home; produce; fish pond; "touch 'n take; white elephant; and a new one, the delicatessan table. The past presidents are to preside. Mrs. B. Servos gave the treasurer's report.

The program was as follows: readings by — Mrs. J. Morris and Mrs. L. Way; piano solo — Mrs. F. Charlesworth; readings — Mrs. M. Mallory, Mrs. G. Harrington, and Mrs. G. McLay.

Paul said "In everything let us give thanks". Mrs. Dudley went on to say, "We thank God for our forefathers, who gave thanks for the new land and the crops which they had harvested in the new land. We are thankful our Dominion of Canada is a Christian land with one day a year set aside to give special thanks to God for all His goodness to us."

In closing, Mrs. Dudley said, "I have given you no new thoughts today, just some well-worn old ones", and closed with the reading of "Bless This House".

Mrs. W Rombough sang "Bless This House", with Mrs. Dudley at the piano by Mrs. Dudley.

Mrs. H. Shetler gave the last chapter of the interesting study book and piano solo at our meetings which are taking place and which are to take place in the future have been used the mission of all Christian Denominations.

Mrs. LaRue gave a short resume of the program of the rally which took place on Oct. 19 in Shannonville United Church.

The Scripture found in Math 28:16-20 was read by Mrs. R. Kelly, with Mrs. R. Rokeby giving the meditation. Mrs. E. Snider closed the worship part.

The business was conducted by the president, Mrs. Freddie Wellman.

Invitations to attend bazaars to Foxboro, and Plainfield on November 1st and October 30th respectively were received.

Thank-you thanks from Mrs. H. McMullen, were read and Mr. C. Townsend reported for the Evangelistic committee that the church library were mentioned. It was decided that the secretary write for a suitable date in 1962 at Hoard's, also to get in touch with the Rev. H. M. Davis concerning the setting up of a provisional committee for the church.

Compensation For Rabies Losses Asked

LINDSAY (CP) — Compensation to farmers for animals destroyed because of rabies should be re-established by the Ontario government, Edwin Morden told the 10th annual convention of the Ontario Farmers' Union here Monday.

The temporary re-establishment of the rabies compensation from mid-1960 until March, 1961, which farmers were able to get through negotiation with the provincial and federal governments, was not enough, said Mr. Morden, the union's vice-president.

He urged the convention to lodge the strongest possible objection to withdrawal of the compensation and to seek retroactive re-establishment of the payments.

Mr. Morden said the government had withdrawn the compensation program on the ground that the rabies epidemic had run its course. He said rabies cases still occur and added that the government is responsible because the disease is spread by wildlife, a government responsibility.

BEEK ONE BOARD

The convention Tuesday endorsed a recommendation from its marketing committee that a single milk marketing board be formed in Ontario.

Duplication and inefficiency under the present practice of having marketing of milk come under several groups would be overcome, the committee affirmed.

The committee recommended removal of the floor price on butter but maintaining the present price level to producers by deficiency payment on domestic requirements.

The convention turned down a resolution which proposed legislative control of urban sprawl.

In dealing with other resolutions the convention tabled a resolution which said school taxes should be levied on all farm buildings and ranch land with the exception of tilled land.

Approved was a resolution calling for the inclusion of nursing homes under the Ontario Hospitalization plan. Elderly patients were being discriminated against at present because hospitals "do not care to accept chronic patients."
